Florida Library History Project

University of South Florida. Tampa Library

The USF Tampa Library serves as the University of South Florida Library System's research center. The USF Library is a state-of-the-art facility. Over 300 public access PC's, open-access student computer labs, electronic post office, networked teaching labs, full-text electronic resources and the state's first full-text electronic reserve put the USF libraries in a position to offer students, faculty and staff the best possible instruction and research support to assist in their academic achievements.
