COMPUTER REGISTRATION FOR FALL

A new computerized registration to begin at USF next fall will make the long, drawn-out system of registration quicker, more accurate and less painful to students, faculty and administrators as well.

Douglas B. MacCullough, acting registrar, who has been working with the Systems and Computer Technology Corp. of Philadelphia in devising the system, said USF will be trading in the current card system (which utilizes computers) for a completely computerized one.

Students will request courses and sections on a new form to be submitted to the registrar. They will indicate such things as their two most desired courses, alternative course and blocks of free time they must have. All forms will be processed at the same time, with priority going to those students with the most credit hours completed.

When a student's request can't be filled, the system will enroll him in alternative sections or courses that will fit his schedule. Some students will receive partial schedules if all their requests can't be filled.

MacCullough said the system, on the average, has provided full schedules to 70-80 percent of those students registering in the approximately 30 schools where it is used. The percentage in some schools has been even higher. Only one other Florida school (Florida International) currently has the system. Florida State expects to institute it next fall.

Starting next spring, the registrar will begin to collect requests for early registration for the fall. All these requests, including those for new students, who previously had to wait for regular registration, will be processed in August. After the computer registers them, the students will receive their schedules and a tuition bill in the mail. There will still be regular registration for those who apply late or get only partial schedules.

One advantage of the system is that the University will be able to determine and cope with the demand for certain courses even before the students are registered. When all requests are received, a tally sheet of requested courses will be provided. Individual departments will then have an opportunity to add or delete courses where possible in order to better meet student demands.

Another advantage will be that class rolls will be available sooner.

Center Money Available For Educational Programs

USF's University Center is making money available for the best program ideas emanating from an individual, a group, a department or an organization within the University.

The Cultural Arts Committee of the Student Entertainment and Activities Council (S.E.A.C.) will accept program proposals until Mar. 16. Programs accepted must be of a cultural and educational nature and expenditures should not exceed $750.

Regents OK Policy, Officers, SUS Vice-Chancellor

Approval of a new policy statement regarding appearances before the Board of Regents, confirmation of 1973 BOR officers and a new SUS vice-chancellor, and special presentations by the University of South Florida highlighted the January 8 meeting of the Board of Regents, held at USF, the first for new Regent Jack McGriff.

The Board approved a new policy to coordinate appearances of interested parties who desire to initiate subjects for discussion by the Regents. Key points include:

- The Board of Regents will afford individuals and representatives of groups an opportunity to be heard provided they schedule an appearance through regular channels and provided there is a valid reason and a valid subject matter warranting the appearance.
- Individuals and representatives of groups from a university community who desire to appear before the Board to initiate subjects on subject matter shall submit the request to the Chancellor through the president of the university at least 15 days prior to the date of the next regular meeting of the Board at which they seek to appear.
- The individual or group representative shall set forth in writing the subject matter to be presented to the Board, a summary of the material, and the Board action requested.
- The president will transmit to the Chancellor the request for such a hearing with a statement as to whether in his opinion there is a valid subject matter warranting the appearance. The Board, however, shall determine whether or not to hear the individual or group representative so petitioning and will limit the time for such presentation.
- Any individual or group from a university who attempts to disrupt a meeting of the Board or who make statements without first being recognized will be subject to disciplinary procedures established by the University and the laws of the state.
- Individuals or group representatives other than from the university community who desire to appear before the Board shall submit their request to the Chancellor in writing at least 15 days prior to the meeting at which the appearance is requested. The Chancellor will determine whether there is a valid reason and a valid subject matter warranting the appearance.

TV NEWS

The crime of rape will be examined in a five-part radio series produced by the National Public Radio news magazine "All Things Considered..." during the week of Jan. 15-19.

"All Things Considered..." is aired each weekday at 7 p.m.

Rape has surfaced as a leading issue in the new women's movement and the significance of the problem locally became all too obvious with the recent attacks on women near the USF campus.

During the radio series, NPR reporters will present the views of psychologists, attorneys, law enforcement officials, persons convicted of rape and rape victims themselves. Several innovative, preventive measures will also be explored as possible ways to reduce the danger to women through criminal attacks.

Doris Enholm (lang.-lit., Eng.) will appear with Charles Haslam (St. Petersburg bookstore owner) on Channel 3 at 10-11 p.m., Monday, Jan. 15, to discuss the Florida Suncoast Writers' Conference.
