2nd Space
Roundup
Gets OK

By JOHN GULLETT

The second annual Southeastern Conference on Aerospace Sciences, involving 150 high school science teachers from 16 states, has been approved and will be held at USF beginning July 9.

Dr. T. C. Helvey, associate professor of biology at USF, is coordinator of the conference for the second straight year, and will direct the 12-day program, which is sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

The university is presenting the conference, in cooperation with over 25 officials from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, private concerns, and other universities in order to acquaint high school physics teachers with today's modern aero-space science.

Leading Scientists
Konrad K. Dannenberg, director of the NASA Saturn project, will head the list of nationally known scientists taking part in the program. Other officials include: Dr. Robert Gates, coordinator of the National Defense Education Act, Department of Education, Tallahassee; Prof. David Williams, University of Florida, and George Hauty, chief psychologist of the Federal Aviation Agency.

Commenting on last year's conference and the effect of the over-70 hours of lectures, discussions, and demonstrations, Helvey termed it highly successful. "There are about 700 teachers seeking to get into the program now," he added, "and it will take many years to go through this number of educators."

Teachers Selected
The teachers participating in this summer's conference were selected according to background, teaching experience, and the number of students in each teacher's classes.

Included in the program, open for viewing to the general public, will be a space mobile exhibit, a specially designed autobus containing models of launch vehicles, satellites, and space probes, up-to-date electronic equipment, and special demonstration devices relative to space exploration. A model of the Mercury capsule will be on display in the hall of the Chemistry Building, near CH100, the site of the lectures.

The teachers will be taken on a one-day tour of Cape Canaveral, July 18, where they hope to view a space shot.

Three Panels,
Seven Views,
Nine Stories

The first of three panel discussions on the works of J. D. Salinger will be Wednesday, May 23 at 1 p.m. in the state dining room, UC264. Dr. S. Kahn, assistant professor of English; Jackie Patman, instructor of botany, and Wing Preodor, student, will be on the panel discussing "Down at the Ditch" and "A Perfect Day for Bananafish."

The second session will be Thursday, May 24 at 2 p.m. in UC264, with panelists Dr. Robert Warner, chairman of American Idea, and Robert Morgenroth, chairman of Functional Foreign Language, talking on the virtues of "For Esme—With Love and Squalor" and "Teddy."

The final session in the trilogy will be Wednesday, May 30 at 1 p.m. in UC264. Dr. H. C. Kiefer, assistant professor of humanities, and Mrs. Faye Ayala, secretary to the business manager, will discuss "Uncle Wiggly in Connecticut" and "Pretty Mouth and Green My Eyes."

AAP MEET—The USF chapter of AAP will hold its regular monthly business meeting at 4 p.m. Thursday, May 24, in the conference room of the staff lounge in the Library. The main theme of business will be election of officers and a report on the last Board of Control meeting.

BIOLOGY SEMINAR—The third and last of the present series of biology seminars will be held at 1 p.m. Wednesday, May 23, in UC264. Dr. Frank Friedl will speak on "Submolecular Biology." All interested persons are invited.

FALL TRIMESTER—The Registrar's Office plans to have the fall trimester schedule of classes available May 29, allowing one week plus final exam week for students to meet with advisers to plan fall programs.

Under the new approach whereby the advising and registering are being separated, students will keep their adviser-registrar relationship. They need these schedules for admission to the UC Ballroom for registration. Hours for registering for students who are continuing in school are 8 a.m. to 12 noon on July 16, 23, Aug. 1, and Sept. 5. Students must pay as they register. Full instructions will be released with the class schedule.

ART STUDENTS SELL PAINTINGS

These students are viewing works done by the members of the Botega Club for their Art Festival and Auction held recently. Of the $58 made at this sale, $50 will be made as an art scholarship for a student, either presently in attendance at USF or one desiring attendance, who will be selected by Botega officers and USF art professors. Eighteen paintings were sold and Botega members felt that the auction was so successful that they are planning one for next spring. Students who sold paintings are Ronald Boulver (1), David Dye (1), Jim Felter (3), Judy Koerner (1), Robert Stackhouse (3), Pip Studenberg (2), Judy Shelton (1), Edith Williamson (3), and Mrs. Norma Rodriguez (3).

JOHNS COMMITTEE

USF Under Investigation

By WING PREODOR

Top officials at the University of South Florida learned for the first time last week that the entire university has been under investigation by the Charley Johns state senate committee for some five weeks. This committee was organized about five years ago by the Florida State Legislature to investigate infractions of the law by state supported institutions.

President Allen suspended Wenner effective Saturday and referred the matter immediately to the Board of Control.

Press reports have said that according to Thomas Wenner, lecturer for the American Idea at USF, the committee has been looking into reports of pornography in required class reading, the possibility of homosexuals and people soft on communism.

Rec Committee
Gives Trophies
To Top Cards

The winners of the final bridge tournament, sponsored by the UC recreation committee, were awarded trophies last week. Winners are North-South: Joe Casper and Ron Antinori, Mike Wheeler and Roger Walton, Roger Newman and Paul Waters. East-West: George Varnadoe and Jerry Simon, Joyce Pracock and David Flier, Judy Walton and Dick Herman.

Swim Meet

Highlights

Intramurals

Highlighting the coming intramural scene is a two-day swim meet Thursday, May 24, and Tuesday, May 29, at the Temple Terrace Community Center pool at 4:30 p.m. both days. Events will be posted on the intramural bulletin board and entries will be taken at the pool.

The finalists in the tennis tournament were the Enotas and the Racquet Club. The golf tournament leaders as of the deadline last Wednesday were Lew Bower, 41, and Jim Bardin, 42, both from the Skeeters golf team. Coming close behind them were Doug Dowling with a 43 and Mickey Lantz, 44, both of Enotas. Final winners of both tournaments will be announced in the next edition.

The second round of the softball tournament involving winning teams of the first round will be played this week.

Last Band Concert Planned for Sunday

The University Concert Band, under the direction of Gale L. Sperry, will give its last concert on Sunday, May 27, in the UC Ballroom at 2:30 p.m.

The program will include Mozart's "Quintet in E Flat" and other works.

Correction

Last week's story, "Registration Plans for Upper Division," stated that students would be eligible for an upper division college when they completed, among other things, two of the physical education areas. This should have read, "three" of the physical education areas.

SPACE AGENCY OK's
WORK-STUDY TEAMSFirst Students
Report June 18

The national Aeronautics and Space Administration has approved the University of South Florida Work-Study Cooperative Program for 11 teams of students to join NASA beginning June 18. The approval came after several months of work on the part of George H. Miller, director of the USF Work-Study Program, and Mark Russell, coordinator of cooperative training, at NASA's George C. Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala.

Miller said most of the teams will be assigned to the Marshall Space Flight Center associated with the Saturn Project. The remaining teams will be assigned to NASA's operation at Cape Canaveral.

Adds Strength to Program
NASA's selection should add considerable strength to the Work-Study Program and be a boost to the engineering program at USF, Miller said.

To date most of the June 18 assignments have been tentatively filled as students have completed their qualifications in the Work-Study Office, as well as the Civil Service tests necessary for assignment to NASA. Miller said the only hurdles now are security clearances for the students and these checks are being made rapidly.

Men Selected

Students expected to report to NASA June 18, as well as their teammates who will report Sept. 10 include: Statistics—Ed Timmons, alternate to be selected; Tom Davis, alternate to be selected; Electrical Engineering—Charles Miller, alternate Glen Swanson; Frank Gavin Jr., alternate to be selected; James Ford Jr., alternate to be selected; Arthur Kelly Jr., alternate to be selected; William Oyler, alternate to be selected; a number of students in which both men are to be selected.

Mechanical Engineering—Mervyn Bryan, alternate Doug McDuffie; John Duncan Jr., alternate Robert Mims.

Accounting—Both members of team to be selected.

Miller said NASA offered to take two teams of students headed for civil engineering but there were no applicants. Meanwhile, Miller is hopeful of NASA approving several physics teams starting possibly in September. There is a possibility, also, of adding teams in chemical engineering and other areas in September or at a later date.

Most of the students completed their registration for the work period last week.

While many of the team alternates, those starting on the Sept. 10 work period, remain to be named. It was explained that a number of students have their application pending.

Still Receiving Applicants
However, the Work-Study Office is still receiving applications for positions on teams in statistics, accounting, electrical engineering, mechanical engineering, and civil engineering.

The Work-Study Program expects to have some 30 to 35 active team positions during the coming summer session with several additional openings developing in September including teams in hospital work, banking, electronics, accounting, secondary and elementary education, library work, chemistry, and other areas.

Horrigan to Lecture

Frederick J. Horrigan, assistant professor of political science, will lecture on the "Crisis in Southeast Asia," 11 a.m., Tuesday, May 22, CH111.

Jacksonville Artists' Works To Be Exhibited

The University of South Florida will present an exhibit of the work of several Jacksonville artists opening Sunday, May 27, in the library gallery. The exhibit will continue through Wednesday, July 18.

Included in the exhibit will be paintings, drawings, woodcut prints, photographs, sculptures, and ceramic pieces.

IMAGE OF PROF

How Do You Rate Your Professors?

By SARAH CALDWELL

How would your favorite professor fit in at the weekly Saturday night poker game? Would his social ineptness make him uncomfortable, or would his unattractive wife forbid him to go?

In a recent poll of students at four top colleges, the AAUP Bulletin reports that today's student has formed a very complex image of his professor.

Three Classifications
The average student tends to think of all professors as divided into three categories: "economics professor," "English professor," and "chemistry professor."

Of the three the English professor is considered the most fortunate. He is a highly learned, widely traveled man who manifests a great interest in his students.

The economics professor has a somewhat hazy image, but is generally thought to have reverted to academics because of a failure in the business world.

The chemistry professor appears hard and factual, he is more interested in his field than his students.

That's How It Should Be

All in all, the study found that students consider their professors highly intelligent, likeable people, although not too realistically in tune with the world around them. Most believe this is how it should be.

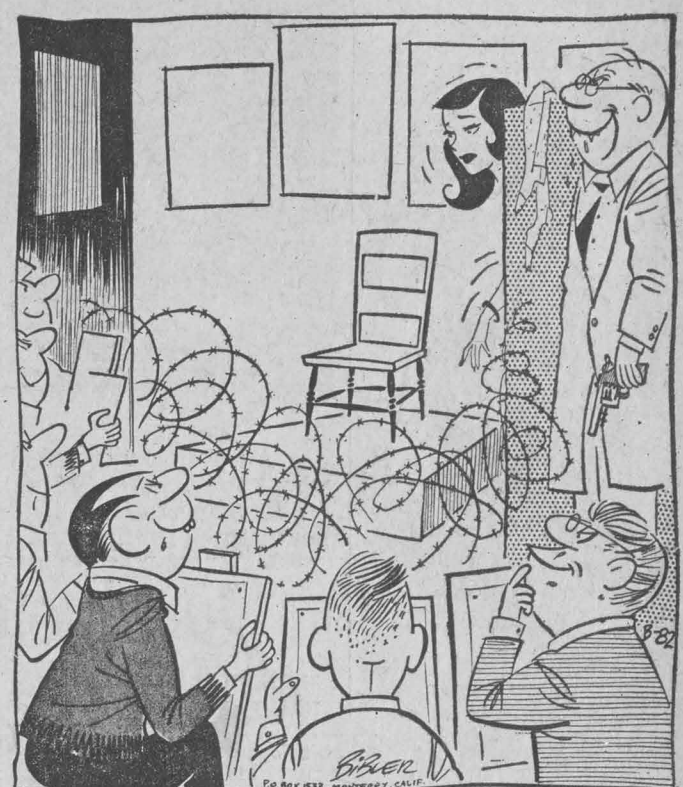

Most University of South Florida students tend to hold their professors in great awe, however they deplore the detached, impersonal air that they say inspires their feeling.

This view of the professor as all-powerful being sometimes causes problems in the classroom. A healthy respect is shown by most USF students for their instructors' opinions.

Perhaps an Overstatement

As one student says, "I think

FRATERNAL SOCIETES

PAIDEIA: Members met May 12, to collect and put prices on clothes in preparation for a rummage sale held Saturday, May 19, in downtown Tampa.

May 2 was "pledge day" for Paideia. Members of the society provided the entertainment at the Spring Formal held recently.

An "Around the World" show was presented in conjunction with the theme of the dance.

TRI-SIS: Officers for the fall semester have been elected. They are Diana Martino, president; Janet Lucide, vice president; Jeanne Murgado, secretary; Frances Fernandez, treasurer; Gloria Sague, parliamentarian; Linda Leto, chaplain; and Diana Penalver, historian.

FLA: Jackie Chaney, president, has been appointed chairman of the C.F.S. program.

INTEREST CLUBS

GUN CLUB: Students interested in organizing a gun club to enter international competition will meet Wednesday, May 23 at 8 p.m. in UC223.

BOTEGA: The Botega Art Club announces the election of officers for the coming year. The election will be held Wednesday, May 23, in UC47. Members in good standing are eligible to vote. Qualifications for the officers are: Member in good standing, member of club for at least one term, and have not previously held the same office.

The club is also planning a semester's end party which will be discussed at the Wednesday meeting.

Piano and String Recital Tomorrow

Five USF students, outstanding pianists and string players, will be presented in recital at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, May 22, in the TA.

Students on the program include: Karla Hany, cellist; Pierre Jean, violinist and Joe Costellano, Carolyn Robert, and Robert Gower, pianists.

The program will include works of Greig and Brahms.

Lit Magazine Goes On Sale Here Today

"i.e." the journal of the USF literary society is on sale today. This is the first issue of the magazine edited by the literary society, and contains approximately 50 pages of poetry and prose chosen from selections submitted by interested students. Thus the creative work represents the entire student body.

The students whose work was selected for publication are as follows: Mrs. Alice Krantz, Gayle Waldron, Christopher Storer, Bob Ashford, Colman Rutkin, Ed Sandner, Jim Hackey, James Woodall, R. O'Hara, Roy Harvey, Durene Goss and Donald MacKay.

The editor is Jim Hackey, business manager is Chris Storer, and copy editor is Roy Harvey. The art work for the cover was done by Bobbie Hanson.

The faculty advisors for editorial content are Dr. Sy Kahn, assistant professor of English, and Dr. Hans Fuergenson, assistant professor of humanities.

It is the second publication to get underway under the office of Campus Publications.

The magazine is priced at 50 cents and is on sale in the UC lobby, and at the information desk in the Administration Building.

No Middle Ground
His clothes are either very much out of date or very stylish. According to students a middle fashion ground is seldom attained by professors.

In his spare time the average professor attends cultural events, that is when he's not too busy reading or pondering world affairs.

Most professors are thought to have associations primarily with other professors, as these are the people best equipped to understand them. A few professors do associate with students; these are thought to lead a secret life.

As you form an image of your "average" professor you might remember that on the USF faculty we have the following: A former counter espionage agent, several World War II fighter pilots, one of Tampa's best poker players, and one who keeps tucked in his billfold the formula for homebrew which he used in a commercial way in leaner pre-World War II days.

Few Are Stupid
According to students there are few if any stupid professors. Most are judged to be fairly brilliant, and usually in more than one field.

Look at a professor from a long distance and you can usually see a normal human being—that is, if you're not his student!

Bryant Says Trips Strictly State Business

TALLAHASSEE, May 21 (UPI) — Gov. Farris Bryant said today that his out-of-state trips are strictly state business—at least 99 per cent of the time.

In his weekly "Ask the Governor" show, taped for radio and television broadcast, Bryant said his trip to Europe last summer was not solely at taxpayers' expense, although it was for their benefit.

Bryant added that no Florida expense was involved in his recent tour of Japan with the National Governors' Conference. The governor also said his travels around the state give him an opportunity to know the wishes of the people, and give the people a chance to present their petitions and ideas to him.

Concrete Lion Hauled Away

City police today were hunting for a life-size, 500-pound, concrete lion which was reported stolen from the front lawn of Mrs. Edna Davis, 67, of 202 E. Rampart St.

HOLLYWOOD MYSTERY—OR PUBLICITY PLOT

Actress Keeps Silent on Marriage

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD, May 21—Why would a film actress want to hide her marriage?

This question has puzzled Hollywood as it studies the case of Yvette Mimieux. She is one of the town's most promising young actresses. She also appears to be quite married.

She is reliably reported to have wed a psychology teacher named Evan Engber 2½ years ago. Yvette has refused to confirm or deny. This despite the fact that Engber visited her on Hawaiian locations for "Diamond Head" and frequently calls for her at Columbia Studios.

There has been conjecture that her silence is a kind of reverse-publicity gimmick (her mentor is the same canny chap who impelled Jayne Mansfield to acres of press clippings).

What does Yvette have to say about the whole thing?

"Apparently you are married," I offered as an opening gambit.

"Whether that is apparent or not is up to you," she said wide-eyed. "I can't help you with it."

But why all the secrecy about a matter which most people are happy to tell about? She explained:

"I feel very strongly about this. I have seen people in this town destroyed by living their lives in public. If it comes to the point where I have to do that, I'll quit acting. I hope I don't have to do that, because I love to act."

"But more important than that is my self-respect, my own sense of dignity. If I can't preserve that, then all the rest doesn't mean anything."

Yvette opined that the Roman ruckus of Elizabeth Taylor confirmed her beliefs.

"It was so blown up by publicity," she said. "Or even if it did happen the way it appeared, it didn't deserve all that attention. Things like that happen every day with other people. But because it happened to movie stars, the press was only too eager to point out their human failings.

"There have been three phases of treating movie stars in Hollywood. At first there was an aloofness; the stars were perfect. That wasn't very realistic."

"Then there came a time when the stars were made to seem like everyone else. That wasn't very glamorous.

"The present phase seems to be a delight in pointing out the weaknesses and errors of the stars. It is all so destructive.

"People seem to want to hold the stars' mistakes up to the light as if to say, 'I'm not so bad after all; look what they did!' I think it's wrong to be put in that position, and I'm going to do everything I can to avoid it."
