Scarborough Continues Stock Car Win Streak

The amazing David Scarborough of Largo, has now won the last six feature races that he has entered at the Golden Gate Speedway and has also established three new track records. Scarborough won six of the eight races Saturday night on the third of a mile banked asphalt track.

The only races that Scarborough did not win at the Speedway Saturday night were the first two super modified heat events. The 5D was not handling too well at the time and he ran out of the top three positions.

The "Largo Flash" started the evening off with a victory in the first sportsman heat, he repeated the win in the second sportsman heat and then took both the sportsman and super modified semi finals and then swept both feature races.

Scarborough shared the limelight with Chet Rutledge in the Brengle Brothers Special in the sportsman semi final when the judges ruled the race a dead heat.

The judges differed as to the winner of the race and finally ruled the race a dead heat. At the same time both drivers now hold a new 12 lap record in the sportsman division. The old record was 3:54:81 and the new record is now 3:53:81.

Scarborough then lopped 5 seconds off of the super modified 12 lap record as he set the sizzling pace of 3:37:09 for the race as opposed to the old record of 3:42:90.

VACATION WITH A TENT

if you haven't tried it, read this:

Phillips 66 uncovers some interesting facts about the convenience, comfort and low cost of going places with a camping outfit. Learn why more families will be doing it this summer than ever before.

There's a new fraternity of families called tent campers... a fast-growing group of friendly, adventurous persons numbering in the millions. Membership requirements are: (1) a car; (2) tent; (3) stove; (4) sleeping bag; (5) clothes for outdoor living; and (6) the urge to go places.

Many of these camping families take to the roads and woods six or seven times during the summer and fall for weekends and vacations. They return refreshed, and say that camping brings the family closer together.

Campground areas are keeping pace with the new boom in family camping. This back-to-nature movement has stimulated the growth of new campsites plus vast improvements in present national and state parks and forests as well as privately-owned camp areas. Camping facilities at national and state parks are listed on the new 1962 Phillips 66 highway maps now available at Phillips Stations along your travel route.

A typical campground today offers electricity, running water, rest rooms and showers, plus a variety of recreational facilities including fishing, boating, swimming, hunting and hiking.

Also, camping is inexpensive, whether you pick the deep woods, the beach or mountains. Fees average around $1 per day per campsite at State and National Park areas. This kind of casual, exciting and relaxing freedom is a wonderful way to stretch the vacation recreation budget.

This car-top camping outfit opens into a 6 by 10 ft. penthouse with 6½ ft. headroom. Roomy enough for 4 adults.

Today's campers can also enjoy almost unbelievable comfort and camp convenience with dozens of new gadgets and improved outdoor equipment. For example, new tents have outside frames—no poles or stakes or ropes needed. Car top camp units unfold into rooms for backwoods luxury. New trailer units, portable generators, special lamps, stoves, and clothing can make camping a luxurious experience.

FREE CAMPING-BOATING GUIDE prepared by the editors of Sports Afield. Ask your Phillips 66 Dealer for a copy of "Phillips 66 Digest of Camping by Car and Boat." In this 32-page booklet the editors of Sports Afield have compressed information and advice you can use to help plan and carry out your camping or boating trip. Remember, your travel to campgrounds will be more pleasant if you enjoy Phillips 66 friendly service and fine products along the way.

It's a pleasure to please you!

FOOD OFTEN DESECRATED

Good Cooks Direly Needed

By ROBERT PETERSON
As I've grown older, I've become more fussy about food. I don't eat as much as previously, but I've become aware that good food is one of life's crowning pleasures. And I hate to see food desecrated by incompetent cooks.

Just last week I returned from a motor trip through the midwest. Every 50 miles or so I'd stop for a snack—to break the trip and give my taste buds a little diversion. And it's my conclusion that the food served in eight out of ten roadside cafes is pretty sad.

The coffee is rarely good. The sandwiches are stale and tasteless. And the pies are awful—tired, bland creations turned out on some assembly line by a commercial pie-maker who should have gone into the plastics business.

The reason, of course, is that most cafe operators stumble into their occupations and never bother to learn how to prepare food properly. So they make the coffee the way their predecessor showed them—without taking the time to see if hotter water, a few more minutes of brewing, a new brand of coffee, or a new kind of coffee-maker might improve the flavor.

They toss a hamburger on the grill just as it comes from the butcher, without experimenting to see if broiling or perhaps adding certain herbs and seasoning might improve the flavor of the finished product. Instead of coaxing tantalizing goodness from fried chicken by following any of a dozen standard recipes, they simply drop the raw chicken into a pan of boiling fat and four minutes later announce, "Here's your Southern fried chicken."

Now all this is the proprietor's privilege. But if he's rattling around on the lower rungs of the economic ladder he has only himself to blame.

I think aspiring restaura-

Life Begins At Forty

teurs—and particularly those thousands contemplating this as a retirement occupation—should realize there's big money in food for those with the intelligence to follow recipes and a determination to infuse every food item on their menus with its full, mouth-watering potentials.

One of the most appealing restaurants I ever visited is one in the Ozarks. It's run by Sam Herbert, 70. This man sold his automobile agency in Monticello, N.Y. and retired with his wife to Arkansas and fulfilled a retirement dream by building a little cafe along the highway.

Their cheerful, immaculate cafe seats just 20 people and specializes in coffee, sandwiches, and fried chicken dinners which pack such taste and flavor that customers are attracted from miles around. Other cafes in the area have come and gone. But Herbert's place thrives.

It's true that the restaurant field has the highest mortality of any kind of business. But that's because those entering it generally harbor only the crudest culinary knowledge and lack the intelligence and incentive to learn. It's my opinion that in this relatively prosperous era, with more people traveling and eating out than ever before, the restaurant field was never more promising—provided a fellow is determined to serve food that really tastes good.

MARINE BANK

Established in 1914. Renamed Marine Bank & Trust Company in 1949.

George B. Howell
President 1944 to 1957
Chairman 1957 to 1961

the BIG BANK
for Modern Service and Convenience

Wouldn't Mr. Howell be pleased!

George Blaine Howell was a man of booming personality — warm, vibrant, controversial, far-seeing — but above all, a man with the courage of his convictions. At a time when many were abandoning downtown Tampa for new investment, he saw great opportunity. He saw a new bank building as a firm foundation for a better life in a better, bigger community.

Today, the new Marine Bank stands as a towering testimonial to his foresight and faith. He envisioned it. He and his associates built it. While he did not live to see the doors of his dream open, we know he would be pleased.

We know, too, he would want us to say . . .
WELCOME ABOARD!
