Message from Director

May you live in interesting times—a statement that could be a blessing or a curse. Or both. I must say that the past year has been nothing if not interesting for the University of South Florida Libraries' Digital Scholarship Services (DSS)!

By July 2020, the DSS team was well established in a remote environment as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. Our department really pulled together and were able to stay on top of the many projects we had in process. In the fall, the USF Libraries—Tampa campus received word that we would sustain a significant budget reduction as part of a reversioning collection management process. As part of that process, we reduced some of our services and reallocated personnel to areas of the library that needed additional help in order to be able to provide basic library support.

The areas in DSS hardest hit by that process were the data management and open access journals publishing operations. DSS had been providing custom services for each of the 23 journals hosted on the Scholar Commons platform. Some required very little assistance from the library and others needed a much higher level of support. Jason Boczar made the pitch successfully to keep some basic services going, including:

- register article DOIs with Crossref,
- back up journal issues with Portico,
- provide consultation support to the editors, and
- register metadata with DOAJ, if applicable
- send information to indexing services by uploading PDFs and XML, if applicable.

Though this represented a significant reduction in services in some cases, Jason and his team found that this still kept us on par with other similar publishing operations in libraries. We continue to host the open access journals on the bepress Digital Commons platform. As part of scaling back the open access journal publishing, Lesley Brooks has moved out of DSS into the Library Administration department . Carla Fotherby moved into the Metadata/Cataloging group in the library. We miss them in DSS, but we are excited to work with them in their new roles!

Speaking of the Digital Commons platform, with the (re)consolidation of the University of South Florida campuses in Tampa, St. Petersburg, and Sarasota-Manatee, we are consolidating digital content from the Tampa campus Scholar Commons repository, the St. Petersburg campus Digital Archive, and the Tampa campus Digital Collections onto a single, redesigned platform, Digital Commons at University of South Florida. Jason Boczar, LeEtta Schmidt, and Jane Duncan served on smaller teams as part of the Institutional Repositories and Digital Platforms Task Force have been organizing this effort and moving this project forward. This is a huge effort, but their hard work has been making this a smooth transition!

Another big change in the department is the transition of the digitization team into Special Collections at the end of the fiscal year. After years of joint monthly meetings with Special Collections to iron out workflows between the two departments, Jane Duncan, Richard Schmidt, and Matt Barganier are now part of the Special Collections team to strengthen that relationship. Matt Barganier has announced his departure coming in early August 2021; we will miss him greatly, but feel fortunate to have had the opportunity to work with him! Richard Bernardy has started reporting to Berrie Watson on the St. Petersburg campus, forming a dynamic technology partnership between the two libraries. The USF Libraries Webmaster, Trevor Collinson, is moving to the Communications & Marketing team in the library to work more closely as part of that unit. We are looking forward to continuing our relationships with our former DSS colleagues.

The library continues to focus on the Florida Environment & Natural History (FLENH) collections, working closely with Special Collections. The FLENH portal was updated this year by Special Collections and consolidated on a StoryMaps platform. There are also new collections in Scholar Commons for timely topics, such as the African American Experience in the US, the USF Libraries Florida COVID-19 Research Collections, and the Piney Point publications. There is a new USF Libraries Data and Assessment section with information about the library that was collected as part of the USF SACS accreditation review. Webmaster Trevor Collinson also worked with others in the library to provide students coming to the Libraries website a single entry point for services on their campus.

We will see what the coming year brings for our much smaller DSS unit. We wish all of you a safe and healthy year!

Overview

DSS Vision

DSS's vision is to promote worldwide long-term open online access to research and primary source materials on behalf of USF and its partners.

DSS Mission

DSS's mission is to support the research and teaching activity of the USF community, promote innovative educational opportunities for students, and enrich the worldwide research landscape. As part of this mission, DSS will:

- build digital collections that provide open access to research and primary source materials,
- advocate for author rights and promote scholarly publishing literacy,
- help researchers at USF move their work through the various stages of the research lifecycle,
- partner with faculty to present their research online and preserve their work through our repository systems,
- preserve long-term access to digital materials and
- explore applications of emerging technologies.

Personnel

During the USF Libraries “revising budget” process, Carla Fotherby was reassigned to Collections & Discovery and Lesley Brooks to Library Administration. Matthew Barganier had a partial re-assignment to Library Services but continues to oversee Oral Histories in DSS part time.

DSS staff

- Matthew Barganier, Collections Specialist
- Richard Bernardy, Digital Collections Systems Administrator and Software Developer
- Jason Boczar, Digital Scholarship and Publishing Librarian
- Lesley Brooks, Coordinator Library Operations, OA journals
- Trevor Collinson, Webmaster
- Carol Ann Davis, Associate Dean, Collections & Discovery

DSS Student Employees

Our students learn valuable technical skills using scanning equipment, Adobe Creative Cloud, Microsoft Teams Planner, digital repository interfaces, Express Scribe, and our in-house oral history production management database, Bull-OH-base. In turn, they contribute their skillset to the further expansion of openly accessible resources available through our repository. This year, we accomplished our usual work in a different environment, but nevertheless, reformatting and repository management operations continued in DSS despite the pressures of the pandemic. We produced an impressive number of digital resources in the Sobek and Scholar Commons repositories thanks to our students’ efforts to work remotely and shift to online training, production, and supervision. Special thanks to our Collections Specialist, Richard Schmidt, who volunteered to visit the department regularly to scan materials from the Florida Environment and Natural History collections, producing digital images, reports, log books, and theses for our students to edit online. This allowed the students to work steadily from their home desktops and communicate their progress online.

We greatly appreciate the hard work and commitment of our student assistants, so it is always difficult to say goodbye. Several of our students graduated or left to continue their academic pursuits. Emily Holbrook assisted in planning and conducting oral histories with the dedicated staff and administrators at the Hillsborough County Environmental Land Acquisition and Protection Program. She left in December to further pursue her PhD in Applied Anthropology. Another valued member of the oral history transcription team, Hakeem Haj-Musa, left USF to continue his BS in Mechanical Engineering. Ashely Adams graduated in May with her MFA in Creative Writing and accepted a Visiting Faculty position in English. We are fortunate that she continues to volunteer her expertise with us, transcribing field notebooks from the Garald Parker Collection. We wish all our students, near and far, success in their future.

Services

DSS provides and develops services to directly support the creation of new collections and partnerships, develop and enhance marketing and outreach, and educate students and faculty on scholarly communications and digital literacy. Consultations are available upon request for assistance in:

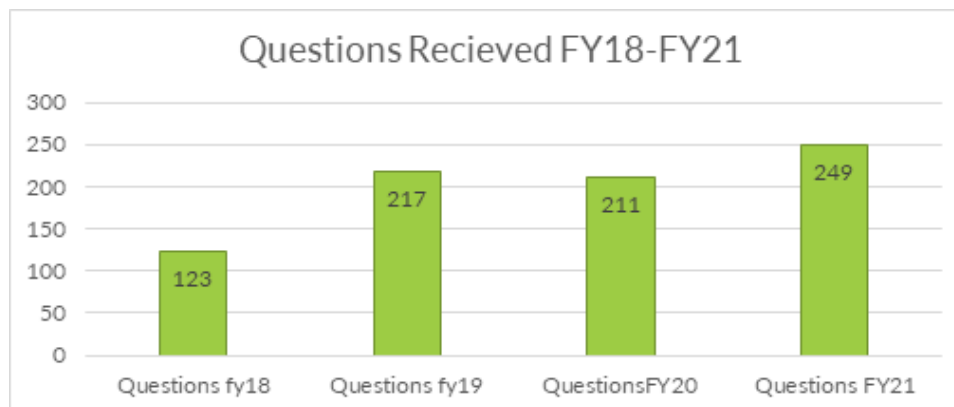

- Copyright and Intellectual Property,
- Data Management,
- Open Access and Author Rights,
- Scholarly Communications, and
- Web Services.

Copyright and Intellectual Property

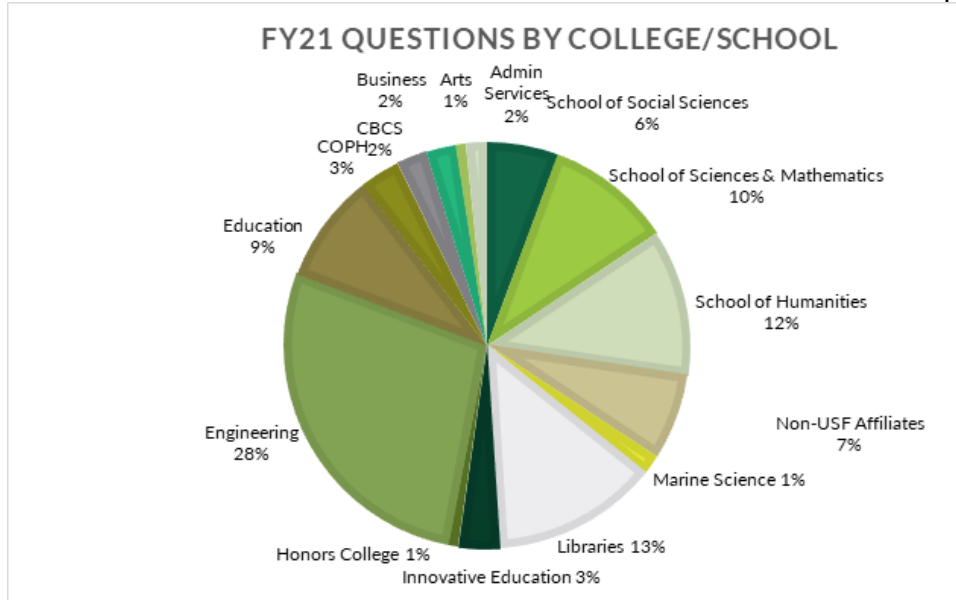

The use of copyright services rebounded after the decline experienced in FY20, thought to be a result of changes to university business during COVID-19. However, the use of the web pages dedicated to copyright services continued to decline. Copyright tutorial videos experienced a spike in use. It is hypothesized that the video “Tidbit: What is Copyright?” may have been included within an instruction session either at USF or another university.

ETD graduates continue to be the heaviest users of copyright services and are often referred by the Office of Graduate Studies to obtain help for ETD submissions that are stalled due to improper treatment of copyrighted material. The survey of ETD graduates using the service revealed additional information on the percentage of PhD students compared to Master’s students used the service. This data supports the hypothesis that copyright services correlates to Preeminence metric ‘doctoral degrees awarded annually’ and to PBF metric ‘graduate degrees awarded in areas of strategic emphasis.’

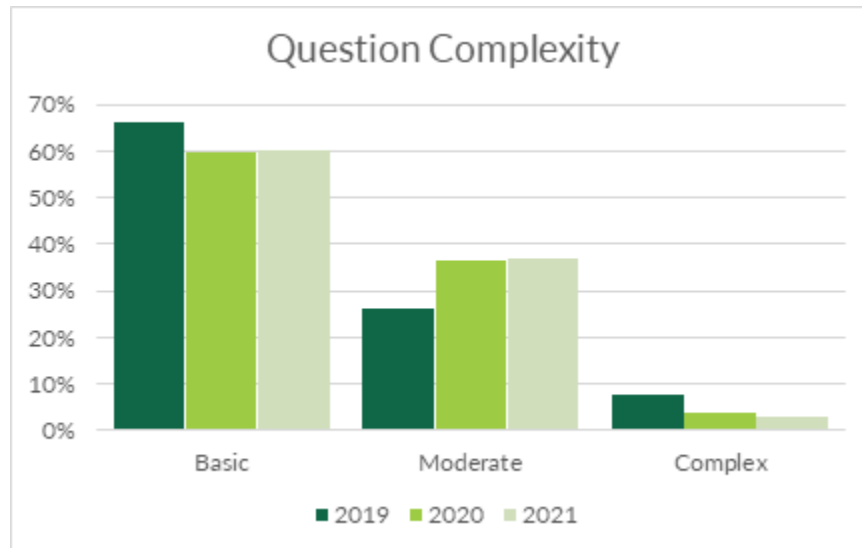

Copyright services received 249 questions during the 2021 fiscal year. This is a 16.5% increase from FY20 and surpassed the number of questions received in FY19 as well.

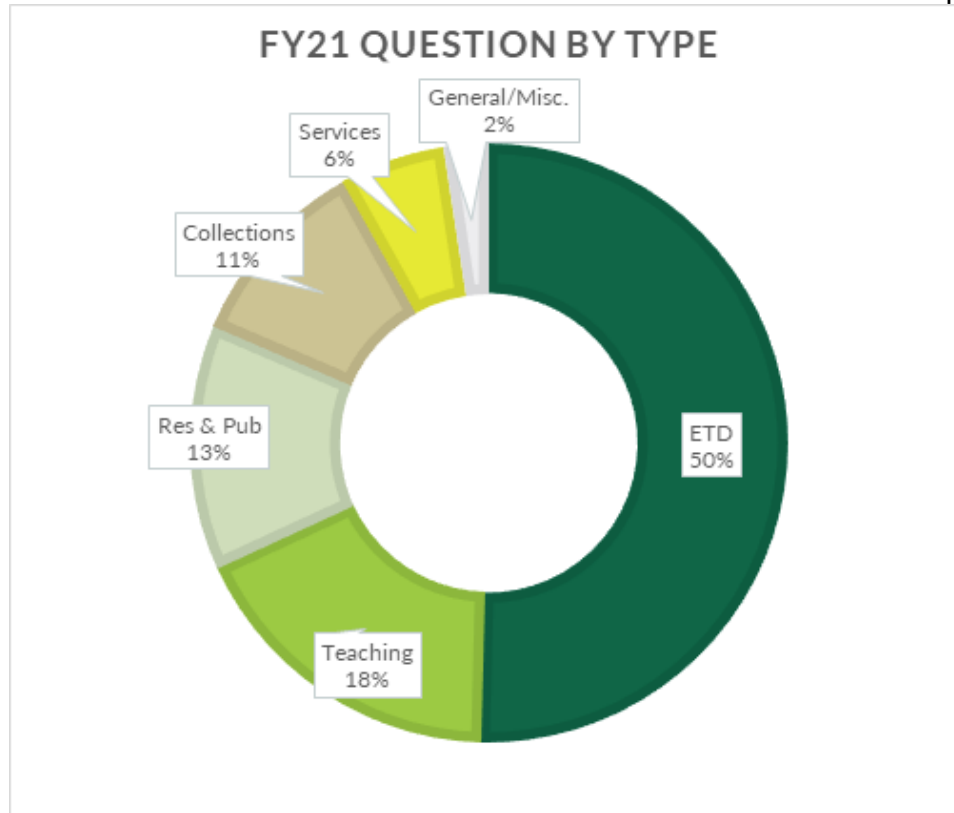

Of the questions, 57 were consultations^[1], a 13% decrease from last year. Like the previous year, Engineering students and faculty asked the most questions of any department, followed by the Libraries, School of Humanities, and School of Sciences and Mathematics.

Question complexity continued to be primarily 'basic' in FY21 and near equal to the range of question complexity seen in FY20.

Similar to previous years, the topic of theses and dissertations (ETD) made up the largest percentage of questions at 50% of all received. The next most common questions concerned copyright issues in teaching, research, and publishing activities, which rose in prominence from FY20.

^[1] Consultations are identified as a synchronous meeting either in person, phone, or virtual, or an exchange of emails that totaled more than 30 minutes of librarian time.

Data Management

DSS offers data management assistance for researchers. This service includes data management planning and hosting datasets. DSS created the following page to better show the levels of support offered by the library: <https://www.lib.usf.edu/scholarly-research-and-communication/data-management-planning/>.

The Center for Integrated Modeling & Analysis of the Gulf Ecosystem (C-IMAGE) data management project administered by the library was completed during FY21. Research and publications by USF researchers were collected in the C-IMAGE collection in Scholar Commons. These items enjoyed a 1,200% increase in downloads in FY21 over the previous year.

Scholar Commons Workshops

Scholarly Communications worked together with the Office of Graduate Studies to provide instructional sessions for the Graduate Professional Development Certificate Program. The following workshops were given for the Graduate Professional Development Certificate Program:

- Scholarly Profiles -Enhancing your Research Visibility (Thursday, November 12, 2020),
- Publishing Lifecycle (Tuesday, March 2, 2021), and
- Data Management (Tuesday, April 20, 2021).

Repository Migration

The screenshot shows the top of the Digital Commons website. At the top is a banner image of a modern building with the text "DIGITAL COMMONS @ UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH FLORIDA" overlaid in large green letters. Below the banner is a navigation bar with links for "USF HOME", "USF RESEARCH", and "USF LIBRARIES". The main content area is divided into two columns. The left column contains a search box with the text "Search" and "Enter search terms:" followed by a search input field and a "Search" button. Below the search box are links for "Advanced Search", "Email Notifications and RSS", and a "Browse By" section with links for "All Collections", "Author", "USF Faculty Publications", "Open Access Journals", and "Conferences and Events". The right column features a "Browse Research and Scholarship" section with a "Follow" button and three large icons: "Digital Collections" (a computer monitor with books), "Faculty Scholarship" (a document with a ribbon), and "Faculty Research Profiles" (a person icon). Below these are three smaller icons representing a graduation cap, a printer, and a tablet.

In October, members of DSS embarked on a joint project with personnel from Special Collections and the Nelson Poynter Memorial Library on the St. Petersburg campus, under the USF Libraries Institutional Repositories and Digital Platforms Task Force, to merge the existing digital repositories into one. The first part of this project would be the combination of the two institutional repositories, both hosted by bepress, under one umbrella. The newly merged repository would be rebranded to reflect the consolidated nature of USF Libraries scholarly communication services.

The next goal of the project is to bring Digital Collections, currently in Sobek CM, under the same bepress umbrella. Bringing all the scholarly and archival digital collections into one platform will enhance collection searching and access for all users.

African American Experience in the US

The African American Experience in the U.S. (AAEUS) collection (<https://digitalcommons.usf.edu/aaeus/>) is a part of USF Libraries' collection initiative that aims to leverage resources and expertise to promote diversity and inclusivity in support of the Black Lives Matter movement. This collection acts as a survey of Scholar Commons content relating to the experience of African Americans in the United States, providing direct open access to journal articles, theses, and dissertations on this subject. The AAEUS collection is not discipline specific, as its items cover a broad range of academic subjects and research interests. New items that fit the parameters of the collection will be added each year.

Progress Village Records capture the creation of a community in the late 1950s to provide affordable housing for members of Hillsborough County's African American population. Developed as a "model community" that would offset major displacements caused by redevelopment in predominantly black neighborhoods, Progress Village grew under the leadership of such prominent local leaders as C. Blythe Andrews, Cody Fowler, James Hargrett, Sr., and Perry Harvey, Sr., who -- along with others - comprised the original Board of Trustees for Progress Village, Inc. More than fifty years later, Progress Village still stands as a viable example of public enterprise and cooperative neighborhood development. Progress Village Records are just one of the many collections included in the USF Libraries' African American Experience portal.

Environmental Collections

Environment and Natural History Collections, including collections on Piney Point and the USF Forest Preserve, were presented through a new configuration in Scholar Commons to aid researcher access to important historical documentation on environmental changes in the Tampa Bay area. This collection and the collections listed below are all part of the Florida Environment & Natural History Portal.

The Dr. John Ogden Collection will consist of over 30 years of data from this USF Marine Science professor. Dr. Ogden's research excursions throughout the Caribbean document changes in coral reef ecosystems. The content includes field diaries and notes, illustrations, maps, charts, and photographs of reef, seagrass, and mangrove habitats that support a wide range of marine species.

The Dr. Garald Gordon Parker Collection experienced exponential growth in fiscal year 2021 after collaborations with Geosciences faculty helped to prioritize material for digitization. Dr. Garald Gordon Parker (1905-2000), often cited as the "Father of Florida groundwater hydrogeology," had a long career studying and preserving groundwater resources, particularly in Florida.

The Karst Information Portal (KIP) is part of the University of South Florida (USF) Libraries Digital Collections interface--currently located at <https://digital.lib.usf.edu/karst> --and serves as a one-stop shop for open, online access to cave and karst research. KIP is a NCKRI project in partnership with the USF Libraries, University of New Mexico, and the International Union of Speleology (UIS). This year, we have added 3,348 items to the portal, bringing us to a total of 8,560 in the Portal—a 64% increase!

The Karst Information Portal usage is measured through Google Analytics and other tools. Usage has increased by 1.29% this year, from 322,195 downloads in FY20 to 326,351 downloads in FY21. KIP usage by human users is coming from every country in the world, with most of the usage being in the United States, followed by Germany and France. The image below shows the top 10 countries of usage for the Karst Information Portal.

System improvements for the Karst Information Portal on the SobekCM platform were put on hold for this year. In reviewing user feedback on the KIP platform, many of the issues identified will be addressed by migrating to the Digital Commons platform as part of our overall repository consolidation.

COVID-19 Research Collections

The USF Libraries Florida COVID-19 Research Collection (https://digitalcommons.usf.edu/usf_fcrc/) showcases the COVID-19 research produced by scholars and researchers at USF as well as pandemic research pertaining to the state of Florida. By providing easily searchable access to published research and scholarship across a wide range of research areas, the Collection acts as a portal that links scientists, students, and citizens to quality information resources and tools.

Digitization for the Public Domain

2021 marked the third year that USF Libraries participated in a project to digitize works in our collections that have passed into the public domain. 21 items were selected from the USF Libraries Special and Circulating Collections with the help of a community vote. The selected items will enhance existing the following Digital Collections: Florida Studies, Sheet Music, Dime Novels, Environmental Studies, Irish Studies, and Science Fiction.

Digital Dialogs

The Digital Dialogs blog (<https://lib.usf.edu/digital-dialogs/>) features posts about digital collections, exhibits, projects, tools, and news. The blog provides a gateway through which students, faculty, staff, and non-

USF affiliate users can discover digital collections and activities at USF. In fiscal year 2021, the Digital Dialogs team experienced some membership changes as Jane Duncan and Carla Fotherby left the group to concentrate on other aspects of their assignment. Allison Symulevich joined the remaining members, Lesley Brooks and LeEtta Schmidt. The Digital Dialogs blog had 30 new posts in fiscal year 2021, seven more than the year previous. The blog received 4,168 visits, a 92% increase over the 2,166 visits received in fiscal year 2020.

Digital Collections Activity and Statistics

Currently, there are 82,496 total items in USF Libraries' Digital Collections in Sobek CM, which make up 74,225 different titles. A new collection for Progress Village Records, under the organization of African American History, was added in support of the continuing work creating a portal for the African American Experience in the US. Continued remote work and low student staffing limited the amount of collections and new items added to Digital Collections in FY21. Additionally, new uploads to Sobek were temporarily suspended in the spring semester due to the work of the USF Libraries Institutional Repositories and Digital Platforms Task Force to merge repositories.

Three collections had over 500 items added within the fiscal year:

- Karst Information Portal,
- Archival Collections (FL), and
- Dr. Garald Gordon Parker Collection.

The Electronic Theses and Dissertations series continued to be one of the most active series during FY21. New partnerships with the Tampa Bay History Journal, the Center for Urban Transportation Research, and the GENEALIB mailing list added over 1,000 items to Scholar Commons including original research, reports, and professional archives that cannot be downloaded anywhere else.

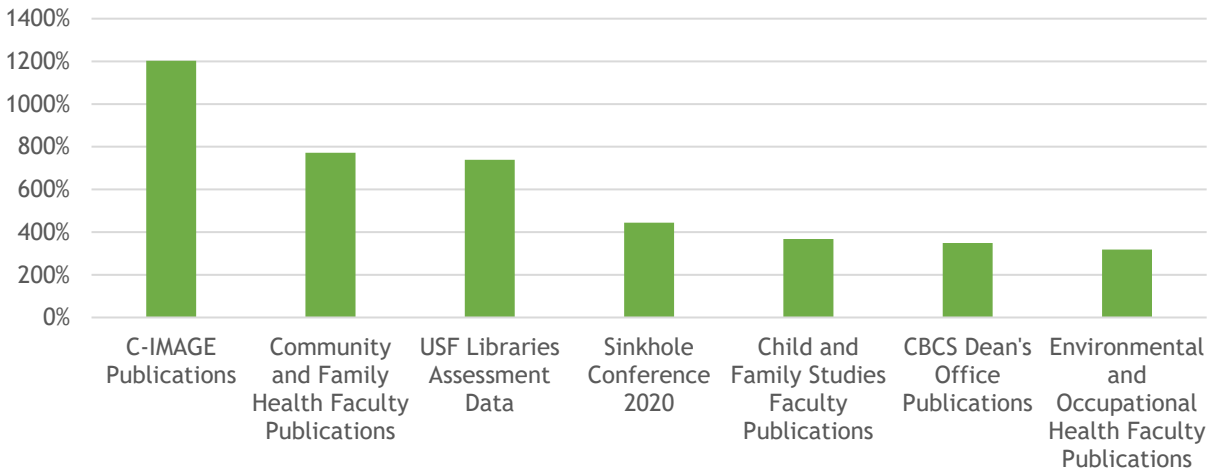

Three titles in Scholar Commons had an extreme increase in the percent of downloads from FY20 to FY21. All three collections, Tampa Bay History, Anchin Center Policy Briefs, and CUTR Research Reports, are relatively new to Scholar Commons. The Tampa Bay History journal in Scholar Commons includes all of the back issues for the journal.

Scholar Commons Google Analytics stats for FY21

 * Please note that Google Analytics does not track visitors on all pages. Usage statistics may be underreported. Linking directly to a file (such as a .pdf) in our system rather than the associated metadata page (where there is a prompt to download the file) typically does not count as a use.*

The past fiscal year brought 638,924 visitors to our site pages. Our returning user rate stayed steady at 22.77%, with the average visit duration lasting around 00:01:20. Our page view average per user dropped slightly to 1.66 pages from 1.73 last year. By examining where the referral traffic is coming from (like Google Scholar, Open Access Theses and Dissertations (OATD), and facebook.com), we can see that marketing and promotion efforts are driving traffic to our site.
