Pre-Law Exams To Be Given

The Law School Admission Test, required of applicants for admission to most American law schools, will be given at more than 100 centers throughout the United States November 10, 1962, February 9, April 20 and August 3, 1963. During 1961-62 over 25,000 candidates took this test, and their scores were sent to over 100 law schools.

A candidate must make separate application for admission to each law school of his choice and should inquire of each whether it wishes him to take the Law School Admission Test and when. Since many law schools select their freshmen classes in the spring preceding entrance, candidates for admission to next year's classes are advised to take either the November or the February test if possible.

The Law School Admission Test, prepared and administered by Educational Testing Service, cannot be "crammed" for. The morning test contains questions measuring verbal aptitudes and reasoning ability rather than acquired information. The afternoon session includes two tests, one of which provides a measure of writing ability and the other of general background. Sample questions, and information regarding registration for and administration of the test, are given in a bulletin of information.

The bulletin (which includes an application for the test) should be obtained six weeks in advance of the desired testing date from Law School Admission Test, Princeton, N.J. Applications must reach ETS at least two weeks before the desired test administration date to allow time for completion of necessary testing arrangements for each candidate.

In the next few weeks, Dr. Frederick Horrigan of the Political Science Department will be organizing a club for those students majoring in pre-law. The deans of several law schools will be the featured speakers for the club's meetings over the coming year. The time and place of the first meeting will be announced in the next copy of the campus edition.

The date is Sunday, October 28. The place is the Jai Alai Fronton (contrary to popular rumors that he will appear at the Armory, the Palladium, or a night club on Central Avenue).

The show will be a concert, not a dance, and is scheduled to start at 8:30 p.m. It is not certain where tickets are to be sold, but Morrison's Pharmacy at 4000 34th Street and at 1304 Main Street have been mentioned as possible locations for buying tickets. Price are $3.00, $3.50, and $4.50.

Morale Builder Topic Third Chinsegut Retreat

Dress, Honor Code Aired At 'Summit' Meeting

By SARAH CALDWELL

The third annual Chinsegut Hill student-faculty retreat was held Saturday, Oct. 6, with approximately 44 persons attending. Chinsegut Hill is a massive pioneer Florida home built before the Civil War, and deeded to the Federal government by Colonel Raymond Robbins, world adventurer and civic leader, before his death.

Mascot

Student comments on the change of mascot to Buccaneers from the Golden Brahma include:

Pete Doyal: "I liked the Brahma better. A human being as a mascot? No, it just doesn't make sense. But I'll gladly go along with the majority opinion."

Lou Jean Hackney: "The Buccaneer doesn't sound as though it has too much spirit."

Joe Hill: "The Buccaneers isn't even a mascot, it's a human. Besides, everything around Tampa is pirates."

Ray Buss: "I liked the Buccaneers better than Golden Brahma, but I still think an improvement could be made."

Harry Dickinson: "I think the Buccaneers sounds high schoolish. With a little thought, we surely could have come up with something better than that."

Anon: "I still think the whole damn thing is corny and childish."

The director, Jack Clay, assistant professor of theater arts, will try to gain the effect of a total picture rather than accenting any one character. He wants the image of a diseased thing, tracing it from its affliction to its ultimate death.

The title role is played by James Woodall, and John Seitz will play Claudius; Yvonne Dardenne, Gertrude; Anne Phillips, Ophelia, and Angelo Telese, the ghost.

Behind the scenes there will be a few surprises. Russell Whaley, production designer, plans to use essentially the set from the summer production, but in a different manner. The play will feature original music composed and conducted by Theodore Hoffman, assistant professor of humanities.

Wardrobe mistress is Mrs. Maryon Moise, and the lighting will be done by Dave Taylor.

Vacancies already foreseen for the second trimester include one in business administration (First National Bank of Tampa), four in education (Hillsborough County schools), one in chemistry (International Minerals & Chemical Co. of Bartow), and several more in education (Pinellas County schools).

One of the largest employers of co-op students, the National Aeronautics & Space Administration at Huntsville, Alabama, will need three majors in electrical engineering, one in physics, three in mechanical engineering, one in accounting, one in math, and one in statistics.

Also expected are several openings in psychology and pre-med at Tampa General Hospital. Students interested must apply through the Work-Study office in AD 1070 (or phone ext. 172). They should not apply directly to the employer.

Miller said that approximately 45 students have already signed up with the W-S office and are currently being tested and interviewed.

Special recognition for graduating co-op students is being planned by the University in the form of a certificate or diploma addenda.

Currently five students who started in the pilot program when it was initiated in June, 1960, are still participating.

THE CAMPUS EDITION is produced as a laboratory section of the 50c Magazine and Feature Writing.

The University of South Florida is now in negotiation for the property and 115 acres of the surrounding land. Chinsegut is an Eskimo name which means "where things of the spirit which have been lost are regained."

Student-faculty conferences are regularly held at the Brooksville location in an attempt to discuss University problems away from their immediate source.

Main point of discussion at this retreat was an all-university morale builder, as proposed by Fred Jenkins and the University Center staff.

Jenkins and Jim Metcalf circulated a survey the day before the conference on the desirability of bringing name entertainers to the campus.

Before the conference approximately 1,100 lunch-time patrons at USF were queried on the proposed program, and 921 turned in signed answers.

This is the result of the survey: Kingston Trio—702, Brothers Four—492, Peter, Paul, and Mary—403, and the Limelighters—355.

At the conference, administrators were quite hopeful about obtaining funds for the project, but it was later found that due to enrollment and a previously committed budget, the University would not be able to underwrite the program.

Chinsegut participants felt entertainment by a name performer would be useful for two reasons: first, to build student morale and pride in the University, and secondly, to point up the need for a large facility to house events of this type.

A Miami booking agent was contacted, following the conference. He was willing to underwrite the project providing Peter, Paul, and Mary, or the Limelighters had an open date on November 18.

Since the stipulated performers were unable to come to USF on the proposed date, the project is being slanted toward second semester.

Other topics on the agenda were dress standards and honor code and system. It was suggested that dress standards be a personal matter, and that certain standards should be suggested but not enforced.

A code of personal conduct was used by the Student Association and will appear in the student handbook, it was reported. The code deals with conduct on and off campus.

It was recommended that USF adopt an honor code to read as follows: "Individual responsibility and self government are fundamental principles in maintaining honorable relationships among University of South Florida students, and with the faculty and members students are expected to show both within and without the university respect for order, morality, personal honor and the rights of others."

The committee on University reports and communications hopes to develop a system of "bulletins" which would allow the CAMPUS EDITION to devote more space to other news and features.

Chinsegut suggested sending the civic unit system to the chopping block. It was decided that a solution to the unit apathy would be to combine Executive Council and the Legislature.

Business was not alone on the day's agenda, however, and a tour of the grounds and house was conducted informally, and students were served a buffet lunch.

The annual convention of the Florida Theatre Conference will open Saturday at the University of South Florida, attracting some 100 to 150 representatives of theatre groups from throughout the state.

Host for the two-day meeting will be the Division of Fine Arts of USF and sessions will be in the modern theatre.

Featured speaker will be Gerald Alan Freedman, young Broadway director who has considerable experience in directing both Shakespearean productions and musicals, the two areas upon which the convention delegates will concentrate. Freedman lists among his credits last spring's Broadway production of "The Gay Life" and the London productions of "The Gay Life" and the highly successful "West Side Story" and "Bells Are Ringing."

RETAKING FINAL EXAMINATION—This will be the last trimester that a student will be allowed to retake a final examination to fail a grade. Applications must be filed out in triplicate by Oct. 31, 1962, in the Office of Evaluation Services and students will be given receipts that serve as proof of application.

WORK STUDY—A number of work-study cooperative program openings are available for students beginning Trimester 2, in which students report to work the week of Dec. 31. There are openings in engineering, education and various areas of business including accounting and finance. Students must have 2.0 or better and a minimum of 21 college credits at the end of the current trimester. Students should apply in the Work-Study Office (AD 1070).

'Spirit Builder' Set By SA On Oct. 17

By LOUISE STEWART

A "Spirit Builder" revival will take place during the free hour Thursday, Oct. 18. It is sponsored by the Student Association Executive Council for the purpose of bringing the students at large closer to their functions and responsibilities as members of the USF Student Association.

Scene of the event is the South entrance of the UC on the terrace entrance-way. Opening the ceremonies will be a brief band performance as an attention-getter.

First speaker at this open-air rally will be Dr. Herbert J. Wunderlich, dean of student affairs. Frank Meiners, president of the student association, and Skipper Smith, vice president, will give talks explaining civic units, the students association as a whole, and the legislature.

During this rally session, the first 15 minutes of the free hour the cafeteria will be locked off and all meetings postponed until it is over.

Also on Thursday, there will be civic unit meetings during the free hour at which time the room numbers will be posted on the UC Information Desk bulletin board. Those civic units which have already elected representatives to the Legislature and Civic unit chairmen must re-elect these officers if there were less than 20 present at the last meeting.

There will be instruction sheets for the chairmen in the meeting rooms. Also, there will be a member of the Executive Council in the rooms to answer any questions. A list of the representatives to the legislature and the unit officers must be turned into UC 218 before 4 p.m. the day of the meeting.

The elected representatives—two from each unit—will meet in the legislative session Thursday evening at 6:30 in UC 264.

The definition of legislature is a body of persons in a state invested with the power to make, alter, and repeal laws. The legislative powers at USF are vested in a unicameral body which consists of two representatives from each Civic Unit, five Representatives-at-large and five University Senators. All members of the Legislature except the Senators have the privilege of the floor and the vote. The Senators have only the privilege of the floor.

The Civic Units, of which every fulltime student is a member, compose the majority of the Legislature. In fact, the Civic Units have forty out of forty-five votes. With this much representation, the students do have a powerful voice in what goes on at the USF. If something happens that a student does not agree with, he may bring it up in the Legislature as we have here at USF. With this fact in mind, we should consider it a privilege to express our feelings at our Civic Unit meetings. Please take advantage of this privilege and serve yourself, your fellow students, and your University by being AN ACTIVE PARTICIPANT in your Student Association.

Sincerely
Skipper Smith
Vice President
Student Association

Ray Charles' Tampa Visit Now Definite

By TOM EURE

"Well, it is he coming to Tampa or isn't he?" That seems to be the question being asked presently by Ray Charles fans around the Tampa Bay area. Rumors have been flying around for about three weeks that "the genius" is supposed to hit Tampa sometime in October, but so far, no one has produced any kind of an official handbill or poster stating when, where, or how much tickets will sell for.

With the help of Devron Watkins, University Center employee, and making some phone calls to local radio stations, this reporter was able to find out the following information:

First of all, Ray Charles is coming to Tampa. His show is being promoted by George Grogan Enterprises of New York.

Senate Okayed Almost All JFK Nominations During Session

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—Nearly all of President Kennedy's major nominations were confirmed by the Senate before Congress adjourned.

Topping the appointments during the second session of the 87th Congress were two Supreme Court justices, two cabinet members, and a new director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Kennedy made his first appointments to the Supreme Court from within his administration, naming deputy Atty. Gen. Byron R. (Whizzer) White to fill one vacancy and Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg to fill another.

W. Willard Wirtz, undersecretary of labor, was moved up to take Goldberg's place in the cabinet.

The first change in Kennedy's cabinet occurred when Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff resigned to run for the Senate from Connecticut. Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze of Cleveland was appointed to succeed Ribicoff.

John A. McCone, California industrialist and former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission in the Eisenhower administration, was confirmed as director of the CIA. He replaced Allen W. Dulles.

Kennedy appointments in the military and foreign affairs fields also generally received quick action in the Senate. Only in the field of federal judges below the Supreme Court level did the administration run into some Senate opposition.

The Senate approved Fred Korth as Secretary of Navy, Cyrus K. Vance as secretary of the Army, Gen. Maxwell Taylor as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler as Army chief of staff.

In the diplomatic field, the Senate confirmed, among other things, George W. Ball as undersecretary of state, former Undersecretary Chester Bowles as the President's special representative on African, Asian and Latin American affairs, Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen as ambassador to France and Roy D. Kohler as ambassador to Russia.

But confirmation of Thurgood Marshall to be a judge on the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and of Irving Ben Cooper to be a judge for the southern district of New York was held up until last month—almost a year after their nominations were submitted.

Marshall, a Negro who had been counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, had to buck the opposition of southerners on the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Although Cooper was supported by New York's Republican Sens. Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating, he was opposed by the American Bar Association and the New York City Bar Association on the ground he lacked the proper judicial temperament.

Sunk without a trace in the judiciary committee was the mid-April nomination of former Virginia Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr., to be a judge on the U.S. court of customs and patent appeals.

Almond incurred the wrath of Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., when, as governor, he abandoned Virginia's program of "massive resistance" to the Supreme Court's 1954 school desegregation decision.

The only other judgeship nomination that failed of confirmation was that of Carl E. McGowan, a Chicago lawyer, to be a member of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here.

McGowan's nomination, submitted Aug. 16, had the endorsement of Sens. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., and Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., but the ju-diary committee took no action on it.

Altogether the Senate confirmed 115 judicial nominations in the 87th Congress — 60 in the first session and 55 in the second. This probably was a record number, partly because of 73 new federal judgeships created in legislation enacted last year.

The Senate confirmed 1,311 postmaster nominations this year and 265 others had not been acted on when Congress adjourned.

Also confirmed were 47,078 military appointments, mostly routine promotions, and 3,392 civilian nominations other than postmasters.

Not counting postmasters, only 26 civilian nominations were left unconfirmed when Congress quit and half of these were incorporators for the satellite communications corporation to be set up under recent legislation.

Because the nominations of the incorporators were not submitted until Oct. 4, no attempt was made to hold hearings on them before adjournment. Presumably, Kennedy will give them recess appointments.

Other nominations not acted on included those of William C. Roherty, long-time head of the Letter Carriers Union, to be ambassador to Jamaica, and of James W. Culliton of Indiana to be a member of the U.S. Tariff Commission.

Doherty's nomination was not submitted until Sept. 29 and Culliton's not until Oct. 9.

One late nomination approved quickly was that of A. Leon Higginbotham Jr., of Philadelphia to be a member of the Federal Trade Commission. He was the first Negro ever appointed to a federal regulatory agency.

Citrus Blamed In Italian Archeology Row

TAORMINA, Sicily, Oct. 15 (AP)—Excavations to uncover the 27-century-old archeological riches of ancient Naxos have been suspended indefinitely. Oranges and lemons are blamed.

Prof. Bernabo Brea, director of antiquities for eastern Sicily, says the citrus crops that flourish on the surface apparently are valued more than the Greek urns and columns buried beneath.

Naxos, on the coastal flatland beneath the cliff-top tourist town of Taormina, was the first Greek colony in Sicily. It was founded in 735 B.C.

Excavations to trace the ancient walls and uncover altar stones and richly carved columns started years ago along seafront wasteland. The digging has led now to a heavily cultivated belt of profitable orange and lemon groves which thrive in the coastal loam.

Here some of the richest ruins are believed to be awaiting discovery. But the orchard owners have been battling fiercely for a year against all attempts to expropriate the land for archeological exploration.

Brea said the owners are demanding more money than the department of antiquities has available.

Brea plans to appeal to Italy's interest in attracting will bring in tourists who may prove more lucrative than oranges and lemons.

Dr. Allen Receives Achievement Award

Mullet-Lisa Found Edible By Students

The Student Association Executive Council Auxiliary Service Committee met for a special supper meeting recently. Guest of honor was Mullet-Lisa, now in cans.

The service committee is composed of students, and staff members representing the auxiliary services on campus—the campus store, food services and housing. Students at the meeting were Frank Meiners, Louise Stewart, Jim Coplon, Red Davidson.

In attendance from the staff were Andrew Rodgers, director of procurement and auxiliary services; Robert Hess, manager of housing and food service; Stephan McArthur, executive assistant in procurement; John Goree, manager of the university bookstore; Ronald Willis, manager of university food services; Earl Hopkins, assistant manager of university food services. Also present was Jack Williams of Jack Williams Co. in Gainesville, Florida representative of Herf-Jones.

The purpose of the meal was to provide a taste testing panel for the newly canned Florida Lisa. The State Board of Conservation has passed a resolution stating: "That all agencies of the State are requested to purchase and use Florida canned Lisa and all other Florida produced seafoods both fresh and processed wherever feasible."

Reasons behind this resolution as stated by the Conservation Board concern the fact that 35 million pounds of Lisa are produced annually at a worth of approximately $2 million. Formerly sold only fresh and frozen, the Lisa is now being canned. The majority of the panel agreed that the Lisa is as tasty as tuna or any of its other peers in the fish world.

Bentley to FMTA

Yvonne Bentley, a USF music student, is going to Tallahassee in November to represent the university at the state convention of the Florida Music Teachers Association.

The 30-page quarterly is devoted to the field of language in a broad sense and to problems of language teaching. It is being sent to all large senior high schools and colleges in the state of Florida as a public service and a number of copies also go to colleges and universities in the United States and abroad.

Because of certain limits of means, time and staff, only 500 copies of the first issue were printed. Students can find the new quarterly in the library. The editorial staff hopes that it will be possible to acquire a circle of regular subscribers and that additional funds thus obtained will be used for expanding the journal's facilities.

"Of course," says Dr. Gessman, "we hope that later copies can be made available to the campus community and that we can capture student interest for the quarterly."

The editorial board includes Drs. W. K. Bott, Hans Juergensen, R. L. Morgenroth, P. C. Wright and R. L. Zeller of USF, and Mrs. Lillian Cornet and Dr. Vernon Whitney of the Hillsborough County school system.

The University of South Florida is featured in a chapter of "Casebook on Campus Planning and Institutional Development," a new book just published by the Office of Education of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

University President John S. Allen wrote the chapter on USF, one of 10 chapters dealing with planning problems at various institutions. The casebook was prepared to assist other college officials faced with the problems of expansion to keep up with ever-increasing needs.

In a foreword to Dr. Allen's article, the casebook states: "Planners who have the good fortune to be free in their campus planning to make a clean start with no hobbles of pre-existing patterns may be the envy of other campus planners. But they also are faced with the severe judgment of posterity should they fail to fully assess the trends and to provide adequately for tomorrow's tomorrow in educational facilities. The planners at the University of South Florida were primarily concerned with building a forward-looking philosophy of education and then implementing that philosophy with adequate facilities."

The article traces the planning and development of the University from its founding by the state legislature, describes some of the problems faced in this development and tells how they were met. It also outlines the educational goals and long range objectives of the University.

Dr. Paul R. Givens, co-chairman of the psychology program, says that plans are being made to add PC 211, Experimental Design and Methodology I, to the Trimester II schedule.

Many transfer students, particularly juniors, wishing to major in psychology were disappointed to find both sections of PC 211 closed and none scheduled for either Trimester II or III. PC 211 and its continuation PC 212 are required courses for all psychology majors. It would be impossible for left-out juniors to meet the requirements within the next four trimesters if PC 211 was not scheduled for either Trimester II or III.

Dr. Givens remarked that psychology has long been a favorite major. Classes fill rapidly and close quickly. Prerequisites and late-comers have problems at USF because the staff shortage will not always allow adding a class even when the demand is great. Dr. Givens hopes the staff will be increased to meet the great number of students interested in psychology.

Minimum rates will be charged for all flights after the first, according to Helvey.

Ground school instruction by Bruce will include meteorology, aircraft mechanics, flight dynamics and instrumentation.

Helvey, an active pilot himself, said James E. Bruce, a professional flight instructor in the Tampa Bay area, will conduct free first flight lessons and free ground school instruction for club members.

Two surprise guests were Monsieur and Madame Massieu of Oldsmar, formerly of Bordeaux, France. They had read of the meeting in the paper and had decided to drop in. The students chatted with the couple in French for an hour after the meeting.

Dr. John S. Allen, president of the University of South Florida, received the University of Minnesota's Outstanding Achievement Award in ceremonies at the Minneapolis campus Thursday, Oct. 11.

The award, given to Minnesota alumni who have distinguished themselves in their chosen fields, was presented at the fourth annual meeting of the College of Science, Literature and Arts and the University College Alumni Association at a 6:30 p.m. dinner. Also receiving the award was Mrs. Wright Brooks, Minneapolis civic leader, president of the International Center for Students and Visitors at the University of Minnesota and president of the Minnesota Council of Churches.

University Regent Otto A. Silha presented the awards, consisting of a gold medal and a citation to Dr. Allen and Mrs. Brooks. The meeting highlighted a special week of activities in the College of Science, Literature and Arts. Outstanding students were honored at the dinner and the third annual Distinguished Teacher Award of the alumni association was presented. Dr. Allen was featured speaker for the occasion, discussing liberal education and the challenge of the population explosion.

And, finally, it all this isn't enough to make one sit up and take notice, Mrs. Moise lives in Beta Hall.

The Language-Literature Division of the University of South Florida has this fall begun publishing the "U.S. Language Quarterly" under the editorship of Dr. Albert M. Gessman. The journal is actually a revival of the "Foreign Language Quarterly" which was published at Montgomery, Ala., until 1958 with Dr. Gessman's cooperation, but withered away due to lack of funds.

PC 211 and its continuation PC 212 are required courses for all psychology majors. It would be impossible for left-out juniors to meet the requirements within the next four trimesters if PC 211 was not scheduled for either Trimester II or III.

Dr. Givens remarked that psychology has long been a favorite major. Classes fill rapidly and close quickly. Prerequisites and late-comers have problems at USF because the staff shortage will not always allow adding a class even when the demand is great. Dr. Givens hopes the staff will be increased to meet the great number of students interested in psychology.

Minimum rates will be charged for all flights after the first, according to Helvey.

Ground school instruction by Bruce will include meteorology, aircraft mechanics, flight dynamics and instrumentation.

Helvey, an active pilot himself, said James E. Bruce, a professional flight instructor in the Tampa Bay area, will conduct free first flight lessons and free ground school instruction for club members.

Two surprise guests were Monsieur and Madame Massieu of Oldsmar, formerly of Bordeaux, France. They had read of the meeting in the paper and had decided to drop in. The students chatted with the couple in French for an hour after the meeting.

TULSA, Okla. (P)—Mrs. Nellie Dinsmore drove her new automobile to the courthouse to testify about her older car being stolen by an alleged organized group. While inside the building her new auto was taken by thieves.

Dr. John S. Allen, president of the University of South Florida, received the University of Minnesota's Outstanding Achievement Award in ceremonies at the Minneapolis campus Thursday, Oct. 11.

The award, given to Minnesota alumni who have distinguished themselves in their chosen fields, was presented at the fourth annual meeting of the College of Science, Literature and Arts and the University College Alumni Association at a 6:30 p.m. dinner. Also receiving the award was Mrs. Wright Brooks, Minneapolis civic leader, president of the International Center for Students and Visitors at the University of Minnesota and president of the Minnesota Council of Churches.

University Regent Otto A. Silha presented the awards, consisting of a gold medal and a citation to Dr. Allen and Mrs. Brooks. The meeting highlighted a special week of activities in the College of Science, Literature and Arts. Outstanding students were honored at the dinner and the third annual Distinguished Teacher Award of the alumni association was presented. Dr. Allen was featured speaker for the occasion, discussing liberal education and the challenge of the population explosion.

And, finally, it all this isn't enough to make one sit up and take notice, Mrs. Moise lives in Beta Hall.

The Language-Literature Division of the University of South Florida has this fall begun publishing the "U.S. Language Quarterly" under the editorship of Dr. Albert M. Gessman. The journal is actually a revival of the "Foreign Language Quarterly" which was published at Montgomery, Ala., until 1958 with Dr. Gessman's cooperation, but withered away due to lack of funds.

The 30-page quarterly is devoted to the field of language in a broad sense and to problems of language teaching. It is being sent to all large senior high schools and colleges in the state of Florida as a public service and a number of copies also go to colleges and universities in the United States and abroad.

Because of certain limits of means, time and staff, only 500 copies of the first issue were printed. Students can find the new quarterly in the library. The editorial staff hopes that it will be possible to acquire a circle of regular subscribers and that additional funds thus obtained will be used for expanding the journal's facilities.

"Of course," says Dr. Gessman, "we hope that later copies can be made available to the campus community and that we can capture student interest for the quarterly."

The editorial board includes Drs. W. K. Bott, Hans Juergensen, R. L. Morgenroth, P. C. Wright and R. L. Zeller of USF, and Mrs. Lillian Cornet and Dr. Vernon Whitney of the Hillsborough County school system.

The University of South Florida is featured in a chapter of "Casebook on Campus Planning and Institutional Development," a new book just published by the Office of Education of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

University President John S. Allen wrote the chapter on USF, one of 10 chapters dealing with planning problems at various institutions. The casebook was prepared to assist other college officials faced with the problems of expansion to keep up with ever-increasing needs.

In a foreword to Dr. Allen's article, the casebook states: "Planners who have the good fortune to be free in their campus planning to make a clean start with no hobbles of pre-existing patterns may be the envy of other campus planners. But they also are faced with the severe judgment of posterity should they fail to fully assess the trends and to provide adequately for tomorrow's tomorrow in educational facilities. The planners at the University of South Florida were primarily concerned with building a forward-looking philosophy of education and then implementing that philosophy with adequate facilities."

The article traces the planning and development of the University from its founding by the state legislature, describes some of the problems faced in this development and tells how they were met. It also outlines the educational goals and long range objectives of the University.

Dr. Paul R. Givens, co-chairman of the psychology program, says that plans are being made to add PC 211, Experimental Design and Methodology I, to the Trimester II schedule.

Many transfer students, particularly juniors, wishing to major in psychology were disappointed to find both sections of PC 211 closed and none scheduled for either Trimester II or III. PC 211 and its continuation PC 212 are required courses for all psychology majors. It would be impossible for left-out juniors to meet the requirements within the next four trimesters if PC 211 was not scheduled for either Trimester II or III.
