One is likely to receive a complicated answer when asking John Jewell, “What’s cookin’?” His response may include references to business, law, academics, architecture – or actual food preparation. John is a multifaceted USFSP instructor of Accountancy in the Kate

Tiedemann College of Business — who is also a lawyer, fine art photographer, sportsman, and master of the culinary arts.

In the academic arena, John possesses Bachelor’s and Master’s degrees in Accounting as well as a Juris Doctor from Stetson University, College of Law, and a LL.M. from the University of Florida (UF), School of Law. During his student years, John held a variety of leadership positions: Student Government President at USFSP; Editorial Board, Stetson Law Review; and Research Fellow at UF.

A practicing lawyer, university instructor, and certified public accountant, John also creates time for public speaking engagements, research, and writing articles for scholarly journals. He was a member of the Leadership St. Petersburg Class of 2012 and co-founded the St. Petersburg Botanic Society, Inc. years ago to nurture community support for the preservation of Sunken Gardens, Florida’s oldest botanic gardens. Additionally, John and his wife received the Neighborly Neighbor of the Year Award from the City of St. Petersburg in March 2000 for their work in Roser Park. John also held the position of Director of the USFSP Program of Accountancy from 2009-15.
