WE'RE OFF AGAIN!

Tri-II Launched With Lines, Corns

By LOUISE STEWART

Heigh-ho! It's the first day of a new trimester and I'm late to all of my classes. This, of course, amazes no one.

We were registered in style this time—by appointments, my dear. Unfortunately for my corns, this did not lessen the lines. I was extremely late since many others have the same appointment time and there are students left over from earlier appointments. There were only two poor souls handing out the packets.

Once inside the ballroom, I was confronted with more lines of people taking the same popular courses I am. Funniest thing!

Now I have to find Dr. Somebody-or-other to sign my form giving special permission to take a course.

I found him. Back to the rat-race. Next I went through the check-points to see if I had done everything right. Oddly enough, I got through that part okay. As an upperclassman, I was unfortunately confused through the whole process by my vague knowledge and therefore found it hard to follow the instructions blindly.

After the course checking, I departed hence to the cashier's office. I found a line for scholarship holders. There is only one checker at this point, and a surprising number of scholarship holders.

After only two hours of registration blues, I dragged my weary self over to the coffee shop. I found a cozy little spot in the sun since heat seemed to be lacking in the UC that morning and gave a sigh of relief. It's over for another trimester.

I have been cheered somewhat by the news that students must take two days to register at some other universities.

USF Cited For Help By WEDU

The general manager of educational television station WEDU has presented awards of appreciation to President John S. Allen and faculty of the University of South Florida for their assistance in preparation of the "Americanism vs. Communism" course produced and telecast by WEDU.

R. LeRoy Lastinger made the presentation of the certificates in a brief ceremony at the University. He said the station was "most pleased" with the classroom series and expressed his appreciation for the role played by the University. Six members of the faculty at USF acted in an advisory capacity in producing the series.

"All the letters we have received thus far have been highly complimentary," Lastinger said. The WEDU series will be used by educational television stations in Miami, Gainesville and Tallahassee and by commercial stations in Orlando and Pensacola, Lastinger said.

There have also been inquiries about the availability of the series from New York, Georgia, and National Educational Television is looking at tapes of the series with a view toward possible nationwide distribution, he added.

James W. Jackson, an instructor at Manatee Junior College who is on leave to serve as television instructor for the series, told the USF faculty members he would like to receive additional assistance from the University in updating the series for showing next fall. Dr. Allen said the University would "be ready to help in any way we can."

TV-Studio Bids Opened

Fred Curtis Inc., of Tampa, has submitted an apparent low bid of $69,721 on construction of television studios in the library building at the University of South Florida.

Curtis' bid will be submitted to the Board of Control and State Cabinet for approval and the contract will be awarded early this year. Construction will begin soon thereafter and is scheduled for completion in six months. Curtis outbid seven other firms on the project.

The studios will be located in the basement of the library and will include one large television studio, four offices, a reception area, two radio studios and control rooms. Plans also include a photography lab.

The television facilities will be used for closed circuit TV transmissions until plans are completed for operation of an educational television station on campus. The radio studios will be used for operation of an FM radio broadcast station, which will go on the air soon after construction is completed.

"BUT DR. FISHER, AT LEAST WE GOT HER BACK BEFORE HOURS." No, this is not a victim of a room packing escapade. The young lady is Rescue Annie, University demonstration dummy for First Aid Safety course. Larry Bowersock and Ed Makovec are gleefully packing her away after demonstrations to several community groups.

"A RARE PRIVILEGE"

Dean Wunderlich Accepts Student Affairs Challenge

By PAUL MEISSNER

Dean of Student Affairs Herbert J. Wunderlich is an impressive, intelligent, and friendly man.

As he gazed out across the campus from his conference room, he told me in his soft spoken manner, that "the opportunity to initiate and assist in the development of a program and facilities related to student life is a rare privilege. The fact that there are no established traditions presents a real challenge to me. It is a rare privilege that one is able to draw fully from one's own experience in such a situation."

Dr. Wunderlich has been the Dean of Student Affairs since July 1, 1962. He hails from Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. He is married and has one son.

Dean Wunderlich completed his undergraduate work at the University of Idaho, and did graduate work at Harvard. He received his Ed.D. degree from Stanford University.

While he is a relative newcomer to USF, he is certainly no stranger to the position he holds. Before serving as a Commander in the Navy in World War II, Wunderlich was Dean of Men and Executive Assistant to the president at the University of Idaho. Since the war, he has served as Assistant Dean of Students at Stanford and Kansas State University.

As Dean of the Student Affairs, Wunderlich is responsible for a wide area of activities, ranging from counseling, to physical education. All development programs are under his authority, as are student activities, the UC, and student employment.

As the Dean talked, I became more and more convinced that we have a man in this position who is really happy in his work. Here is a man who relishes a challenge, and is ever striving to do new things, and confront new and different situations. This conviction was confirmed when I learned that the Dean had a cabin in the Rockies, and that his favorite sport was mountain climbing and trail blazing. "I like to travel where few or no humans have ever been before," he said.

Wunderlich stated that "the essential challenge is to devise programs supplementary, and complementary to our basic educational objective, and which will meet the needs of commuting and resident students alike. We are trying to establish a recreative cultural community on campus that will serve the extra class student." In this way he hopes that all students will realize a common sense of identity with the university community.

One of the greatest difficulties we have here at USF is to provide the cultural experience necessary to a good education for our commuting students. After meeting and speaking with Dean Wunderlich, I am convinced that he is more than equal to the task.

Here's Way To Be Times Cub. Ho Hum!

This notice left by a mysterious caller appeared on the bulletin board in the Office of Campus Publications:

REQUIREMENTS for being on the staff of campus publications—

1. High, shrill, nasal, piercing voice.
2. Extreme interest in trivia.
3. Ability to talk about nothing important and this constantly.
4. Housebroken not mandatory but preferable.
5. Youth (did I say childishness?).

—JB

Always open to suggestion, the Editor of the campus newspaper has decided to accept these requirements as points to consider in future staff applications. Interested students may inquire in UC 58. That's in the basement of the University Center directly across the hall from the recreation room, natch! —L.M.S.

SA Nominations Swing Open Today

Schedule Features Excitement

The Events Calendar for Trimester II promises lectures, plays, movies, art exhibits and concerts.

Among the coming events are two exciting new presentations by the Student Arts Council. In February they are bringing to the campus a play by the French playwright Moliere, titled "The Imaginary Invalid." The play is a combination of fun, ballet and seventeenth century music.

In April they will present Tennessee Williams' "A Streetcar Named Desire." Broadway actors will be featured in the leading roles.

This month several lecturers will visit the USF campus. On January 22nd William Buckley, editor of the "National Review" will discuss the views of an American conservative. On January 30 Norman Cousins will present a lecture on education and our future foreign policy. Mr. Cousins is the editor of the "Saturday Review" and a best-selling author.

Nobel Prize winning Dr. W. F. Libby, professor of chemistry, will lecture on the impact of the atom on society, Jan. 15.

During the coming trimester several concerts will be given by the string quartet and the University concert band and there will be new and fascinating art exhibitions in the Library Gallery.

In February, singers from Paris will visit USF and the Ramat-Can Chamber Orchestra from Israel will present a performance of the works of several Israeli composers.

The Film Classics League will continue this year's series of films with "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers," "Wild Strawberries," a Swedish film, a French film entitled "Breathless," and will conclude the series with a German film, "Rosemary."

Students may look forward to a trimester filled with a wide variety of cultural events.

Artists Featured

Ron Bouvart, David Dye, Jim Felter, and David Haxton were recently featured in the Sunday edition of The Tampa Tribune for their industrious spirit in painting after school hours.

All four students are enrolled in art classes at this university. They are also doing much lab practice in a studio, consisting of a house in a semi-secluded location. The works of these students are often seen on display in art exhibits in the UC Gallery Lounge.

Election Plans Are Revealed

By CHARLIE MONEY

The annual election of the Student Association swings into operation today with the opening of the SA office for nominations for student offices which will be balloted on Tuesday, Jan. 22, 1963. Run-offs will be held the following Friday.

Offices open include president, vice president, correspondents and recording secretaries, treasurer, five university senators, and five representatives-at-large.

Two Student Journalists Sell Articles

Two USF students have sold articles to state publications. Louise Stewart and Jack McClintock, last trimester enrolled in the EN 347 Magazine and Feature Writing course, have sold their human-interest interviews to newspaper supplements.

Miss Stewart sold her interview with a Tampa bridge-tender to the "All-Florida Weekly," appearing in many Florida newspaper Sunday editions. The article is scheduled for print in the near future.

McClintock sold his interview with a USF wheelchair-bound student to the "Sunday Magazine Supplement of the Miami News." McClintock's article has already appeared.

Dr. A. T. Scroggins, associate professor of journalism, was teaching the course which is not offered this trimester. He is currently teaching EN 341 Writing for Mass Communications.

INSIDE INFO

Campus edition features on the second page.

CAMPUS NOTICES: Special weekly bulletin items for students and faculty concerning many mundane and worldly items on campus.

DAILY SCHEDULE: A day-by-day calendar of the week's activities and club meetings.

ORGANIZATION NEWS: Notices concerning the activities of campus clubs. These notices may be turned into the paper by club publicity chairmen on forms provided by the campus newspaper. Inquire UC 58.

I-M ACTIVITIES: Concerning the weekly sports classics of the intramurals division on campus.

FINE ARTS: Being the dope on the latest events brought on campus under the sponsorship of the Fine Arts Division. Many of these performances are free of charge.

UC ACTIVITIES: Listing in depth the plans of the University Center to keep the students out of mischief for another week.

All campaign material must be cleared through the University Center for size and form and through the Election Rules Committee Chairman, Charlie Money, or a member of the committee, for adherence to election regulations. A complete list of regulations will be posted on the door of the Student Association office, U. S. 218. Any infraction of the rules may result in action by the Rules Committee to disqualify a candidate.

Wide Latitude

In the past, special care has been taken to see that campaign material did not contain comments which are overtly libelous or especially vindictive. The Rules Committee will allow wide latitude, however, and encourage originality of thought and expression.

University Role Probed In New USF Publication

By KAY KEATING

"To be great is to be misunderstood." Upon this belief of Ralph Waldo Emerson, Dean J. A. Battle built the first of the University of South Florida publications. This is the Educational Review, published by the college of education.

Contributors to the latest edition of the Educational Review are Dr. John S. Allen, president of USF; Dr. Russell Cooper, dean of the college of liberal arts; Dr. J. A. Battle, dean of the college of education; Dr. Gale Sperry, professor of music; Dr. E. W. Hirshberg, associate professor of English; Dr. Harold Taylor, nationwide lecturer, and Barbara Sue Klein, USF student.

Mission of University

The first of the articles by Dean Battle discusses a question—"Whether the mission of the university can be explained to a non-university educated audience." Battle quotes Clark Kerr, president of the University of California. "The university is not engaged in making ideas safe for students but in making students safe for ideas." A university is most likely to be criticized the most when it is doing the best possible job in this area, according to Dean Battle. He states, "Parents need to be educated to realize that a university education is wasted if their children are taught to ape others."

He concludes by saying that the true university should try to make the public understand its mission, and he states, "It can accommodate itself to the whims of the provincial crowd only at the risk of losing its identity and its soul."

Dean Russell Cooper titled his article "The Role of a University." He defines a university as "an intellectual community where all participants seek constantly to develop clarity ideas, establish and implement basic principles, discover and apply basic values."

He feels that the emphasis in a true university must never be placed merely upon quality of mind or performance but instead, "be dedicated to the service of man and the manifold needs of this university."

The only article written by a student is "The Purpose of Purpose" by Barbara Sue Klein. She finds the prime purpose of a higher education to be instruction that will help the person deal with his problems through life. The person should emerge from a university as a "whole person."

Miss Klein says, "This includes more than just 'book learning.' This is a knowledge of people as well as facts."

Cultural Function

In his article, Dr. Gale Sperry discusses the cultural function of a university in several sections, with the general title "The Cultural Function of the University." He believes that the university should "furnish the stream of national life with young men and women who have a high standard of cultivation and are social minded enough to defend the standards that they have found good."

However, he feels that the university's concern for good taste should not become too official "for that would kill life."

"An institution that calls itself a university should be a place where all knowledge is available," states Dr. E. W.

Hirshberg. This is the central theme of his essay, "What Is a University?"

This is followed by President Allen's article, "The Task of a University." He states, "No institution in modern society is as well equipped as the university to create a climate in which the ideals of civilization may be examined."

He believes that the university's task is not to provide the answers but to bring the student the resources with which he can find his own answers.

The last of the articles was written by Dr. Harold Taylor who is writing and lecturing on campuses around the U.S. This particular essay is a copy of an address which he gave on the USF campus on March 27, 1962. It is titled "Education and the Philosophy of the New World." In his lecture he discusses the Sarah Lawrence College which is an experimental school of which he is a past president. In that college there are many innovations of method of instruction as well as great differences in staff and student relationships. There are no required courses, no grades and no staff rank scale at Sarah Lawrence.

Total Community

One of the basic principles he feels is that the "most important things in life are to be taught in the context of the total community." Toward this end he discusses methods of teaching.

All in all, the newest campus publication covers widely the field of college education. For an insight into the thinking of our leading educators here at the university, the Educational Review makes good reading. It sells for $1 per copy.

Policy for Withdrawals, Adds, Drops Given by USF

Here is the policy statement regarding changing courses and withdrawals from the university.

Students may change course registration (drop and add) only during the first week of classes in any full trimester, or the first three days in Trimester IIIA, or Trimester IIIB, with the approval of the adviser and dean. Changes in sections will be considered only for academic or administrative reasons.

Prior to the end of the third week in any full trimester, or the eighth day of Trimester IIIA or IIIB, students may drop individual courses without prejudice, and receive a "W" grade, regardless of the quality of their work. Students dropping courses subsequent to the end of the third week, but prior to one week before the first day of final examinations, will receive a "W" grade or "F" grade, depending upon whether they are passing or failing as they drop the course.

Any course dropped during the last week of classes of any term will result in a grade of "F". Drops are not permitted during final examination week.

Prior to one week before the first day of final examinations, students may withdraw from the University without prejudice and receive a "W" grade in courses currently being taken. Any student who withdraws from the University during the last week of classes or final examination week will receive a grade of "F" in each course. Withdrawal will be counted as a trimester attempted of the six trimesters allowed for completion of the requirements of the College of Basic Studies.

TUNING UP

Practicing for the UC Talent Show auditions are, left to right, Jim Coplon, Terry Miliano, Sherman Hayes, and Amy Furlough. Auditions will be held on Jan. 16, from 6:30-8:30 p.m. in UC 264-5. All interested and talented parties are invited to attend.

The illustrations show various components for gutter installation: a T-shaped end cap, a 90-degree elbow, a long section of box-type gutter, a small square end cap, a downspout with a cap, a half-round gutter section, and a large 90-degree elbow.

Wide Open Spaces Cut Lawlessness, Create Mutual Respect

By DANA CESSNA
Times Staff Writer

Respect for law enforcement is a common virtue among most Tampanians.

In New York City, however, bands of roving young hoodlums have made that metropolis a virtual battleground for lawlessness.

Why has Tampa escaped this air of disrespect for the law as prevalent in New York and the nation's larger cities? For one thing, we're a smaller community which abounds in wide open spaces," Patrol Inspector Leon Powell explained.

Powell Diamond

outlook on the job being performed by its local law enforcement agencies," Powell emphasized.

"OUR CITY is spread out. People aren't running all over each other the way they do in the big cities. As a result, there is a better atmosphere for breeding a mutual respect between not only the public themselves, but the police department as well," Powell continued.

"Less and less every day, we're hearing people ask a police officer who knocks on their door, 'Where is your warrant?' This has come about because the public is gaining a better conception of what they can and can't do, and what the police can and can't do when it comes to law enforcement," he said.

"The most important result from all this is that our younger generation is gaining a keener respect and clearer

"THIS YOUNGER GENERATION has an understandable urge to blow off steam," Patrol Capt. Jim Diamond, selective enforcement unit director, stated. "That's where the availability of our outdoor activities such as swimming and boating come in handy."

"In the big cities, youngsters have access to relatively the same outdoor activities, but only for a limited period, mostly just during the summer months. When the cold weather hits, they find themselves couped up indoors with nothing to do but waste away the hours thinking of ways to get into mischief," Diamond said.

It goes without saying the police in these larger cities find their hands full trying to cope with the lawless breed which is born of this environment.

IN NEW YORK CITY, for example, a special helmeted brigade of trained officers is kept in constant readiness to do combat with juvenile gangs, which welcome the opportunity to pummel unsuspecting police officers walking along the streets with bricks and stones thrown from a tenement rooftop.

"They hate police for the sheer joy of nothing better to do than hate police," Diamond said.

Even while Tampa police are claiming immunity from this growing prevalence of disrespect for the law, they are also quick to predict a long lasting and an ever increasing respect for the law as far away as 10 years from now.

"THE TAMPA PUBLIC is becoming better educated every day in line with understanding and respecting its law enforcement agencies," Powell said.

"This role of a better educated public, I feel certain will go along way toward stemming the tide of any possible disrespect for the police in the future. As long as the city is spreading out, instead of up, we'll escape this disrespect of police so common in the larger cities."

While the big city advocates of a harsher police line in combatting lawlessness are crusading for the need of a moral revolution, Tampa police officials are of the opinion the city's adult populace can completely control its marauding juvenile generation if they put their mind to it.

"WE WOULD HAVE to consider ourselves a city of robots if we didn't claim some semblance of juvenile wrongdoing," Powell declared. "I don't feel there's any need for a moral revolution here, however. At least not the way they need it in the big cities."

Supposing Powell's predictions of a straight and narrow path of the future go astray, are Tampa police prepared to counter such a problem?

"Naturally, we find ourselves short-handed from time to time," Powell replied. "We know for certain, however, that the force will never be short-handed enough to cope with the problem of, say, an outbreak of sudden, panicky juvenile gang violence. That's what they have in New York City, you know, and they've had to take drastic steps to combat it."

JUVENILE GANGS, for many years now, have been a constant scourge of large, northern cities. With the exception of the notorious "Earing Gang" of four years ago, Tampa once more has maintained a clean bill of health. "A better educated public again," say Tampa police officials in attempting to ferret out the reason why.

"The word gets around to any prospective troublemakers that the police are more trouble to them than getting into their own brand of trouble is worth. I would say for this that we can credit our juvenile population with maintaining a keener understanding of the moral wrong in such actions," Powell said.

Last November, 16 of the best pairs of bridge players in the United States competed in the trials to determine the American team which will play for the world's championship this summer. When the smoke of battle had cleared away the three winning pairs, in order of finish, were: G. Robert Nail of Houston and James O. Jacoby of Dallas, Robert Jordan and Arthur Robinson of Philadelphia, and Howard Schenken and Peter Leventritt of New York.

Jim's victory can be partly ascribed to the fact that he must have been the happiest man in the tournament. His wife, Judy, gave birth to their first child, James Oswald Jr., just two days before play started. James Jr. is also my first grandchild, so I am just about the proudest combination of grandfather and father around today.

Judgment in close situations is the test of success in top flight competition and Jim and Bobby gained a good score when Jim converted Bobby's takeout double of three hearts into a penalty double by passing.

Bobby opened the king of diamonds and the defense promptly cashed two diamonds and three spade tricks and still had to make a trump.

Of course, if Jim had elected to bid three no-trump he would have made a game, but Jim had no way of knowing that Bobby held the king of hearts. Jim's queen and one heart could not stop the suit by themselves.

FOOD SCHOLARSHIP

Morrison's Food Services, Inc. is supporting our student body president food-wise. They offered the scholarship because they felt it was vital that the President of the Student Association be in a position to live on campus even though he might be a commuting student with residence in Tampa. Pictured above are Ron Willis, (far left) representing Morrison's Food Service as he offers Dr. Herbert Wunderlich, dean of student affairs the scholarship. Frank Meiners, second from left, current SA president and Robert F. Hess, housing director, look on.

USE MACHINE, PLEASE

Library Vandalism Cited

Vandalism is not a very pretty word. When it happens in a library it makes every respectable student groan.

Imagine yourself heading for the library at 8 p.m., the evening before a test on some reserve reading. You have plenty of time to do the reading and even take notes, before the library closes. You arrive at the reserve room, ask for the book you need and settle down to read . . . the 15 pages you need have been torn out by some friendly classmate.

If that has never happened to you, you have just been lucky, because pages have thoughtlessly been torn out of magazines, books, and encyclopedias by people studying everything from French literature to bi-chemistry.

College life is bound to be full of frustrations and defeats, but this is one that can be avoided.

There is a machine on the second floor of the library that will reproduce all the pages you need at minimum cost. It is called the Xerox machine and it will copy anything. In fact this takes less time than tearing out pages because you don't have to wait until no one is looking.

In an interview with Elliott Hardaway, director of the library, recently, he said, "Some magazines and some books cannot be replaced. That's all there is to it. When they're gone they're gone. Others can be replaced, but they are scarce and it may take years to find them."

"Even if you can find replacements for mutilated reference material, it costs money to buy and the processing fee is about $2 per book; that means less money for new books. We're trying to build a good research library; that is what makes a great school, and we can't make any progress by tearing down as we build."

$900,000

In Gifts To Date

Gifts of funds and properties totaling $900,000 for the University of South Florida were announced by the university at a campus dinner for businessmen and educational aid representatives recently.

An additional $2,670,000 may be received in the future from 11 wills and trusts in which the USF Foundation has been named as beneficiary, according to Edward I. Cutler, Tampa attorney and chairman of the Foundation Deferred Gifts Committee.

Cutler said the gifts already received included $260,000 in cash contributions since the Foundation was started in 1958 and currently with an estimated current value of $640,000, the income from which will be retained by the former owners during their lifetimes.

University President John S. Allen presided at the dinner, which was attended by some 40 Florida business and financial leaders and two representatives of the Council for Financial Aid to Education, a New York-based organization which encourages voluntary financial support to institutions of higher learning.

Dr. Frank H. Sparks, president of CFAE, spoke to the group about the services and programs of educational support and about opportunities for new approaches to such programs. He was accompanied by CFAE's vice president for college relations, Francis C. Pray. The two executives are visiting colleges throughout the state under the sponsorship of the Florida Council of 100.

Campus Notices

WORK-STUDY HOSPITALITY HOUR
A hospitality hour will be held at 1:25 p.m. (free hour), Tuesday, Jan. 8, in UC 167, for all Work-Study students returning to campus from a Work Period, as well as other Work-Study students who may be on campus at this time.

WORK-STUDY OPENINGS for Trimester III, April 22, in accounting, economics, math, statistics, finance, education, and in electrical, mechanical, aeronautical, civil and possibly chemical engineering. Also, openings in physics, banking, biology (fisheries), organizational management, and in other areas. Make applications as soon as possible in Work-Study Office. See Mrs. Bonnie J. Neel or Mr. Miller. Phone ext. 172.

STATE DEPARTMENT APPLICANTS
Students making applications for U.S. Department of State summer appointments through Work-Study Office must return all forms, letter, and other necessary material not later than Thursday, Jan. 10, to Mrs. Neel, Work-Study Office, AD 1070.

THE NEW REGULATION pertaining to the removal of "X" grades allows the first three weeks of the trimester for the student to remove any "X" assigned by a teacher. The same period of time is allowed for the student to apply to the dean of basic studies for the removal of a grade of "X." Failure to remove "X" or to secure approval to take the examination by January 28 will result in grades of "F" being assigned. No examinations may be taken to raise grades.

LATE REGISTRATION and class changes will be held in the University Center Ballroom between 9 and 12 January 7-11.

ALL STUDENTS interested in scholarships for the 1962-63 academic year should apply in AD 1054 before February 1.

STUDENTS who wish to be admitted to the upper-level teacher education program at the University of South Florida must complete a battery of tests administered by the college of education and must have an interview with a college of education faculty member in order that their application may be completed.

DURING THE WEEK of January 14 (Monday through Friday), applicants who will have completed 60 hours by the end of the Trimester II must sign up for testing and must make interview appointments by reporting to Room 301A in the Chemistry Building.

I-M ACTIVITIES Football Over; Basketball Ahead

By RICHARD OPPEL

The end and the beginning; time to look back and time to look ahead. Undoubtedly the increasing greatness of some of the other southeastern universities in the sports world has stirred an uneasy anticipation in many of us. Florida, LSU, Alabama and Ole Miss carried home football bowl trophies while our neighbor-to-the-south, Miami, journeyed to New York City to display their talents before dyed-in-the-wool football fans.

Last Trimester

USF kicked off the intra-trimester season last September with the beginning of bowling and volleyball. Beta I East emerged as the victor in men's bowling and began to build their reputation as an athletic power. Fides women's fraternal society copped the women's bowling trophy, easily winning with a 135 team average.

"Old Dependable" Enotas won the volleyball crown in the men's division after defeating Beta I East. The women's title was awarded to Alpha IV East as the culmination of a three-month long tournament. In football, enthusiasm ran high as no less than 17 teams competed. Two divisions were formed: one for independent and fraternal teams and the other for Beta Hall. The independents and fraternities were dominated by Enotas, Arete and the All-Stars. Beta Hall was ruled by Beta I East and Beta II West. Enotas and I East won in their divisions, then met at the climax of a post-season tournament with I East scraping by on a 6-0 win.

The victory in the intramural "Bull Bowl" (after the Golden Brahmins, of course) gave Beta I East an undisputed lead over Enotas in the All-University activity points standings.

What's Ahead?

This brand new trimester brings us a promising sports lineup beginning with basketball, then tennis, golf and archery. Expect Enotas to field a strong team in basketball formed upon their height and speed. This should keep the Beta East I-Enotas rivalry going strong.

Also watch for fine teams in tennis, golf, and archery representing their respective clubs. And who can say that it is impossible for USF to develop a skateboard team of national ranking?

UC ACTIVITIES

Open House, Jazz

The University Center will open its doors to welcome all new and returning students Friday, Sue Knopke, chairman, and her hospitality committee are in charge of the program.

Events will begin at 3:30 p.m. with a jazz concert in the ballroom featuring Mark Morris, USF student, and guest performers. Again this year students can have caricatures drawn by Les Silva and Alvis Sherouse between 3:30 and 4:30 in the lobby of the second floor of the UC. There will be a Stereo Comedy Hour in the TV lounge during the same hour.

All games in the recreation room will be free of charge between 3:30 and 6 p.m., compliments of the recreation committee. Regular time limits will be in effect.

Continuous movie shorts will be shown in 264-265 between 7 and 9 p.m. Following the films, the dance committee will host a free dance in the ballroom. The Eden Rocks will provide music. School clothes are in order.

There will be a band dance Saturday, 9 to 12 p.m. in the ballroom. Admission is $7.50, and $10.00 drag dress will be school clothes.

Malpass Gets Foundation Study Grant

Dr. Leslie F. Malpass, professor and chairman of the human behavior program at the University of South Florida, has been awarded a post-doctoral fellowship in university administration by the Ellis L. Phillips Foundation of New York.

From Jan. 2 to March 23 he will be attached to the office of President William Friday of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and from March 25 to April 12 he will be attached to the office of the provost of Stanford University. In the latter office he will work under the supervision of Dr. Lewis B. Mayhew, former director of institutional research and evaluation services at the University of South Florida.

The foundation awards fellowships to provide training in administration of institutions of higher learning. Dr. Malpass will study university structure, articulation of undergraduate and graduate programs, curriculum and faculty problems, evaluation and planning of university programs and business and financial arrangements.

He will return from leave of absence in April to resume his duties at the university at the beginning of Trimester III.

Little Man on Campus

"POKER CHIPS, BONGO DRUMS, JAZZ RECORDS, PORTABLE HI-FI, CARDS, GOLF CLUBS, TRANSISTOR!—GAY, ARE WE SENDIN' THIS KID TO A COLLEGE OR A COUNTRY CLUB?"

Advanced Ed. Sign-Up Meets Are Scheduled

Registration for advanced education courses to be offered in Hillsborough County by the Florida Institute for Continuing University Studies during the coming trimester will be held Jan. 8, 9 and 10 at the University of South Florida.

The registration sessions will be held in AD 2096 at 3:45 p.m. each day. Students may also register by mail in advance of these dates and, if possible, are urged to do so. Registration materials are available in the office of Gerald Wilson at the Hillsborough County Board of Public Instruction.

The graduate courses are offered by the Institute by carrying credit from either the University of Florida or Florida State University. Most of them will be held at the USF campus.

Counselors from the University of Florida and FSU were on the campus at the University of South Florida from 3 to 6 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 3, also in materials are available in the of-Chess lessons, sponsored by the UC Lessons Committee, will begin this trimester. In this picture, Mr. William D. Benham of Business Administration, demonstrates a masterful move on the magnetic board.

FINE ARTS

Lecture, Exhibit Jan. 7, 8

Dr. Ashley Montagu will not speak on Jan. 8, 1963, at the University of South Florida as was previously scheduled.

Instead, on Thursday, Jan. 10, 1963, at 1:25 p.m., in Chemistry Auditorium 111, Dr. Stanford C. Erickson will present a lecture on "Bridging the Gap between the Learning Laboratory and the Classroom." He will also meet with USF faculty throughout the day for consultation regarding teaching and learning procedures.

Dr. Erickson, noted psychologist and former head of Department of Psychology, Vanderbilt University, was appointed professor of psychology and director of the Center for Research on Learning and Teaching at the University of Michigan, beginning September, 1962.

An exhibition of selected paintings and drawings that provide a stimulating look at the current work of William Pachner, one of the major painters working today, will open Monday, Jan. 7, at the University of South Florida Gallery located in the Library.

Recipient of a Guggenheim Fellowship and Grant for 1960-61 and the youngest American painter to receive a Ford Foundation Award for painting in 1959 in the form of a retrospective exhibition circulated nationally by the American Federation of Arts, William Pachner has been conducting winter classes in painting at his own school in Clearwater, Florida, and at the Tampa Art Institute, Tampa.

He has had eight one-man shows in New York City and his work has been exhibited by invitation in all major national shows. He is represented in the permanent collections of the Whitney Museum of American Art, the Butler Institute of American Art, Iowa State Teachers College, Brandeis University, as well as in private collections.

The University Gallery is open from 8 a.m. through 10 p.m., Monday through Thursday and from 8 a.m. through 5 p.m., Friday and Saturday. On Sunday the Gallery is open from 2 p.m. through 10 p.m.

Dean From Yale Lectures On Architecture

Gibson A. Danes, dean of the Yale School of Art and Architecture, lectured on "New Architecture in America" Sunday, Jan. 6, at 4 p.m. at the USF Theater.

Dr. Danes received his Ph.D. degree from Yale in 1948, and had previously studied at the University of Oregon, the School of the Chicago Institute, Northwestern University, and the Institut d'Art et d'Archéologie of the University of Paris. He received a Carnegie Scholarship in 1938 for study in France, a Rockefeller Fellowship in 1947, a study grant from the American Council of Learned Societies in 1948 and a Ford Foundation Fellowship in 1951.

He served on the faculties of a number of leading universities and was chairman of the UCLA Department of Art before assuming his present post.

Dr. Danes is the author of a book, "Looking at Modern Painting," and is completing another book dealing with the life and art of William Morris Hunt, 19th Century American painter.

NASSAU ADVENTURE

Campus Times Reporter Sees Island 'Speed Week'

By MARILYN VIK

Never take the cheapest way to get to Nassau because the cheapest way is to fly on a small airline and one particular small airline flies from Tampa to Nassau only once a day, at 6:30 a.m.

Because it is a small airline, they don't serve anything for breakfast except mints and instant coffee. "But, I only drink coffee for breakfast," you may say, but if you're hungry and sleepy and you drink the coffee, the coffee will keep you from going back to sleep.

I am giving this advice on good authority because I recently returned from a week-end in Nassau and I departed at 6:30 a.m. with only four hours sleep the night before (I had to roll my hair). The reason I went was because I was on assignment to assist in the filming of a movie of the Nassau Trophy Race for Teleports Digest, a nationwide television show.

The race was held during Nassau Speed Weeks, which occur annually in Nassau to mark the beginning of the new winter season. The Nassau Development Board originated Speed Weeks about nine years ago, for one of two reasons. It was either to have an international sport car race so that the island would have plenty of publicity to spur on the tourist season, or they wanted some reason to have one more hair-raising week of parties over the island because of overruns by old ladies in Bermuda shorts and rubber thongs. Anyway, they wound up with both — nationally publicized sports car races and internationally publicized press parties.

The Trophy race is pretty hairy, and always draws the best sportswriters to contend for the trophies. Drivers such as Dan Gurney, Phil Hill, Graham Hill, Stirling Moss, Ricardo Rodriguez, Innes Ireland, Masten Gregory, and Roger Penske driving cars such as Lotus, Ferraris, Porsches, and Jaguars are usually in Nassau in December for Speed Weeks. This year however, Stirling Moss was in England for an eye operation, Ricardo Rodriguez was killed last month while practicing for a race in Mexico and because of that the rest of the usual crowd was there, and provided their share of skids and spins on the rainy track. Yes, I said rainy track. In "sunny" Nassau, it always rains during Speed Weeks, and usually on the Sunday of the big race. Why don't they change the date and try to avoid the rain every year? Don't

NEWEST METHOD

Examinations Gain Student CB Credit

By PAT DAVIS

Credit by examination, the newest method of course study, was added to the previous academic curriculum this fall.

Any student wishing to apply for credit by examination, must have the permission of his advisor, the class instructor, the course chairman, and the Dean of the College of Basic Studies.

This course of study may be utilized only in the Basic Studies Division. The student need not attend class; all that is required is that he take the final examination at the time that it is given to the regularly enrolled students.

However, the student must not have received credit for more than two courses in the same subject field and must not have been granted a waiver in the course.

An "A" or "B" grade is required in order to receive semester hours credit, or a "C" grade in order to waive the course, but without receiving credit.

If the student fails to take the examination, he will receive an "X" grade which must be removed according to the regulations governing "X" grades.

Should the student make below a "C" grade on the examination, he is required to enroll in the course the next trimester in which it is offered unless this is the Basic Studies Course he chooses to omit.

Obtaining a waiver, which means that the student is not required to take the course, but does not receive credit for it, is designed for those students who feel that their knowledge of the course subject matter is sufficient to warrant not taking the course.

To be eligible the student must have received a score of 450 or better in his senior high school placement tests. In addition, he must have taken three or four years of secondary school work in subjects similar to the one in which the waiver is sought. He must have an average of 2.0 or better in each of the courses stipulated.

Any student not feeling himself competent enough in a specific subject to waive it may take it by independent study.

By independent study the student, in meetings with the instructor, will plan the course of study he should pursue.

Upon completion of the assigned course of study and the final examination, the student will receive a composite grade; half from the instructor and the other half from the final examination.

In the Basic Studies Division, the examination given is the same as that given to the students taking the course in the usual way. Generally, however, in the upper divisional studies, the student's entire grade is based upon a final examination prepared by the course instructor.

Any student wishing additional information concerning any of the three methods may obtain it at the registrar's office located in the Administration Building.
