Looking into the Past: An Exhibition of Photographs by Christina Macri

New to St. Petersburg and to USFSP, Christina Macri immediately noticed many of the city's historic buildings. As a project for her Art Concepts and Practices course, using early 1900s photos from the Nelson Poynter Library Archives, she compared those pictures with their modern day locations. The result is a window into the past and present of St. Petersburg and a fun way to explore the changes to our city.

On display in the Library Atrium through March
