Departmental Overview:

The Library Research and Instruction Department is responsible for providing reference and research assistance, library instruction, and outreach efforts for the students and faculty of the University of South Florida St. Petersburg.

The department normally consists of 6 Librarians (Tina Neville, Gary Austin, Camielle Crampsie, Deb Henry, Tony Stamatoplos, and Kaya van Beynen) although Deb Henry was re-assigned to administration from June 2015 through June 2016. Additionally the librarians, Patricia Pettijohn and Jim Schnur contribute to the department by providing reference support and by teaching library instruction sessions. LeAnna Kiggins worked as a part time Library Assistant in the department through May 2016.

Departmental Trends and Insights

- We are seeing an increased importance for locating web based resources in a prominent location on the library webpage (as indicated by the increase in LibGuides and chat use after they were relocated to a prominent position on the library home page).
- While the decline in on-demand reference service continues, the importance for scheduled research consultations increases. This highlights the continued need and significance of collaborating with faculty on research projects. [DH1]

Significant Departmental Accomplishments in 2015/2016:

- A joint meeting of the Research & Instruction and the Access Services departments was held in December 2015 to discuss improvements to the joint service desk.
- Instructional outreach is moving into a new area as library instruction videos were requested by the faculty of Cognitive Psychology and Children's Literature online courses.
- Gary Austin was asked for extensive assistance in a GEB4890 course. Students were asked to create a marketing plan for a local small business. Gary worked with all of the students via individual or small-group settings. He was also invited to the class to provide feedback on the students' work prior to their final presentation to the small business managers.
- The Student Research Colloquium continues to provide students with the opportunity to present their research and/or experiential learning activities to their colleagues and the USFSP community. In 2015-2016, fourteen students presented at the research colloquia.
- Camielle Crampsie chaired the Poynter Exhibits committee and instituted a new opportunity for USFSP students, faculty and staff to create their own displays in the library. During 2015-2016, the library hosted 3 student-created displays, 1 non-library staff display and 1 non-library faculty display of student works. Topics included from mental health, study abroad, anthropology, and women's history.
- The Ithaka survey of faculty and students research habits was completed in the fall 2015 semester. This survey is administered at participating institutions across the nation allowing for nation-wide comparisons.
- A Research & Instruction Colloquium series initiated to share trends and to discuss strategic initiatives for the department.
- Kaya van Beynen was promoted to University Librarian effective August 2016.

- Kaya van Beynen partnered with college faculty to submit two highly competitive external grants and one internal grant. The internal grant was funded.
- LibGuides upgraded to version 2. Significant clean-up of database in progress.
- The statewide chat widget was added back onto a prominent place on the library home page (March 2016). A link to the LibGuides were also placed in a more prominent webpage location during the fall of 2015.

Instruction:

Library instruction classes and number of participants increased during the 2015/2016 academic year, largely due to the increased number of University Success sessions taught by Tony Stamatoplos and GEB 4890 course, a management class that encouraged students to set up one-on-one or small group consultations with Gary Austin, the business liaison. Librarians Tina Neville, Gary Austin, and Kaya van Beynen all video recorded library sessions for online classes. These recorded bibliographic instructions sessions are counted only during the semester of creations, however their repeated use for the online courses continues well beyond their initial genesis. The number of participants in the workshop sessions decreased this past year, however this decline was directly due to a failed experiment relating to the Research Posters workshop scheduling.

With the increase in USFSP graduate students, the library's participation in the new graduate student orientations has also increased. While librarians are not asked to provide orientations to the incoming undergraduate first time in college (FY) or transfer students, they do participate in the 12 FY and transfer student resource fairs offered during the summer. Statistics from librarian participation in the undergraduate resource fairs are not tracked.

Instruction sessions to classes show a steady increase over the one- and five-year spans. One-on-one research sessions with students and faculty have also increased over the last five years. Some of the increase in individual sessions over the last year is directly related to specific course assignments.

Research Guides, Online Video, and Interactive Module Tutorials:

Research guides and learning modules were heavily used with 21,001 page views of the research guides and 9,312 page views of the instructional modules during the 2015/2016 year. More Canvas course sites have incorporated the learning modules; this collaboration with the faculty and instructional designers will continue to increase the modules' availability and use.

The library faculty continue to create new research guides as they are requested by the teaching faculty or as a need is seen. In 2015/2016, 6 new course guides were created for French Civilization, Principles of Biology, Physiological Psychology, Cognitive Psychology, ENC 1101: Careers Project, and Organizational Behavior. A general guide for Finding Films and Documentaries was also created and existing guides were updated. By June 2016, the library hosted 85 published guides. Not surprisingly, heaviest use of the guides occurs in September and January when librarians are demonstrating the guides in individual instruction sessions; however, steady use continues in October, November, March, and April indicating that students continue to use the guides throughout the semester. Also, during this fiscal year, a more prominent link to the library research guides was added to the library home page making the guides easier to locate. This may have contributed to the 55% increase in LibGuide usage.

Research consultations:

Overall, in-depth research questions answered at the service desk declined in 2015/2016; however, the one-on-one instruction sessions increased 37% over last year. The increase in one-on-one/small group research assistance is due in large part to increasing use and better reporting of faculty research assistance and a large course assignment in business that entailed every student scheduling a meeting with the business librarian.

Research Consultations:	2015/16	2014/15	2013/14	2012/13	2011/12	1 year change	5 year change
Reference questions requiring 20 minutes or more to answer	135	204	231	112	193	-34%	-30%
One-on-one instruction sessions with students and faculty	219	160	155	94	86	37%	155%
Total	354	364	386	206	280	-3%	26%

Reference (Tiered Service):	2015/16	2014/15	2013/14	2012/13	2011/12	1 year change	5 year change
Basic Library Skills	884	1143	1523	3448	1831	-23%	-52%
Research Strategy	243	306	356	313	406	-21%	-40%
Total	1127	1449	1882	3761	2237	-22%	-50%

The number of Basic Library Skills and Research Strategy questions fielded at the service desk continues to decline. This decline was a major reason for the change in Reference service structure enacted in 2012; librarians now provide on call on-call assistance for instruction or research questions rather than sitting at a desk waiting for questions.

Reference (Virtual):	2015/16	2014/15	2013/14	2012/13	2011/12	1 year change	5 year change
Chat	42	20	75	182	203	110%	-79%
Email	20	28	48	116	82	-29%	-76%
Total	62	48	123	298	285	29%	-78%

The number of virtual reference questions increased over the past year. When the revised library web page went live at the end of the 2013/14 academic year, the link to the Ask-A-Librarian chat service became less obvious and was available on fewer pages. A prominent link to the chat service was added back onto the library main page during the spring of 2016. This appears to have a positive impact on usage since 62% of the questions on the chat desk were received between March and June of 2016. Although still way below the number of requests received in 2011-2013 when the chat widget showed up on most library pages, the increasing use now that the widget is back on the main page is promising. To gain access to the statewide chat desk services, the USFSP librarians are required to staff the statewide academic desk for two hours each week. During that time, our librarians answered 99 questions for college and university students across the state.

Events:

The Nelson Poynter Memorial Library continues to provide numerous events and activities for students and faculty at USFSP. The events include scholarly lectures, film and documentary showings, arts and crafts activities, and wellness functions. Although therapy dog sessions continue to be the most popular event, other library events are also well attended and contribute to both the scholarly development and quality of campus life of the students, university fundraising efforts, and positive recognition of the library. Although there were fewer events in 2015-2016, overall attendance was nearly the same as the previous year.

Additionally, the library provided space in the Poynter Corner for 35 USFSP departmental-, faculty-, or student-sponsored events. The USFSP community also used POY218 for 14 training or instruction sessions that were not library-led.
