Departmental Overview:

The Library Research and Instruction Department is responsible for providing reference and research assistance, library instruction, and outreach efforts for the students and faculty of the University of South Florida St. Petersburg. For most of the year, the department consisted of 5 librarians (Gary Austin, Camielle Crampsie, Tina Neville, Tony Stamatoplos, and Kaya van Beynen) and 1 library assistant (Alex Flores). Librarian Deb Henry, retired at the end of August 2017 after a long and distinguished career here at USFSP. During the fall 2017 semester, the NPML conducted a search for a new Science Librarian; librarian Theresa Burress was hired as an Assistant Librarian and began in January 2018.

In addition, the R&I department hosted a graduate field work student from the MLIS USF Tampa program during the spring 2018 semester. Angela Switzer completed projects within the Research & Instruction and Collection Development & Technical Services Departments.

Awards, Honors, and Distinctions

- Deb Henry was awarded the status as USFSP Emeritus Librarian
- Tina Neville, 2018 Florida Librarian of the Year, Florida Library Association
- Tina Neville and Deb Henry, 2018 Edward R. Swanson Best of LRTS Publication Award, Library Resources & Technical Services, Association of College & Research Libraries.
- Camielle Crampsie, Chancellors Award for Excellence in Academic Services, University of South Florida St. Petersburg
- Alexandra Flores, 2018 Florida Library Association Minority Student Scholarship.
- Kaya, van Beynen, 2017 Fellow. Leading Change Institute (LCI), Council on Library and Information Resources (CLIR) / EDUCAUSE

Research Services

Librarian research assistance continues to increase, specifically the librarian research appointments (the RAP program) increased by 45% from the previous academic year. While many of these research appointments were conducted by Gary Austin in conjunction with a Business Management class, the trend of increased one-on-one in-depth research appointments has continued for several years now.

The Access Services and Research & Instruction Departments conducted shared Desk Training for all Access Services staff and Librarians. The Combined Reference Statistics form was revamped to track how long it takes to answer questions as well as whether the front desk staff was still answering technical questions. In addition, a Reference Consultation Room was built adjacent to the front desk in order to better manage the increase in librarian research appointments and improve communication between the Access Services staff and R&I librarians. This new room improves the ability of librarians to meet with students either individually or in small groups, provides space for the 2nd floor librarians to work when they are providing reference support, and provides space for the Access Services and R&I Departments to hold departmental meetings.

Archivum – Kaya van Beynen participated in the USFSP Archivum pilot to better coordinate information and improve student success. Archivum is a case management system that consolidates services to students and helps them move forward with their degree completion. This involved attending a fall and spring training as well as fielding student referrals from other departments on campus.

Academic Affairs Support – R&I librarians conducted internal research or authored/co-authored several reports for USFSP Academic Affairs. These projects include a draft guidelines for a USFSP Open Access Publication Grant by Kaya van Beynen and a report on USFSP Faculty Publishing Metrics developed by Tina Neville.

NPML Brown Bay Lunch – The NPML held a monthly Brown Bag lunch series featuring various NPML staff giving informal talks about their job, a conference they attended, a recent presentation, a personal interest or hobby, etc. This monthly event was organized to increase internal awareness of our ideas, interests, and activities.

Faculty Learning Communities – Camielle Crampsie participated in the New USFSP Faculty Learning Community. Tina Neville and Theresa Burress proposed a new Faculty Learning Community on Digital data Literacy for the 2018/19 academic year.

Instruction Services

The library’s skills based and information literacy instruction declined slightly from the previous year (4% less class; -10% less student participants from the 2016/17 departmental numbers), however the department had an open position for the Science Librarian from September thru December 2017, and an open position for the Student Engagement Librarian May to June 2018. The Textbook Affordability workshops for faculty is further discussed later in this report.

With the Textbooks Affordability Program (TAP) and faculty workshop program, the number of library lead workshops increased from 2016/17. That said, the non-TAP workshops were generally poorly attended. At the end of the 2017/18 academic year, the R&I librarians discussed the open workshop program and concluded that it required a much higher level of work than warranted based on the number of participants; thus the open workshops will be discontinued next year.

Online Library Instruction

The R&I Department created a new library YouTube Channel

(https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCpbsUz0J-PUoyq2sZ8eKbDg/featured?disable\_polymer=1) to host library news, events, and instructional videos. At the end of the 2017/18 academic year, the NPML YouTube Channel had 31 instructional videos that had been viewed 1,934 times. The most popular videos were on: 1) RefWorks: Creating an Annotated Bibliography (viewed 386 times) and 2) APA: Research Paper Structure, Format, & Style (viewed 358 times).

Library Information Literacy Online Tutorials. The Instruction librarians in collaboration with Karla Morris, updated and created new library online instruction tutorials. Revised online instruction tutorials to use Google forms software in order to make easier to track usage and update. Also designed tutorials to be short (1-3 minutes), interactive, incorporate text, video, and 10 point quiz questions.

Midway through this project, Kaya van Beynen conducted usability testing of these online tutorials with USFSP students and the tutorials were revised based on the assessment results. Once the tutorials were completed, the R&I librarians revamped the online library guide hosting all of the tutorials to more directly connect them to the ACRL Information Literacy framework and created a marketing campaign to USFSP faculty to promote the modules as class assignments or as extra credit. Tutorials were assigned by 19 USFSP faculty and were completed a total of 1,206 times. The most popular online tutorial was an introduction to the APA Citation Style, followed by a tutorial on Avoiding Plagiarism.

Tony Stamatoplos surveyed the University Success Instructors on whether they had assigned the three FTIC library modules to their classes, their perception of the tutorials, and asked for suggested areas for improved library participation in the University Success program. Many of the instructors asked for a more hands-on in library activity or assignment. Thus, in response, for the Summer 2018 University Success courses, Camielle Crampsie and Kaya van Beynen designed a student lead information literacy activity for the face-2-face library classes while the FTIC library modules continue to be used assigned ahead of the library session in a flipped classroom format.

Research Guides

Use the library's subject and course online research guide usage has increased in terms of overall number of guides and views:

Research Guides	309	121	155%
Research Guides Views	52,945	27,634	92%

However, there has been a strong consistency over the past 4 years on the specific guides that receive the most views by students:

Student Textbook Affordability

The R&I librarians, in collaboration with the OLITs instructional designers worked with USFSP faculty to reduce student textbook costs while still maintaining quality. Acknowledging the time and effort needed for this important task, the NPML and CITL funded an incentive program for faculty during spring 2018. The faculty were asked to attend a series of 6 workshops with the goal of locating reduced cost textbook options by Fall 2018. Twenty participants from all colleges participated in the program resulting in a projected savings of $178,341 for 1145 students. The interdisciplinary nature of the group workshops was particularly beneficial to the faculty as they had time to share common concerns and potential solutions.

The textbook on reserve collection continues to grow in size thanks to additional library purchases, faculty donations, and the new “pay it forward” program that allows students to donate their used books to the library for use by future students. Librarians in the R&I department continued their efforts managing a library guide listing the semesters textbook availability. This page is highlighted on the library home page, through social media, and promoted in many orientation and instruction sessions.

The NPML assessed its textbook affordability activities in the following ways: 1) quantitative textbook metrics were tracked and calculated such as textbook numbers, circulation, and estimated student savings, 2) USFSP faculty that participated in the Textbook Grant program in Spring 2018 were surveyed about their OER textbook adoption, satisfaction with the program, and plans for future textbooks affordability activities, and 3) calculation of student cost savings from textbook changes made by the faculty participating in the Textbook Grant program. This workshop series combined with the library’s expanding Textbooks on Reserve program are projected to save students at least $419,500 in 2017-2019.

Other Instruction Related Activities

R&I Librarians participated in the CITL Week of Teaching by 1) organizing workshops on library services and resources, 2) Speaking at and participating in the New Faculty Orientation, 3) open office hours for impromptu faculty meetings

In collaboration between the Access Services, Collection Development & Technical Services, and Research & Instruction departments, library staff has worked to weed 1st floor reference, print periodicals, and VHS collections. After shifting the remaining materials, the library was able to deconstruct 4 ranges on the 1st floor, thereby opening up space for additional study tables and collaboration stations.

USFSP Librarians, Instructional Designers, and USFT librarians participated in a workshop lead by Rita Vine, ARL Program Officer and Head of Faculty & Student Engagement at the University of Toronto Libraries titled Reimaging the Library Liaisons Workshop.

The Research & Instruction librarians revamped their departmental webpage. In addition, the R&I librarians helped organize and conduct usability assessments with USFSP students and faculty on the new NPML library webpage. The results and a list of suggested changes from this assessment was communicated to the NPML Web Committee.

Outreach and Marketing

The R&I librarians participate in a variety of USFSP orientations including, the new Graduate student orientations in Fall and Spring semesters, the FTIC and Transfer Student orientations during the summer and Fall semesters, and the new faculty orientation during the CITL Week of Teaching. In addition, in collaboration with Amanda Smolen from OLITs, the librarians updated the online orientation videos for the fully online graduate programs of Education Leadership, Digital Journalism, and Business Administration.

The R&I department created a “5 Ways to Reach a Librarian” marketing campaign. This campaign was integrated and disseminated to the NPML Library website, library books, banners, and social media accounts.

Camielle Crampsie further developed the NPML social media outreach efforts. In addition to managing the library’s Facebook page, she created and manages a library Facebook group, a new library Twitter page, and a library Instagram account. In addition, Camielle Crampsie started making short 10 second promotional videos on library events (such as the Faculty Lightning Talks, READ Poster contest) as a means of marketing library services and resources on these social media accounts.

Events:

The library hosted 31 events with 929 attendees during the 2017/18 academic year. This is a decline in both the number of events and participants from the previous fiscal year. The Annual USFSP Faculty Lightning talks were held at the start of USFSP Research Month and featured 6 faculty presentations.

In addition, many of these events were diversity related. These included: Peter Lake: Universities and the First Amendment; faculty lectures for International Education Month: Understanding the Diversity of Chinese Cultures, China’s Expansion in the South China Sea and the US Role in the Dispute, Rule of Law and Civil Society in Macedonia, Study Abroad Student Colloquium; and Black History Month Bingo.

Most notably, in November 2017, the library held its second Living Library event with 10 “Living Books” and over 60 participants. The Living books were residents of Pinellas or USFSP students and staff that spoke on their life experiences. Living books included a man paralyzed at age 22, a gay athlete, a female veteran, an African American educator, a student with a development disability, an African American single mom, an African American HIV/Aids researcher, a victim of a tragic fire, and a queer Sikh. This event was held during Diversity week and was co-sponsored by the NPML and the USFSP Office of Multicultural Affairs.

Displays

The library hosted and/or organized 40 displays throughout the year. Topics of Library Displays included: Diversity Week, MLK, African American Super Heroes, Black History, World Day of Social Justice, Women Super Heroes, Title IX, Sexual Assault Display, LGBTQ in Politics, LGBTQ books, and Immigration.

USFSP student groups are able to “check out” a display case and create a display to market and inform the university community about their activities and efforts. USFSP student groups created 4 displays in the library; the topics of these external group displays included the USFSP Puppy Raisers Club, the All-Stars Dance Team, Project Compass, Title IX, and Sexual Assault

Service

Research & Instruction Librarians were members of many USFSP committees and initiatives. These partnerships help the librarians stay informed on current programs and events on campus, as well as promote the library’s research and services within the various Academic Affairs and Student Affairs Departments. Librarians were members on the following Student Affairs Committees: Compass, Student Experience, USFSP Living Learning Communities Team, the Capital Improvements Trust Fund, and the Community Response Team. As part of the Community Response Team, librarian Kaya van Beynen created an online guide for student support services Post-Hurricane Irma. In addition, R&I librarians worked on projects in collaboration with the Military and Veteran’s Center (providing research hours once a week), with the Multicultural Center (Living Library program), and the Career Center (Internship colloquium, peer training library resources training). In collaboration with Academic Affairs Departments, librarians have worked with the USFSP Office of International Education (Study Abroad student colloquium) and as a member of USFSP Researchers group (working on USF Equipment grant, USFSP Open Access Publication grant, etc.).

In addition, all R&I Librarians are members of the Poynter Library Leadership Team and the Library Faculty Council. These committees are only mentioned below if the librarian played a leadership role. The Library Research & Instruction faculty continue to enhance the campus and the profession through their service activities as detailed below:
