University Beat

Don't miss University Beat, a weekly program highlighting all aspects of the university, premiering Sunday, February 14.

What's new and exciting at the University of South Florida? It's University Beat on WUSF-TV – a 30-minute magazine-style show hosted by well-known Tampa Bay news anchor Denise White.

The weekly program will highlight all aspects of the university, including academics, research, athletics, the arts and student life, and will premiere on Sunday, February 14.

The show is an expansion of the University Beat that has aired on WUSF 89.7 since 1996 and on WUSF-TV/Channel 16 since 2007. Mark Schreiner, long-time producer of those versions of University Beat, will contribute reports to the new program, as will former WTVT-TV reporter Hetal Gandhi.

The reporting will focus on the university's people and what they're doing that makes impact on campus, throughout Florida, across the country and even around the world. The show will be interesting and entertaining, uplifting and unique.

"USF has a huge effect on Tampa Bay in a multitude of ways," said JoAnn Urofsky, general manager of WUSF Public Media. "The goal of our new program is to let people in the community know of the many amazing things happening at the University." Airs Sundays at 6:30 p.m., beginning February 14.
