Homecoming, Loaded For Action, Roars Onto Campus This Friday

Big Names, Luau Highlight Program

By JOSEPH KEMPSTER
Of the Campus Staff

USF's first fun-packed homecoming bursts on the scene this week after months of planning and preparation. "I expect a sellout," said Homecoming chairman Al Spencer. "Who couldn't get excited about USF's first homecoming?" he asked.

SA Laws Approval Said Near

By JOHN ALSTON
Of the Campus Staff

"The new Student Association constitution should be cleared through the constitution committee within a week," SA Vice-president Ron Johnson, says. SA President Bob Ashford, was not sure of the one week date set by Johnson but predicted release in three weeks. Reason for the delay is that Dean of Student Affairs Herbert J. Wunderlich's schedule does not at the present time allow him to meet with the committee as often as he would like.

The welcome news culminates almost two trimesters of work by the Student Association and the Student Affairs Office.

First version of the proposed constitution was submitted to the legislature last summer. This version drew heavy fire from Wunderlich.

After heated discussion, the proposed constitution was referred to a committee. This committee has met frequently with Wunderlich and has laboriously revised the document.

One of the most controversial sections of the constitution has been the judicial section. Under the first version of the constitution four boards were provided. This plan was linked to the Dean of Student Affairs.

Under the new version, Johnson says, there are two boards, the Board of Disciplinary Appeals and the Student Court of Review.

Five students, three faculty members, and the Dean of Student Affairs or his designate will compose the Board of Disciplinary Appeals. The same five students will compose the Court of Review.

Dean Wunderlich was enthusiastic about the new constitution and explained, "This document will provide a better base for a representation by using college units as compared with the present method of alphabetical listing."

The Student Affairs committee and the SA representative were praised by Wunderlich for their "participation and objectivity." Referring to the student representatives, Wunderlich said, "Fairness and consideration of total University welfare by student representatives have been of the highest order."

Once the constitution is passed by the committee, it must be approved by the student legislature and be approved by a general student referendum.

Dr. John "Knocky" Parker and the Jazz Lab Band start things hopping and rocking with a 50-minute performance in the TA. At the same time the Sports Clubs will present demonstrations and exhibitions outside the TA.

Big feature of the weekend is The Platters, internationally known singing group famous for such million-sellers as Twilight Time, Smoke Gets in Your Eyes and My Prayer. They will give two 90-minute performances in the TA Saturday night.

Swaying into the strains of Hawaiian music is a luau complete with barbecued pig, pineapples, and all varieties of Polynesian food to be staged Saturday afternoon on Crescent Hill behind the UC. Every attempt will be made to make it as "authentic" as possible, said Ron Willis of food service.

Friday night, Oct. 9, clubs, organizations, fraternities, residence hall groups and individuals will scrap for first place in the Folk Sing Contest. Trophies will be awarded to the best harmonizers. Judges will be chosen from the faculty. Tom Demmo, student chairman for this event expects "keen" competition among the contestants.

Saturday will be a busy day with sports exhibitions, demonstrations and contests packed into a colorful package of entertainment.

Kicking off the day is a tennis match pitting Judy Alvarez and Kermit Silverwood against Sara Charles Sandbury and Richard Hunter. The match will be on the tennis courts. Following the tennis match, everyone will head for the pool to cool off as the all-day splash party gets under way at the new pool.

Besides swimming, everybody will be treated to a diving exhibition. A golf demonstration is set for 11 a.m. on the grounds between Gamma Hall and the library with a professional golfer slated to perform.

Later in the afternoon, judging of lawn displays will begin. The displays will be built by fraternities, clubs and organizations in efforts to win honors and trophies for their organizations.

Saturday night the annual Homecoming dances will begin. Featured are the Stingrays in the UC ballroom, and Charlie Russell and the Five Kings in Argos Center.

Sunday, October 11, is designated as Parents' Day. It will be devoted to touring parents and invited guests on campus. Deans and faculty will remain in their stations to receive the parents and friends.

Area Colleges To Be Aided By USF-TV

A plan to utilize USF's television facilities to aid teaching in 11 area colleges was discussed on the campus last week.

Pres. John S. Allen outlined the schedule for operating USF's educational television channel, and introduced the idea of project cooperation to presidents of 11 area colleges.

Robert L. Dennard, dean of administration; Gerhard Eichholz, director of educational resources; and Manny Lucoff, USF's television coordinator, described plans, costs, equipment, and facilities to be used when USF begins broadcasting on channel 16 early in 1966.

The enthusiasm was unanimous. Officials agreed that such inter-institutional cooperation would be of value in filling those areas where some lack a large teaching staff or have other weaknesses.

Platters Head Weekend Fare

The Platters, widely-known singing group billed as the "international ambassadors of musical good will," will add musical sparkle to a fun-packed Homecoming agenda at USF this weekend.

The musical quintet will sing at two 90-minute shows at the Teaching Auditorium Saturday at 8 and 10 p.m.

Record companies with labels in 16 foreign languages have distributed hits by the group. This, plus widespread travel abroad and appearances at U. S. military bases overseas, helped earn the sobriquet, "international ambassadors" for the singers.

Members of the group are Zola Taylor, Paul Robi, Herb Reed, David Lynch, and Tony Williams.

Their fame began to grow after their recordings of "Only You" and "The Great Pretender" hit the best-seller list in 1955. Since then have turned out several million record-sellers.

Allen Urges Action

Legislators Hear Med School Plea

By GERALD HERMS
Of the Campus Staff

President John S. Allen, speaking before a large group of Florida legislators in the USF Theatre, strongly urged that immediate action be started to produce a new medical school at the University of South Florida.

In a speech Friday, Dr. Allen told the Florida lawmakers that "a golden opportunity is developing here in the Tampa Bay area for the State to meet its future needs in the field of medicine."

The president emphasized the urgency of the situation by reminding the legislators that an application for Federal aid to cover two-thirds of the cost of the new USF medical school must be filed by next July 1. He said this is typical of the long-range planning which must begin now. Time must be allowed for the steps of arranging financing, of architectural design, and the long construction process. He indicated that the need for the school will be fully in existence by 1970, and that the cumulation of these steps must come by that time.

President Allen stated that conditions for a new medical school are at their highest because of the following factors:

The Veterans Administration recently announced plans to build a 720-bed V.A. hospital to cost $16 million. They have already acquired options on land, some said near USF campus.

Private and public hospitals for the general public are being planned for location near USF.

By close cooperation between local and state government agencies, some of the teaching facilities for medical school can be produced at little cost to the state of Florida.

These facilities can then be used as the state's one-third contribution, to be matched by the federal government's two-thirds contribution to provide the classroom, laboratories, and library of a teaching facility for the basic medical sciences.

The Tampa Bay area will naturally provide plenty of clinical patients for medical instruction. Few if any patients will need to come from outside this area.

Many physicians are already in the area who have taught in other medical schools, and who can be brought in to teach part-time in their own specialties, thus reducing the size of the full-time teaching staff and supplementing their efforts with training.

Dean Gives USF Stand On Pickets

In the wake of criticism and defense of picketing at the USF appearance of Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver, Dean of Student Affairs Herbert J. Wunderlich outlined the University's position.

"We have a planned program for presenting different viewpoints in a courteous, orderly hearing, rather than spontaneous, disorganized method. It is important to follow this to insure security to person and property."

Wunderlich stressed that USF does not encourage orderly picketing, yet it is permissible, so long as participants tell the Student Affairs office in advance of their intent, and follow approved procedure.

Bright Spirit for USF

Homecoming will surely go down on the books as the brightest spirit and tradition-building idea in USF's short history. Conceived in the agile brain of junior Al Spencer, the weekend blast is shaping up beautifully.

Spencer has wisely surrounded himself with dependable assistants. As a result, the countless details accompanying the many swinging activities are all being thoroughly covered.

In the space of three days and within the boundaries of this campus, the student this weekend will have arrayed before him:

- Two jazz concerts
- Two concerts by The Platters
- A luau with all trimmings, including a barbecued pig.
- A splash party with diving exhibition
- Dances, dances, dances, featuring good bands and stereo music
- Professional tennis and golf exhibitions
- Competitive lawn displays and exhibits
- Sports club demonstrations
- A competitive folk sing
- A full day of tours for parents and guests.

This is a tremendous package of varied and tempting entertainment, but it is more.

Homecoming is a major step forward for USF.

It represents a solid milestone in university maturity. We have graduated classes now; some will return, even this soon, to enjoy the fun and fraternizing.

Absence of spirit, long criticized here and elsewhere, fades in the limelight of Homecoming and Spring Spectaculars. How can you watch a bunch of gung-ho fraternals race hand-made chariots up a hill last spring (in full Roman regalia), and complain of spirit lack?

A season starting with sellout houses of Four Freshmen, and followed quickly by the jam-packed Homecoming weekend has got to be called a success by many criteria.

Growing physically, intellectually, and in good old esprit de corps, the University of South Florida is (pardon the grammar) something to "come home" to.

Al Spencer, supported by strong team members Geiger, Peronto, Steltzer, Johnson, Gadsden, Blunt, Kempster, Sprigg, Demmo, Jenkins and Wharton earn grateful cheers from the Campus Edition.

All we need now is an enthusiastic audience for all this.

How about it?

Crowding Brings Rebates

Response to editorial comment is always heartwarming from our view; it is particularly so in the case of residence hall rebates.

In a letter to parents of USF coeds, reprinted on this page, Dean of Women Margaret Fisher promises:

"Any residence hall student who is still one of three in a room designed for two at the end of four weeks of school (after Oct. 5, 1964) will receive a refund of $20 from the $140 they have paid for this trimester."

Efforts of Dean Fisher and others toward alleviating the emergency crowding situation in the residence halls is heartening.

We are compelled to point out that the over-crowding was unanticipated, and presented a sudden problem to the university administration. Action was required in a hurry.

In light of the compound difficulties arising from an unexpected large enrollment, we believe that the administration responded with reasonable haste.

Saga of American Development Is Vivid and Exciting Writing

By GRETA KM. DIXON

The Search for Democracy, by Harry W. Kirwin (New York: Doubleday, 1959, 338 pp., $1.50.)

The Search for Democracy is a documentary record of the American Republic and the people who helped to begin it all. It is a collection of documents of particular value and interest to the general reader encountering for the first time, or after a lapse of years, the ideas of those men who helped to shape the American tradition.

Dr. Kirwin's volume points out that the American government or republic is distinguished from other nations in that it has the power to renew itself.

Since that act of rare political courage to which it owes its origin, the continuing ability of the country's best minds to provide the order inherent in liberty has been the basis of its strength and the most telling reason for its preservation and perpetuation.

DR. KIRWIN further asserts that "the search for Democracy, begun less than two hundred years ago by the American people, has by no means come to an end. As it continues, one thing is clear: It is neither a blind historical process nor the chance result of trial and error, but a definite movement towards the full realization on earth of those principles of freedom and justice that the founders of the Republic saw in all men."

The Search for Democracy provides an excellent source of supplementary reading for all students taking the American idea course as it helps us to consider and to reconsider our traditions, our values, our practices, our policies, and our relations to and with other people.

Dr. Kirwin's book not only assists its reader in developing a greater knowledge of history, it also helps him to form a deeper appreciation of the struggle we have maintained to preserve freedom.

IT CALLS to mind that the United States in a brief span of less than 200 years has emerged as both a nation and a world power. Yet reminds us that our country is still very young, still besieged with internal strife, and at the same time faced with the burden and complexities of becoming an international leader in world affairs.

The Search for Democracy is written in vivid style and presents a revealing picture, combined with a series of well documented statements and major issues of the history of the United States from the discovery of the New World up to the present day.

Cinema Review

Movie Hits Funny Bone, Ricochets Along Ribs

By ALLAN J. BURRY
Campus Movie Critic

A Shot in the Dark hits the funny bone and ricochets along the ribs. Peter Sellers once again plays Inspector Clouseau, the French Police Inspector who is not accident prone but catastrophe ridden.

The plot involves a murdered servant and seven other killings, but it doesn't really matter. The story is just an excuse for Sellers to fall, slide, jump, run, and bumble.

As in Pink Panther, director Blake Edwards has used dozens of sight gags and props, each superbly milked for every possible laugh. He has kept the pace fast, so that the occasional lags are soon forgotten.

Elke Sommer is the foil for many of Sellers' misfortunes, but she is curiously lifeless except in one marvelous scene where she and Sellers escape from a nudist camp and drive to town. Otherwise she is just nice decoration, which is no small addition.

Running a close race with Sellers for comedic honors is Herbert Lom as Chief Inspector Charles Dreyfus. Having Sellers on his staff brings on a twitch in his eye that is a wonder to behold. His own accidents match Sellers', and his "slow take" heightens the sense of absurdity.

Special mention must be made of the opening titles, which are very well done and set the mood of the picture before it gets under way.

This is movie which destroys all logic, time, and structure, having its own lunacy which passes for order. It is slapstick in the finest sense, done by pros. See it.

Dean Jean Battle Warns . . .

Mass Education Must Not Become Monolithic Glob, Crushing Dignity

Many studies have shown that in comparison to the students of most small colleges the students of most large universities do not feel that they are a vital part of the social and academic life of their campuses.

These students tend to feel they are treated as numbers instead of as individuals.

In the typical large university there is less faculty-student and student-student dialogue of an intellectual nature and there is usually less loyalty felt toward the institution as a whole by students or members of the faculty.

THERE CAN BE many advantages, however, for the student attending the large university. It typically has a larger library, more diverse type facilities, a better educated faculty and more cosmopolitan type student body than the small college. Yet it seems possible, at no more expense, to so structure a large university that it can have these many advantages of the large institution while enjoying the many advantages of the small college.

IN THE ESTABLISHMENT of any new higher educational institution that is expected to become a large university strong consideration should be given to the idea of having an institution that combines the best possible features of both academic worlds — the small college and the large university worlds. And it isn't necessary to be a pioneer or a leader far out in front to do this.

One can easily find examples which may prove that these goals can be realized at no more cost than the conventional large university. Two such examples can be discovered in the state of California — at Santa Cruz and San Bernardino.

A program that combines the best qualities of both the small college and the large university world offers the greatest challenge to those who are establishing new universities.

WHAT CAN BE a greater challenge than to develop a program of higher education that tailors its curricula to the needs of each student, that treats each student as an individual and that helps each student to grow as a "whole" person? Such a program will enable students to learn what is more relevant to life and to get more deeply involved in their own educational process.

It would be the greatest pity if we in American higher education fail in our educational tasks because we allow mass education to be a monolithic "glob" that crushes the human dignity, the intellectual life and the individuality of the student.

To keep it from doing so, leaders of large universities must plan their programs so their dinosaur-sized institutions are able to develop the intellectual life in a greater quantity and quality than was developed in the dinosaur.

Court System Questioned

Editor, Campus Edition,

In a recent editorial, the Campus Edition emphatically endorsed the idea of a student court. Such a system is the last thing this university needs. Here are a few reasons why:

1. The detection and punishment of student offenders is not and should not be one of the functions of our student association. This is a function of the administration.

2. A student court is the negative approach; the student association is positive! The court idea would tend to sidetrack the association's attention from other important constructive services.

3. Our student association should not be looked upon as a cure-all for all the ills and ailments which may plague our school.

4. Students are not experienced enough to handle cases of discipline. Penalties may be unwise or downright stupid. They might stir up personal animosities between students.

5. By printing the names of offenders, which the Campus Edition is in favor of doing, USF may fall the victim of undesirable publicity. And convicted students may be unduly and detrimentally embarrassed. I can see no reason why the Campus Edition should support such a policy, except that this type of news is always interesting to the readers!

Bob Ashford is our first president who has really started to build the student association into a worthwhile organization. Let's not stunt its growth with any type of student court.

John Lewis Junior

Form Letter Sent

You may have heard from your daughter that the University of South Florida has accommodated 52 women in residence under emergency conditions. Applicants for residence far exceeded expectation, and the proportion of students who failed to appear fell considerably below predictions from past experience. So the decision was made to enlarge the occupancy of halls above their planned capacity in order to prevent delay in the education of well-qualified women.

Forty women are in Zeta and Eta Halls, with five students instead of four assigned to the suites.

A garment rack and a study chair have been added to each suite. Desks delayed by the Formica strike are being installed today. Storage of formals and winter clothes is provided on each floor. The floor lounges have been fitted out as study rooms, and the residents are allocating hours for study use. Twelve other women are in apartments designed for staff or guest use. The university has made every effort in staff time and purchase of additional equipment to make it possible for the additional girls to have the opportunity to start their college education without delay.

Of course, we will ease the situation as rapidly as vacancies become available through withdrawal from school. We believe that the students have shown personal qualities of understanding and willingness to make it possible for others to get the education for which they are qualified.

In building a new university and coping with the problems of phenomenally rapid growth, students at USF have again and again proved their ability to cooperate with each other, to share hardship, and to cope with difficulties. We believe that they can cope with this situation, and our staff is ready to help them meet particular problems as they arise. We hope you will share our confidence in your daughter, and encourage her to work with us and her fellow students.

Any residence hall student who is still one of three in a room designed for two at the end of four weeks of school (after Oct. 5, 1964) will receive a refund of $20 from the $140 they have paid for this trimester.

Sincerely yours,
Margaret B. Fisher

Court Editorial Rapped

Editor, Campus Edition,

Just a word about last week's editorial concerning a court system and the Student Association. Your editor seems to believe that, while there was some talk about a court system, the Student Association has done nothing to bring this about.

This is not true. I have only to point to any of several articles in the Campus Times as early as last trimester which report that the Student Association was hard at work, in conference with the Dean of Student Affairs and the Student Affairs committee to reach agreement on a new constitution, which included a judicial system. In fact, the judicial system is complete except for a few final touches.

The court system did not magically come as soon as we decided to "take it under our wing." It came after many hours of conference and compromise. The Student Association deserves credit, not blame.

Respectfully,
Bob Ashford, president
Student Association

Editor's note: We stand corrected. News coverage and editorial comment is forthcoming when the judicial system becomes a reality.

Speed Up Cafeteria Lines

Editor, Campus Edition:

Last night, I spent 30 minutes getting an order of french fries and a small Coke in the Argos cafeteria. This is not unusual but rather is characteristic of the efficiency of our snack bars. This state of affairs is inexcusable. I'm sure there is a solution. I offer the following for everyone's consideration.

The major problem seems to be that customers of the snack bar not only have to wait in line for their purchase but also to pay. The fact that the same line is used for both purposes is what creates confusion and delay. The fact that gave birth to this nightmare is that both snack bars are set up in a cafeteria-style design. My solution involves moving the cash registers to a different place entirely, i.e., out from the general flow of the cafeteria line. In the UC I suggest creating an exit from the line by cutting a short segment out of the metal railing at approximately the middle of the line. The cash register would be placed at this exit. One way turnstiles would be placed at the other ends. Persons wanting grill service would enter from the left while those wanting ice cream and other drinks would enter through the right turnstile. The two sides would meet at the exit but I don't anticipate heavy congestion as the register should be able to handle the traffic adequately.

The Argos problem is more difficult to solve. The setup is not at all conducive to efficient snack bar service. One solution that would help would be to move the register out into the eating area as an extension of the line. Signs should then be posted asking students to move to the register as soon as they receive their purchase.

These solutions are not expensive nor difficult. The students deserve a better break than the current fare of cold pizza, melted ice cream, and wasted time.

If I can be of any service in this matter, please feel free to call on me.

Yours truly,
John A. Alston

Bumper Rippers Rapped

Editor, Campus Edition,

As a supporter of Lyndon B. Johnson, I wish to join with William Redmond in his statement against those people who rip bumper stickers from cars.

I can think of nothing which can hurt a party's cause more than conducting a dirty campaign against the opposition. A vehicle is personal property, and while we may not agree with an individual's choice, it is his right to give his support to whomever he chooses.

I am chairman of the Campaign Materials Committee of the USF Young Democrats, and I gave our members two cardinal rules for fair campaigning, which I feel ought to be shared:

1. Do not deface or remove advertising of the opposition.

2. Place bumper stickers on cars only after receiving the owner's permission.

With these rules in mind, I am looking forward to a good, clean, and informative campaign on campus this fall.

Sincerely yours,
Tony Boatman

Quote Is Questioned

Editor, Campus Edition,

In last week's edition William E. Redmond Jr. submitted a letter attacking the militant and extremist elements supporting Johnson for president. With accuracy and concern for truth typical of the "New Republicans" he said, "A great American patriot once said, 'I do not agree with what you say, but I'll defend to the death your right to say it.'"

Might I suggest the authoress, Evelyn Beatrice Hall, can hardly be considered an American.

Eure Plucks Harp

Theater-goers who like realism in their drama fare will be happy to know that they have an ardent supporter in USF theater arts professor Jack Clay. Clay has announced that after two years of search he has found an Irish harp for the university's production of The Tempest.

Clay originally wanted the harp for the production of Hamlet two years ago but was unable to locate the rare instrument. When The Tempest was scheduled for this year, Clay renewed his search. Inquiries directed to a London harpmaker produced the disheartening news that one could not be delivered before the Oct. 23 opening night and that it would cost $150 plus freight.

In a final attempt, Clay appealed to the local residents to check their attics and storage trunks. The appeal brought a reply from Ann Baker, a Tampa high school student, that her family had found the harp in their attic when they bought their home a few years ago.

The harp is now at the University Theater where it is being tuned by Mrs. Shirley Tripp. USF student Tom Eure who portrays the airy spirit Ariel, will play the harp in The Tempest.

Concert Scheduled

A Humanities Chamber Music Concert will be presented tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. in the TA.

Featured performers will be Armin Watkins, violinist; Averill Vanderipe, pianist; and John Tartaglia, violist. Special guest performer will be Gerard Haft, distinguished principal cellist and assistant conductor of the Tampa Philharmonic Orchestra.

Smith Leads Scoring Race

The 1964 football season is still in its infant stages, but already the "battle" for the city scoring championship is over.

Larry Smith, Robinson's great halfback, has been nothing short of All-American in his first two games. The Unmatchable One scored six times against Manatee on Friday, which in addition to his five tallies against Brandon the week before, gives him 66 points and an overwhelming lead of 46 points.

It would be impossible for the Knight to continue his fantastic scoring pace, but only a miracle run by second-place Oscar Gonzalez of Hillsborough can make the scramble for the top spot, in the scoring race.

Gonzalez for the second straight week didn't cross the goal-line and after three games has a total of 20 markers. Smith has his 66 points in only two contests.

Hillsborough's passing whiz David Fyfe has moved into third place with 13 points, all of them coming last week in the Terriers win over King.

Billy Myers, the Terrier pass-catching end, got two six-pointers on Friday to move into a tie for fourth with three other gridgers, Jesuit's John Marsicano, Plant's Jim Wilson and Joe Ligori of Jefferson.

Ray DiCharry picked up nine points for Jesuit in its victory over Plant City to put himself in eighth place. Robinson's fine quarterback and place-kicker Bucky Jeffcoat added five point-after for the Knights against the Hurricanes to give himself eight markers and ninth place in scoring race.

Seventeen city performers have scored one touchdown to tie for the No. 10 spot.

The two leading scorers, Smith and Gonzalez, will be pitted against each other this Friday as the Knights are host to Hillsborough in the biggest game on the local prep slate.

Chamberlain will attempt to get back on the winning trail in its game with Manatee at Leto Stadium. The third local contest this Friday has Brandon and Jefferson clashing at Plant.

Plant, who did everything but beat Miami Edison last Thursday, has another rough one on its hands this Friday as the Panthers travel to Winter Haven to face the Blue Devils. King is also out-of-town as Lions meet Lakeland at the home of the Dreadnaughts.

Mr. Miner Leading At Track

Mr. Miner, Inaugural champion, and owner G. M. Scott are the leaders as the Tampa Greyhound Track moves into the third full week of racing tonight.

The 64-pound red brindle star, a June 1962 son of Go Go Alastar, posted his fourth win of the season on Saturday night before 4,251 fans. The victory was the seventh of the week for Scott and gave him a 16-15 edge in wins over Alderson and Lantz, which had six wins last week.

Dave Greig tied Scott in victories last week at seven, two of them posted by Hasty Jet, leading winner at both Palm Beach and Denver. Hasty Jet is expected to be in the lineup against Mr. Miner on Wednesday night.

Five owners are tied with 12 wins each for third place. They are Cecil Austin, W. C. Groves, Home F. Herndon, A. W. Kulchinsky and Mrs. Manuel Souza. Rounding out the top ten with 11 wins each are R. E. Thomas, A. L. Sparks and G. A. Alderson.

Genobar, owned by Austin, heads the lineup for the feature tonight. Terrific early speed brought her runnerup honors in the Sarasota Sapling Stake and she has finished in the money in all her starts here.

Mills Nudges Mickey Wright In Ladies PGA

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Mary Mills of Ocean Springs, Miss., carded a two-under-par final round 69 Sunday and won the $16,500 Ladies Professional Golf Association Championship.

"I always feel better when I beat the best and that's Mickey," she said afterward.

Miss Mills' 278 total brought her up two strokes better than defending champion Mickey Wright of Dallas, Tex.

MISS WRIGHT, third round leader, took a double bogey on the first hole Sunday, finishing with a 73 for a 280 second place total.

"With Mary playing such good golf," said Mickey, "and with my bogey on the first hole, I probably would have been beaten by her anyway."

Miss Mills received $2,450 and Miss Wright $1,900.

we'd meet Saturday, but it was called off.

"I'M NOT going back to the World Series if I'm not signed with someone," Dark said.

Franks was a coach for the New York Giants from 1949 through 1955 and again with the Giants in 1958 during their first season in San Francisco.

After two years as general manager of the Salt Lake City Bees of the Pacific Coast League, Franks, 49, quit baseball at the start of this season to take care of his business interests in his native Utah.

"Alvin Dark called me and asked me to come back to coaching," said Franks, who joined the Giants two days before the start of the season.

"Alvin told me today that as long as he had to be replaced, he was as happy it was me as anyone else."

THE 42-YEAR-old Dark managed the Giants to the pennant, and two third-place finishes prior to this year. The Giants lost the World Series to the New York Yankees in seven games in 1962.

Campus Politics Perking

YAF Leans Toward Goldwater

A new breed of politician seems to be making its presence felt in no uncertain terms. A group of active young students on the USF campus has brought sharply into focus the points of departure in policy, philosophy, and in general the distinctions in fact between Barry Goldwater and Lyndon Johnson.

This group has, as one of its main tenets, the intent to promote political activity. They have, they say, no clauses in their constitution which demand that they support Goldwater. But, say YAF members, neither do they feel prohibited from choosing a favorite from among the candidates.

Favor GOP Candidate

The Young Americans For Freedom on campus say they are in favor of the Republican candidate because he more closely supports their own views. This is in line with their policy of supporting a philosophy, and not a party in the manner of a straight ticket vote, they say.

There are those, on campus and off, who take the above explanations with a grain of salt, but campus YAF leaders Jack Allen and Damon Beyer have an active group as large as any other of political nature on campus.

They are aiding the Hillsborough Goldwater efforts by going door-to-door, making bumper stickers available at local shopping centers, and by selling their ideas and convictions on campus by whatever means of persuasion they deem effective.

Near Nerve Centers

YAF seems to be a bit ahead in local prestige, if that commodity is based on visitors to the Tampa area. Senator Goldwater's visit to the area was followed by Sargent Shriver's stint on campus. And the pro-Republican group happens to be near St. Petersburg, one of three Goldwater nerve centers, nationally.

State YAF chairman Bill Neville commutes to the USF campus, and former SPJC club prexy Steve Johnson also attends here.

Pro-Goldwater campaign material is being distributed on campus by Tom Drake in Beta 332, George Zink in Beta 213, and Jack Allen in Epsilon 325.

Autos Are Pilfered

Auto owners were cautioned today to keep their vehicles locked when not occupied.

James Garner, superintendent of security and communications, said items have been stolen from vehicles and that recently a car was stolen. The sheriff's office has joined campus officers in investigating the thefts.

Jabs, Kicks and Blows Part of Karate Action

Judo is known as the "gentle way" of defense and physical persuasion concocted by peace-loving monks to thwart attacking bandits.

BUT THERE'S nothing gentle about that branch known as karate which is a combination of mental and physical discipline, anatomical science and sheer mayhem.

This was readily apparent to newcomers when the campus Karate Club met for a workout last week under guidance of Maj. Buck Salter, USAF (Ret.).

SALTER STUDIED karate for two years in Japan under H. Nishiyama and T. Okazaki, who now head the karate activity in this country. Their system is the only one accredited by the Japanese Ministry of Education and Japanese Karate Association. It has been endorsed by Gen. Curtis LeMay of the Strategic Air Command.

First item on the workout agenda was the "punch technique." Basic points of emphasis were that the shoulder is kept in a straight line with the hips and does not move from this position in any delivery.

Also, when the hip and shoulders are employed in a delivery, the individual's body makes a 90 degree turn. The hand should make contact just before the body reaches the 90 degree angle during a delivery.

THE NEXT DIVISION of the punching technique was the "backstab" delivery wherein the hand is held in front of the chest and the arm is swung smartly straight out and to the side of the body.

The "backstab" employs the same principle differing in that the hand is held on top of the shoulder and the arm swings upward and outward from the shoulder coming to rest straight out from the shoulder. In both deliveries, the hand turns over just before the point of contact.

And so it went.

The closing lesson was on the "pivot" turn. The goal to be achieved is having the power of the starting stance after the body has turned 180 degrees and again assumed the starting stance.

Loud cries and forceful exhalations associated with karate can become a hindrance. Deliveries tend to depend on these body actions if the two elements are too closely associated. As a result, the deliveries tend to become less effective if the usual cries or snorts are not present.

YD Group Asks More Activity

By JAY BECKERMAN

Talk, yes, vote, no. Talk, yes, work, no.

Pat Leatherby wouldn't likely come out with this as a comment on USF youth and politics, but in an election year there seem to be mighty few students interested enough in partisan politics to join a regular organization.

Instead, Leatherby would prefer to talk of the opportunities his Young Democrats have found on campus and around the Tampa area. For instance, they have been working with local pro-Johnson groups in Tampa, and have recently been actively distributing pamphlets, bumper stickers, and all manner of typical campaign material at the Northgate and Temple Terrace shopping centers.

He says that not so long ago members of his group reported negative reactions on a regular basis. Now people are almost begging for the literature and stickers. He cites a frequent attitude of a desire to equalize the mushrooming occurrence of Goldwater material on display.

YD's have been active on campus for three years. This year's national election undoubtedly is responsible in part for the near-doubling of the club's membership. Combining this growth with the desire to do for their University community, the club members plan to serve as staff for the returns monitor room which will be set up in the UC on election night. Campaign material distribution has been turned over to Tony Boatman in Beta 29.

Asked about YD activity relating to the Florida gubernatorial campaign, Leatherby said time has been limited to the national scene; either classes or Burns is the choice, and he iterated that Burns has an organization in operation already.

Regarding future plans, he said national figures as speakers are among club plans, and the last five weeks will be the hottest.

Club members are qualified to attend the state and national YD conventions. Last year the state confab was in Miami. This year's will be in Fort Lauderdale.

The club is affiliated with the state Young Democrats as well as with the national organization. President of the national YD's, Alice McMahon, lives in Maitland, Fla.

Malik Says Reds Gain Minus War

"There will be no war, but what then in peace?" asked Dr. Charles Malik, former U.N. General Assembly President.

He addressed a capacity crowd of USF students, faculty and guests Wednesday night on "The Signs of the Times."

Malik said that there will be no war, because the Communists are winning without it. "What you ultimately believe in, you ultimately bring about. The Communists believe that the Western world is dying and its fundamental values are disappearing."

"I am yet to read of a single important Western leader who believes communism is dying and its fundamental values disappearing."

"The fear of eminent nuclear war is a paralyzing factor in the ability to act strongly. As a result, there have been many a retreat on the part of the West."

Malik stated that we should be disturbed less by war "than by the fear that the wonderful values of freedom which justify Western civilization are no longer believed in."

To win the war against communism, and also the friendship of the peoples of the world, Malik suggested that we must return to the principles which our country is founded on. "Truth and love are more important than politics and economics," Malik said. "The greatest failing is to treat people mechanically—to use them only as mercenaries and not to be concerned with them."

MRS. MARYON MOISE, the tempestuous, beloved costumer for USF theatre productions is at it again. She is shown here fitting Holly Moss in one of the creations for The Tempest. The play will open Oct. 28 as USF's first play of the season.

'The General' Breezes In For the Tempest Costuming

By DIANA BELLAMY
Of the Campus Staff

Three weeks ago, a cloud of dust whirled into the TA parking area. Could it have been an aftermath of Hurricane Dora? Or maybe the spirit Ariel flying into hear the rehearsals of The Tempest?

Some might say it was a mixture for it was Maryon Moise, head costumer of the theater, breezing in for her trimester visit to the USF campus. "The General," as Mrs. Moise is respectfully called by her regiment of co-workers, drives like a four-star general. Also down to USF every trimester and sometimes twice from hergiving" was her stint as fraternity house mother at the University of the South in Seawane.

In the costuming line she has worked at Lake Wales and Safety Harbor, Fla. Also in Virginia Beach and at the Barter Theater, Virginia. Although she lived in New York for a while, the General did no costuming there. Her daughters are very active, however, in "the business." One appeared in Oklahoma during its hit seasons on Broadway. What did Mrs. Moise do? "I kept house. That's enough!"

Mrs. Moise is very proud of "her girls" or costuming assistants at the theater. Two recently got married and one, Bambi Miller received a fellowship to the University of Texas working under the famous costumer, Paul Reiner.

The General and her regiments are working extra hard on The Tempest as it requires 40 elegant costumes. Many of the costumes are made from patterns but the majority are made from scratch. That is, Mrs. Moise makes her own patterns.

With the sewing must go a little intellectual discussion or gossip as some people might call it. True, nothing of importance gets by the costume room, but there is one hardest rule: "If you want to talk, you have to work while you're doing it."

Club President Kay MacKay and Vice - president Roberta Chiprut will preside at a reception for language students and faculty. All interested students and staff or faculty members are invited to attend.

Albert N. Stubblebine, club advisor, is a West Point graduate who served as head of the NATO defense school in Paris and as commanding officer of the Quartermaster School, Ft. Lee, during military service from which he retired with rank of colonel.

ing and experience of great value and variety.

Physicians on the V.A. hospital staff would also be available for part-time cooperation with the medical school faculty.

Opportunity Cited
Efficiency of such an operation can produce more well trained physicians at lower cost than would be the case in the more traditional or isolated medical school.

Dr. Allen said "All these factors add up to a golden opportunity for the state of Florida to produce a new medical school at little cost for capital outlay, and at reasonable cost for yearly operations."

He added that "Florida does not need a third medical school immediately, but the state's population growth is such that its two medical schools will need to be supplemented by a third school in the next few years."

Track Team Reorganizes

USF's Track Club has reorganized and is looking for students interested in track and cross-country running.

According to Charles Wildy, dean of men, "Arrangements are being made to use one of the high school tracks in the area and we should have, within the next week, laid out a cross-country course on campus."

Last spring a few select members of the club took part in the Florida Relays.

"Should we have good participation throughout the year, we have a good chance to participate in the Florida Relays in the spring and perhaps a cross-country in the fall," said Wildy.

The club meets in Alpha lobby before going to practice. Workouts are Monday through Thursday at 4:30 p.m. Students may contact Dean Wildy in AD 157 or Bill Fox in Alpha 343.

P.E. Proficiency Tests in Archery, Basketball, Bowling, Fencing, Golf, Swimming and Tennis will be given Oct. 13, 14 and 15.

The swimming test will be given at USF's new pool between 3:30 and 5 p.m. Registration will be at poolside. Each student will provide his own towel and ID card. No written test is required.

All other proficiencies will be administered on Oct. 13 and 14 between 3:30 and 5 p.m. in FH 238. The tests will be written and will cover fundamentals, and strategies. Skill tests will follow.

Students taking any of these tests should register in the P.E. office by Monday, Oct. 12. Registration for two proficiencies—one each day, is permissible.

USF kicked off its intramural football season last week with three opening day games.

Enotas Gold, a heavy pre-season favorite, quickly chalked up two, first quarter scores and hit paydirt for three more. Final score — a 33-0 conquest over Verdandi.

The PE Majors looked equally impressive as they unleashed a torrid air attack that resulted in a 20-6 win over the Mets. The Mets' only tally came on an intercepted errant lateral which was taken in for the score. In another game, Beta 2 East overwhelmed Beta 2 West with a hard-nosed defense for an 18-0 victory.

Alpha 2 East sets the pace as bowling rolls into its second week of competition. Other leaders based on number of total pins knocked down, are Zeta Phi Ei "A" 1869 pins, Beta 1 East, 1738 pins and Beta 3 East, 1725 pins.

Competition opened Saturday in the early morning Recreational Football League.

Women's Intramural Volleyball begins today with Tri-Sis and Fides appearing to be the teams to beat.

All matches in the first round of the Women's IM tennis tournament must be played by Oct. 13 and the scores must be in the Intramural office by Oct. 14. Any matches that are not finished will be forfeited so that second round matches may begin.

A Lovelier You

Make the Most of Your Wardrobe

By MARY SUE MILLER

A girl could have a closetful of clothes and not have a thing to wear. She could have a different skirt for every day of the week but, with spots on all of them, she'd be in a real spot.

If your wardrobe is limited, keeping it in order is of course an absolute essential. How otherwise could you hope to "stretch" your changes?

Besides, a well-groomed wardrobe lasts longer and so increases your clothing dollars. And like good personal grooming, good wardrobe grooming contributes as much to your poise as your looks.

No girl can feel poised when she knows she looks a mess.

With so much at stake, a teen would seem juvenile were she to duck the responsibility of clothes care. The routine is simple enough:

Just note the condition of garments as you remove them. Freshen those that are fit to wear again—dust off outerwear with a soft brush, polish shoes, wipe off and tidy handbags. Then put all in your closet, neatly.

That means fabric garments on hangers, knits in drawers, trees in shoes, and bags and hats on shelves.

When garments need minor repairs, pressing, spotting, mending—put them in a place where you can't overlook the fact. Stow an item for washing, cleaning, the shoemaker in the household space set aside for it.

Of course you would not fail not rinse out soiled lingerie and gloves before the day is out.

As clothes grooming is accumulative, your chores eventually become lighter. Meantime you can be confident of an attractive turnout.

How to keep the new pastel lipsticks from fading against the complexion tone, when you are in soft and shadowy evening lights, is a simple matter of make-up know-how.

The secret is in maintaining a definite contrast between a matte complexion finish and the satin sheen of the lips. The matte complexion finish is created by using make-up and preserving its flattering finish with touch-ups from a compact.

The gleam of the lips is attained by applying a pastel lipstick shade in your favorite lip pattern and making sure a sufficient amount of the lipstick is smoothed onto the lips to bring out the full beauty of the color.

Do not blot, but allow the satin finish to catch every gleaming light ray.

If more sparkle is required, add a light coating of lip gloss. With this subtle but dramatic contrast, even the softest cafe lights will not fade this season's fascinating look of beauty.

LIFE BEGINS AT 40

No Need for Blind To Become Beggars

By ROBERT PETERSON

When I walk down the street and am confronted by a blind beggar I have mixed emotions. My sympathetic self cries out with pity, but my reasoning self insists it's wrong for this person to be preying on the public and undermining the status of the blind.

A recent television program concerning blind beggars emphasized that with welfare programs operating in all states there is no need for anyone in America to beg—whether he's blind or not. It recommended that the public stop giving alms to blind beggars as a means of persuading them to give up this disreputable occupation which is embarrassing to the great majority of the blind.

"Sure, blindness is a very serious handicap," said M. R. Barnett when I stopped to talk with this personable, articulate executive director of the American Foundation for the Blind, "but speaking as one who is blind himself I can attest that it's not as immobilizing a handicap as many folks think."

"I BELIEVE most of the 400,000 Americans classified as blind will agree that one eventually becomes adjusted to it. Interestingly enough, I've never heard of a person who became blind and committed suicide as a direct consequence."

"One of the real handicaps a blind person has to bear is the down-at-the-heel, pathetic image of blindness which has arisen in the public mind due to blind beggars on the street."

How do people support themselves who become blind? "Many are able to continue at their occupations. Others can continue in some adaptation of their trade or profession. About half of all blind people today became blind after 50 years of age and thus had a number of years of active employment to develop skills and accumulate assets."

"THOSE WHO cannot continue at former jobs and whose work was covered by Social Security are eligible to start drawing their full Social Security benefits, or a maximum of $124 monthly. They can draw this and also earn up to $100 a month extra on any kind of work they can find."

"Actually, it's not too difficult for a blind person who is otherwise healthy and intelligent to find work. Many companies have found blindness no handicap whatsoever for many kinds of work ranging all the way up to the executive level."

"If a blind person wants a guide dog and cannot afford one, there are several agencies which can provide him with one. If he wants to learn Braille there is free instruction. Many services exist for the blind, and Braille books and phonograph records of books are provided by libraries and various agencies."

"If a blind person has no support him and is not covered by sets, no employable skills, no immediate family to support him and is not covered by Social Security there is still no need for begging. All he has to do is apply for welfare. His requirements will be surveyed and he'll be sent a monthly check sufficient to cover all needs, including medical attention."

THE FOREGOING casts a new and more positive light on blindness which should be valuable.

Two Germanys Eye More Visiting

BONN, Germany, Oct. 5 (AP)—That new little hole in the Berlin wall may invite other efforts to bore through the Iron Curtain separating the two parts of Germany.

The agreement allows West Berliners to visit East Berlin. That affects mainly Berliners—fewer than four million people. The other efforts are aimed at bringing closer together more than 70 million Germans who live outside the former capital. They are separated by hundreds of miles of barbed wire and mine fields.

THE EAST and West German governments lack official contacts but unofficial contacts are growing. Trade, normally worth half a billion dollars annually, is moving ahead.

This year the Communists are allowing about two million West Germans to visit East Germany proper—not just East Berlin. This is about half a million more than last year, according to West German Vice Chancellor Erich Mende, who is in charge of all-German affairs.

The Communists are also allowing their old-age pensioners—men of 65 and women of 60—to visit West Germany. This is no great concession, the Communists will be glad to be rid of them if they chose to stay.

At the same time, it is a move that the oldsters' relatives in the West appreciate.

The passes agreed on are for admittance to "the capital of the German Democratic Republic." At West German insistence, they will also indicate a lack of agreement on this reference to a government that Bonn considers wholly illegitimate.

EAST AND West Germans have again succeeded in putting together a joint team for the Tokyo Olympics, despite a good deal of political friction.

All these efforts to bring people together have had a big boost since Ludwig Erhard became West Germany's chancellor nearly a year ago. He has a more flexible policy toward relations with the Communists than former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer had.

STILL, political reunification of the two parts of Germany seems far off.
