Tony Pizzo's Tampa

A TEN PART SERIES AVAILABLE FROM WUSF-TV

From the first Spanish explorers' sighting of a Native American village on the shores of the bay, the town of Tampa has grown through wars, epidemics and depressions to become one of the South's most progressive cities. This fascinating story is the subject of Tony Pizzo's Tampa, a 10-part documentary series produced by WUSF-TV, Channel 16, in 1979. The show was hosted by Pizzo and Joyce Hartmann and special guests included actor Cesar Romero, whose grandfather, Jose Marti, founded the Cuban Revolutionary Party in Ybor City; Butterfly McQueen, known for her role as Prissy in "Gone with the Wind"; and Tampa-born jazz artist Nat Adderley. Episodes cover the history of the region, war and revolution, slavery, the cigar industry, the legacy of the Seminole Indians, daily life during both the boom time and depression, culture and cuisine, and a glance toward the future. We are honored to present this award-winning series on our final day of TV programming.
