790 in Commencement Ceremony

Look to the Future

The past is prologue and USF seniors will close one chapter of their life with commencement exercises April 18 and move into the future as they embark on careers or pursue graduate study. Symbolizing this view to the future are class president Dick Cadwallader and member Linda Hoffman.—(USF Photo)

Grads Planning To Study

By JERRY KEENEY
Of the Campus Staff

One out of three of USF's outstanding graduating students who responded to a recent mail survey conducted by the Committee to Encourage Graduate Study indicated plans to continue into higher education in the fall.

David Hathaway, secretary of the committee, said questionnaires were sent to 155 graduating students with grade point averages of 2.8 or better (approximately the minimum graduate school requirement). Eighty students completed and returned the forms. Of those 80, 20, (25 per cent) intend to go on to graduate school and six (eight per cent) plan to attend professional schools.

The 20 students intending to go to graduate school have sent a combined total of 64 applications to various universities. Heading the list of graduate schools applied to was Indiana University with five applications. Next was the University of California (including its branches in Berkeley, Riverside and Los Angeles) receiving four applications. Harvard, Georgia and

In Elementary Education

Crippen First MA Grad

The first Master of Arts degree will be awarded by USF Sunday.

The recipient will be David W. Crippen, 28, of Tampa. Crippen will receive a master's degree in elementary education.

Crippen began his graduate work at USF in June, 1964, when the M.A. program was first initiated.

In September 1964 he was given a graduate assistantship, another first at USF. Crippen then continued his graduate studies while serving as an advisor in the College of Basic Studies.

The program outlined for the M.A. degree included 12 hours in advanced general education courses, 18 hours of specialization and 6 hours thesis credit, making a total graduate requirement of 36 hours.

HOW DOES he like the program? "The graduate program here is excellent. You get a particularly good background in educational research."

Crippen was also pleased with the quality of the faculty. "The professors teaching graduate courses are well-versed in their field of instruction," he said. "I would say that the quality of these people is exceptional."

A DISCUSSION of the strengths of the graduate program led directly to questions of how it could be improved.

"Our greatest need right now," Crippen said, "is support, mostly in the form of money, to expand and improve the existing structure of the graduate program."

The library he says is an especially weak link in the graduate program. "I'd go to look up educational research material and it just wouldn't be there. This is a good library, but graduate work requires a much larger one."

Crippen received his B.S. degree from the University of Tampa. Before starting graduate work, he taught fifth grade for two years.

At the moment, his future plans are very indefinite. They include further graduate work and eventually getting a Ph.D. Also in line are plans to return to some type of college instruction in elementary education.

Dr. Holt To Speak At Exercises

"The Care and Control of the Human Tongue" will be the subject of the commencement address by Dr. Andrew David Holt, president of the University of Tennessee.

A speaker noted for his humor, he suggested that President James S. Allen introduce him like this:

"This is Andy Holt. I assume no responsibility for what he might say."

Dr. Holt has served in virtually every capacity of the educational profession. He has been, successively, an elementary teacher, high school teacher and coach, demonstration school principal, college professor at Memphis State College, High School Supervisor for West Tennessee, Executive Secretary of the Tennessee Education Association, Administrative Assistant to the President of the University of Tennessee, then Vice President of the university before being elevated to the Presidency on July 1, 1959. During World War II, he directed the Army's Pre-Induction Training Branch.

HOLT WAS ALSO President of the National Education Association in 1950, a member of the board of directors of the association from 1950 to 1958 and was an original member of the Joint Committee of the NEA and Magazine Publishers Association of America. At present he is a member of the Board of Trustees of NEA.

Dr. Holt has received many international, national, regional and state honors. He was Chairman of the U.S. Delegation to the World Organization of the Teaching Profession at Berne, Switzerland, in 1949, and was a delegate to that organization's meeting in Ottawa, Canada, in 1950.

In addition to many other national honors and activities he is now serving as Vice Chairman of the Southern Regional Education Board.

Senior Award To Be Given

An outstanding Senior Award, based on scholarship, service, leadership and character will be presented to a USF graduate at the commencement reception.

This award, which will probably become an annual event, will be presented by the Alumni Association, according to Mrs. June Miller.

Mrs. Miller said that the award winner was chosen by the Executive Council of the Alumni Association by a secret balloting three weeks ago.

Bellamy Honored

The Outstanding Theatre Student Award for 1965 was presented to graduating senior Diana Bellamy.

The award was made by the Theatre Arts faculty to the best all-around student. Miss Bellamy has been active in theater on campus as a performer, a production worker, stage manager, and is past president of Bay Players.

4,000 Expected To Attend

By JEAN BARFOOT
Of the Campus Staff

Commencement ceremonies for 790 candidates for degree of which about 371 are candidates in Trimester II are scheduled for 3:25 p.m. on April 18.

More than 4,000 persons are expected to view the proceedings and hear the commencement address by Dr. Andrew D. Holt, president of the University of Tennessee.

The ceremonies will begin when the robe-clad participants leave in a line from the south entrance of the Administration Building.

At the signal of Commencement Marshal Dr. James D. Ray, degree candidates will move in a column of two around the east side of the building while the faculty and platform guests move in a column of two around the west side. Dr. Clarence C. Clark will serve as Faculty Marshal and Dr. W. B. Cameron will be Platform Marshal.

WHEN THE PROCESSION

AL ends and all are seated at the north entrance of the AD building, Dr. Orva Lee Ice, of the Temple Terrace Community Church, will lead the invocation. He will also offer the benediction at the close of the ceremonies.

Though each graduate will stand when his name is called from the roll, the graduates will move in college groups to receive their diploma envelopes and congratulations from USF President John S. Allen.

After the singing of the Alma Mater and the Benediction, the Recessional will move to the south side of the building for the dispersal of participants.

All music will be provided by the USF Band under direction of Dr. Gale A. Sperry.

TICKETS for the reserved seats provided for family and friends of graduates may be picked up with the rental caps and gowns between April 8th and 18th. Pictures may be taken before and during the convocation but there will be no time for them afterward as the graduates will immediately return their caps and gowns to the Reserve Reading Room of the Library. They will receive their diplomas after they turn in their caps and gowns.

In the event of rain, the ceremonies will be held in the TA. Guests will hear the program via audio circuits in FH 101, CH 100, PH 141 or the UC Ballroom.

THE ALUMNI Association will give a reception for graduates and guests at the Argos Center Lounge after the Commencement ceremonies are over.

Colors Indicate School, Degree

Regalia Denotes Tradition

When faculty and graduating seniors don colorful academic regalia for commencement April 18, they will symbolically join the procession of scholars dating back hundreds of years.

The academic costumes they will wear are part of a tradition traced to medieval guilds, scholars and religious orders.

The flowing gowns and hoods were first worn by scholars huddling in study cells to protect themselves from rigors of wintry weather.

Through the years hoods took on bright colors to denote school and degree. Sleeve style and markings came to signify degree.

THE CAP or mortar board is adapted from the scholar's cap or biretta of the clergy.

How can you "interpret" the significance of the gown and hood at USF or other institutions? Since 1893 the style has been standardized by an intercollegiate commission.

The velvet edging on hoods signifies the degree held by the wearer. White indicates liberal arts and letters, yellow is for science, orange is for engineering, drab denotes business administration, light blue for education, dark blue for philosophy and pink indicates music.

Or you may note purple for law, green for medicine, olive for pharmacy, brown for architecture or russet for forestry.

THESE COLORS have special meaning. For example, modern

Seniors Establish Fund

Your younger brother or sister may be awarded a scholarship here because of the 1965 Senior Class. The class has set up an endowment scholarship fund to be presented to the University as their class gift.

Richard Cadwallader, senior class president, and Charles Frey, vice president and chairman of the endowment program, explained that letters have been sent to all graduating seniors requesting them to donate their $15 breakage fees to the endowment fund. In the letter, Frey emphasized that there is no "pressuring" involved, only a request, which can be affirmed or rejected on an enclosed form.

The money donated — and entrusted to the University to be put aside to accumulate interest. At each class reunion, every five years, 50 per cent of the Senior Class dues and 50 per

LARGEST CLASS EVER

Trimester II Grads Listed

USF will graduate a record class of some 790 students April 18 including about 371 candidates from Trimester II and the first master of arts recipient.

This will bring the total of 1,310 students who are USF graduates in the two graduating classes. It will be the third commencement, however, since the charter class was graduated in two ceremonies.

David W. Crippen of Tampa is scheduled to receive the school's first MA.

Here is the tentative list of other candidates completing degree requirements in Trimester II:

Mrs. Irma F. Aguirre, Mrs. Mary M. Alcorn, Mrs. Bobby H. Allen, Gary E. Allen, Clifford B. Anderson, Joseph K. Anderson, Jo Ann R. Angle, Robert O. Ares, Harold A. Ashford, Mrs. Mary M. ### Recruiters Happy With Response

Peace Corps Calls Campus 'Friendly'

Peace Corps recruiters agreed that they were in "friendly territory" as they ended a visit to USF.

"This is a campus that is really Peace Corps-minded," said Nancy Chamberlayne as she spoke of the "sincere response" of USF students.

More than 200 students picked up Peace Corps applications and about 60 applied for the basic testing that was being conducted. Student interest was such that the booth ran out of literature and recruiters had to send to Washington for more.

Recruiters agreed that the statistical response was less than last year's but only because that year was "spectacular." Over the school year, USF led the nation in the percentage of volunteers.

Recruiters felt that the main misconception of the Peace Corps was the idea of specialization. Gary Bergholt said that "the bulk of our volunteers and some of the best are unspecialized Liberal Arts majors." He said that the "professional amateur" who had initiative, adaptability and enthusiasm, was the real need of the Peace Corps. This explains why the Peace Corps has been called the last refuge for the rennaissance man.

While students gathered to locate old friends on the Peace Corps map, which pin-pointed where USF volunteers had been assigned, some real live return volunteers were found behind the recruiting booth.

Official recruiter Janet Reed has recently returned from Liberia where she was a teacher. Loel Jackson, returning USF student in sociology, was unofficially recruiting as he told of his work in fisheries development in Sierra Leone, Africa.

Peace Corps tests are given monthly at U.S. Post Offices. Literature and questionnaires can be obtained from Dr. Paul Givens, LS 236.

Editorials

Mann Looks Back

By RALEIGH MANN
Retiring Editor

The University of South Florida has much to regard in retrospect since April, 1964. But relax, we're not about to bore the reader with details of our blow-by-blow progress.

DURING THE YEAR gubernatorial candidates Haydon Burns and Robert King High met on the USF campus for a history-making confrontation. An athletic council as formed and subsequently set up an intercollegiate "club" plan.

The Board of Control decided on one commencement per year—in April, the Veteran's Administration said their hospital will be near USF and the American Association of University Professors placed us on their censure list.

The Student Association and the administration finally agreed on a new SA constitution with a judicial system, the senior class organized, the Master's program expansion plans were announced and we held our first homecoming, a roaring success.

USF was announced as the hub of an educational TV core in Florida, self-study for accreditation moved along, a President and governor were elected, the Board of Regents resigned and a new Board was named, four USF students nabbed Wilson grants, John Reber was named SA president, the tuition was raised for fall and the USF budget was cut.

It has been quite a year.

THE CAMPUS EDITION managed to get a word in edgewise in the editorials. We urged for an organized senior class, recognition of grads at commencement, a 2.5 average for SA officers, planning for a medical school, quiet in the Library and in the first place—a workable constitution—to make the SA meaningful.

We asked for retention of the trimester and the withdrawal of the university system from the state political chess game.

The graduates on April, 1965, many of them at least, are saying they are glad to be getting out of here. Some say that they feel no ties with the ivyless walls of USF.

THERE ARE MANY ingredients to the feeling, and, while we can recognize some of it, we certainly cannot say that the University has meant nothing to us.

Far from it.

USF has a genuinely outstanding faculty equipped to challenge and stimulate even the very sluggish and apathetic student. As a new university in an urban setting, it has offered the campus and the community a new high level of learning and growth in many areas, particularly the fine arts.

We have found our stimulation in the classroom and the Library, the professor's office and around the seminar table. And for those with other orientations, we have seen plenty of social activity, including some outstanding show business names at USF.

THE RAPID GROWTH of the university now lies in the shadows of political activity. The buildings, the expanded Master's program, the burgeoning enrollment with its housing, food and other problems may be brought up short with what we consider the misapplication of state monies.

If the university were not part of the business of vote-building, the problem would be considerably diminished.

If the university were less afraid of the image it is creating in the Tampa community and at the state level, the problem would be considerably diminished.

With a new Board of Regents there is hope for some continued progress in Florida higher education, particularly at the growing facilities at Boca Raton and Tampa.

And only with a university administration who faces the board with a new determination to continue growing has USF a chance to become the university its founders hoped for and Florida needs.

Sadness in Parting

There's always a touch of sadness when friends depart, even when they move on to pleasant tasks. So it is with our graduating seniors, so it is with respected faculty who leave for more challenging or prestigious positions.

But change is one certainty in an uncertain life. So we should be pleased when nice things happen to persons we hold in high regard.

The campus newspaper will lose a good friend when Dr. Albert T. Scroggins Jr. leaves in a few months to become dean of the Journalism School at University of South Carolina. The appointment reflects credit on him and upon this institution.

Dr. Scroggins has set high standards for this paper and the Aegean. We will miss him. But we will strive to honor him by carrying on in the traditions which he has upheld.

'Only Beginning'—Allen

President John S. Allen urges seniors to remember that graduation is only the "beginning of human endeavor."

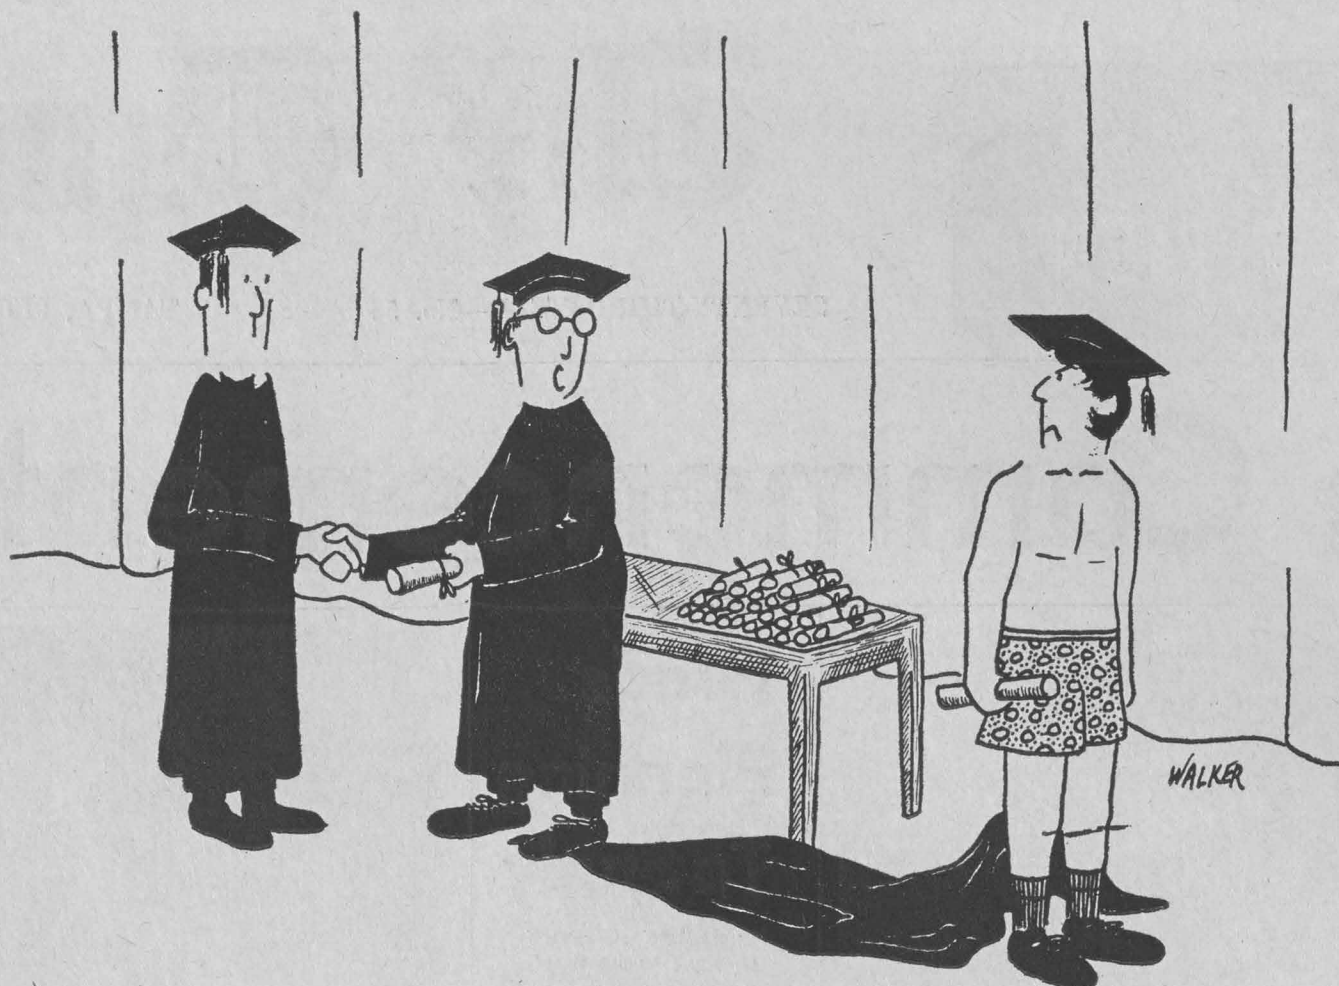

In President Allen's message to seniors, he stated:

"You will be donning your caps and gowns for commencement. They are the symbol worn by scholars, to be clothed alike in a fellowship of equals. You join a long tradition of democracy in scholarship.

"As you graduate from the University of South Florida you join another tradition that is distinctly American. That is, no child should be denied an opportunity for education. The American colonists started schools before they made the territories safe from Indians. Parents in every generation have labored and saved to provide educational opportunities for their children, which were not available to the parents.

"I congratulate you on your achievements to date. But 'the past is prologue.' This is a commencement. The future is before us and dynamic. Everything we do will affect it. We are just at the beginning of human endeavor.

"What you do will bring honor not only to you, but reflect glory on your alma mater. As you serve your fellow man, you will increase the stature of your parents, your church, your school and your college. Go forth with the blessing of your alma mater to add your bit to making this a better world for all."

Sorry about that, Ashfumble.

College: A Struggle To Readjust

By JEFFREY L. BIALEK
Of the Campus Staff

Graduation for over 302 seniors on Easter Sunday will mark the end of a long struggle for many of them. During their college careers they had to readjust their lives and make many important decisions.

One segment of the class had to conquer more problems than the other. These are the transfer students. They had to make new friends, learn a new campus, and adjust to different academic and social requirements.

THE AGES of the transfer students ranged from 19 through 30 years, although the average age was slightly over 22. All the students involved in the survey except two attended a public junior college in Florida. One of the two went to a church-related university in Florida while the other attended an Indiana junior college.

More than half of the students changed their majors at least once while several others switched majors two or three times.

Most of the transfers said that they had to make some changes in the way that they studied and had to budget their time more effectively for study.

As Phillip D. Jackson put it: "I had to learn in a more theoretical manner and not from a practical viewpoint."

WHEN ASKED which school stimulated them most academically, most replied that USF did without any doubt. Gary W. Hasenfus of St. Petersburg Junior College said, "I think I have been more inclined to study here, as it was at USF that I finally realized that 'fair' just wasn't good enough for future endeavors, especially when the competition starts to get rough, if one expects to get ahead after graduation."

"The guidance services are far superior at the junior colleges to those offered at USF," Roger Traeger from Manatee Junior College said. "The guidance counselors here act as if we, the students, should know exactly what you need and should take. They took a personal interest in each student and advised him as to his chances to succeed in a certain field of study. At USF, the counselor is merely a stamp of approval for a student to get in or out of a certain course."

Knowledge is not knowledge until someone else knows that one knows.

When you know a thing, to hold that you know it, and when you do not know it, to admit that you do not—this is true knowledge.

—Confucius (about 500 B.C.)

USF is more of a college type atmosphere than at most junior colleges. Harlan S. Foss of Miami-Dade Junior College, said, "The college atmosphere at USF is better mainly because of a campus and dormitory life. There is more serious study here than there was at M-DJC." Raleigh C. Mann, also from Miami-Dade said, "Junior college was somewhat more relaxed and less academically oriented."

Michael LoPiano of Miami-Dade said, "A junior college serves a definite purpose as does the university. I'm glad I attended M-DJC but at USF I have really come to a fuller understanding of life and myself. The junior college and the university both have much to offer the college student. There is a great need for them both. A student here has more to think out for himself. This is one of the major assets to be gained from a

Graduation: Mixed Emotions

By MYRA HOWZE
Of the Campus Staff

This is the point of no return of nearly 350 graduating seniors. The world beckons and it will not be denied.

What are the feelings of these soon-to-be graduates? Are they happy, sad or different?

For answers to these questions we went first to Dr. Thomas J. Rich of the Development Center to learn of the psychological effects of graduation and then directly to the students to hear their own personal reactions.

Dr. Rich said, "The first reaction seems to be relief, accompanied by strong feelings of pride and accomplishment. Shortly, however, this is replaced by fear of failure in the business and professional world, of making mistakes."

"WE DO FIND, however, that age is very much a controlling factor in the degree of fear experienced by the graduate. Those graduates who are older and more mature seemed to be better equipped, better equipped to face the challenges life has to offer."

A TYPICAL COMMENT was made by Pat Gedler, College of Education graduate. "Thank God it's all over! There were times these last four years when I absolutely didn't think I would ever survive. Though, now that graduation is here, I'm glad I stuck it out. I feel that I have really accomplished a very important intermediate goal which will eventually enable me to realize my ultimate goals in life."

When asked if she were apprehensive about future success, Pat replied, "Certainly I have some reservations about the future but right now things look like they will work out all right. I have a job promised at the school in which I am now interning."

THIS ANSWER and others very similar seem to bear out another point which Dr. Rich seemed to feel was very important. Those graduating seniors who plan to enter a specific profession such as teaching, law or medicine have a much more definite future ahead of them than do those graduates who must enter directly into the business world.

A business administration major put it this way. "I feel that I am completely on my own. I must sell myself and my ability to be a success. Every bit of this must be done on my own."

IN TALKING with older graduating seniors, men and women twenty-five and older, we found that most of them had already worked in the world of business or professions. They have some knowledge of what it is like. The factor of the unknown, which seems to bother the younger graduates so much, has been removed.

The older graduate is also a very motivated man who usually had the responsibilities of a wife and perhaps a family. Women graduates are equally motivated. Most of them attended college to finish their education because they needed the additional income that a college education would insure.

Marion Harris summed up the situation when she said, "I seem to be feeling upon two different and entirely separate levels. One part of me is so happy I can hardly stand it. The other half keeps telling me that this is it, 'You're alone, sink or swim, that's up to you.'"

Seniors Veep Cites Changing Grads' Attitudes

By CHARLES FREY
Vice President
Senior Class

Way back in December of 1963 this conversation was a typical one among many graduating seniors.

"Are you getting out this time?"

"Yes, boy! Will I be glad to get out of here."

"Is there going to be any alumni association activities, or class reunions that you will participate in?"

"I don't know and I could care less. I have no idea who is in the class, how many are graduating, or what the graduates are going to do."

This was the predominant reaction in December, 1963. The essence of this conversation has the repeated theme with each group graduating since then. The graduating students didn't seem to care if they ever saw USF again, just so long as their "diploma was mailed to them."

Things are changing now. The present senior class will have something more than a diploma to help them to recall their days as seniors at USF.

It has been a privilege and a pleasure to have been able to help in establishing some basis for pleasant recollection of our days as seniors. A senior satire, a senior dinner dance — chalk these two up as successes. A torchlight ceremony in lieu of a baccalaureate service is scheduled for April 8 and will have been undertaken (weather permitting) when this is read.

We have seen our school growing rapidly in enrollment, in physical facilities, and in teaching staff. The enrollment moved at the faster pace. The word is out, USF is a school that has been given recognition for its outstanding contribution to the Peace Corps.

USF is also recognized as a growing school with high academic standards. Outstanding USF seniors of the class of '65 have been awarded four Woodrow Wilson scholarships and many other seniors have been awarded stipends, fellowships, and scholarships to many other schools in this country for graduate study.

We are proud on the eve of our leaving to have been associated with an outstanding faculty and our outstanding fellow students.

The senior class of 1965 expects to be back to this campus for reunions, graduate study and for other activities in which we will hope to be invited to participate.

Good-by USF — for the present.

WUSF Voice Now Blankets Bay Region

The powerful voice of WUSF-FM radio now can be heard over the whole Tampa Bay area. Program testing of WUSF's new 1,000-watt transmitter is under way.

Application for the power increase has been filed with the Federal Communications Committee. Final approval will come after a six-month testing period.

An increase in hours of operation will depend upon the number of student personnel able to help with extended time. Sign-on time has been moved up to 1 p.m. from 2 p.m.

Program schedules may be obtained from the station office.

Elders Enrich Life at Purdue

By ROBERT PETERSON
An imaginative technique for utilizing successful and sagacious elders is the Old Masters program at Purdue University. Each year since 1949 the University has invited a dozen outstanding men and women—mostly retired—to spend three days on campus as an Old Master.

On arrival, these distinguished elders are given the best rooms on campus and student hosts and hostesses are assigned. Then they are given red carpet treatment as they tour the university and meet faculty and students.

SO AS TO bring each visitor into personal contact with as many students as possible, informal receptions and discussion sessions are arranged. Each visitor lunches daily with a different group of students.

In the afternoon he meets for an hour of informal discussion with another group. He dines with still others, and then spends the evening in stimulating conversation with another group.

THE VISITORS attend no faculty meetings and give no lectures. Their function is simply to be themselves and talk in relaxed fashion with as many students as possible. By so doing they help students create in their minds a picture of the wise and successful elder which they themselves may one day become.

Who conceived the program? It's the brainchild of Lawrence W. Wallace—himself a remarkable elder who, at 84, is still working full-time as Conference Leader of the top management seminar at the U.S. Army Training Command in Rock Island, Ill.

"THE IDEA came to me years ago," Dr. Wallace told me recently, "when I found myself pondering the growing numbers of students and elder citizens."

"Soon I was visualizing two large glass bowls—one filling up with eager young men and women about to enter careers, and the other filling up with cultivated, successful people ending careers."

"It seemed to me there should be a catalyst which would somehow link the consciousness of the eager, aspiring youngsters to the accumulated wisdom and admirable social graces of the other."

"ONE OF MY friends was the president of Purdue University, so I discussed the idea with him and he felt the same way. With his backing, the Old Masters program was approved and made a project of the Student Council."

Who are those invited to serve as Old Masters? "They are exemplary older people from all walks of life whose names and accomplishments are meaningful to our students—retired publishers, authors, educators, corporation presidents and government officials."

HAVE OTHER universities latch on to the idea? "Not to my knowledge. Of course they often bring eminent elders to the campus as lecturers. But that's a more impersonal approach. We feel the Old Masters program meets a special need by giving students the chance to be hosts to prominent elders and to meet and talk with them in an intimate, relaxed fashion which can't help but wield an uplifting influence."

Here's a great idea for schools everywhere. An Old Masters program costs virtually nothing, but offers an unusual form of recognition for illustrious elders and gives students personal identification with men and women who are worthy examples of human accomplishment.

Chairmen Appointed For Fund Campaign

Committee chairmen for the Guidance Center Building Fund campaign have been announced by Mrs. Lawrence Hall, outgoing president of the board of directors of the center.

The Guidance Center, a mental health clinic, will begin its building fund campaign April 19. Some $150,000 will have to be raised by June in order to receive matching federal money which will be available for the new building, Mrs. Hall said.

Co-chairmen of the Building Fund drive are former Mayor Julian Land and Dr. Thomas M. Edwards, former chairman of the Hospital and Welfare Board. Committee chairmen named by Mrs. Hall are Arthur Savage, major gifts; Byron Harless and K. N. Henderson, business; Very Rev. Ralph Madison and Rabbi David Zielonka, religious; Dr. Sam Hibbs, medical; and Dr. Gus Perdigon, dental.

Among other volunteers for the important fund campaign are School Supt. J. Crockett Farnell, Dean Charles Milliken of USF, Morton Annis, Dr. James Cope, Judge O. D. Howell, and Judge Phillip Knowles.

The Building Fund Committee must raise $150,000 before June 1 to match the Hill-Burton federal funds. These funds combined will allow the Guidance Center to add a much needed new $300,000 clinic at East Henry and 22nd Street in Tampa, said Mrs. Hall.

Julie Andrews Dominates Scene

Fresh from an Oscar award winning triumph, Julie Andrews dominates the local scene as the star in "The Sound of Music," showing at the Palace and "Mary Poppins," the role that won her "best actress" honors, now at the Florida.

Captivating Julie pours out her heart in song against the breathtaking beauty of Austrian scenery filmed in Todd AO and deluxe color in "The Sound of Music." Ideal family entertainment, the film deals with the Von Trapp family of singers who escaped from Austria when the Nazi regime took over. Handsome Christopher Plummer is cast as Captain Von Trapp. Stellar supporting roles are handled by Richard Haydn, a lovable rogue, and Eleanor Parker, beautiful as a baroness.

Julie who may be heading for another Oscar romps through this one with such tunes as "My Favorite Things," "Do-Re-Me" and "Climb Every Mountain."

Cooperative Education Dinner Tuesday

PLANT CITY — The Cooperative Education program of Plant City High School will hold its annual Employer-Employee Banquet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the school cafeteria.

The 40 students in the Diversified Cooperative Training and Distributive Education classes, who work at jobs after school, will bring their employers and parents to the function.

Floyd Yoder and Robert Myers, class coordinators, said about 200 are expected to attend. Al Berry, of Radio Station WFLA, will be the guest speaker.

The DE class received an achievement award and a $40 cash prize at the recent State Leadership conference held in Clearwater.

Accepting the awards for class activities the past year were delegates Roger Ayers, Virginia Brobst, Vivian Fortner, Linda Palmer, Jayne Polk, and Judie Ross.

Cure in Allergy Reported

A revolutionary cure for Bronchial Asthma, Migraine Headache, Hay Fever and Skin Allergy has recently been described in leading medical journals. The treatment consists of a spray used in each nostril for several weeks. This breakthrough in the treatment of allergic disease resulted from extensive research and experimentation since 1936 by leading physicians and clinics in the United States and many foreign countries. A high percentage of cures have been reported in more than 15,000 cases treated. Patients have been symptom free five to twenty-eight years after treatment periods.

This nasal spray treatment is used at home for children, adults and older people. It is now available for the first time without a physician's prescription. It is inexpensive with no toxic effects, contains no antihistamines or cortisone type drugs.

This treatment for the first time offers allergy sufferers a hope for a cure rather than temporary relief, which was the only treatment available prior to this breakthrough. It is welcome news for patients that have built up a tolerance to so called relievant drugs and are unable to secure relief for their allergic symptoms.

Allergimist is available at your local drug counter. For further information write: The Brunson Corporation, P.O. Box 48-517, Miami International Airport Branch, Miami, Florida 33148.

Campus News Briefs

Scroggins Leaving; Iorio Wins Award

Dr. Albert T. Scroggins Jr., chairman of the USF journalism program and director of campus publications, will become dean of the School of Journalism at the University of South Carolina on July 1.

Under Dr. Scroggins' guidance during the past three years the first two issues of the yearbook, Agean, were published and the campus newspaper has increased to three pages.

Dr. Scroggins said he is "gratified by the progress in campus publications here" but said the opportunity to direct one of the nation's 47 accredited schools of journalism "is a challenge which also appeals to me very much."

"I feel confident," he said "that under the guidance of such capable men as Prof. Steve Yates, advisor to the campus edition, the publications program will continue its growth and services to the University community."

"Paradise Acres," a short story written by Professor John Iorio of USF's English staff has won a Martha Foley Award for the Best American Short Stories of 1964.

The story, published in the winter edition of the Kansas City Review, was selected from the award by publishers who secretly scan fiction from all parts of the country.

Dr. John V. Betz, bacteriology professor at USF, has received a $26,400 grant for virus research from the National Science Foundation.

He will study "Selective Lysozymolysis of a Morphological Variant of Clostridium sporogenes."

Bull's Eye Banned At Bookstore

The second issue of the "Bull's Eye," a student humor magazine, won't be sold in the USF bookstore.

James E. Lucas, manager of service activities, who manages the bookstore, made the following statement on the "no sale" decision:

"We're not a censoring agency, but we feel that the latest 'Bull's Eye' did not meet the standards for materials we sell in the bookstore. If the next issue meets our standards, we will make it available. We have a reputation to uphold."

"Bull's Eye" Editor Larry Vickers said, "I think that the USF bookstore has a legitimate reason to complain about two cartoons that appeared, but I still feel that the entire magazine should be used as a criterion in judging whether or not to sell it. There are other magazines sold in the bookstore that have equally or more 'objectionable material' in them."

Some Grads

North Carolina universities all were sent three applications by pooled students.

BECAUSE OF AN agreement among many graduate schools not to reveal plans for giving financial assistance to students until after April 1 in some fields and April 15 in others, the results are not complete. But so far there have been 33 admissions for the 64 applications sent, some students being accepted by more than one school.

Of the five students planning to attend professional schools, three will do so in medicine, one in law, and one in theology.

Forty-four, or 55 per cent of the outstanding students polled expect to be employed shortly after graduation. Twenty-six of these, almost 32 per cent of all the students responding, are going directly into teaching and other related jobs in the field of education.

SEVERAL OF THE students indicated they will find jobs rather than go on to graduate school because of monetary factors. Some could not afford more schooling at present, and others indicated they were anxious to start enjoying the things that money can buy.

Finally, 11 of the students reached are uncertain what they will do when the graduate from USF on April 18. One of these, a mother with two children now enrolled at USF and a husband "who likes me around" says she'll probably try to find something constructive in the immediate area on which to apply her university formulated skills.

Packets Available

Registration packets for Trimester III and III-A, 1965 are now available in the Registrar's office, assistant registrar Merle V. Slater said.

During registration on April 22 and 23, the packets will be available only in the UC, second floor, west end of the south hallway.

During late registration on April 28, the packets will be available in the UC ballroom.

Registration Talks

Merle Slater and Ronald Keller of the registrar's office will discuss Trimester III registration on WUSF 89.7 FM, at 5:30 p.m. April 14 on the program, Campus Viewpoint.

Deadline for CB Cards April 18

Assistant Registrar, R. L. Keller wishes to remind faculty members that Basic Studies cards are due in the Registrar's office by 4 p.m. April 8.

R. L. Keller announced that final grade cards for graduating seniors are due in the registrar's office by 5 p.m. April 10. Final instruction grade sheets are due in the registrar's office by 8 a.m. April 17.

What Is It Like To Be a Top Grad?

By RUTH DUKE
Of the Campus Staff

Have you ever wondered just what makes honor students click? What is it that drives them? Is it grades? Is it a natural aptitude which few possess? Or is it just plain hard work?

In an effort to answer these and other questions, the thoughts, philosophies and interests of the four top students of the senior class of April '65 were probed. Singled out as the only 4.0 student in the class was Mrs. Nancy Hilton. Following close behind with 3.9 averages were Bob Ashford, Noelle Rodriguez and Mrs. Gene Del Torto.

How does an outstanding student react when told she is the highest ranking scholar in her graduating class?

"You must be kidding," said Mrs. Nancy Hilton, a Social Science major in Secondary Education. "I thought that surely many others had a 4.0."

Nancy's reply may sound naive, but Nancy is anything but that. One of her professors says that even though Nancy is "quiet" in class, "she is very sensitive to moral and spiritual values" and has strong convictions on many important issues which she does not hesitate to express.

A member of the Gold Key Honor Society and several educational associations, Nancy says that she has been making high grades since junior high school. However, she added that there were many times when she disliked "the long reading assignments" and thought they were not "very worth while."

When she has spare time, Nancy says she seeks "beauty, peace and relaxation in nature." She likes to go for long walks along the beach and just "look at the sky." Nancy says she has received inspiration from "a few exceptionally wise and wonderful teachers." And her only advice for undergraduates is to "believe that the more one learns, the freer he is to become the kind of person he would like to be; thus, the more he can contribute to humanity."

Harold A. (Bob) Ashford is a past president of the Student Association and a former editor of the students' literary magazine, "i.e." As if his extracurricular activities did not keep him busy enough, he found time to be a teacher's aide in the sophomore physics lab.

Recently Ashford received the coveted Woodrow Wilson fellowship for his achievements in English. He also received a 3-year award of $2400 at Washington University from the National Science Foundation for his work in Physics. And he almost forgot to mention he has been offered a teaching fellowship in Physics at Northwestern.

If you saw the senior satire, "The Twenty-Sixth of March," you have already witnessed some of Ashford's handiwork. He has received several prizes in literature and poetry contests but the satire is the first play he has ever written. It took him about a week to write it, he said.

Ashford, who says he is "dependently wealthy" is a charter member of the South Florida Wombats, a self-styled Greenwich Village clan. He is very proud of his association with this group and said, "If you have to cut something, don't cut that."

Ashford thinks he will go to Stanford to do his graduate work. And after that, he will work for his doctorate. Eventually, he hopes to be an English professor.

Ashford believes that students don't use their time wisely. "I feel most people have much more time to spend on school than they realize. My only advice would be to bear this in mind at all times," he said.

Noelle Rodriguez, Sociology major, says, "I plan to go to graduate school some day." But right now Noelle's future is wrapped up in her fiancée, Donald Herzog who will graduate in August. They are being married the day after Noelle's graduation.

Noelle, who has minored in English and Art, spoke hesitantly about her scholastic career. "I do not especially like to study," she says and then admitted that she is a "very slow reader."

"Usually, I am not a joiner," says Noelle but added

she belongs to Athenaeum, the Senior Women's Honorary Society. She says she doesn't have time for a lot of extra activities because "I feel overpressed for time and need leisure moments in which to meditate."

Noelle says it hasn't been easy financially to get through school. "I've been painting the posters in the UC lobby for the past three years," she says. And her painting has paid off in other ways. She recently sold one of her paintings for $100.

Noelle spends summers in New York City free-lance painting. "I guess you might call art my hobby," she says. Noelle, and then after reflecting a moment, she added, "Oh yes, I also rebuild Model-A Fords."

"Students should recognize that scholastic work is a part of their existence," says Noelle and "it is not an end in itself but a means to a fulfillment of yourself and a deeper understanding of the world."

MRS. GENE DEL TORTO is not only a mother of an 8-year-old little girl named Dawna but the outstanding Humanities major in the senior class.

Speaking of her successful academic career at USF, Mrs. Del Torto said, "I've enjoyed it. To tell the truth, I just like to go to school." Then she laughed and added, "I tell everyone I'm a professional student."

Mrs. Del Torto admitted that she has always been a top student. Coming from a small town high school in Rattan, Okla., she said she was a member of the National Honor Society there and valedictorian of her graduating class. But as far as studying is concerned, she said, "Well, there are things I had rather do."

An active member of the Gold Key Honor Society and Athenaeum, Mrs. Del Torto has not decided yet on the school she plans to attend, she says. "It will be either the University of Chicago or Columbia." She hopes eventually to obtain her Ph.D. and write professionally.

Mrs. Del Torto declined to offer any hints on how to make good grades. "No advice she said. 'I don't want to sound pious.'"

It seems USF's top scholars have one thing in common with average students—they don't like to study. You can talk about contributing to humanity, using your time wisely, working your way through school and enjoying scholastic life, but if you don't apply yourself, they say, you'll never make the "grade."

"Usually, I am not a joiner," says Noelle but added

Dance, Satire Are Senior Successes

The dinner dance and the senior satire were two big activities initiated by the senior class this trimester.

"The dinner dance on April 3 was a great success and the first in what we feel will become a senior tradition," said Richard Cadwallader, president of the senior class. The after-dinner program began with a short speech by President-elect of the Alumni Association, Bill Geiger, on future plans of the association. Cadwallader then gave a brief summary of the senior class' activities since his election in February, 1965. The senior class presented him with a gavel as a memento of his service.

There were 148 people at the dance, for which the University granted a 2 a.m. curfew for all resident women. Frosted glasses inscribed with "Class of 65" were given to each couple as a favor from the senior class.

The senior satire was entitled "Ides of March." Written by senior Bob Ashford, the play had a successful three day run.

The play was a spoof of a university like USF. It satirized such campus phenomena as food service, the sprinkler system, the health center and the administration.

The students revolted against the oppressions and were led to success by Everystudent Jerry and his girlfriend Nancy.

"We had receptive audiences at all performances and everyone seemed to take the satire in good humor," said Ashford.

Pool Hours in Break

Swimming pool hours during trimester break, according to swimming coach Robert J. Grindley, are 1 to 6 p.m. Friday, April 13 through Sunday, April 25, excluding April 18.

Pool hours for Trimester III-A are to remain on the same schedule as Trimester II: Monday-Friday, 1:30 to 7 p.m.; Saturday, 12 noon to 7 p.m.; Sunday 1-7 p.m.

Fraternity News

Enotas and Talos Have Initiation

John Adeock, former Chamberlain football coach and present Hillsborough County athletic director presented the Intra-Mural Championship to Enotas Saturday evening at their formal initiation banquet held at Bahia Beach. Dress was semi-formal and the music was provided by the Glades.

Each pledge presented his big brother with a pledge paddle and a wooden carving of the Enotas crest. In return, the new brothers are allowed to wear their big brothers' pins until new ones arrive.

Finally, each Enotas was given a special Enotas crest as a token of brotherhood and as a remembrance.

Check Is Asked On Financial Aid

All students who are receiving financial assistance at the present time, or have applied for financial assistance for the 1965-66 academic year, and will not be attending the university Trimester III are urged to contact the Office of Financial Aids before leaving the campus to determine the status of their financial aid application.

Students attending the university in Trimester III and who have applied for financial assistance, are requested to contact the Office of Financial Aids after the beginning of Trimester III but not later than May 10 to determine the status of student loan applications for the 1965-66 academic year.

Class Gift

cent of the interest will be given to the alumni fund. The other 50 per cent interest will be saved to insure further accumulation. The alumni members themselves will decide the specific application of these funds.

The endowment program is based on a highly successful plan begun at Boston College in 1960. At present, the Senior Class—the first Senior Class at USF to attempt organization as a group with specific class identity—has had over 25 per cent response and Frey said that it "is striving for 100 per cent."

Warning Notice

As soon as the student reaches 60 or more passing hours, with less than a cumulative grade point ratio of 2.0, he will be placed immediately on Final Academic Warning, according to Registrar's office.

By LARRY GOODMAN
Campus Sports Editor

Enotas won the 1964-65 men's intramural championship as the Fraternity League furnishing the top three overall positions. Talos won the Sportsmanship Award and finished strong to placed third in overall standings. Cratos was second.

It was the second intramural title for the Enotas brothers. They won it in 1961 and were runner-ups in 1962-63 and last year. Enotas is still the only fraternity to win the overall I-M title.

THE ENOTAS Fraternity won five of eleven I-M sports this year and boasts of winning nearly 90 per cent of its intramural athletic events. Of the other top-ten teams, Talos placed second in the bike race and in softball to come from seventh place to third, edging the PE Majors by a slim two points.

Talos won the coveted Sportsmanship Trophy for forfeiting no games, making no protests, participating in almost all I-M sports, and being gentlemen on the field.

Alpha 4 West won the Alpha League title in a race which saw each Alpha team separated by more than 100 points in the final standings.

Beta 3 West took the Beta championship by a surprising 54-point margin over Beta 2 East. The surprising aspect was that Beta 2 East was undefeated in league play in football, basketball and softball, winning the Beta titles in each. The 2-East team, however, lost 75 points by not participating in swimming, whereas 3-West entered the sport competition.

THE PE MAJORS made a farce of the independent league by more than doubling the point-standing of the runner-up team, the Golden Red-Eyes.

Outstanding men's intramural official was Joe Patten, Maresa Carpenter was the outstanding women's official for the second straight year. Tri-SIS was the women's sportsmanship winner.

As an important footnote, it might be added that a men's organization that had participated in all the intramural sports—even if they had come in last place in each—would have placed ninth out of 30 teams in the final overall standings. A women's team entering all women's sports would have placed sixth out of 19 places.

Chislars Promise You'll Find 'Steals' at Their Thieves Market

You won't find bargains at the Thieves' Market, just "steals." Chislars' Club will sponsor the second annual bazaar and "white elephant" sale Wednesday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., at University of Tampa. Proceeds from the furniture, antiques, books, silver, china and assorted fabrics on sale will benefit the university's improvement program. A new feature this year will be decorated handbags made by club members. There will also be a hat booth and boutique for fashion-minded browsers. Members' daughters will be roving sandwich sellers at the bazaar. Included are Mary Dunn, Nancy Cochran, Vicki Fletcher, Nootchie Vega, Allen Simpson and Melinda Nix. Mrs. Sam Davis is chairman of the program. Assistant chairmen are Mrs. Harry Root Jr. and Mrs. W. J. Bullard.

Shower Hour

DESSERT, COFFEE and conversation made for a pleasant shower hour at the Bay Crest Park home of Mrs. James Granberry. The hostess invited 15 guests to honor Mrs. Gilbert Pierce with a baby shower. White and aqua were the leading colors in decorations and refreshments were served from a prized antique urn. To top it off, the social was a surprise to Mrs. Pierce.

Mississippi Trip

OFF TO convention activities in Biloxi, Miss., are Tampa Desk and Derrick Club members, Mrs. Rita Beermann, Mrs. Dorothy Conerly, Mrs. Patricia Crews, Miss Dorothy Kiefer, Mrs. Louise Patchett and Mrs. Joana Watts. Mrs. Patchett will join presidents of groups in Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee to report on individual club activities.

Easter Notes

ONE OF TAMPA'S new club family members is wasting no time getting into the swing of things. Exquisites, wives of Esquires, will welcome Easter season with a project and party. Members are meeting tonight to gather and fill Easter baskets for needy Tampa families. Coming up on their social calendar is an Easter Dance, April 17, at Tampa Airport Motel. The Esquires are planning this event and reservations are a must.

Thin Girls' Special Turn a Minus Into Plus

Editor's Note . . . Today, Ida Jean Kain ends her series for women who don't have to count calories. She's discussed diet and attitude. Her closing topic is weight training.

By IDA JEAN KAIN

All flat-chested girls with a will-to-win, tune in. Change wistful wishing to purposeful action and you can turn a minus into a plus. It's done through weight training.

For beautiful proof, I want to tell you about Joi Lansing. When Joi was singing at the Shoreham Hotel in Washington, I took my tape measure and went down to interview her. Here are her pulchritudinous measurements: bust 39, waist 23, hips 35.

Joi works out with weights every other day. She started by using a five-pound weight in each hand. Later she progressed by using seven and one-half pounds, and still later 10 pounds. Result: She added three inches to the chest measurement. Since she weighs a streamlined 115 pounds for her 5'6" of height, this is certainly proof of the value of weight training in curve building.

How long did it take to accomplish this change? "About eight months, working out with weights every OTHER day," was her reply.

For those interested, here are the exercises, starting with iron dumbbells weighing two to three pounds each. Rules: Breathe normally throughout the exercises. Breathe in on exertion and breathe out on the release phase of the movement.

Position: Lying on back, have arms at shoulder level, elbows bent, dumbbells in each hand.

Action: Breathe in as you raise dumbbells to arms' length above chest, touching dumbbells. Separate dumbbells and lower to original position, exhaling. Rest for a minute, then repeat two or three times . . . not more. Form this same position, arms may be swung across slowly, and back out to shoulder level.

Position: Lying on back on floor, or on firm cushions, arms down sides, dumbbells grasped in each hand.

Action: Raising arms, swing dumbbells back beyond head, touching floor. Swing arms back down to sides.

Do not overdo . . . undertrain rather than overstrain.

For fun, exercise and relaxation, Joi suggests that you aim to be good at some one sport. Tennis is her game, but she loves to swim, too. She is a very health conscious young woman, and has a deep respect for proper nutrition. At breakfast she has milk fortified with nutrient boosters, and her meals are well-balanced.

An accomplished singer, this lovely star has a way with a song. Her upcoming movie assignment is with Frank Sinatra in the comedy "Marriage on the Rocks."

Back to weight training and good nutrition. Thin girls, keep in mind that Joi's curves are a natural because of her health building program.

If you wish to obtain the leaflet "Weight-Training for Curve Building," be sure to send a stamped, self-addressed, LONG envelope addressed to Ida Jean Kain, care of this newspaper.

Vows Spoken

The Rev. Ting Champie solemnized the marriage of Miss Marla Sue Williams and Samuel David Houston Saturday, 7:30 p.m.; in First Christian Church.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Milton L. Williams, 1114 W. Peninsular. Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Houston, 3106 Massachusetts Ave., are parents of the bridegroom.

Satin over lace was the bride's choice for her formal gown. She was given in marriage by her father.

Her attendants were Misses Freida Sessions, Betty Lou Houston, Linda Brewer and Sherrie Gorrell. Tammy Williams was flower girl. Best man was D. W. Houston. Groomsman and ushers were Larry Mashburn, Wallace Houston, David Williams, Raymond Williams, Doug Moon and Jack Jackson. Jimmy Williams was ring bearer.

A reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Houston will live in Tampa at 5113 Central Ave.

FREE "Around The World Trip" Sanitone Sweepstakes Entry Blanks Given At 15 Spotless Stores

By John P. Lambert

How often have you dreamed of an expense-paid around-the-world vacation for two? You now have a golden opportunity to make your rocking chair dream a reality!

Starting today, Spotless Cleaners with 14 stores in Tampa and one in Brandon, invites you to enter their great "Around-the-world" Sanitone Sweepstakes. Nothing to write . . . nothing to buy! FREE official entry blanks are available at all 15 Spotless Cleaners locations listed below.

The lucky winner will spend 30 unforgettable days—with expenses paid for two—vacationing around the world by Pan-Am Jet Clipper . . . visiting such exciting places as London, Frankfurt, Istanbul, Beirut, Rangoon, Calcutta, Hong Kong, Tokyo, and Hawaii.

In addition, Mr. "Bill" Tidwell, President of Spotless Cleaners & Laundry, Inc., will give a quality American Tourister 2-piece luggage set to a local winner participating in the National Sanitone Sweepstakes. Again, there is no purchase required to win the local prize.

The Sanitone drycleaning process, known as "The World's Most Recommended Drycleaning," has for many years won the confidence of Spotless Cleaners customers. Also, leading manufacturers of fine fashions recommend Sanitone drycleaning process because it provides the most thorough cleaning with the gentlest of care for even your most fragile garments. For prolonging the life and good looks of your clothes, Spotless Cleaners is unsurpassed.

Completion Calls For Dedication

Landscaping as a way to mental health? Driftwood Garden Circle has been experimenting with this method, and it works.

The club's main service project for the past two years has been improvement of the area near Hillsborough County Mental Health Association wards.

Members have contributed plants, sprinkler systems, and most of all, time.

Since the landscaping was completed, mowing and general upkeep has been done by the club, assisted by hospital maintenance department.

The biggest part of the project has been installation of a patio for the patient's use.

The entire project is finally complete and will be dedicated Tuesday at 3 o'clock.

Frank Neff, who drew landscaping plans while he was Park Manager, and Clarence Prevatt, who helped with the patio, will be honored.

Guest speaker for the event will be Mrs. W. A. Bingham.

Take a Sock— And Make a Ball

You can make a light, safe ball for children from a cotton work sock, suggests the National Cotton Council.

Cut off the toe of sock and stuff it with cotton batting or cloth rags.

Sew up open end of sock and draw a funny face on it with crayons.
