I have received a donation of census microfilm (1790-1910) for Delaware and Alabama. See attached list. They are not in the best shape, but useable.
They will need new boxes. If you would like them for the cost of postage, please contact me at pcooper at irclibrary.org

Message-ID: <CAA5Zxu8SDAHv8F=M7OO7EPaTn2Hg+h+LeFwzEeB=zkJayfpKrw@mail.gmail.com>

More books to trade.

Our volunteer is trying a new arrangement, as follows:

Items new to the list are still starred (*), but are arranged first so that you don?t have to go through the entire list to find the newest additions.

The books which will be leaving after this round are at the very end of the entire list, still marked with a caret (^) so you don?t even have to look at them!

The ones in the middle aren?t new and haven?t been around enough to be ready for the sale shelf!

Send your requests to Fran's home address (bfm1010 at cox.net) as well as work (xfmillh at fairfaxcounty.gov), so she can start working on them before she comes in next week.

Thanks!

Pam and gang

My question stems from Pams email. I have not gotten rid of the census microfilm but have removed it to archival storage. We have used that valuable floor space for other functions and rarely does anyone ask for the film. If there is a request it takes just a few minutes to retrieve. Has anyone ditched their film altogether?

All,
     Can anyone suggest a MARC record for a newspaper that lists every variation on the title? Preferably one that links to all other titles by using 780's (or other) fields. The variations in title for our local newspaper are not large, but they are cataloged under each title variation separately and since they often used variant titles within the same week/month it drives patrons bats and I am not secure enough in my cataloging skills to undertake this by myself. I have already spent over a week struggling with Polaris just to make it show the dates held for each reel and do not want to pull out the rest of my hair before I retire.

We have kept our film in our publicly accessible drawers and will not consider moving it until we need the space. Both staff and knowledgeable patrons still use our Soundex indexes when online searches do not produce satisfactory results, particularly for the 1910 through 1930 censuses full of non-English origin names of those who worked in the mines in counties where spelling in English was sometimes a challenge. If we ever have to have the space, we will move the census microfilm to non-public storage. We will not dispose of it. For one thing, we can never be sure of retaining our funding for Ancestry Library Edition and/or HeritageQuest. We also still have plenty of patrons who do not know how to use the computer for anything but e-mail, if that, and are not willing/able to learn, but are comfortable using the microfilm.

We also have retained the census transcription books in the Reading Room, after serious discussion about it, since I was in the process of weeding, prioritizing precious space and re-organizing our public Reading Room. Technology is a wonderful thing, but it is far from perfect. Databases are only as searchable as the accuracy of the indexers and the flexibility of the search mechanism allow.

We find it much quicker to check a transcription book, if available for the county and date needed, than to search a database most times in instances where a full original record is not necessary. Without going into detail, I personally find Ancestry's current search results very frustrating and often inexplicable. If I can use a transcription book find the exact spelling of a name, and whether initials, nickname, or maybe a middle name was recorded instead of the given name, I can then find the full record online successfully in far less time.

I'm attending. You can probably just buy the syllabus. You can also usually order recordings of the sessions.

We transferred our film to a storage area, but it is still available upon request.

Same thing with the printed indexes.

I thought it would be okay to get rid of them.

Then one Saturday we had problems with our Internet connection and all our databases were unavailable J

RootsTech 2014 Call For Presentations Closes In Less Than One Week!
Presentation Proposals Due By July 8, 2013

Librarians and Archivists have much to offer in the technology space as it relates to family history as well as records preservation and sharing. Consider making a proposal.

The fourth annual RootsTech conference, hosted by FamilySearch, will be held February 6-8, 2014, at the Salt Palace Convention Center in Salt Lake City, Utah.
RootsTech 2014 will reach thousands of attendees on-site in Salt Lake City and at remote locations around the world.
The RootsTech Selection Committee is looking for outstanding speakers to present world-class content to help attendees discover and share their family stories and connections through technology. Presentations should include new insights, innovations, skills, and best practices where technology helps advance all aspects of family history at any level of experience.

Proposals will be accepted until Monday, July 8, 2013. For more information or to submit a proposal, visit www.rootstech.org/proposals.

EARLY PRINCE WILLIAM NEWSPAPERS

ADDED TO OUR DIGITAL LIBRARY

A number of Prince William County newspapers dating between 1791 and 1923 are now available in our Digital Library under Newspaper Archive, at http://eservice.pwcgov.org/library/digitalLibrary/index.htm
<http://eservice.pwcgov.org/library/digitalLibrary/index.htm> .

This is a work in progress. Current coverage includes:

?   Virginia Gazette and Agricultural Repository (Dumfries), 1791-1793. [9 issues]

?   Republican Journal and Dumfries Advertiser, 1795-1796. [23 issues]

?   Manassas Weekly Gazette, 1869. [1 issue]

?   Manassas Gazette, 1872-1896. [21 issues or fragments]

The above are all our extant Prince William newspapers before 1896. Following are a sampling of later newspapers, which are now online:

?   Manassas Democrat, 1909-1910. [12 issues]

?   Manassas Journal, 1913. [4 issues]

?   Prince William News, 1921-1923. [39 issues]

Some of the images are OCR keyword searchable. Other images, because of poor image quality or scanning problems are not. You can tell if an issue is searchable by opening it and pressing CTRL+A: The text will be highlighted in blue, indicating it has been processed by Optical Character Recognition software. Use CTRL+F to get the search box. Enter any word or phrase. The software will highlight in blue each place in the text where the word or words appear.

We will be adding more newspapers and hope to upgrade our search capabilities as time goes by. We would welcome your comments and suggestions about these efforts to make our historic newspapers accessible. Funding for this project has been supported by the Prince William County Historical Commission.

LEGAL GENEALOGIST JUDY RUSSELL

TO SPEAK AT RELIC AFTER DARK

Registrations are now being accepted for the ninth annual RELIC After Dark, to be held Saturday, September 21 at Bull Run Regional Library.   Judy Russell, JD, CG, ? the Legal Genealogist? will be the featured speaker for this gala event blending education, research, dining and socializing on a Saturday evening. Dr. Russell (http://www.legalgenealogist.com/) has become a familiar figure at national and regional conferences, and will present two of her engaging lectures

?   ?No Person Shall ...Gallop Horses in the Streets: Using Court Records to Tell Family Stories? and

?   ?From Blackstone to the Statutes At Large: How Knowing the Law Makes Us Better Genealogists.?

The doors will open at 6:30 p.m. During the evening, before, between, and after lectures, guests will be offered a variety of hors d?ouvres, beverages and desserts. They will also have the opportunity to use the Library?s facilities to do their own genealogical or historical research. RELIC and Bull Run Library staff will be on hand to assist patrons with our resources. Printing from microfilm and electronic resources will be free. The library will be open until 11 p.m.

This event will be held at Bull Run Regional Library, 8051 Ashton Avenue, Manassas, VA 20110. Admission is $25 per person, cash or check, payable at time of registration.   Checks may be made payable to PWPLS and mailed to RELIC at the above address or delivered in person. Please put ?RELIC After Dark? on the memo line.

RELIC PROGRAMS

Here are our latest offerings. Funding for RELIC programs is provided by the Friends of Central and Bull Run Libraries. Sign language interpretation is available for Prince William Public Library programs if requested at least three weeks in advance. To be notified of upcoming programs and new resources in RELIC, visit eNotifications/subscribe <http://eservice.pwcgov.org/eServices/eNotifications/subscribe.aspx>   and select Library ? What?s New in RELIC. All these programs will take place at the community room at Bull Run Regional Library, 8051 Ashton Avenue, Manassas, VA. Most programs last about one hour. You may register for any of these programs at 703-792-4540 or relic2 at pwcgov.org <mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org> .   For details see RELIC Programs <http://www.pwcgov.org/government/dept/library/RELIC/Pages/RELIC-Programs.aspx> .

UNDERSTANDING GENETIC GENEALOGY

Presented by J. J. ?Jim? Logan

Have you had, or are you considering having your DNA tested for family history research? Learn about the various types of genetic genealogy testing and what they can mean for your genealogy research. This program will be presented by J. J. ? Jim? Logan, group leader of the Fairfax County Genealogical Society?s Genetic Genealogy Special Interest Group (SIG); he is also group administrator of J-mtDNA and Logan DNA projects at FTDNA.

The program will be presented at Bull Run Regional Library on Thursday, July 11, at 2 p.m. To register for this free program email Relic2 at pwcgov.org , or call RELIC at (703) 792-4540.

UNLEASH THE POWER OF GOOGLE

TO FIND YOUR ANCESTORS

Presented by Susie Besecker

        Technology instructor and amateur genealogist Susie Besecker will demonstrate the various ways you can use Google to grow and enhance your family tree.

The program will be presented at Bull Run Regional Library on Tuesday, July 23, 2013, beginning at 7:00 p.m. To register for this free program email Relic2 at pwcgov.org, or call RELIC at (703) 792-4540.

THE BATTLE OF BRISTOE STATION

Presented by Ron Mayer

In this third year of Civil War anniversaries, military historian Ron Mayer rejoins us a third time to impart the story of a major battle that took place here 150 years ago.   Now learn about the campaign that culminated in the Battle of Bristoe Station in October 1863. Though not as bloody as First or Second Manassas, this was a major conflict in the final years of the war.   Mr. Mayer has a knack of describing and illustrating military situations that makes it all interesting and understandable.

This program will be presented at Bull Run Regional Library on Thursday, August 22, 2013, beginning at 11 a.m. and will be repeated Tuesday, August 27, beginning at 7:00 p.m. To register for this free program email Relic2 at pwcgov.org, or call RELIC at (703) 792-4540.

?Genealogy Doctor? Accepting Appointments for Research Help

Don Wilson, head of RELIC, sets aside time each month for free private sessions to mentor persons researching their family history. A thirty-minute session can be used to discuss and analyze an historical or genealogical problem that has stumped you.

Daytime and evening hours are possible. To set up an appointment, please call RELIC at 703-792-4540 or email relic2 at pwcgov.org . Bull Run Regional Library is located at 8051 Ashton Avenue, Manassas, VA 20109.

Have a question about Prince William County history, places or families? Need guidance with your genealogical research? You may contact RELIC staff for help and advice at Ask RELIC <http://www.pwcgov.org/government/dept/library/RELIC/Pages/Ask-RELIC.aspx> or by calling us at 703-792-4540.   Hours, September to June (ET):
Monday-Thursday 10am-9pm, Friday-Saturday 10am-5pm, Sunday noon-5pm. Closed Federal holidays.

Grant is correct in that you may be able to buy a copy of the syllabus. Many of the sessions should be audio taped and available for sale afterwards.?
I am going to the conference and speaking as well.? Kris Rzepczynski, who is giving the Michigan talks you are interested in may be on this list; I find him to be a very accomodating individual.? His handouts are thorough and excellent and would be worth getting.
The Allen County Public Library in Ft. Wayne will definitely have a copy of the syllabus book/CD for their Genealogy Center and that can be a possible?place to make inquiries and see if you can get copies of the sessions mentioned.
If I can be of any help let me know,

Dear Genealogy Librarian:

Here's an overview of what's new and special from Genealogical Publishing Company (Genealogical.com) since our posting on "Librarians Serving Genealogists," in August 2012.

First, please download our 2013 catalogue of over 400 recent and popular titles from our website at <http://www.genealogical.com/upload_images/GPCCatalog.pdf>
http://www.genealogical.com/upload_images/GPCCatalog.pdf.

Next, We continue to add to our series of laminated, four-sided research aids, Genealogy at a Glance, that are prepared by experts in the various specialties within genealogy. Genealogy at a Glance  now boasts 22 topics, including country guides for Poland, Germany, Italy, France, England, Scotland and Ireland; state guides for Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Michigan, and topical guides to the Civil War, Revolutionary War, U.S. Census, the "Old Southwest," Finding Female Ancestors, Immigration, Cemetery research, and more.. Eventually we expect to produce research aids for all the nations that have contributed substantially to the American melting pot, as well as for the states east of the Mississippi River and for a number of other subjects specific to genealogy. Each Genealogy at a Glance sells for $8.95. You will find a complete list of Genealogy at a Glance titles at this link:

<http://www.genealogical.com/index.php?main_page=advanced_search_result&search_in_description=1&criteria=Title&keyword=Genealogy+at+a+Glance&x=57&y=9>

Librarians already familiar with our publishing program will recognize many of the authors of our newest paperback reference books. We continue to publish the works of prolific authors Jeff Bowen, Dr. David Dobson, and Vernon Skinner. At the end of 2012, we published Mr. Skinner's 42nd and final volume in the series, Abstracts of the . . . Prerogative Court of Maryland, which spans the entire colonial period. Skinner has embarked on a new series for us, Abstracts of the Debt Books of the Provincial Land Office of Maryland, beginning with three volumes covering St. Mary's County. Jeff Bowen has produced many volumes documenting the claims for land filed by the Creek, Choctaw, and Chickasaw tribesmen with the Dawes Commission. He also transcribed a 1932 census of Hopi and Navajo tribesmen. Libraries with Native American collections should also consider John Ernest's definitive work, THE COMPLETE SEMINOLE. The Integration and Analysis of Seminole Records Concerning Enrollment, Allotment, Distribution; and Civil Records Developed by the Dawes Commission. For his part, Dr. Dobson has produced new volumes on Scots, Scots-Irish, and Irish emigrants to North America during the colonial period based on hard-to-find sources. Still other recent titles include The Name Is the Game, by Lloyd de Witt Bockstruck; transcriptions of Baltimore County, Maryland records, by Michael Ports; a new DVD on the genealogical background of former-slaves interviewed by the WPA in the 1930s; and more. (A complete list of our new works, giving item number, short title, and price, follows below. You will find detailed product descriptions on each title at www.genealogical.com).

Once again, we encourage you to <http://www.genealogical.com/content/pointers_signup.html> subscribe to "Genealogy Pointers," our free weekly e-newsletter. Every issue of "Genealogy Pointers" contains special product offers and excellent tips for tracing your roots. "Pointers" readers are the first to learn about new products (I'm pretty sure we will have some surprises for you before 2013 concludes), and they also get our special weekly mailings announcing products discounted for 24 hours by 40% or more! As libraries transition to online ordering, your subscription to "Genealogy Pointers" could result in significant savings for your institution.

Best wishes,

Joe Garonzik

Hello All,

Does anyone know off the top of their heads if there is an electronic product that includes the "Honolulu Advertiser" for 1965-1975, give or take? GenealogyBank doesn't go back that far. I have been in communication with the paper who has sent me to the state archives, who I will be contacting.

Thanks for any thoughts!

Hello All,

In the last 24 hours, has anyone been getting a "submit" error message in NewsPaperArchive? It appears when you click from the hit list to bring up the image of the page. It seems to be relating to trying to bring the page up as a PDF.

And, yes, our IT department has contacted NewsPaperArchive.

Thanks,

Mary

Thanks! We have been having one problem after another with it ever since they changed the interface a few weeks back. Really, to the point where I have almost stopped using it, I used to be in it all day long.

Again, thanks!

We had a problem with NewspaperArchive when we installed Google Chrome as the browser on our patron computers. Apparently Google Chrome comes with its own version of reader that we used to use Adobe Acrobat for. It's not compatible with NewspaperArchive. The best fix for the problem was to disable the Google Chrome reader, which would then cause the patron computers to revert to Adobe Acrobat automatically. Sorry I don't know the technical details.

Hi everybody

The Milstein Division has recently published a blog post about the Ellis Island name change myth. You all know about this, of course, but the reaction to this post has been quite interesting! Although reaction to the post has been overwhelmingly positive, and despite the fact that this story has been told before, I have still been variously called a liar, a bad librarian and a revisionist for suggesting that names might not have been changed by officials at the immigration center!

Sharon,

Perhaps check a local or regional foundation. We were able to purchase a few pieces of equipment, including a digital microfilm reader - scanner a few years ago through that route.

Our library received a call from OCI in Oklahoma offering to digitize our yearbooks for us for free. They will even pay the postage. We are interested in taking them up on the offer, but you know the saying ?if it sounds too good
? so I wanted to see if anyone else has worked with this project before. If so, please tell me your feelings on how things were handled and any issues that you had with them.

Hi Nancy! (waving across the river)

We have done some yearbooks for our digital archives, so you might contact Renny McBride about the issues she worked through to get it done locally, and copyright issues she dealt with in the project. Copyright would have to be an issue, no matter who does the project,depending on the years. Indianapolis-Marion County PL has also done a lot of yearbooks, so they may be a brain to pick.

So, what's the matter with providing digitization training for inmates?
Should they only learn useful skills like hacking?

Subject: [Genealib] Digitizing newspapers

Our library received a call from OCI in Oklahoma offering to digitize our yearbooks for us for free. They will even pay the postage. We are interested in taking them up on the offer, but you know the saying ?if it sounds too good ?? so I wanted to see if anyone else has worked with this project before. If so, please tell me your feelings on how things were handled and any issues that you had with them.

Thanks,

They are doing this throughout Oklahoma. The other libraries who have taken advantage of it in our system had no problems at all. We will be sending approximately 80 yearbooks to them next week, postage paid. And believe me, if things don't do right, I'll be the first to squeal. The representative assured me that they have not lost a book ... yet. I want to hustle and get them in since they're extending the offer out of state.

We are also asking for bids for another project for which we will be paying.

The prison systems in Oklahoma has various work programs, including building furniture. Two of the libraries I have worked at had furniture from OCI: tables, chairs, even a custom built circulation desk.

The free yearbook project seems to be a promotion to help get the word out that they do provide such services if needed for other projects. They are doing state and county government records, also, both in and outside of Oklahoma.

They were perfectly upfront with me. When they say OCI (Oklahoma Corrections Industries), that means the prisons are doing the work. (At least they won't be taking them home with them.) Plain and simple. In fact, I offered to deliver the yearbooks to the prison, but will be taking them up on the free shipping.

Nothing creepy. Sounds like good, old fashioned work to me. One of the prisons also has a program where they sort and test the eyeglasses donated to Lions Clubs before they are sent to needy people in other countries. These are the people that have been providing vehicle tags for Oklahomans for years.

They already have a nice number of our local yearbooks, even some we don't have. In exchange we get copies of EVERYTHING for our local high schools, not just what we send. I'm organizing a collection for the high school from which I graduated.

Has anyone checked for accuracy in what they have done? McKinney Public Library had their yearbooks done. I'm then taking the images and putting them online in our Collin County Digital Collection. So far in the two books I've done, I have found missing/duplicate pages in both. The books have all the pages correctly it's the scanning that's wrong.   They have done a very good job other than the missing pages. I just want y'all to be aware of this.

I haven't heard anything yet from other libraries in the system, but it may be that they haven't checked that closely.

I think they would be open to returning them to correct mistakes. I was trying to get a complete run to send them all at once, but they said I can send what we have now, then more later. Since I'm begging from a museum and the school, all of us will get our own copy because they have assisted with the project. But they may not provide a copy for individual lenders.

In exchange we get copies of EVERYTHING for our local high schools, not just what we send. I'm organizing a collection for the high school from which I graduated.

I am by no means a copyright expert, but I believe these can be considered preservation copies.

The Copyright Advisory Network website (ALA) has really good information on preservation copies and other copyright issues.

Indeed it does look as if OCI has a digitizing dept:

http://www.ocisales.com/ContentDisplay.aspx?CI=Digital%20Imaging%20Services

Grants to purchase microfilm readers and digitizing equipment these days usually [but not always!] come from local foundations and individuals who see what a library does and has done and donate. While I was working at Rochester, we got 600,000 in grants from local well to do people, and another 50,000 to establish a Digital History Center. They have now gotten new ViewScan digital microfilm readers and established the Walter F. Becker Digital History Center.

Locally to me, volunteer groups (like the local genealogy society ( http://nyrgs.org/crpc.pdf) and NewYorkHeritage.org (where I also volunteer) have done such; there is a man in Fulton NY who has done nearly; 25 million pages of papers for free. [http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=KVWDX6oaYCg]. It costs to have local library research councils (yet another place I volunteer....) do the scanning though they do do it at cost. Still it doesn't get done unless they have money.

So, in sum, check a LOT of different sources. Maybe partnering with a college that has digital labs and is looking for student interns would prove productive.

If anyone wants to continue the discussion I can send you names locally here to speak with.

Message-ID: <CAJv_p_WtBr82nWZeFZtaxxJ1nxBewbL8Cgv-2RPUb_-4qL+RGA@mail.gmail.com>

I just came across the following article this morning:

http://www.journalgazette.net/article/20130714/LOCAL/307149942.

"Eventually, the deal with Ancestry ended, and the library contracted with Heritage Quest. Now that relationship has ended and ACPL is working with Brightsolid, an online publishing firm in the United Kingdom. Not only does the contract keep the index going, but Brightsolid hopes to do something no American firm has been able to do: Link the index to the full text of the article."

While the possibility of a full-text PERSI is exciting, what does this mean for the future of access to PERSI on HeritgeQuest? Will this new partnership affect access?   Will HQ still continue to license PERSI? Does anyone have the inside scoop?

Does anyone have an interest in these guides, which we'd be happy to send for the price of postage? I have just begin to withdraw them, but it looks like we might have most if not all of the state guides, plus some for cities as well. They have been previously cataloged but are in good shape.

Kristen, I am so glad you asked. I was wondering that myself when I read the article! If it ends up in another database, especially a stand alone, it is doubtful that I will be able to subscribe to it, my budget being what it is. I am always strongly encouraging folks to use PERSI, I will be sad if it is no longer in my life.

Top Ten Techniques for Finding More in Library Catalogs

Most genealogists go to library Web sites, find the online catalog, make a search using that catalog's basic search features, and assume they have found everything. Not only are there many ways to use online library catalogs for genealogical research, but such sites often provide access to a wide variety of additional resources and databases.

Presenter : Barbara Renick

Barbara Renick teaches at national genealogy conferences and the FamilySearch Center in Orange California; was a contributing editor for the National Genealogical Society computer magazine for eleven years; authored Genealogy 101: How to Trace Your Family?s History and Heritage sponsored by NGS for their 100th Anniversary; and currently serves on the NGS Board of Directors as secretary.

Top Ten Techniques for Finding More in Library Catalogs
http://www.familytreewebinars.com/webinar_details.php?webinar_id=79

Most genealogists go to library Web sites, find the online catalog, make a search using that catalog's basic search features, and assume they have found everything. Not only are there many ways to use online library catalogs for genealogical research, but such sites often provide access to a wide variety of additional resources and databases.

Lynda,

We're using VITA Digital Toolkit <http://vitatoolkit.ca/> from Our Digital World and have been very pleased. If you or anyone from your library will be attending ALA, they will be there in the exhibitor's hall. They've put together an Illinois Newspaper Portal to showcase some of the features.
Check it out at http://vitacollections.ca/IllinoisNews/search. It should be able to handle pretty much anything you want to capture or index. The only cons I can think of is that the data entry page seems a bit cluttered (because of all the options) but it may be customizable and I just never looked into changing it. I've attached the instructions I made for a volunteer who was inputting items from the "Bridal Aisle" of our local newspaper. It includes some screen shots so you can get an idea of what it looks like and how we use it at our library.

Hope this helps!

Dear List:

We currently use Evanced software for our obituary index. We have been informed that this product will no longer be supported in the near future, so we are exploring our options for a change.

Would you mind sharing what you use to index obituaries, the pros and cons, and if you would recommend it. It would be a bonus if the same software could be adapted to index marriages and births from newspaper announcements.

Thank you, and feel free to reply on or off list. lschreiner at hcpl.org

Subject: [Genealib] Michigan Breakfast at FGS update
Message-ID: <000901ce8194$9a28c870$ce7a5950$@mimgc.org>

Dear Family History Librarians,
The Michigan Breakfast at the Federation of Genealogical Societies Conference (FGS) in 40 days and is almost half sold out! Meet and reunite with other researchers seeking Midwestern roots at the final morning of FGS!
The Michigan Genealogical Council is proud to be a part of this year's FGS Conference in Fort Wayne, Indiana. We are sponsoring a breakfast on the final morning, August 24, of the conference on the main floor of the Allen County Public Library. This buffet breakfast begins at 6:45 a.m. and will finish in time for attendees to arrive in time for their first session Saturday morning in the Grand Wayne Convention Center across the street.
The cost of the breakfast is $15 with all profits going to the War of 1812 Preserve the Pensions Project. There will be two brief presentations, the first about the status of researching in the Great Lakes State and the status of the Preserve the Pensions Project. Advance registration is required for this event. Tickets are available through Eventbrite and the direct link is http://michiganbreakfast.eventbrite.com.
We ask that you share this email with your colleagues who may have an interest in researching in the Great Lakes State, who may be attending the FGS Conference. We have been encouraging Michigan genealogical and historical societies to be a part of the Preserve the Pensions Project.
This is a joint project between the FGS, the National Archives, Fold3, and Ancestry.com. Each dollar donated is matched by Ancestry, doubling your donation. These images will be available for free, forever on Fold3.com.
Register today! http://michiganbreakfast.eventbrite.com.
We look forward to having breakfast with you next month!

        Yes, OCI is the Oklahoma Correctional Institute. We recently did have all of our local school district yearbooks digitized through OCI and were very impressed with them. Very fast turnaround, willing to answer any questions, very professional. We had to get permission to have the yearbooks copied from the school district. The High School and District Service Offices also helped fill in with loaned copies that we were missing.
        We had a librarian working with a digitization grant work with them and she was very impressed.

    We thought this was as good as "money from home".   CTLS did all the technical paperwork stuff to help us along the way.
  We sent 133 items from our collection. This represented the 4 school

The service was prompt, very well accomplished, carefully handled.
Our staff member who worked lots with this was very complimentary about

Having lapsed for 2 years, for want of funds, my library now has an Ancestry Library subscription again.

I'm planning to do a program for our patrons, introducing them to ALE & giving them a "tour" and a few tips.

 If anyone has any notes or resources for a similar program (or any good suggestions or reminders), I would greatly appreciate anything you are willing to share.

Hello:

Ancestry also has a great resource for librarians to help with research questions and questions about using Ancestry Library Edition.? You can go to Ancestryreference-desk.com.? This site will also cross post or pull from the Ancestry blogs and other social media items that librarians may want to be aware of.?

The other suggestion of using our Learning Center is a great one.? The PDF are great handouts for library patrons.?

If you have additional questions or thoughts you can always reach out the Ancestry Library Team.? That e-mail ancestrylibraryteam at ancestry.com or alt at ancestry.com .? If you have questions you would like to talk about face to face, I will be at the FGS conference next month in Ft. Wayne.

Hello,

Last year we held our first after-hours genealogy research event at our public library. Our library does not have a dedicated genealogy room or large print collection, but we do offer ALE, HQ, and other online resources. We also have a very active genealogy club and partnered with them to provide volunteers to assist people with their research. The event was successful, but I would like to avoid some of the issues that we encountered.

We had a difficult time when everyone began arriving and we were trying to direct people as to where to go, etc. What format have others followed for a research only event (no speakers or classes)? Do you ask individuals to identify their research interests when they register? Do you try to group individuals with similar research interests together? How do you help beginners? Is there information that you make available to the participants before the program?

Thank you-you may reply off list.

Thanks, Megan and Kim. In addition to what?s already been mentioned, here are several other training resources available for Ancestry Library Edition users:

?   Four 3-minute videos on ProQuest?s YouTube webpage that cover specific features of Ancestry Library Edition: http://www.youtube.com/playlist?list=PL-aFAdxOSTDcpY0OQQoffKmX2AEjpUYUP

?   While detailed ProQuest LibGuides are designed especially for your library staff, they are equally useful for patrons: http://proquest.libguides.com/ (Click on the Genealogy Group link in the ?Go to? section of the webpage.) The Ancestry LibGuide is frequently updated with examples of Ancestry content that showcases various historical events throughout the year.

We do a lock-in of this kind every year. Shortly after the event begins we offer an optional tour of our resources-in our case we do have a dedicated genealogy room, a microfilm room, and another area where we have old city directories. This is a good way for beginners or people new to the library to see what the possibilities are. Veterans of this event usually just dive in researching. Our genealogy society provides a largish group of volunteers who circulate on the floor, helping people with their individual research problems, especially beginners.

If your genealogy resources are not all easy to find and/or in one spot, you might want to create a handout that lists your main attractions (perhaps with a floor map?)-you could give that to each new arrival.

This year we are also going to have a speaker for the first time (optional, and in a different area from the genealogy room), doing a talk on resources for fleshing out your family history. We'll see how that goes over. J

One problem we used to have was getting everyone checked in (we make people register in advance) without creating bottlenecks. We now have a check-in area downstairs for that, and then send them upstairs to our genealogy floor. Upstairs we have a table for handouts and a volunteer or two to direct people to what they're interested in.

It's been a very popular event for us-I hope yours goes well!

Just bought a Magic Wand II on Saturday for my Genealogical Society to use scanning church records.   I got the more expensive version with 900 dpi as an option (which you only use for jpg, not pdf), a 32 G SD card, and a pack of batteries, all for $125. It scans 8.5 inches wide, so large ledger sized volumes have to be done in two parts. This was at Staples.

The Library has had one for several months. We?ve scanned newspaper articles (usually to get the photos better than microfilm allows), quadrangle maps (it was a way to get a color copy), a young man?s discharge papers so he could attach them to a r?sum?, and court records.   Upload as pdf to any computer, no special software.

Your other alternative is a Flip-Pal, but then you have to use its software to ? stitch together? images to get up to 8.5 x 11. However, I did meet a woman who was using a Flip-Pal to take images of a friendship quilt. Because you must move the Magic Wand over the document, it won?t work on that uneven surface.

I use a flippal and love it!   Stitching is so easy! I copied an 18X30 panoramic photo of a 1921 family reunion, stitched it together and you can not tell the difference!

I recently saw a woman digitizing city directories, a lot of them. She was using an LG mouse scanner. It was awesome to watch her. She showed me how she could just "mouse" over it in any direction and the data appeared on her computer screen. She then manipulated it as to size, getting rid of the unwanted outside jagged borders.

I am in search of a hand held portable scanner that works well for text and photos and I thought you all are probably the best place to start. Any recommendations?
Hoping to not spend more than $200.

Thanks!

This is the mouse scanner to which Ann Staley was referring:
http://tinyurl.com/lwhwq3d I recently bought something very similar...a different brand, but same idea. I haven't had a chance to use it yet, but it's a pretty neat idea! I also have the Magic Wand scanner and the Flip Pal. Both come in handy in different situations.

I've edited this announcement so that it is just the genealogy class. I've added

>Most short courses in genealogical librarianship actually focus on genealogy and only discuss library concerns briefly. This course seeks to reverse that. While a brief introduction to genealogy will be given, the majority of the course will focus on collection development, reference interviews, programming, and support for genealogical researchers. By the end of the course you will understand how genealogy reference interviews differ from normal reference interviews. You will also be familiar with the core print and online references needed to support most basic genealogical questions. Finally, you will have been introduced to some of the resources that can help you develop programming or be used in other ways to support your genealogical reference activities.

Do You Need Help With the Care and Handling of Family Papers?
The State Archives of North Carolina and the State Historical Records Advisory Board (SHRAB) will create tutorials for the general public about the care and handling of family papers. These tutorials will be available on our YouTube channel. By completing this brief questionnaire<https://www.surveymonkey.com/s/SHRABTutorial>,(https:// www.surveymonkey.com/s/SHRABTutorial) you will help us shape the content of these tutorials. Please take a few moments to complete this questionnaire by August 12,

I have a foolish question to which I'm hoping someone has a good answer. We are currently using Omeka for our photo memory project. Omeka uses both subjects and tags for identifying photographs. How do you input proper names that will appear in a tag cloud? If I invert the name (Glasgow, Elizabeth) Omeka separates the names and omits the coma. I'd like to hear how other people are handling this, and I'd be happy to take my answers directly.

I have just used the name in its usual order "Elizabeth Glasgow" or "Annie B. Jennings" - I believe as long as there is no comma it can deal with any string of words. If you wanted to keep them alphabetical perhaps you could try a hyphen or underscore, so "Glasgow-Elizabeth"

Just a quick reminder that registration for two of RUSA's online learning offerings closes this week!

Please share this message with colleagues and distribution lists as appropriate!

>>>ONLINE LEARNING: Genealogy 101 Jul. 29 - Sep. 1, 2013

Registration closes Thursday, July 25

Previous course participants have raved about this valuable course for its hands-on genealogy research assignments, techniques for effective research, and covering what resources and databases are available for genealogy research and how to use them. They've also praised instructor Matt Rutherford for his responsiveness and support throughout the course. Designed for reference staff with little or no experience in genealogy, or those who need a solid refresher on the tools available.

Registration starts at $130 for RUSA members.

>>>WEBINAR: Using Web Video to Promote Library Resources and Your Expertise, July 30, 2:00-3:00p.m.

Registration closes Friday, July 26

This webinar will teach you how to create your own web videos to provide personalized and topic-specific instruction, showcase your resources and expertise, and reach users wherever they may be online. Sponsored by RUSA's Business Reference and Services Section (BRASS).

Registration starts at $40 for RUSA members.

We also have another webinar happening in early August-it's not too early to register for this one.

>>>Meet Them Where They Are: 6 Steps To Market Research Success, Aug. 2, 2:00-3:00p.m.

This webinar presents 6 fundamental steps to follow to conduct market research. It illustrates the differences between 5 market research methods and explains how to select the right method. This webinar is distinct from others because it provides a quick, easy, and effective way to begin market research, regardless of the level of expertise of the attendees.

I contacted the folks from the University of Georgia Libraries here in Athens who are working on this since Univ. of Georgia is one of the partners.? Here is the response I got back from Kristy Dixon who is the Coordinator for this project from the Digital Library of Georgia.

 Digital Public Library of America (DPLA) brings together the riches of America’s libraries, archives, and museums, and makes them freely available to the world. It strives to contain the full breadth of human expression, from the written word, to works of art and culture, to records of America’s heritage, to the efforts and data of science.
The DPLA aims to expand this crucial realm of openly available materials, and make those riches more easily discovered and more widely usable and used.
The DPLA offers a single point of access to millions of items—photographs, manuscripts, books, sounds, moving images, and more—from libraries, archives, and museums around the United States. Users can browse and search the DPLA’s collections by timeline, map, format, and topic; save items to customized lists; and share their lists with others. Users can also explore digital exhibitions curated by the DPLA’s content partners and staff.” -- http://dp.la/info/about/faq/

In essence, DPLA offers a single point of access to digitized objects from over 450 partners across the country. You might point your patron(s) to this link that explains in more detail how the hubs and partners work to contribute to DPLA: http://dp.la/info/about/who/partners/hubs/
It’s a growing resource, with 2.5 million items and growing. The DPLA is completely open and free to use.
Your
 patron asked about the difference between DPLA and Internet Archive. The models for these initiatives are very different. The Internet Archive is a resource that offers many services, one of which allows partners to archive digital exhibitions and other content. DPLA is a portal that harvests metadata records from partner institutions and makes it all searchable in a single access point. Internet Archive contributes metadata to DPLA, so Internet Archive content is searchable through DPLA.
Also, DPLA has the sole focus of providing access to material from libraries, archives, museums, and other cultural heritage institutions.

Hi Kathryn,

The Michigan State Archives requested Volumes 58 & forward, so I will be sending to them. Perhaps you could check with them for any possible future duplicates they may receive.

Also, wouldn't the Detroit City Publc Library have these journals? Won't they be divesting of their holdings soon?

Peggy,

I sincerely hope DPL will not be divesting anything however, with the way the State of Michigan has been running that may indeed happen and we will all be the worse off for it (personal soapbox).

Thanks for offering the magazines to the list.

Hello,

I have been trying to find a source that show or describe what areas or boundaries were included in a census precinct for various years and locations. I haven't found anything on the Census Bureau's page or the county/parish websites I've searched.

I have been able to use some Sanborn maps to map out where people lived but so far nothing that correlates a precinct with any specific locations.

Thanks,

   Our library has been using an ST Viewscan. We have been given a quote from STimaging on a replacement, the ST Viewscan II System. We have newspaper on microfilm, court records and census, etc. Occasionally we have records on microfiche. We have had lots of problems with this machine over the years.

    Has anyone used these microfilm readers/printers? Do you have an opinion as to their reliability? We would like to know what other libraries are using or what you would recommend. We prefer a machine this is user-friendly with intuitive controls, but price will have to be a factor in the final analysis.

   We anticipate making a purchase in the near future as this is our only reader/printer, and we are the only repository for our local newspaper records.

   We would greatly appreciate feedback from anyone who has done research in this area.

Hello everyone!
   I am a "new" genealogy/local history librarian. I will be attending the FGS Conference and was wondering if anyone had any great information to share about utilizing volunteers in your Genealogy/Local History rooms. I don't have time to spend helping patrons in-depth...usually the most I get to do is run in and show them the indexes and where the microfilm is.   We want to start a volunteer program for helping patrons.
   If you have any advice...you can email me...and maybe we can meet up at FGS!

Thanks!!

The worst part is that you cannot "get out" unless you sign in, i.e., become a member and I sincerely doubt opting out will do a bit of good. They are linked with FB and I can find no way on FB to exclude them. ACK.

We could talk awhile about FB, couldn't we?
I do the absolute minimum with both my page and the CTLS FB page.
It's annoying to see people put up their daily musings, like they have nothing better to do.
I wish they'd go to my house & dust. ;-)
Take care,
Laurie

I still have a LinkedIn account, but don't do a lot with it. I just love the people who want you to endorse them, even though you've known them for a day.

Sarah, what benefits do you see in having an associated LinkedIn group?

One reason I ask is that one of the other groups of librarians I'm associated with (ACRL/ULS Technology in University Libraries) created such a group, and I don't think that it ever got used. I suspect that people already feel that they have enough places online to check for information.

I should probably point out that I asked the same question in early April, and the responses are in the GENEALIB archive:

The benefit I see is for the librarians who may not like Listservs - especially younger librarians. While for some of us it might be yet another thing to check, for most it could be an either/or. And, when you register for a group (or any time thereafter), you can use your personal group settings for whether you get e-mail for new posts or not. If you do, then you really won't have to check LI [LinkedIn] unless something in the e-mail summary peaks your interest.

I do agree that the endorsement feature in LI generates a lot of garbage - and little, if any benefit - IMHO. You can turn much of that off.

LinkedIn is a growing professional networking space that crosses industries. I'm using it a ton as I try and find a job and grow a library research consulting business. It not only allows me to quickly find folks at libraries who don't post staff listings, but it also allows me to post updates on what I'm doing and what pertinent items of interest I've uncovered.

A GENEALIB LI group could be scoped so that postings remain within what we do here on the Listserv.

Having a group would also provide this Listserv with additional visibility. And, it would allow those who join to see who else is a member of the group.

It might not work, but then again, it? might.

I'm a member of the SLA Solo's Division - we have both a Listserv and a LI group.
The former gets more activity, but the latter does have some unique gems posted.

There were om microfilm.

A local genealogy society volunteer used them to do guide to the local (Rochester) census. They have photocopies of maps of the city, with the areas marked with a magic marker, and a prose description in them.

The 1910 federal census for Rochester, New York : a guide to aid in searching for a family entry (1982), by Ault, James AHe also did:

1920 census guide for Rochester & Monroe County, New York : a finding aid for locating a specific family in the 1920 census (1992)

I recommend this site: ATLAS OF HISTORICAL COUNTY BOUNDARIES
http://publications.newberry.org/ahcbp/index.html
It allows you to see how the county boundaries changed in different years and the history behind the counties: where they gain or lost land, when they were forms, etc.

Although it doesn't get to the precinct level, it does allow you to compare modern day boundaries with historical ones. Useful when counties broke up to form new ones.

Also try David Rumsey Map Collection Database
http://www.davidrumsey.com/home and Historic Map Works http://www.historicmapworks.com/ I have found some county maps in both of them..

Another option is on Ancestry.com - U.S., Indexed County Land Ownership
Maps, 1860-1918
It doesn't have all maps, but maybe it will have the one you need.

Good luck
