SIXTY-EIGHTH YEAR—No. 247

TAMPA, FLORIDA, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1960

PRICE FIVE CENTS

Thanksgiving Is First Stop On USF Vacation Schedule

24-Day Halt at Christmas, One Off for Gasparilla

While the University of South Florida's calendar for the coming year is still a bit vague on several dates, students can look forward to a boxcar full of vacation days, more than most universities offer. Topping the heap is a 24-day Christmas holiday period, with a 5-day spring vacation running second. And the latter may offer a low-cost student cruise to Nassau, land of the limbo.

USF Band Plans Concert for Nov. 30

The first USF band, consisting of 45 members, is well on its way toward a busy year of practice and concerts. Each member was personally auditioned before being accepted in the newly formed band. New members are invited to join, especially in the woodwind and reed sections.

The officers elected by the band for the coming year are Kenneth Taylor, president; Lewis Messer, vice president; Sharon Decker, secretary-treasurer; James Klapp and George Uterhardt, council; Eunice Luke, librarian; Dell LaBrecque and Bob Adair, property managers; and Judy Weaver, clerk.

The officers will help form the policies of the band, write the constitution, and organize the band's social organization. "These people have made a credible beginning and I am very pleased with their initiative in forming the band," stated Dr. Gale L. Sperry, assistant professor of music.

"We seem to draw a more responsible and intelligent people," Sperry said in reference to the students.

Dr. Sperry has devised a band master schedule specifying practice hours which each new member of the band must accept. By this schedule, the band practices on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday for an hour and 15 minutes.

At present the band is working mostly on concert music. It was emphasized, though, that each part of the band had its own music literature. "The band need no longer reflect the music of the symphony orchestra, but rather should play literature written for this type of band. It should not imitate some other group."

The first concert is planned for Nov. 30. It will be presented in the afternoon for the enjoyment of USF students and visitors.

Other concerts are planned for Feb. 4 at Chamberlain High Auditorium, Feb. 28 in the teaching auditorium, and the last on May 24, before second semester ends.

Although the band has no immediate plans for marching, uniforms presently being designed for concert use will have an overlay that will transform it into a striking marching uniform. These uniforms should be ready for use before second semester.

In reference to uniforms, Dr. Sperry said, "I believe that girls should look like girls!" For this reason the girls are having a special concert dress made. The decision as to the design will be made by the girls.

As for marching, the girls may either wear men's uniforms and march with the men, or march as a separate unit in a more feminine uniform in correspondence with the men's uniform.

Major and marching groups will be organized until there is more focus on the marching band. When they are formed, each member must first become a band member.

"This is for the best interest of the band since the band is for the satisfaction of the need for music first and activity second," stated Dr. Sperry. "It will keep them more closely knit that way."

In setting up a school calendar there are many complicated situations that must be overcome. Classes starting late and the fact the USF student enrollment is a commuting one was a guide post to handling some of the unusual situations.

As the calendar stands now it looks like this:

Thanksgiving—Students get one day off only, Thursday.

Christmas Holiday Period—The vacation period starts after the last class on Friday, Dec. 9, and classes do not resume until Tuesday, Jan. 3. This gives students 24 full days away from the classroom. (Those having Saturday classes will meet, however, on Saturday, Dec. 10.)

Mid-Semester Break—The break starts after the last exams are over Saturday, Feb. 4. Classes were originally scheduled to resume Thursday, Feb. 9, but have been moved up to Wednesday, Feb. 8, to allow for another day off, Gasparilla Invasion Day, Monday, Feb. 13.

Spring Vacation—This period, known to some as the Easter holiday season, begins as classes end on Thursday, March 30. Classes will resume on Wednesday morning, April 5. This is five full days away from classes.

Plans are being made now for a low-cost student cruise to Nassau, land of the limbo. This has become a gathering point for students from all over the eastern United States at Spring vacation time and should be popular with USF students.

Memorial Day—University officials have not yet decided on a Memorial Day vacation. If students get a day off it will probably be Tuesday, May 30. Dr. Lewis Mayhew believes we will not have the day off. Dean Harold Johnson feels sure we will. Students can make their own guesses.

End of Second Semester—Ends with last exams on Saturday, June 10. Summer school orientation is expected to draw some 700 to 1,000 students back to the university, Thursday, June 15.

July 4—Students and university employees are expected to have the day off.

Summer School Ends—Following the last exam on Saturday, Aug. 11, there will be no classes until the fall semester classes open, Monday, Oct. 2. The reason for the late start, university officials say, is to allow for completion of the No. 1 dorm which has been scheduled for use that semester. The dorm is not expected to be completed until Oct. 1.

Dr. Mayhew, director of the Office of Evaluation Services, is officially in charge of the university calendar and any official changes will be announced by his office.

Many complicated situations arise that must be overcome in setting up a school calendar, officials explain. In arriving at a calendar for USF, adjustments had to be made in accordance with construction time, enrollment, local activities, faculty acquaintance, and other similar conditions. The calendar for the 1960-61 semesters was set up almost two years ago, resulting in some deviation.

Sadie Hawkins Dance Planned For Saturday

Sadie Hawkins week began today on campus and will be climaxed Saturday night with a dance from 8:30 to 12 p.m. Nov. 26. The theme is a take-off of the popular comic strip "Lil Abner," and is designed to give co-eds the chance to "catch" the boy of their choice. Rules for getting a date are: The girl must patch a date and the boy must wear the patch during the week. Like patches are worn to the dance by both the girl and her date. The girl must pay the price of 10 cents a foot for the height of her date. The boy is expected to escort her for the rest of the evening.

The decorations will favor the quaint town of Dogpatch. All music will be supplied by WLCY radio. Dress is Bermudas or sports clothes.

One Neat Person

A student was walking from the Science Building to the University Center. He stopped, looked, then quickly bent down and picked up someone else's litter. On his way he stopped to dispose of the paper in a wastebasket.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"After brief observation, Worthal, I think I've found the bottleneck in your plan to improve your study habits here at the University of South Florida."

Preodor Given Standing Ovation

Edward Preodor, professor of music at the university, gave two performances in the Science Lecture Auditorium, S100 last Thursday. The concert was held at 11 a.m. and again at 8:30 p.m. Dr. Armin J. Watkins, associate professor of music at the university, accompanied him at the piano.

Prof. Preodor included in his program, music ranging from the Baroque period to contemporary times. This included works by Bach, Brahms, Haydn, and Ravel.

Another "university first" was introduced in the recital with the debut appearance of the University String Quartet, which played "Quartet in B flat" by Haydn. The quartet consists of Prof. Preodor and Sabina Micarelli playing the violin, Dr. Watkins the viola, and Denise Howarth the cello.

Gun Toting Taboo at USF

The security office has made the following statement: "There will be no hunting on campus."

The reason being mainly that no guns of any sort are allowed on campus with the idea of discharging these firearms. There have been no reported incidents at this time and the student body seems to be cooperating, all the way. There is, however, a pickup order for anyone caught firing a gun on campus. The security office would like to have all students help in controlling this. The rule was made for a definite purpose and any incidents should be reported immediately to the security office. The campus is considered private property and hunters will be considered trespassers.

This concert was but one in the many events included in the educational-entertainment series scheduled at the university. Dr. A. Beecher, director of the Fine Arts division, and in charge of the USF Special Events Program, has been and should be commended for the success with which the program has met.

Special notice should be given to the fact that these events are open not only to students at the university, but to the public as well. There is no admission charge for any of these events.—V.R.

CAMPUS ROUNDUP

USF Directory On Sale, 50c

UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH FLORIDA... USF's first Personnel Directory was published last Friday by the Central Duplicating Office. The directory is about the size of the "Courses, Classes and Programs of USF" book, and has gold overlay on a light green background with the school's seal shown.

The directory is in four segments described as follows: A. An alphabetically listed cross-index of every point of potential interest on the campus, its geographical location and the phone number (if it has one); B. Each department will be listed alphabetically with the names of the administrators recorded under the particular department to which they belong; C. The faculty, including all other personnel working for the University, will be listed as they are presently listed in the staff's personnel directory, (i.e. first line: last name, title, area, and campus phone extension; second line: campus location, local address and phone number; D. Will be the student section having the student's name, local address and phone number. Out-of-town students not living on campus, but commuting, will have the local address of their town and phone number included.

The USF Personnel Directory is being sold in the Campus Book Store for 50 cents each.

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA—The "Life and Learning" exhibit during Homecoming, Nov.

12, efforts of the colleges and campus organizations to present a picture of today's UF, featured the University's accomplishments to date, its current needs and its future challenges and impressed upon everyone what President J. Wayne Reitz called "the overwhelming task that we face in the future."

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE—Two committees from the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the Florida State Department of Education visited the PBJC campus Nov. 14, 15, and 16 for the purpose of reaccreditation of PBJC as a member of the Southern Association.

GULF COAST JUNIOR COLLEGE—GJCJC has taken steps toward making Junior College history with two new programs—technology and management. The general engineering technology program is the first of its kind in Florida and is a two year program specifically designed for the technically inclined student.

FLORIDA SOUTHERN—Florida Southern's 85 member choir gave a concert for the climax of Religion in Life Week Thursday, Nov. 10. Selections were from Beethoven, Mendelssohn, and Handel.

FLORIDA PRESBYTERIAN COLLEGE—Florida Presbyterian College has charted plans for the building of its permanent campus on Boca Ciega Bay as part of a 10-year financial program.

SECOND REQUIRED READING AT USF

Taking "The Razor's Edge" from the bookshelf is a familiar thing for all University of South Florida students. This is the second book in a series of all-university reading material.

Maugham's Novel Chosen As Second 'Campus Book'

By WING PREODOR

The All-University book for the second half of this semester is a novel by W. Somerset Maugham entitled The Razor's Edge. Very much in contrast with the first all-university reading, it is the highly fictionalized biography of a man the author knew only slightly.

The Razor's Edge may be less informative, in a strict sense, than The American Presidency, but it presents many ideas which are of interest to all college students.

Extra-Mural Squad Preparing for League

A University of South Florida extra-mural squad, a top-flight basketball team composed of members of the various registration groups, is operating in full swing.

The club began organizing several weeks ago under the direction of its coaches, Richard D. Hunter, assistant professor of physical education, and Dr. Gilman W. Hertz, director of physical education.

The players have been working out at the Seminole Heights Gym in order to get in condition for the Intramural Basketball League, scheduled for formal organization early in January.

32-MEMBER

Sports Council Formed

The Intramural Sports Council, organized to promote intramural athletics on the USF campus, has planned a varied program for student and faculty participation.

Leagues in volleyball, touch football and basketball are being organized, with bowling already under way. The 32-member council is charged not only with forming the leagues, but with adopting rules of play, scheduling the time and location of the contests, and seeing that they are properly officiated.

"This is our main media of communication with the student body. It is the voice of all university intramural interest. The only way the student as an individual can have a fair say in what he feels should be considered an important point of interest, is through his group representative on the council," Miss Mercedes M. Fernandez, physical education instructor, stated in an interview.

The newly elected officers to serve as the executive board of the council are: Frank Meinore, president; Mike O'Brien, vice president; Tish Gabel, secretary-treasurer; Tal Bray, constitution and by-laws chairman, and Larry Bowersock, publicity chairman.

Anthropology Students Find Projectiles

The finding of several pieces of Weeden Island type pottery which is believed to be about 1100 years old was the main highlight of the field trip to a burial mound on MacDill Air Force Base by anthropology students Nov. 13.

The students also found some projectiles of agatized coral. One of the more interesting things about the projectiles is that a saw used for cutting diamonds is needed in order to cut agatized coral.

Human remains were found but didn't arouse the interest of the students very much as on a trip to the same mound a couple of weeks before had yielded a skeleton of a 12-year-old child in the fetal position. The skeleton is also believed to be about 1100 years old.

"The main purpose of this trip," Dr. S. D. Messing said, "was to give those students who had classes last time a chance to become acquainted with archaeological work."

SECOND IN SERIES

"The Roots," a recent Mexican film and the second of a series of foreign films, will be shown at the University of South Florida in the Science Building, Room 111, today at 7 p.m., and Tuesday at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. All students and university personnel are invited to attend. All Spanish classes will be expected to attend.

Produced by Manuel Barbachano (Torero), "The Roots" was directed by Benito Alazraki using native locations and a non-professional cast. The result is probably one of the most serious and intense of all Mexican films.

This quartet of filmed stories is based upon the book, "El Diosero," by Francisco Rojas Gonzales. Each of the four incidents is designed to reveal present day life among the Mexican Indians. In a land where archaic and modern traditions and methods of living exist side by side, the essence of the combination is to be found in the Indians themselves. They are the vital roots of a growing Mexico. Their intrinsic virtues, including industry, self-sacrifice, an appreciation of beauty, stoicism and natural dignity, are stressed for it is on these that the future of Mexico rests.

The Cows
It concerns a poverty stricken couple and their nursing child. If only they had a cow, the husband thinks, it would do much toward solving their problems. By diligence the couple produce a few articles but are unable to sell them. They sit dejectedly by the roadside, thinking. There must be work somewhere for the husband or something of value for him to steal. Suddenly, a newly-rich family from the city drive up in an unusual car. The husband, who is accepted, enabling the wife to tell her husband, "Now you have a cow."

The second tale, "Our Lady," relates the experiences of a young American anthropologist studying the remote Tzotzil and Chamula Indians. These seemingly are a backward, simple people and the complexities of their existence are readily underrated. A year later the student is confounded by certain aspects of the religious beliefs of these Indians.

The One Eyed
"The One Eyed" is a depressing yet revealing story of a young man brutally treated by his companions because of his affliction. A pilgrimage to a shrine is made by the boy and his mother. They pray for a miracle. When a tragic accident occurs during a fireworks display, it is regarded as a miracle since his playmates are now compassionate and no longer treat him cruelly.

The final story is "The Filly." It takes place in Yucatan. An archaeologist goes berserk; the cause is a native girl with whom he is infatuated. He endeavors to purchase the girl from her parents and is surprised at their reaction.

MAGNIFICENT AUTUMN—TAMPA STYLE

The fall season, officially nearly two months old, is still struggling to accomplish its job of adding russet to leaves, and Tampan and Tampa visitors are continuing to enjoy the long, long summer. Proof enough is this picture yesterday off the third island of Davis Islands, looking west toward MacDill Air Force Base—past a silhouetted couple strolling the beach.

How To Hold FALSE TEETH More Firmly in Place

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates (this alkaline non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at drug counters everywhere.

We've got it!
