A new issue has come up with Ancestry Library Edition. The searches usually go well using Google Chrome. But yesterday we started having problems when printing the original images, such as census records. The print preview has bright red over the image and either prints red or dark gray depending upon the printer.   I called the customer service at Ancestry Library Edition.   They are working on the problem. For now, they suggest NOT using Google Chrome when printing original images is desired by the customer. I tried the same search using Firefox and the printouts were readable and did not have the red or dark gray, but extra white space was at the bottom of the page.

This happened to me today while trying to print something from a different web site using Chrome. It may be a Chrome issue rather than an ALE issue.
It happened when I selected B/W because I was sending to a B/W printer.
When I changed it to Color it worked fine. Curious...

I am compiling a list of text transcription tools to share with researchers who come through the Dyer's doors. So far, it's a short list. These are the only ones that I've found that are made specifically to transcribe text. Are there any others?

- Transcript (PC)
- GenScriber (PC/Mac)

- Scrivener (Mac/PC) is great tool, but it is not made specifically for transcribing. It's probably a bit too complicated for users if transcribing all they wish to do.

The tool does not have to be Free.

Many Thanks!

Hello:
Can anyone recommend a good shareware indexing software? I will be using it to create indexes for our local genealogy society?s journal. And, as you can imagine, my budget is $0.

My current method consists of me manually marking up the document and then building the index in an excel spreadsheet. I keep thinking that there has to be easier way.

Thanks,
Jennifer

I looked and could not find a price, but the library I retired from used CINDEX for many years to do involved indexing for the City Historian's publications. Besides CINDEX, there are Sky Index 6 (.txt) and Sky Index 7 (.sky7). and Macrex. I am told that one can also do this in Microsoft Word. Of course, Office compatible freeware may also have these features in their Word compatible module.

Jim Anderson a member of the Alabama Genealogical Society created an index for us (us being various genealogical groups in Alabama) to use when indexing magazines and old court records that is great and it is free.
There was an article about his indexing program recently in a local history magazine, *Columns The Quarterly Newsletter of the International Society of Family History Writers and Editors *Volume 26, No. 4 December 2014

Jim Anderson has developed Format-A-Dex, a set of free web tools and guides to simplify the process of indexing a journal, newsletter, society magazine, or any other document that is fact-filled with names, places, and events. Because it was designed by a writer/editor involved in genealogy, Format-A-Dex is focused on the needs of editors in genealogical and historical societies.
Jim welcomes feedback to help refine this product. More information about this free tool can be found on the Format-A-Dex website (http://www.formatadex.com/)
and blog (http://format-a-dex.blogspot.com/).

Jim is most creative and a retired Apple dealer.

Fairfax County Public Library's Virginia Room has more books to trade. Please respond to our volunteer, Fran, at Bfm1010 at cox.net and Frances.Millhouser at fairfaxcounty.gov . Be sure to include your mailing address in your email so that we can make your mailing label.

And there's an Excel and a pdf version of the same list, so I hope everyone will be able to open it.

Thanks.

WHAT'S NEW IN RELIC

December 2014

The Ruth E. Lloyd Information Center for Genealogy and Local History (RELIC), Prince William Public Library System, Bull Run Regional Library, 8051 Ashton

Avenue, Manassas, VA 20109. 703-792-4540 Email:relic2 at pwcgov.org<mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org>.

To read the latest lists of new materials available in RELIC click on What's New in RELIC<http://www.pwcgov.org/government/dept/library/RELIC/Pages/What%27s-New-in-RELIC.aspx>.

 BEST WISHES FOR THE HOLIDAY SEASON **

RELIC SEEKS FUNDS FOR

NEW MICROFILM SCANNER

RELIC currently maintains a microfilm reader that allows scanning of images and downloading them to a flash drive. It has been a very popular service. Unfortunately this machine and its software, which are close to ten years old, are not supported by current technology. We expect its computer?s operating system will have to be upgraded in the near future. When that happens, the scanning function will no longer be operable.

We would like to obtain a new model film scanner, compatible with the latest technology. The Library?s current operating budget does not allow for such a major purchase, costing between $8000 and $18,000, depending on the model.

Donations made to ?Prince William County? (with ?RELIC Donation Account? on the check?s memo line) are now being earmarked for future purchase of this equipment. Friends of RELIC, who have derived some benefit from our services, are encouraged to contribute to this fund. We appreciate your support.

RELIC PROGRAMS

Here are our latest offerings. Funding for selected RELIC programs is provided by the Friends of Central and Bull Run Libraries. To be notified of upcoming programs and new resources in RELIC, visit eNotifications/subscribe<http://eservice.pwcgov.org/eServices/eNotifications/subscribe.aspx> and select Library ? What?s New in RELIC. Unless otherwise stated, all these programs will take place at the community room at Bull Run Regional Library, 8051 Ashton Avenue, Manassas, VA. Programs may last from 60 to 90 minutes. You may register for any of these programs at 703-792-4540 or relic2 at pwcgov.org<mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org>.   You may also register online at RELIC Programs<http://www.pwcgov.org/government/dept/library/RELIC/Pages/RELIC-

GENEALOGY 201: BEYOND THE BASICS

Presented by Tish Como

Genealogy 101 introduced basic resources and techniques for researching your family?s history. Genealogy 201 presents alternate resources to enhance your family?s history and advanced search techniques to help maximize your results from online databases including census records, passenger lists, maps, and books. RELIC?s Tish Como will present this program on Thursday, December 11, at 11 a.m. at Bull Run Regional Library.

To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or atrelic2 at pwcgov.org<mailto:RELIC2 at pwcgov.org>. You may also register a RELIC Programs<http://www.pwcgov.org/government/dept/library/RELIC/Pages/RELIC-Programs.aspx> by clicking on the program date.

HOW TO BE SUCCESSFUL USINGDNA

IN YOUR GENEALOGY RESEARCH

Presented by Jim Bartlett

Learn what you can, and cannot, determine from the various DNA tests (Y-DNA, mtDNA and atDNA) from Jim Bartlett, who has been an active genealogist since 1974. He administers the BARTLETT-DNA Project, with 250 participants, and successfully uses DNA test results as an essential part of his genealogy research. Jim?s explanations and examples do not require an understanding of the biology behind the tests. His discussion will provide examples of what the various test results look like and how you can use them to further your genealogy research.

This 90 minute program will be presented twice at Bull Run Library: Thursday,January 8, 2015, at 11 a.m. and on Tuesday, January 20, 2015, at 7 p.m. To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org<mailto:RELIC2 at pwcgov.org>. You may also register at RELIC Programs<http://www.pwcgov.org/government/dept/library/RELIC/Pages/RELIC-Programs.aspx> by clicking on the program date.

African American Genealogy:

TracKing Families Before the Civil War

Presented by Don Wilson

Discovering African American family history prior to 1865 can be difficult. There are special challenges to finding documentation during the age of slavery. RELIC?s Don Wilson will identify sources that can be used to trace lives and relationships and demonstrate the process through a case study approach. This 90 minute program is scheduled forWednesday, February 11, 2015, beginning at 2 p.m., at Bull Run Regional Library.

To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org<mailto:RELIC2 at pwcgov.org>. You may also register at RELIC Programs<http://www.pwcgov.org/government/dept/library/RELIC/Pages/RELIC-Programs.aspx> by clicking on the program date.

The American Invasion of Canada

during the Revolutionary War

Presented by Ron Mayer.

Military historian Ron Mayer will describe this unusual Revolutionary War campaign, among whose participants were Daniel Morgan and his Riflemen. Due to his efforts in Quebec, Morgan was promoted and given command of the Eleventh Virginia Regiment of the Continental Line. This program will be presented onTuesday, February 17, beginning at 7 p.m., at Bull Run Regional Library.

To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org<mailto:RELIC2 at pwcgov.org>. You may also register at RELIC Programs<http://www.pwcgov.org/government/dept/library/RELIC/Pages/RELIC-Programs.aspx> by clicking on the program date.

 ?Genealogy Doctor? Accepting Appointments for Research Help

Don Wilson, head of RELIC, sets aside time each month for free private sessions to mentor persons researching their family history. A thirty-minute session can be used to discuss and analyze an historical or genealogical problem that has stumped you.

Daytime and evening hours are possible. To set up an appointment, please call RELIC at 703-792-4540 or email relic2 at pwcgov.org<mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org> .
Bull Run Regional Library is located at 8051 Ashton Avenue, Manassas, VA 20109.

Have a question about Prince William County history, places or families? Need guidance with your genealogical research? You may contact RELIC staff for help and advice at Ask RELIC<http://www.pwcgov.org/government/dept/library/RELIC/Pages/Ask-RELIC.aspx> or by calling us at 703-792-4540.   Hours, September to June (ET):

Dear fellow Librarians Serving Genealogists:

Due to space and library collection policy changes, we must clear eighteen 3-foot long shelves of non-local genealogy materials. Most of the items are from West Virginia, Illinois, Ohio, Virginia, and miscellaneous other places. See the attached list. These have to be gone from our shelves before the end of this year, either to libraries or a dumpster.

You must reimburse for shipping, as our genealogy collection subsists on donations and we do not have funds or a budget except for a subscription to Ancestry Library edition.

Shipment of material through MeL Rides will be given a priority, but institutions taking large amounts of materials will also be a priority.

If you have a truck or are nearby and taking most or the whole collection, I'll try to arrange pick-up here or coerce my husband into getting the materials to you with what we can pack into our car.

Thanks to my AARP Trainee Gerti West for creating this list.

Thank you for helping me find homes for these items.

Sincerely,

Dear Colby:

 I was looking through your list.

 I am only interested in items from New York....

 Is the Yesteryear you listed a periodical? I believe it was published in Walton (Sullivan County), NY...How much (approx.) Do you think it would take to ship that up to New York?

 I was reading the list while a nor'easter rages outside and it blipped the rest of the list right off my computer....ARGH.

Dear Colby:

I was looking through your list.

I am only interested in items from New York....

Is the Yesteryear you listed a periodical? I believe it was published in Walton (Sullivan County), NY...How much (approx.) Do you think it would take to ship that up to New York?

I was reading the list while a nor'easter rages outside and it blipped the rest of the list right off my computer....ARGH.

Hello, colleagues, and apologies for cross-postings:

We have in our collection a 1999 spiral-bound, self-"published" "book" of selected photocopied photographs, mostly of houses and properties throughout our area (Athens, GA). In their original format, these images are early 20th century photographs from an archival collection at the University of Alabama. A notable UGA professor--recently deceased--photographed the photos, processed them as 35mm slides, and printed them onto regular copy paper which he had bound.

Because the images contain no descriptions, citizen historians have, since then, taken to annotating the photographs with post-it notes, indicating possible/probable locations, owners, movement of the houses, demolition, etc.
Corrections to the annotations have been made by later reviewers.

My question is, what would you do with this work? Having it bound and cataloged doesn't really solve our problem. The post-it notes won't last forever, and aren't archival. But they do indicate to the modern reader that the annotations aren't part of the original work, and I would like to preserve the information on them. To complicate matters further, the professor does not explicitly indicate that permission was obtained by UA to reproduce the photographs, though he does credit the institution and the photographer. Depending on how one interprets the word "published," the original photographs may or may not be in the public domain. I could digitize the document ... but the muddy rights make putting it online something of a gamble.

Thanks for your thoughts,
Angela

You could scan to a folder that is only available in the library to your researchers instead of on the open internet. We are doing that with our vertical

How would you archive/store/save that information for later use?
Thanks!

Angela,

The annotations on the post-it notes seem like a really unique type of information that is worth preserving. You could do so by making a map of the properties on the website historypin.com. If the university archives allows you, you could also use the photos in the notebook by uploading them to attach to the pins. If not, you could try to use images taken from google street view to illustrate them, if the houses are still standing.
This site works great for preserving genealogical and local history information that is tied to geographic locations.

I will send this list to the Westmoreland, Somerset, and Fayette County, Pa.
libraries in case they have not seen it. If they do not reply, or do not want these items, Washington County, Pa., or our library (Donora, within Washington County, Pa.) may also want them. Thanks for sharing the list!

We received in the book drop a photograph album. Most of the pictures we are unable to identify. (There are several hundred.) There are about 10-20 pictures that we know for sure who is the family and the buildings within our town.

It is now a collection that we have preserved. I was going to name it by the family we knew, but it just did not seem right. Calling it just "Photograph Album" seemed ambiguous.

Any thoughts?

I hesitate to suggest this but... for those homes that may still be standing a volunteer using google earth could confirm--long and tedious but if you have a volunteer group or a local historical soc that may take that on as a project.

Subject: [Genealib] Annotations; Or, What Would You Do?
Hello, colleagues, and apologies for cross-postings:
We have in our collection a 1999 spiral-bound, self-"published" "book" of selected photocopied photographs, mostly of houses and properties throughout our area (Athens, GA). In their original format, these images are early 20th century photographs from an archival collection at the University of Alabama. A notable UGA professor--recently deceased--photographed the photos, processed them as 35mm slides, and printed them onto regular copy paper which he had bound.
Because the images contain no descriptions, citizen historians have, since then, taken to annotating the photographs with post-it notes, indicating possible/probable locations, owners, movement of the houses, demolition, etc. Corrections to the annotations have been made by later reviewers.
My question is, what would you do with this work? Having it bound and cataloged doesn't really solve our problem. The post-it notes won't last forever, and aren't archival. But they do indicate to the modern reader that the annotations aren't part of the original work, and I would like to preserve the information on them. To complicate matters further, the professor does not explicitly indicate that permission was obtained by UA to reproduce the photographs, though he does credit the institution and the photographer.
Depending on how one interprets the word "published," the original photographs may or may not be in the public domain. I could digitize the document
... but the muddy rights make putting it online something of a gamble.
Thanks for your thoughts,
Angela

Initially, I think we would temporarily title it, but have it available for a month or two for people to 'play' an identification challenge. That way you may find more of the photos ID'd and might present a better (or muddied :-)) understanding of who or what the collection is about.

Have fun,

Another suggestion for identification:

Post a photo or so a week in the local newspaper with the caption, "Do You Know Me?"
Our local Austin History Center did that for years with some success.

Well, I knew it would come to this. My DNA books are all over the Dewey place! I want them together! I know, I know cataloging is not that simple.
Does anyone have a good catalog number?

What I have found are the following numbers on our shelf:

929.10285

929.1072

929.1

929

616.042 Genetic Disorders

572.86 - Biology - DNA

The reason this came up is because we just received the book "NextGen
Genealogy" and LOC used 929.1072 - Ugh!

Would like to be more consistent. I am not a cataloger, but the catalogers do listen to me. <g> I know many more books will be published in the coming years and I want to get ahead of this.

Thanks for any advice.

It does seem that many of the DNA books we get are about Genealogy and DNA so 929.1 would be good. I would not go for 616 or 572. I know 929.1 is very broad though but I would use it. I used to do the cataloging at our library for the genealogy books. They would let me "override" some of the call numbers. I'm with you in that we need a number for genealogy and DNA.

The logistics of getting registered and issued a researcher's card are worth mentioning, since the process is very different from visiting the library as a tourist. It can take an hour or more to get through the registration process at both the Library of Congress and the National Archives, depending on the time of day and how many others are ahead of you in the line. At LC, the registration office is in a building across the street, and it's a fair hike through the tunnels to the main library once you have your card and are ready to research. And you'll want to allow some time to get oriented to the collection and the rules.

If you have the time and are going to be in DC for several days combining research and tourism, you might want to drop in at the start of your visit just to go through the registration process and maybe (if time permits) get a brief orientation. I always find that even if I have time and a research objective in hand for my first visit, once I've had a chance to do a bit of research and understand more fully what is available, I always want to come back. So I try to arrange my schedule (and my family's expectations) to permit more than one research day to allow for unexpected breakthroughs.

Finally, as a former genealogy reference librarian, I have to say this: take advantage of the reference staff! Don't just tell them what documents you are looking for; tell them what questions you are trying to answer. They know the collection and can make suggestions for things you never thought of.

After showing your new id and stowing stuff in lockers - you will go to a smaller room for the genealogical research not the beautiful main reading room.   First you will search the collection on computers - find the books you need, complete the call slips, turn them in at the desk. While you are waiting for the books to be delivered you can browse the shelving units in the room that are stocked with common genealogical references. You use copy cards for the copy machines. If I remember correctly you go back to the coat/locker area for change. My advise is to study the card catalog at home, note which volumes you want to check, bring your list along and it will save a lot of time. It has been a couple of years since I was there and things constantly change but it is a national treasure trove!

Actually, I understand the Local History & Genealogy collection is now in the main reading room - the old Local History & Genealogy Room is no more. That happened several months ago, as I recall.

This is from a retired librarian. Use LC cataloging for collection as it puts material in same place.

Not much help ? but write a grant to catalog collection to LC as it puts like material together and thus easier for the patrons to find. We did that where I worked and it made a huge difference.

In the case of the annotated catalog cards, I wonder how difficult it could be to digitally scan the cards, making them available as images, perhaps findable simply by a main subject or title, etc. Genealogy users, in-house or remote, might be happy to then browse the annotations, which would probably never be transcribed into the online catalog.

Similarly, we have an old card catalog, no longer added to, which we keep since it is too much trouble to have the details added to the regular library catalog.

Pam,

I pulled my copy of DDC (edition 20, I think they are up to 23 now) to have a look at the numbers in the 929 section.

929.1072 is labeled "Research" under Genealogy and states "Class here the specific techniques and procedures involved in doing genealogical research in a specific area. Class comprehensive works on genealogical research in 929.1"

My version also no longer uses 929.1028, which was "Auxiliary techniques and procedures; apparatus, equipment, materials" Use 929.1072 for techniques and procedures and 929.3 for equipment, apparatus, and materials. Not sure what the 5 at the end of the .10285 was, unless it was a periodical/serial.

So if the book is about using DNA in a genealogical setting I would probably go with 929.1072, since it is a specific technique and procedure involved in doing genealogical research.

Sometimes the original cataloger may put a prime mark (929.1'072 or 929.1/072) to indicate to other catalogers that the record can be cut short at 929.1. That may be what happened to those you have cataloged at 929 or 929.1.

Subject: [Genealib] DNA Cataloging

Well, I knew it would come to this. My DNA books are all over the Dewey place! I want them together! I know, I know cataloging is not that simple.
Does anyone have a good catalog number?

What I have found are the following numbers on our shelf:

929.10285

929.1072

929.1

929

616.042 Genetic Disorders

572.86 - Biology - DNA

The reason this came up is because we just received the book "NextGen
Genealogy" and LOC used 929.1072 - Ugh!

Would like to be more consistent. I am not a cataloger, but the catalogers
do listen to me. <g> I know many more books will be published in the coming years and I want to get ahead of this.

Thanks for any advice.

I also have not been recently but read of the LH&G move.
>From past experience, don't forget all the special reading rooms. Of most common use - Newspapers and Periodicals and Microfilm. Some microfilms were self-service so you could spend the hour waiting for books to be pulled looking there. Geography and Maps. Lots have been digitized now, but maybe not all and still a lot of gazetteers and such. (I love the land ownership maps, but I think they are online now)
   Over the years I have also gotten records for someone of the family copyright registrations for their pattern catalogs and sheet music great-great granddad wrote!! (Copyright Office and Performing Arts RR it was then, not sure now.)
Remember -- 3 buildings, connected underground. Cafeteria on the 6th floor of Madison Bldg was pretty good. The quick snack lunchroom on the tuynnel level was not half bad. Just remember they are open to staff only at peak lunch times! (Or were)
There are also exhibits, not just in the main Jefferson Building, but other places. Always was something outside Geo & Maps.

Check the catalog from home, so you can have some call slips ready to turn in right away. Also note that some materials are stored off site and must be requested in advance. (I remember particularly foreign language newspapers - maybe just for Cyrillic and such)

Subject: [Genealib] Book Subscription Lists
Message-ID: <016001d01ca3$ec8572c0$c5905840$@okhistory.org>

Is there a way to limit searches to Book Subscription Lists records only in the "U.K. and U.S. Directories, 1680-1830" database in Ancestry (Library Edition)?

The Book Subscription Lists has an index of books purchased through subscriptions and that is what I am trying to access, along with subscribers names.

Thank you for any help you can offer on this.

        Reading the database description I got the impression that the book subscription lists were British only. So I put in location as United Kingdom and used keyword "book subscription". This got results.
Without the location limiter, I got hundreds of hits to the Charleston directory which was available by subscription. Sometimes I wish Ancestry had a "but not" field.

FOCUSING ON PRINCE WILLIAM COUNTY

        Our most comprehensive guide for research in Prince William County history and genealogy is our pathfinder Roots in Prince William<http://www.pwcgov.org/government/dept/library/RELIC/Documents/Roots%20in%20PW%20-%202011.pdf> (19 pages, last revised in 2011). In it you?ll find dozens of categories of what is available, including business records, census substitutes, church records, land records, manuscripts, newspapers, school records, vital records. It contains links to many online sources, including Ron Turner?s web site www.pwcvirginia.com<http://www.pwcvirginia.com/>, which posts many documents and transcripts of Prince William sources.

        See our Digital Library<http://eservice.pwcgov.org/library/digitalLibrary/index.htm> for our latest collection of indexes, databases and images related to Prince William history, including people indexes, historic sites, maps, and newspapers. Many databases have been updated in 2014.

Not all of our Prince William source material is online yet, but watch for more to appear in coming months.

SCANNER FUND IS GROWING

We extend a public ?thank you? to those who have contributed to RELIC?s fund for a new microfilm scanner and invite others to participate. Every gift, no matter the size, takes us toward that goal.

Donations made to ?Prince William County? (with ?RELIC Donation Account? on the check?s memo line) are now being earmarked for future purchase of this equipment. Send checks to RELIC at 8051 Ashton Avenue, Manassas, VA 20109. Donations may be tax deductible. We appreciate your support.

RELIC PROGRAMS

Here are our latest offerings. Funding for selected RELIC programs is provided by the Friends of Central and Bull Run Libraries. HOW TO BE SUCCESSFUL USING DNA

IN YOUR GENEALOGY RESEARCH

Presented by Jim Bartlett

Learn what you can, and cannot, determine from the various DNA tests (Y-DNA, mtDNA and atDNA) from Jim Bartlett, who has been an active genealogist since 1974. He administers the BARTLETT-DNA Project, with 250 participants, and successfully uses DNA test results as an essential part of his genealogy research. Jim?s explanations and examples do not require an understanding of the biology behind the tests. His discussion will provide examples of what the various test results look like and how you can use them to further your genealogy research.

This 90 minute program will be presented twice at Bull Run Library: Thursday, January 8, 2015, at 11 a.m. and on Tuesday, January 20, 2015, at 7 p.m. To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org<mailto:RELIC2 at pwcgov.org>. You may also register at RELIC Programs<http://www.pwcgov.org/government/dept/library/RELIC/Pages/RELIC-Programs.aspx> by clicking on the program date.

African American Genealogy:

TracKing Families Before the Civil War

Presented by Don Wilson

Discovering African American family history prior to 1865 can be difficult. There are special challenges to finding documentation during the age of slavery. RELIC?s Don Wilson will identify sources that can be used to trace lives and relationships and demonstrate the process through a case study approach. This 90 minute program is scheduled for Wednesday, February 11, 2015, beginning at 2 p.m., at Bull Run Regional Library.

To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org<mailto:RELIC2 at pwcgov.org>. You may also register at RELIC Programs<http://www.pwcgov.org/government/dept/library/RELIC/Pages/RELIC-Programs.aspx> by clicking on the program date.

The American Invasion of Canada

during the Revolutionary War

Presented by Ron Mayer

Military historian Ron Mayer will describe this unusual Revolutionary War campaign, among whose participants were Daniel Morgan and his Riflemen. Due to his efforts in Quebec, Morgan was promoted and given command of the Eleventh Virginia Regiment of the Continental Line. This program will be presented on Tuesday, February 17, beginning at 7 p.m., at Bull Run Regional Library.

To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org<mailto:RELIC2 at pwcgov.org>. You may also register at RELIC Programs<http://www.pwcgov.org/government/dept/library/RELIC/Pages/RELIC-Programs.aspx> by clicking on the program date.

GENEALOGY 101: GETTING STARTED

Presented by Beverly Veness

If you are curious about your family history, you have an opportunity to learn about methods, strategies and resources for tracing your roots at a free session sponsored by RELIC. This 90-minute program, conducted by Beverly Veness of the RELIC staff, is scheduled for Tuesday, February 24, at 7 p.m. at Bull Run Library. She will highlight the numerous free genealogical resources available at RELIC and will explore basic techniques for tracking ancestors.

 To register for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org<mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org>. You may also register at RELIC Programs<http://www.pwcgov.org/government/dept/library/RELIC/Pages/RELIC-Programs.aspx> by clicking on the program date.

 ?Genealogy Doctor? Accepting Appointments for Research Help

Don Wilson, head of RELIC, sets aside time each month for free private sessions to mentor persons researching their family history. A thirty-minute session can be used to discuss and analyze an historical or genealogical problem that has stumped you.

Daytime and evening hours are possible. To set up an appointment, please call RELIC at 703-792-4540 or email relic2 at pwcgov.org<mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org> . Bull Run Regional Library is located at 8051 Ashton Avenue, Manassas, VA 20109.

Have a question about Prince William County history, places or families? Need guidance with your genealogical research? You may contact RELIC staff for help and advice at Ask RELIC<http://www.pwcgov.org/government/dept/library/RELIC/Pages/Ask-RELIC.aspx> or by calling us at 703-792-4540.   Hours, September to June (ET): Monday-Thursday 10am-9pm, Friday-Saturday 10am-5pm, Sunday noon-5pm. Closed Federal holidays.
