The fact that Schweitzer's books are old doesn't make them dated necessarily. I have found references to sources in his guides over the years that were difficult to find elsewhere. Very few of the states he covered, with the exception of Georgia, South Carolina, and North Carolina (perhaps a couple others) have comprehensive guides to research even now. The Red Book does include information that Schweitzer doesn't have - and vice versa. The NGS guides do the same thing, but again, they don't have everything in them that Schweitzer does. [Having just finished the 3rd edition of my Virginia Research for NGS in this series, I can assure you that these guides, because of their relatively short length, do not contain "everything" by design.]

Granted Schweitzer's books are crammed full of a lot of information in a somewhat difficult-to-use format, but they remain useful. Yes, there are many newer published sources since his books appeared and the locations of sources and libraries/archives have changed, but if there are states he covered that are important to migrations into your state, I'd keep them. They aren't that big! Despite our many space issues, we keep everything we ever get for every state because we consider ourselves to be one of the country's "genealogical libraries of record" with a comprehensive, deep collection. Not every library can do that of course, but if you can hang on to them it can't hurt.

I have many of Mr. Schweitzer's books on genealogy research in the United States, but they are quite old. I have to weed them from my collection, but can anyone suggest newer titles that do what his books did so well? I know the NGS has a Research in the States series. Are those as good as Schweitzer's works?

I totally agree with Eric. Even if we were not an archive, we would not remove books solely due to publication date. The only types of genealogy/history reference sources that need to be as up to date as possible are ones containing lists of contact information for organizations and individuals, especially for societies that may fold or researchers that pass away or retire. The county clerk's office will always be there and be findable even if the office moves and when the person holding the position changes, but more and more historical and genealogical societies are losing too many members and not gaining any new ones to keep up with their programs and services. No bibliographer finds everything in a given time period, but still finds things or knows information that an earlier or later bibliographer may not. All authors have a bias or a focus that leads them to pass over some sources or to include others.

Schweitzer is a gem and deserves his place on your shelves.

Hello -

I am the (fairly new) librarian at a small genealogical library and museum, and have been going through our collection of periodicals, weeding where possible. We have paper copies of America: History and Life, Part D Annual Index, for the years 1977-1984. I'm trying to decide if we need to keep them. The volumes have been in storage for several years due to space restrictions on the library shelves, so they have not been used recently. I know this publication is now available through Ebsco, but we do not have any subscriptions to online databases. Our local public library does not subscribe to this publication, either.

Does anyone have thoughts on additional criteria I should use when making this decision?

Thank You,

Ignoring the fact that I am not assisting in answering your question, I wanted to continue the support for Schweitzer, and in large part because I do not have a lot of space. I just added two of his works to our collection yesterday. And, earlier this year I used his Civil War book to help prep for a talk I was giving. I always am able to pull something out of those older methodology books\bibliographies, unless they weren't much use to begin with (not referring to anyone in particular there). Like Susan, I function as an archive and don't remove due to date, I know not everyone here functions that way, but hang on to them if you can, if you have horrible space constraints, try to at least keep those that are most relevant to your major patron base.

Thank you Susan for the information on naming girls:

Girls, however, are more likely to be named after a state, I think. Some I have seen: Missouri, Mississippi, Florida, Tennessee (yes, at least one famous male got this moniker), Louisiana, Kansas, California, Arizona, not including "regular" names Virginia, Carolina and Georgia.

I agree--we keep his books because he has excellent yet concise explanations of how, why, and what records were created which researchers still find very helpful. Once you know what records you want to access and why, finding out where they might be now (and in what format) is actually the least difficult part of the research. From our genealogy reference collection, we rarely weed anything except perhaps computer genealogy books (Turbo Genealogy from 1997, for example....) and books that are mostly addresses.

Using Technology to Organize and Share Your genealogical Research

Presented by Don Wilson

At our March program Diane Nesmeyer described how to organize papers and documents you've collected in your genealogical research. Now learn how to save, organize and share them electronically. RELIC's Don Wilson will demonstrate some of the options available today, including software programs, websites, and special equipment. Audience feedback and input to the program are encouraged.

This program will be presented on Thursday, May 15 at 11 a.m. and repeated on Tuesday, May 20, at 7 p.m., at Bull Run Regional Library. To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org.

GENEALOGY 201: BEYOND THE BASICS

Presented by Tish Como

Genealogy 101 introduced basic resources and techniques for researching your family's history. Genealogy 201 presents alternate resources to enhance your family's history and advanced search techniques to help maximize your results from online databases including census records, passenger lists, maps, and books. RELIC's Tish Como will present this program on Thursday, June 7, at 11 a.m. at Bull Run Regional Library.

The slide talk will be given on Tuesday, June 24, at 7 p.m. at Bull Run Regional Library. To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org.

GENEALOGY 101: GETTING STARTED

Presented by Beverly Veness

Those curious about their family history have an opportunity to learn about methods, strategies and resources for tracing their roots. This free 90-minute program, conducted by Beverly Veness of the RELIC staff, will highlight the numerous free genealogical resources available at RELIC and will explore basic techniques for tracking ancestors.

This program will also be presented at Bull Run Regional Library, on Tuesday, July 22, at 7 p.m. To register please contact RELIC at Relic2 at pwcgov.org, or at (703) 792-4540.

TRACING AMERICAN ANCESTORS BEFORE 1850

Presented by Don Wilson

Before 1850, the lack of census detail and official vital records can make genealogy difficult. Your immigrant ancestor may seem to be out of reach. Explore sources and techniques to overcome that barrier with RELIC's Don Wilson.

This free 90-minute program will be presented at Bull Run Regional Library on Thursday, August 14, at 11 a.m. and be repeated on Tuesday, August 26, at 7 p.m. To register please contact RELIC at Relic2 at pwcgov.org, or at (703) 792-4540.

?Genealogy Doctor? Accepting Appointments for Research Help

Don Wilson, head of RELIC, sets aside time each month for free private sessions to mentor persons researching their family history. A thirty-minute session can be used to discuss and analyze an historical or genealogical problem that has stumped you.

Hello all,

I'm trying to help a researcher fill out a USCIS Genealogy Records Request (Form G-1041A)<<http://www.uscis.gov/sites/default/files/files/form/g-1041a.pdf>>and need some advice. We've identified the certificate number (from Soundex M1285) as* P.28458*. The problem is that the form seems to indicate that the certificate number should begin with a* C* not a* P*. Any ideas how to proceed? The individual was naturalized in the Superior Court in Cook County on March 3, 1919. His name was Antoni Wiktor.

Thanks in advance!

This is just a 'two cent' comment and may not apply at all. But I know here in Miami County the letters often refer to the specific court the papers were filed in, e.g. "CP" = Common Pleas; "P" = Probate.

The following extract may explain -

---Petition for Naturalization (P) file. A typical file number looks like this: 234-P-56789. These files were maintained temporarily by the Naturalization Service. If the naturalization was granted, the petition was moved to the person's C-File. The petition should also remain on file in the appropriate court's naturalization records. Use the Court Directories⁸ to convert the prefix number to a court name (i.e., 234 = Circuit Court, Van Buren Co., Arkansas) in order to locate that record.

Certificate of Naturalization File (C-File), 1906-1956. A typical file number looks like this: 1234-C-567890 or C-567890. These files are in USCIS custody. Submit a request for copies to the USCIS Genealogy Program. A copy of the naturalization papers should also remain on file in the appropriate court's naturalization records. If the court number is included in the reference, use the Court Directories⁸ to convert the prefix number to a court name in order to locate that record.

It is found in the PDF:

Forgive me if this is off topic or if this isn't a good forum for this, but I'm hoping someone here might be able to help with a story I'm working on for The Baltimore Sun. I'm writing about the Social Security Administration's decision to do away with its letter forwarding service, which has been in place since 1945. I'm trying to find a few people out there who have actually used this service to successfully locate long-lost relatives who would be willing to tell me their story. Of course, I'm on a fairly tight deadline ? trying to do this in the next day or so. The link to the federal register notice regarding the service follows, as does my direct contact information. I'm not a member here so please contact me directly if you have any ideas. Thanks very much,

Hello Kristen,

For information about the C-File number you asked about see:

<http://www.uscis.gov/history-and-genealogy/genealogy/where-do-i-find-c-file-number>

The information available here may also be helpful for your researcher:

Cook County Declarations of Intention Index, 1906-1929
<http://www.cookcountyclerkofcourt.org/NR/about.aspx>

They will likely only have the declaration of intention there. The USCIS should have the declaration as well as the petition. But you can look up Antoni Wiktor in the above linked online Cook County index and it should give his address, place of birth and date of arrival (from the declaration of intention).

You also might consider ordering copies of the records from the National Archives as it might cost less than ordering from the USCIS. But the USCIS may have more documents in their file than NARA. For information for NARA naturalization records for Illinois see:

<http://www.archives.gov/chicago/finding-aids/naturalization-records.html>

Joe Beine

Thanks to everyone who shared their thoughts and resources. I've submitted a email to USCIS to see if the certificate number I have from the soundex is sufficient enough for them to locate the record even though it begins with a P and not a C. If I ever hear back, I will share the "official word" with all of you.

Thanks again!

Your researcher should spend the $20 to request an index search from USCIS, so that he can submit the G-1041A with real numbers and not invalid information. Requesting an index search can be done online. Start here by reading:

<http://www.uscis.gov/history-and-genealogy/genealogy/searching-index#0>

The P number is not a certificate number so don't put that number in a C-number spot on the G-1041A. That's pointless.

Hello Genealib fellows.

We are considering discarding our copies of Everton's Genealogical Helper, but wanted to hear from the collective wisdom first.

Do you still keep your copies? If so, why?

Do your patrons still request or use it?

Is it still relevant to keep it around?

We need to make space for a large church records collection we received.

It's either Everton's or Oklahoma church records.

Any thoughts you can share would be deeply appreciated.

Hello Genealib fellows.

We are considering discarding our copies of Everton's Genealogical Helper, but wanted to hear from the collective wisdom first.

Do you still keep your copies? If so, why?

Do your patrons still request or use it?

Is it still relevant to keep it around?

We need to make space for a large church records collection we received.

It's either Everton's or Oklahoma church records...

Any thoughts you can share would be deeply appreciated.

I would generally have checked Worldcat to see who owns copies of Everton's. While it is difficult for a history librarian to throw anything out, it has served its purpose and in 2014 has been superseded.

We stop receiving them in 2009 as well. Last year I opted to getting rid of them to make room for other collections as well.

Thank you so much for all your responses!

It is amazing how much knowledge and help we get from GeneaLib members!

Everton's is going away.
It was a tough decision to make, and I thank you for offering us different perspectives on this matter.

If anyone does decide to dispose of their sets, we are missing (hard to believe) volumes 1-4 and would appreciate having them to complete our permanently set stored in the basement.

I would generally have checked Worldcat to see who owns copies of Everton's. While it is difficult for a history librarian to throw anything out, it has served its purpose and in 2014 has been superseded.

Hello Genealib fellows.

We are considering discarding our copies of Everton's Genealogical Helper, but wanted to hear from the collective wisdom first.
Do you still keep your copies? If so, why?
Do your patrons still request or use it?
Is it still relevant to keep it around?
We need to make space for a large church records collection we received.
It's either Everton's or Oklahoma church records?
Any thoughts you can share would be deeply appreciated.

THE ROYAL HOUSES OF EUROPE

This series of 33 volumes covers all the European Royal Dynasties and their descendants. They provide a full royal genealogy laid out in inter-connecting royal family trees of the Royal Houses of Europe. The books cover the reigning monarchies of Europe, the great Imperial Dynasties and the former monarchies of Europe. They include the British Royal House, now the House of Windsor, descended from Queen Victoria, and the British dynasties of Stuart, Hanover and Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. The dynasties of Hohenzollern, Romanov, Habsburg, Bonaparte and Bourbon have separate books on each, together with the Monarchies of Scandinavia, the Benelux, Liechtenstein, Iberia, Monaco, Italy and the Balkans, and the former German Kingdoms, and Grand Duchies. In all cases the full descent is shown, extending to related noble and commoner families, in Britain, across Europe, and in the U.S.A, Canada, Australia and Latin America. They are an essential source of information for genealogists providing details right down to the present day.

Message-ID: <CAPXojw97b5VFUs-0wOVwePxRpwPG0YTzKzJ0VQq_fkd_BXoyjA@mail.gmail.com>

Hello All,

I am attempting to locate phone books for the following cities\towns in California in the mid to late 20th century.

Compton, CA 1975

Eureka, CA 1983

Grass Valley, CA 1989

If anyone happens to have one or more of them in their collection I would be most appreciative if you would drop me a line. Or, if you have any ideas of likely collections. I have been investigating the obvious public libraries in question. And, yes, I have looked in Ancestry's City Directory collection.

I attempting to confirm the spelling of a last name that appears differently, twice quite differently, in three different obituaries of immediate family members. This is an aunt my patron did not know existed until we found her very young in the census. She reappears 60 years later in the obits for her mother and brothers. Until the obits we were thinking she died, haven't found other records for her yet. I know ... more than you need to know. :)

Thanks!! for any thoughts!!

Alice,

You might try the following:

British Royal Marines and US Marines sites associated with the Boxer Rebellion. All of the legations were united under the command of the British and US Marines. In addition, the Consulate papers (located at the National Archives of England and the United States) for both England and the United States would have detail accounts of the Boxer Rebellion, and would list the various other legations that supplied troops, and supplies to the joint British and US commands. It was the British and US Consulates that provided the best protection of all foreign nationals during the Boxer Rebellion. Hope that helps.

Thank you I will pass this on to my patron. Does this give only British and American info or does it supply German information as well? I think she is specifically looking for German information. I will tell her about this so that she can check it out. Appreciate the input.

This is a multi-part periodical question. Are your genealogical periodicals integrated with your books or shelved as a periodical "section"? Has anyone had a segregated section for periodicals and later integrated it? If you answered "yes" to the second question, have you seen more usage after integration?

We keep the most recent (this month/quarter) periodicals in a specific location for periodicals. When the next issue comes in we integrate it into the shelved collection. After all the issues in the year have been received we often bind and then shelve back with the books as appropriate.

Usage seems more to do with subject than location.

We have had a separate periodicals section. From the checkout cards, I can tell it used to get a lot of use, but it is now a ghost zone, and I have started integrating it into the books as part of an ambitious reorganization of the whole library. So far, we've seen a big increase in the usage of the periodicals that have been integrated, but it's hard to tell if that's from integration or the fact that this group of books and periodicals have also been moved from the basement to the main floor...my guess is some of both.

My library has a small genealogy room separate from the rest of the library. I have the periodicals pertaining to each state shelved at the end of the books for that state. In other words, I have books for North Carolina shelved by call number, and at the end of the NC books, I have the periodicals pertaining to NC in boxes. After the periodicals for NC, are the books for SC, then the periodicals for SC, etc.
They are all available for the public to look at, although they do not check out.

Some collections probably have a lot more periodicals, but this system has worked well for me. I think the patrons are more likely to find them and actually look through them if they don't have to go somewhere else to do it.

Periodicals and books are shelved together.

We have a "current periodical section", where we keep the latest issues received until they can be bound and shelved in the regular collection. There is not a lot of traffic in that section, but we are working to improve it.

Many patrons are "browsers" and prefer to go through shelves instead of using our online catalog.

For those who use our OPAC to search for periodicals, we added links to periodical indexes in PERSI Archive.

Nancy,
Our solution is mixed. We place local county periodicals with the books on the shelves. We keep the statewide, national, and foreign periodicals in a Periodicals section. I think we do that simply because there are large runs of the statewide/national periodicals and they are thicker and take up much more shelf space. Many users just work in the county sections and it at least forces them to see that they exist.

Thanks.

We integrated our older periodicals with our books several years ago. Our recent issues are kept in a separate section at the front of the department. I have noticed an increase in usage since we moved them, particularly the out-of-state periodicals.?

Nancy,
Our solution is mixed. We place local county periodicals with the books on the shelves. We keep the statewide, national, and foreign periodicals in a Periodicals section. I think we do that simply because there are large runs of the statewide/national periodicals and they are thicker and take up much more shelf space. Many users just work in the county sections and it at least forces them to see that they exist.

Thanks.

Hi, Genealibbers:

This is a multi-part periodical question. Are your genealogical periodicals integrated with your books or shelved as a periodical "section"? Has anyone had a segregated section for periodicals and later integrated it? If you answered "yes" to the second question, have you seen more usage after integration?

Thank you,
Nancy

Tulsa City-County Library (OK) is interested in learning how other institutions and libraries are using tools like those offered by ScanPro 2000/3000 microfilm & microfiche reader/printers that allow remote customers the ability to scan film & fiche from an offsite host library. The remote customer may be at another branch of the same institution, a different institution altogether, or at their own office or home.

If you offer this service, we are interested in talking with you about how you make this work - your processes and procedures, your successes and your concerns.

Please contact Suanne Wymer, Deputy Director for the Tulsa City-County Library at swymer at tulsalibrary.org<mailto:swymer at tulsalibrary.org> or 918.549.7368 to share your insight and expertise.

Wow, what a variety of shelving methods! Thanks to all who responded. I'm considering integrating journals with the books. Researchers do spend time browsing the shelves, and I think that if they see the journals, they'll be more likely to use them.

"Whatever works for you" seems to be the best approach. And if anyone else wants to respond, I'd welcome your input as well.

Thanks, everyone!

Yes, all good ideas. Whatever works for you and your users.

There was a time years ago in library school where we had a teacher who said all media is created equal! And proceeded to shelve bare slides next to large dusty books. But I digress...

California Genealogical Society uses LC call number arrangement which arranges periodicals with books in this manner:

At the start of a call number range for the local history of any given state, statewide historical and genealogical periodicals are shelved first. Then statewide books, generally cuttered by author. The next ranges are county-specific, in alphabetical order by name of county, requiring another "Cutter"-like line between the top call number line and the author's Cutter number. Periodicals that are county-specific fall at the beginning of that county's call number range and are shelved just before the county books. Lastly, within each state range there are call numbers available for each specific city, in alphabetical order by name of city; if there is a periodical specific to a city's local history, it should be shelved there. (CGS has a very large collection on San Francisco due to the quantity of books and periodicals that have been published as an attempt to work around the loss of vital and other records in the 1906 Firequake.)

Regional publications can work too. The "F" call number range, which is for state and local history, begins with F1 (New England in general) and goes thru F999 (F1000 being the beginning of Canada). The New England Historic Genealogical Society's "Register" gets call number F1. The entire F call number range for the U.S. slightly resembles (but does not match) time zones; the first ranges run down the east coast states, then around the Gulf Coast to include most of the southern states; the next ranges pick up most of the states west of the Appalachians; then the next ranges cover the Rockies and farther west; and the last ranges include the west coast. (This is an over-generalization.)

We keep a couple of "cheat sheets" posted on a pillar for patrons who just want to browse the shelves on their own instead of using the online catalog; one sheet is arranged by call number, but the more useful one is arranged alphabetically by subject showing the beginning call number for that range. We also try to teach our shelveers and our patrons that in the LC system, "NOTHING comes before SOMETHING." That's because some call numbers have decimals in them. It is really not difficult to learn and the vast majority of our patrons pick it up right away (or were already familiar with it from college libraries).

Periodicals which are specifically genealogical and nationwide, such as those from the National Genealogical Society, get call numbers in the CR or CS call number ranges which are for general genealogy in the LC system. CS71 is the call number for family-specific genealogies, which are arranged in alphabetical order (via Cutter-like numbers) by the primary surname treated in the work. Periodicals from family associations naturally get shelved in their proper order here.

If anyone ever foresees the possibility of changing their call numbers from Dewey to LC in the future, and wants to integrate their periodicals with their books now, the above outline may be useful as a way to begin preparation for the ultimate transition to LC while lessening the havoc in shelving that a call number change would cause.
