GENEALIB
Hi,

Our library, starting June 1, started taking reservations to allow patrons to use the computers. The reservations are for one hour per person per day and there are only a max of 6 patrons who can book for each hour. The reference staff will be escorting the patrons to the computer for use. We are a large 2 story building so escorting the patron would be necessary. We are not allowing patrons in the building to browse the collection. We have WIFI and it does span outside the front of the building. We are still doing curbside pickup of hold items. Once the items are returned (via book drops) they are quarantined for 24 hours before being shelved or sent back out. We never stopped trying to assist the patrons through phone calls/emails. Additional full time staff started returning to work last week. Part time staff has not returned as of yet. I've been told that when my department, genealogy, re-opens it will be by appointment only. There is no discussion as to when that will be. I am a staff of 1 with numerous volunteers. I was told my volunteers would not be allowed back for a very very long time. I have been doing zoom meetings with my volunteers to stay connected with them.

Please note: As of July 1, 2006, under Florida law, e-mail addresses are public records. If you do not want your e-mail address released in response to a public records request, do not send electronic mail to this entity. Instead, contact this office by phone or in writing.
Phase 2 (start date unknown) will allow a limited number of patrons into the building for a limited period of time. Seating in public areas will be removed. Limited public computer use will be offered.

Phase 3--More patrons allowed in for longer periods of time while still social distancing. Some seating returned to the public areas.

Phase 4--a return to "normal" operation

We have continued to respond to email queries during closure. With Phase 1, we are adding phone service.

My questions:

- For those of you facing a similar scenario, how are you planning to deliver reference services in the situations presented by Phases 2 & 3?
- How do you serve patrons in a research collection within the constraints of social distancing, etc.?

Any comments welcome. I know we are all struggling with these issues.

We will open first for staff researchers and then to the public, but the date is unknown.

The stacks will be closed at first. We use the Aeon item request system which is being reconfigured to allow the ordering of books. I personally think closed stacks will be the thing that gets the biggest pushback from our patrons- they are used to browsing which we encouraged.
We've asked operations staff to remove most of the chairs and for a plexiglas shield at the reference desk. We have not considered appointments yet.

Thank you for the idea of making appointments for video reference help. We've done that for a few staff but not the public. Are you going to be strict of the 30 minutes? We would use GoogleMeet since our cybersecurity specialist does not like Zoom.

Until our building is completely open to the public, our department will be by appointment only. And, for clarification, we are not yet to the point where patrons are allowed in the building at all, but when that comes ... During the appointment we will do an intensive reference interview and then the patron will leave. Within 24-48 hours, we will supply them with copies, or scans, of what we believe will meet their information need. This will keep us from having to quarantine any books. A sizeable portion of our patrons use the same 100 odd books. We've got thousands, but it is our core collection on our area's genealogy that gets the most use. I am sure same for many here. May not be as fun for folks as playing with the books themselves, but it will keep their research moving and, of course, this would not be a one time deal. Just the start of a distance research conversation. Our room is, during a time like this, not spacious. While we get steady traffic our numbers are not astronomical. And, we are assuming our traveling genealogists will not be flocking to our doors in the near future. Point being, I think we can keep us with that. I know some of you probably couldn't just due to your larger numbers. Don't know when our volunteer (including our research volunteer) will be able to return but I assume it may not be until full reopening. As with I am assuming nearly everyone here, we have not stopped working with our patrons by text and e-mail through this all, as has our research volunteer. We would do phone, too, but no one has been calling.

Thanks for asking!

Mary (Mannix)

Dear Librarians

I hope you have weathered the Coronavirus storm without casualties, and that your Library is resuming service to its readership.

Our collection of genealogy books remains available:
THE ROYAL HOUSES OF EUROPE series

For many years we have been supplying our Royal Genealogy books to libraries all over the U.S. At the moment, with the U.S. Dollar riding high, and the British Pound low due to the European Brexit negotiations, this is a good time to top up your collection, or indeed to start one.
To remind you about the series:

THE ROYAL HOUSES OF EUROPE
This series of 45 volumes covers all the European Royal Dynasties and their descendants. They provide a full royal genealogy laid out in inter-connecting royal family trees of the Royal Houses of Europe. The books cover the reigning monarchies of Europe, the great Imperial Dynasties and the former monarchies of Europe. They include the British Royal House, now the House of Windsor, descended from Queen Victoria, and the British dynasties of Stuart, Hanover and Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. In all cases the full descent is shown, extending to related noble and commoner families, in Britain, across Europe, and in the U.S.A, Canada, Australia and Latin America. The Library of Virginia has a wealth of resources available online. This short tutorial will highlight some of those resources, as well as explain how to use a Virginia driver’s license to gain access to databases and online resources.

Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff<mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org>.

FUTURE VIRTUAL PROGRAMS

MAKING SENSE OF THE CENSUS

RELIC's Don Wilson will detail the use of U.S. census records for family history. Explore the peculiarities of these records and learn about population, mortality, agricultural, industrial, social schedules, and more.

Wednesday, July 1

[Colonial Court Records]

Courts and their records were here from the beginnings of local government, recording the daily lives of our ancestors, including land ownership, lawsuits, and probate of estates. An understanding of the format, language, and content of these records is essential for successful research in early American genealogy.

The Library of Virginia has a wealth of resources available online. This short tutorial will highlight some of those resources, as well as explain how to use a Virginia driver's license to gain access to databases and online resources.

Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

Genealogy and local Virginia history are our specialty as a service provided by the Prince William Public Library System.

All Prince William library facilities have been closed to the public since March 16. Central Community Library is currently being renovated. When that renovation is complete, RELIC will reopen in spacious new quarters there. Meanwhile, reference service by phone and email is still available. RELIC's service hours are 10:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and 10:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m. Friday and Saturday, at 703-792-4540 and relic2@pwcgov.org. All previously scheduled programs have been canceled or postponed. The following virtual programs can be accessed on our website beginning on the dates shown.

VIRTUAL PROGRAMS IN JUNE

WHO'S YOUR CIVIL WAR ANCESTOR?

Manassas is a focus for the study of the American Civil War (1861-1865). If your family lived in the United States during that time, you can find a personal link to those exciting events. RELIC's Don Wilson will show how to find your ancestor's experiences in the war.

Monday, June 1

USING THE LIBRARY OF VIRGINIA WEBSITE

The Library of Virginia has a wealth of resources available online. This short tutorial will highlight some of those resources, as well as explain how to use a Virginia driver's license to gain access to databases and online resources.

Monday, June 1

Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff at mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org.

FUTURE VIRTUAL PROGRAMS

[Making Sense of the Census]
RELIC’s Don Wilson will detail the use of U.S. census records for family history. Explore the peculiarities of these records and learn about population, mortality, agricultural, industrial, social schedules, and more.

Wednesday, July 1

Courts and their records were here from the beginnings of local government, recording the daily lives of our ancestors, including land ownership, lawsuits, and probate of estates. An understanding of the format, language, and content of these records is essential for successful research in early American genealogy.

Courts and their records were here from the beginnings of local government, recording the daily lives of our ancestors, including land ownership, lawsuits, and probate of estates. An understanding of the format, language, and content of these records is essential for successful research in early American genealogy.

June 2020 - The Ruth E. Lloyd Information Center for Genealogy and Local History (RELC)

Start your historical journey today at pwcgov.org/relic

All Prince William library facilities have been closed to the public since March 16. Central Community Library is currently being renovated. When that renovation is complete, RELIC will reopen in spacious new quarters there. Meanwhile, reference service by phone and email is still available. RELIC's service hours are 10:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and 10:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m. Friday and Saturday, at 703-792-4540 and relic2 at pwcgov.org.<mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org>.

All previously scheduled programs have been canceled or postponed. The following virtual programs can be accessed on our website beginning on the dates shown.

VIRTUAL PROGRAMS IN JUNE
Manassas is a focus for the study of the American Civil War (1861-1865). If your family lived in the United States during that time, you can find a personal link to those exciting events. RELIC's Don Wilson will show how to find your ancestor's experiences in the war.

Using the Library of Virginia Website

The Library of Virginia has a wealth of resources available online. This short tutorial will highlight some of those resources, as well as explain how to use a Virginia driver's license to gain access to databases and online resources.

Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives<http://r20.rs6.net/tn.jsp?f=001iylprYMHR17sRrQSS--juZ3P3W4j6ho-y-hq06jn56Rd0XAtc863Dwhu93qDNRqwznNkoaSr0A6EYqU5vnZXNFd291Cf5Thv1SjA1RIPXNVAYm3hT2U9nPRKhvdptmtB2ES1AqooVHv6xvEo3m-wuUllySwaeHtRs7fFTe ZySnakBe6f2qHZmsq0X7Ds58Gh2eY1EzUHf1zU7uMKeKHAV49Q1gtYU0iido0w74eT2CRZKg155hFb8TRTM2gF0gj=+B4x4a6uvv5-ieATTUImpkhWs3kuXSnUa65unJFxp0rjZF3o46icatyA==&ch=lFqgFNgRqFE79qex82mTGvfR2Jd9Bv7gMLGp_V0170VA6KS65gghqQ== web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenz, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff<mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org>.

Manassas is a focus for the study of the American Civil War (1861-1865). If your family lived in the United States during that time, you can find a personal link to those exciting events. RELIC's Don Wilson will show how to find your ancestor's experiences in the war.

The Library of Virginia has a wealth of resources available online. This short tutorial will highlight some of those resources, as well as explain how to use a Virginia driver's license to gain access to databases and online resources.

Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff <mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org>.

Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff at relic2@pwcgov.org.

VIRTUAL PROGRAMS IN JUNE

[Who's Your Civil War Ancestor]
The Library of Virginia has a wealth of resources available online. This short tutorial will highlight some of those resources, as well as explain how to use a Virginia driver's license to gain access to databases and online resources.

Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff <mailto:relic2@pwcgov.org>.

UNDERSTANDING AND USING COLONIAL COURT RECORDS

Courts and their records were here from the beginnings of local government, recording the daily lives of our ancestors, including land ownership, lawsuits, and probate of estates. An understanding of the format, language, and content of these records is essential for successful research in early American genealogy.

Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff<mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org>.

We started opening for appointments for my room last week. Since we have a different type of patron and use, our director has allowed us some additional flexibility.

- Appointments are 2 hours, but they can stay if there is no one booked behind them.
- My room is large enough that we can have up to 3 simultaneous appointments and possibly 4 without violating social distancing.
- We've been allowed to include volunteers as an appointment. Note - All of my volunteers work on projects (e.g., indexing, special research for the room, etc.), not on assisting patrons.
- Any books or files that are "lightly" touched can be returned to the stacks after 24 hours (library norm is 48). If REALLY needed, patrons/staff can use gloves.
- Any books that are "highly" touched are returned after 48 hours. High touch means that many pages were consulted, and/or the patron was heavily consulting a few pages (e.g. with family histories that they are reading/comparing with their research). Same glove caveat.
- We've ensured that all county histories and plat maps that are available online have links from our county's FamilySearch Wiki page to try and cut down on some of those material uses.
- We have Plexiglas shields installed at our room reference desk. We are adding one more behind one of our patron PCs, since a sneeze could easily travel to the back of another PC user's head.

Courts and their records were here from the beginnings of local government, recording the daily lives of our ancestors, including land ownership, lawsuits, and probate of estates. An understanding of the format, language, and context of these records is essential for successful research in early American genealogy.

VIRTUAL PROGRAMS IN JUNE

[Who’s Your Civil War Ancestor] [Using the Library of Virginia Website]

Manassas is a focus for the study of the American Civil War (1861-1865). If your family lived in the United States during that time, you can find a personal link to those exciting events. RELIC's Don Wilson will show how to find your ancestor's experiences in the war.

Monday, June 1

The Library of Virginia has a wealth of resources available online. This short tutorial will highlight some of those resources, as well as explain how to use a Virginia driver's license to gain access to databases and online resources. Monday, June 1
Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff<mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org>.

The Library of Virginia has a wealth of resources available online. This short tutorial will highlight some of those resources, as well as explain how to use a Virginia driver's license to gain access to databases and online resources.

Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.
A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff.<mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org>.

The Library of Virginia has a wealth of resources available online. This short tutorial will highlight some of those resources, as well as explain how to use a Virginia driver's license to gain access to databases and online resources.

Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff <mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org>.

FUTURE VIRTUAL PROGRAMS

MAKING SENSE OF THE CENSUS

RELIC’s Don Wilson will detail the use of U.S. census records for family history.
Explore the peculiarities of these records and learn about population, mortality, agricultural, industrial, social schedules, and more.

Wednesday, July 1

[Colonial Court Records]

Courts and their records were here from the beginnings of local government, recording the daily lives of our ancestors, including land ownership, lawsuits, and probate of estates. An understanding of the format, language, and content of these records is essential for successful research in early American genealogy.

Genealogy and local Virginia history are our specialty as a service provided by the Prince William Public Library System.

All Prince William library facilities have been closed to the public since March 16. Central Community Library is currently being renovated. When that renovation is complete, RELIC will reopen in spacious new quarters there. Meanwhile, reference service by phone and email is still available. RELIC's service hours are 10:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and 10:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m. Friday and Saturday, at 703-792-4540 and relic2 at pwcgov.org.

All previously scheduled programs have been canceled or postponed. The following virtual programs can be accessed on our website beginning on the dates shown.

Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

Using the Library of Virginia Website

The Library of Virginia has a wealth of resources available online. This short tutorial will highlight some of those resources, as well as explain how to use a Virginia driver's license to gain access to databases and online resources.

Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.
Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

* Woodbridge High School "Valhalla" 1980-98.

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff<mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org>.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff <mailto:relic2@pwcgov.org>.

FUTURE VIRTUAL PROGRAMS

We started opening for appointments for my room last week. Since we have a different type of patron and use, our director has allowed us some additional flexibility.

- Appointments are 2 hours, but they can stay if there is no one booked behind them.
- My room is large enough that we can have up to 3 simultaneous appointments and possibly 4 without violating social distancing.
- We've been allowed to include volunteers as an appointment. Note: All of my volunteers work on projects (e.g., indexing, special research for the room, etc.), not on assisting patrons.
- Any books or files that are "lightly" touched can be returned to the stacks after 24 hours (library norm is 48). If REALLY needed, patrons/staff can use gloves.
- Any books that are "highly" touched are returned after 48 hours. High touch means that many pages were consulted, and/or the patron was heavily consulting a few pages (e.g. with family histories that they are reading/comparing with their research). Same glove caveat.
- We've ensured that all county histories and plat maps that are available online have links from our county's FamilySearch Wiki page to try and cut down on some of those material uses.
- We have Plexiglas shields installed at our room reference desk. We are adding one more behind one of our patron PCs, since a sneeze could easily travel to the back of another PC user's head.

Manassas is a focus for the study of the American Civil War (1861-1865). If your family lived in the United States during that time, you can find a personal link to those exciting events. RELIC's Don Wilson will show how to find your ancestor's

Courts and their records were here from the beginnings of local government, recording the daily lives of our ancestors, including land ownership, lawsuits, and probate of estates. An understanding of the format, language, and content of these records is essential for successful research in early American genealogy.

Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff at relic2@pwcgov.org.

Genealogy and local Virginia history are our specialty as a service provided by the Prince William Public Library System.

All Prince William library facilities have been closed to the public since March 16. Central Community Library is currently being renovated. When that renovation is complete, RELIC will reopen in spacious new quarters there. Meanwhile, reference service by phone and email is still available. RELIC’s service hours are 10:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and 10:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m. Friday and Saturday, at 703-792-4540 and relic2 at pwcgov.org.

All previously scheduled programs have been canceled or postponed. The following virtual programs can be accessed on our website beginning on the dates shown.

VIRTUAL PROGRAMS IN JUNE

[Who's Your Civil War Ancestor]Monday, June 1

[Using the Library of Virginia Website]
The Library of Virginia has a wealth of resources available online. This short tutorial will highlight some of those resources, as well as explain how to use a Virginia driver's license to gain access to databases and online resources.

Monday, June 1

Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff at relic2@pwcgov.org.

FUTURE VIRTUAL PROGRAMS

[Making Sense of the Census]
Making sense of the Census

Relic’s Don Wilson will detail the use of U.S. census records for family history. Explore the peculiarities of these records and learn about population, mortality, agricultural, industrial, social schedules, and more.

Wednesday, July 1

[Colonial Court Records]

Courts and their records were here from the beginnings of local government, recording the daily lives of our ancestors, including land ownership, lawsuits, and probate of estates. An understanding of the format, language, and content of these records is essential for successful research in early American genealogy.

The Library of Virginia has a wealth of resources available online. This short tutorial will highlight some of those resources, as well as explain how to use a Virginia driver's license to gain access to databases and online resources.
Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff at relic2@pwcgov.org.

FUTURE VIRTUAL PROGRAMS
MAKING SENSE OF THE CENSUS

RELIC's Don Wilson will detail the use of U.S. census records for family history. Explore the peculiarities of these records and learn about population, mortality, agricultural, industrial, social schedules, and more.

Wednesday, July 1

UNDERSTANDING AND USING COLONIAL COURT RECORDS

Courts and their records were here from the beginnings of local government, recording the daily lives of our ancestors, including land ownership, lawsuits, and probate of estates. An understanding of the format, language, and content of these records is essential for successful research in early American genealogy.

Courts and their records were here from the beginnings of local government, recording the daily lives of our ancestors, including land ownership, lawsuits, and probate of estates. An understanding of the format, language, and content of these records is essential for successful research in early American genealogy.

Genealogy and local Virginia history are our specialty as a service provided by the Prince William Public Library System.

All Prince William library facilities have been closed to the public since March 16. Central Community Library is currently being renovated. When that renovation is complete, RELIC will reopen in spacious new quarters there. Meanwhile, reference service by phone and email is still available. RELIC's service hours are 10:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and 10:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m. Friday and Saturday, at 703-792-4540 and relic2 at pwcgov.org<mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org>.

All previously scheduled programs have been canceled or postponed. The following virtual programs can be accessed on our website beginning on the dates shown.

Hi all,

The Jersey City Free Public Library is preparing to reopen, albeit with limited patron interaction (curbside pickup only). New Jersey Room librarians will be back in the building, but the department will be closed to the public. I've been reading about doing Zoom reference sessions with patrons and wondering how many of you all are doing that and how is it going? Do you have some time of appointment schedule? How long are appointments? How do you split the work?

Thanks!

Danny

Our library has been in our version of Phase 1 since May 4. Access to the adult circulating collection and Reference Desk will be controlled, but allowed for adults that wish to browse and self-select items but the Genealogy Room is closed to foot traffic and does business via phone and e-mail.

Our library has moved into Phase 2 of our reopening plans. This means my staff are able to return, but we are continuing to answer Genealogy questions, via email, phone and mail. No patrons are in the building yet.

We started opening for appointments for my room last week. Since we have a different type of patron and use, our director has allowed us some additional flexibility.

- Appointments are 2 hours, but they can stay if there is no one booked behind them.
  - My room is large enough that we can have up to 3 simultaneous appointments and possibly 4 without violating social distancing.
  - We've been allowed to include volunteers as an appointment. Note - All of my volunteers work on projects (e.g., indexing, special research for the room, etc.), not on assisting patrons.
- Any books or files that are "lightly" touched can be returned to the stacks after 24 hours (library norm is 48). If REALLY needed, patrons/staff can use gloves.
  - Any books that are "highly" touched are returned after 48 hours. High touch means that many pages were consulted, and/or the patron was heavily consulting a few pages (e.g., with family histories that they are reading/comparing with their research). Same glove caveat.
  - We've ensured that all county histories and plat maps that are available online have links from our county's FamilySearch Wiki page to try and cut down on some of those material uses.
  - We have Plexiglas shields installed at our room reference desk. We are adding one more behind one of our patron PCs, since a sneeze could easily travel to the back of another PC user's head.

> - Phase 1 started on May 26, when staff returned to the building.
> - Phase 2 (start date unknown) will allow a limited number of patrons into the building for a limited period of time. Seating in public areas will be removed. Limited public computer use will be offered.
> - Phase 3--More patrons allowed in for longer periods of time while still social distancing. Some seating returned to the public areas.
> - Phase 4--a return to "normal" operation

> We have continued to respond to email queries during closure. With Phase 1, we are adding phone service.

> My questions:

> - For those of you facing a similar scenario, how are you planning to deliver reference services in the situations presented by Phases 2 & 3?
> - How do you serve patrons in a research collection within the constraints of social distancing, etc.?

> Any comments welcome. I know we are all struggling with these issues.

Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff at relic2@pwcgov.org.

Manassas is a focus for the study of the American Civil War (1861-1865). If your family lived in the United States during that time, you can find a personal link to those exciting events. RELIC's Don Wilson will show how to find your ancestor's experiences in the war.

[Using the Library of Virginia Website]
The Library of Virginia has a wealth of resources available online. This short tutorial will highlight some of those resources, as well as explain how to use a Virginia driver's license to gain access to databases and online resources. Monday, June 1
Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we have arranged to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff at relic2@pwcgov.org.

[Colonial Court Records]

Courts and their records were here from the beginnings of local government, recording the daily lives of our ancestors, including land ownership, lawsuits, and probate of estates. An understanding of the format, language, and content of these records is essential for successful research in early American genealogy.

Genealogy and local Virginia history are our specialty as a service provided by the Prince William Public Library System.

All Prince William library facilities have been closed to the public since March 16. Central Community Library is currently being renovated. When that renovation is complete, RELIC will reopen in spacious new quarters there. Meanwhile, reference service by phone and email is still available. RELIC's service hours are 10:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and 10:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m. Friday and Saturday, at 703-792-4540 and relic2 at pwcgov.org.

All previously scheduled programs have been canceled or postponed. The following virtual programs can be accessed on our website beginning on the dates shown.

Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff<mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org>.

Hundreds of local school yearbooks are included within RELIC's collections. To help preserve these popular one-of-a-kind mementos, we are arranging to have them digitized and posted online. Recently, a sizable selection of our high school annuals was linked to our Digital Archives web page. This was accomplished through the cooperation of the Library of Virginia and the Internet Archive, with the local assistance of our library staff Nerine Clemenzi, Angie Miller, Darlene Hunter, and volunteer Ivy Joe Davis.

Here are the volumes that can currently be seen online:

A complete list of all yearbooks owned by our Library System can be found in our catalog by doing a keyword search for the name of the school. If you want to contribute or lend a Prince William area yearbook not in our collection, please contact RELIC staff<mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org>.

UNDERSTANDING AND USING COLONIAL COURT RECORDS

Courts and their records were here from the beginnings of local government, recording the daily lives of our ancestors, including land ownership, lawsuits, and probate of estates. An understanding of the format, language, and content of these records is essential for successful research in early American genealogy.

Hello everyone,

The USHMM library will be by appointment only, but we are trying to determine how that process will go.

For those who are already open and taking appointments,
1. How are you setting up appointments- email, online form, etc?
2. Are you using any tools to track appointments, ie Google Calendar?

Any advice you can give will be appreciated.

Hi Kim.

I have used just about every platform available to hold meetings online, and to host interactive virtual instruction sessions or workshops (I do regular virtual teaching for my academic library job, regular virtual teaching for my side university instructor job, and for my professional genealogy educator side job). I ramped this up quite a bit since mid-March due to COVID. I have found Zoom to be the easiest platform for learners of all ages and technology levels).

* The mobile apps (iOS and Android) are much easier for attendees to initially use than the desktop version. Much of our genealogy demographic has old computers that don’t always play well with the desktop version. The mobile apps are quite intuitive, unlike something like WebEx or GoTo.
* Even those learners who do not have internet or a smart phone can use the phone-in option to listen to the meeting/presentation, and engage vocally with the group.
* The Spotlight feature allows the Host to keep the big screen focused on the main speaker, moving the Spotlight as needed.
* The monthly meeting user license cost is better than what I found on other paid platforms.
* The video recording feature works very well, as does the Screen Sharing feature.

Even my most technology-challenged learners/members have been able to connect with us via Zoom, and enjoy the experience.

I am working on a genealogy of Albert Lelah who was in Singapore. There is a book called Communities of Singapore that has oral histories. Apparently there is one of Mr Lelah from 1940

Reference is below. From what I can see, no one lends this book. I was wondering if anyone had it and if so, if you could send me a photo or pdf of the page with his oral interview. I have the reference so I can properly attribute it.

I am working on a genealogy of Albert Lelah who was in Singapore. There is a book called Communities of Singapore that has oral histories. Apparently there is one of Mr Lelah from 1940

Reference is below. From what I can see, no one lends this book. I was wondering if anyone had it and if so, if you could send me a photo or pdf of the page with his oral interview. I have the reference so I can properly attribute it

Hello,
I am trying to find a copy of the resource called "Elms Family History" by Charles W. Hutchinson. A search of WorldCat, Family Search, and Internet Archive did not return any results. I asked the patron for more information about this source. Right now I do not have a date for this resource nor do I know where this Elms Family lived. Is this resource familiar to anyone?

Thank you.

It appears to be an article from Independence County (AR) Historical Society Chronicle?, April-July 1991, pages 13-26.

See http://www.knology.net/~lizglenn/ichs.htm for info on the society. The Index link is also on that page.

Hello all!

I am struggling to grasp all the ins and outs of microfilm. We have a large amount of microfilm of our local newspaper in our collection, going back to 1853. I feel it is important to have this. The problem is that the film is inevitably deteriorating. My understanding is that originally this was microfilmed by a company (unfortunately I don't know who) that kept a "master" copy. In the past, we could purchase replacement copies. However, in the past couple of years, Newsbank apparently acquired the rights to all of this. They are no longer doing microfilm. (I am currently waiting on a reply to my inquiry about replacements.)

I have been using my personal subscription to newspapers.com to search other newspapers that have been digitized. I have also seen some done by other companies, such as Advantage. So I know that it is possible and beneficial to digitize, and my library is interested in doing this sometime. I guess my question is this: do we have to use our own collection of physical microfilm to digitize, and would this be a problem if our microfilm is not ideal?

Sorry for the wordiness and thank you for any responses!

Sarah,
Talk to your state library to see if they know of any grants to help you do this. They might also have insight into the question about whose copy to use.

Best of luck! A worthy project for sure.

Even if the items are outside copyright, there are ethical concerns about digitizing microfilm that someone else created. Also, was the microfilming done with your hardcopies? If Newsbank acquired the masters, no doubt their contract gives them those rights, as you alluded to. Tom Kemp, of Newsbank, is amongst us here and could perhaps also serve as an intermediary for you. To put it bluntly, if you digitize microfilm that a commercial entity has the rights to, especially if the microfilming wasn?t done for you as a client, the odds are good they won?t be happy, you would be competing with them. And, Tom will hopefully correct me if I?m wrong.

To your actual question, if you don?t use the Masters you are going to get not ideal scans if your microfilm is in bad shape.

I do find it concerning that it sounds like they won?t create microfilm on demand. Even if digitized, in a perfect world, it is best to also still maintain a microfilm copy. Leaving aside the demise of a digital vendor, sometimes you just need microfilm.

And, is your microfilm scratched or actively deteriorating? If deteriorating, what is going on in your environment? Or, they might have been something wrong with your microfilm to begin with?

Thanks for all the responses so far!
To answer Mary’s questions, a lot of damage is split film, sometimes tears that go into the image portion itself. Some of them have been taped—and the more recent taping has been done by me. I know it's not ideal, but since this is the only film we have, I do it. That damage is from use. Some of the films are pretty dark, and I'm not sure if that is from deterioration or just the nature of the beast.

Darkness in positive microfilm is usually unrelated to deterioration. Darkness relates to the amount of light pushed through the duplicating negative during the duplication process that made your positive. ?Darker? positives are usually (not always) better at capturing all of the information. However, there is such a thing as ?too dark.? On the other hand, positives that are "too light" often lead to the record image looking washed out - with information loss and general unuseability. A person who was good at duplication would aim for an unhappy medium - not too dark - not too light, but erring on the slightly darker side. Not everyone who did duplication was good at it or understood the nuances.

Vendors like Gaylord sell ?splicing? tape for repairs that is better from an archival standpoint. Try to avoid standard commercial tape that we use for our everyday purposes.

(I was the archivist, not the duplication technician, so I don't know all the lingo, but I learned enough to know I wanted in positive copies.)

Thank you Claire! I did not know that about the darker & lighter images. I've definitely seen both. I am very glad to say that I did get the "better" tape.

I do find it concerning that it sounds like they won't create microfilm on demand. Even if digitized, in a perfect world, it is best to also still maintain a microfilm copy. Leaving aside the demise of a digital vendor, sometimes you just need microfilm.

And, is your microfilm scratched or actively deteriorating? If deteriorating, what is going on in your environment? Or, they might have been something wrong with your microfilm to begin with?

Please keep the conversation going. I have microfilm given to me by our county that was improperly stored and would like to get a new set as well as replacing those which have been damaged by constant use.

This is especially important as our local paper had been digitally scanned by its owner McClatchey and made available online back to 1826. Then the digital archives disappeared with no notice and no explanation as to what was happening. I had a could of researchers who had gotten paid subscriptions ask do we know anymore why the removal of this wonderful resource.

So I need to keep my microfilm collection in the best condition as we are the primary source provider for this area.

You might want to check to see if your local newspaper is already digitized and freely downloadable by the Library of Congress "Chronicling America" program. A lot of early issues in public domain can be found there.

Has there been any word on whether ALE is extending the remote access? It has been wonderful for ProQuest and Ancestry to allow this for the past

Bill
Thank you for this. During these uncomfortable and uncertain days those of us on the front lines of genealogy librarianship can continue to offer quality resources to our most vulnerable populations. Thank you

Thank you, Bill and Proquest. Our patrons are making great use of this opportunity, and will be glad to have this additional time for research.
