EXPLORE RELIC
September 2020 - The Ruth E. Lloyd Information Center for Genealogy and Local History (RELIC)

Start your historical journey here. RELIC's email newsletter highlights upcoming free events and happenings. Genealogy and local Virginia history are our specialty as a service provided by the Prince William Public Libraries. You can always find more about us at pwcgov.org/relic<<https://www.pwcgov.org/relic>>.

Central Library is currently being renovated. When that renovation is complete, tentatively set for early to mid-October, RELIC will reopen in spacious new quarters there. Please check the website<<https://www.pwcgov.org/government/dept/library/Pages/relic.aspx>> for updates.

Starting Monday, August 31 - Friday, September 18, RELIC will be closed for all services. Beginning Saturday, September 19, RELIC will be available by email and phone (new number TBD).

UPCOMING VIRTUAL PROGRAMS

RESEARCHING YOUR IMMIGRANT ANCESTOR<<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=h8u1W8deXG8&feature=youtu.be>>

All U.S. residents descend from immigrants. Those who arrived within the past 500 years may have a paper trail. RELIC's Don Wilson will describe passenger lists and naturalization records and how to find them.

Beginning Tuesday, September 1<<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=h8u1W8deXG8&feature=youtu.be>> (Virtual program)

[Welcome RELIC at Central Library]<<https://bit.ly/39k8Kds>>

WELCOME TO RELIC AT CENTRAL COMMUNITY LIBRARY!<<https://bit.ly/39k8Kds>>
After 25 years at the Bull Run Regional Library, the RELIC department has moved to a new home at the renovated and reopened Central Community Library. RELIC's Kirk

Johnson leads this brief "virtual tour" along with an overview of the resources and materials available for patrons researching their family history or the history of our community.

Beginning Thursday, October 1<<https://bit.ly/39k8Kds>> (Virtual program)

[Using Interlibrary Loan for Your Genealogical Research]<<https://pwcgov.libnet.info/event/4413328>>
USING INTERLIBRARY LOAN FOR YOUR GENEALOGICAL RESEARCH<<https://pwcgov.libnet.info/event/4413328>>

Although RELIC has a robust collection of materials, neither RELIC nor Prince William Public Libraries can own every record of interest to patrons. Fortunately, it's possible for us to borrow materials from other library systems for patron use. The Library of Virginia, in particular, has a wealth of materials of interest to genealogists and local history researchers. RELIC's Kirk Johnson will guide you through the process of finding materials on the Library of Virginia website and other institutions, and placing an Interlibrary Loan request

Beginning Thursday, October 1<<https://pwcgov.libnet.info/event/4413328>> (Virtual program)

AGENCIES OF HISTORY

If you are doing historical research in Prince William County, you have a number of organizations supporting your work. Here are some of them:

Prince William County Historic Preservation Division<<https://bit.ly/2Q81zfM>>, Department of Parks, Recreation and Tourism, preserves, maintains, and interprets historic sites owned by the County, including Ben Lomond, Brentsville Courthouse, Rippon Lodge, Old Manassas Courthouse, Williams Ordinary, Lucasville School, and Bristoe Station Battlefield. For several years in March, they have organized a symposium of Prince William history. Tours of selected historic sites have resumed.

The Prince William Historic Preservation Foundation<<http://www.pwhpf.org/>> is a nonprofit organization that supports programs made available to the public by the County, particularly the programs of the Historic Preservation Division.

The Prince William County Historical Commission<<https://bit.ly/3ggPzmE>> advises the Board of County Supervisors "in its efforts to identify, preserve, protect, and promote Prince William County's historical sites, artifacts, buildings, and events." These citizen appointees meet monthly. They sponsor highway markers and research projects and support the protection of cemeteries and historic sites facing development. Their support staff include County Archaeologist Justin Patton and the Historic Preservation Division. They have published or reprinted a number of works important to our local history.

Historic Prince William<<https://bit.ly/2QdVVZw>> is Prince William County's historical society. They offer periodic programs on local topics, often at Montclair Library. They sponsor tours of regional historic sites. Members have been active in restoring neglected and vandalized cemeteries. They offer grants to scholars specializing in Prince William research. They sponsored Eugene Scheel's map of Prince William historical sites and his book Crossroad and Corners. Their website has links to numerous photos, documents, and maps.

None of the above organizations has a library or archive available for public access. Although RELIC is not an official county archive, it is the next best thing. The other organizations often refer questions to RELIC for a response. We are gratified by our ability to satisfy the research needs of many of the people who contact us.

Hi Everyone;

We have been open for about 2 weeks with limited visits at our library. I was just wondering how things were going if your Genealogy/Local history has opened back up to the public yet?

Thanks,
Stephanie

Yes, we have and I make appointments for our genealogy so social distancing isn't an issue. I am doing some virtual programs instead of having an in-house program.

Good Morning,

We have been open by appointment since June. Only a very limited number of people allowed in the Local History Branch at one time, thus the appointments. It has worked fairly well; no complaints, but the quarantining of used materials is a bit of a logistical stress.

Hi Everyone;

We have been open for about 2 weeks with limited visits at our library. I was just wondering how things were going if your Genealogy/Local history has opened back up to the public yet?

Thanks,

These sound wonderful! Since they're being recorded, will I be able to access them afterwards if I can't attend live? And should I still register in advance?
Thanks!

We are not yet open to the public, but I am in the department part-time, answering web reference questions and keeping up with indexing obituaries. We plan to open on a limited basis on October 5, with patrons calling ahead to make 1 hour appointments.

Hi Everyone;

We have been open for about 2 weeks with limited visits at our library. I was just wondering how things were going if your Genealogy/Local history has opened back up to the public yet?

Thanks,

Officially we are not open to the public, but we are permitting a few people in for genealogical, government documents, and special collections use. We encourage appointments. Masks are expected. With social distancing in force, we just don't have a lot of extra space for non-students at the moment.

Hi,

Our library itself opened back up to the public in August. There are 6 computers available for patron use in the reference area with a maximum of 1 hour usage. Those computers have chairs, unlike the other parts of the library. The purpose of this was to have patrons grab-n-go material. My department is only open by appointment and I have a couple of chairs at various workstations. I am only allowed one patron at a time with this appointment. It is working out well. A lot of patrons are calling to request research assistance which I have continued to do. Having it by appointment helps since my volunteers have not been allowed back and I am the only one working in my department. Our library closes each day from 1-2 pm for cleaning as well.

Stay Safe and Be Well,

Michelle Wagner, B.A.

Dear Subscribers,

Although I recognize that many of your institutions may still be closed to the public, I wanted to send you a list of our new titles for 2020 so far. Following are the new or updated editions of our books, with the item number, abbreviated title and author, retail price, and a link to the product description on our web site.

Best wishes,

We have been open since June 12 to the public by Appointment. No more than 10 people are permitted in the room including staff. When they call we require their name, phone number, Time and Topic. Taking the phone number helped us when our air conditioning went out and we were closed to the public for 3 days.

Hello to all,

I'm curious for those who are open, do you allow patrons to use the microfilm reader printers? (I am assuming everyone has these even though more and more things are being digitized and are online.) If you do allow this, what do you use to sanitize the machines? I've heard that the same chemicals that are used in sanitization products can be harmful to the microfilm reader. Please suggest or advise. Thanks in advance.

Our library system provided curbside service when we were closed, and we're still providing that even though we reopened June 1.

All of our smaller rooms, including the genealogy and microfilm rooms, remain closed due to social distancing issues in those spaces. However, I can go in on occasion and get something for a patron or look for something on the microfilm.

We have four databases for genealogy though, and now with remote access for Ancestry, at least our patrons can look for some information online so that has been helpful.

We're allowing use, but I have encouraged people to contact me to find and print the documents they want. I will deliver them curbside, leave them at the desk, or email them. I have had just two patrons enter and use the microfilm. In those cases, I cleaned the computer, but not the microfilm reader. All of our regular genealogy patrons are staying away, so this pattern has worked well for us.

Here at the Arizona State Archives, the Conservator has provided us with a solution of 70% Isopropyl Alcohol and 30% Purified water. We spray it on a microfiber cloth and then sanitize all the surfaces a patron/researcher would have touched.

We spray a bleach solution onto cloths and then wipe down touch areas. That way we can avoid anything that might be damaged by bleach (e.g. monitors, keyboards).

Subject: [Genealib] missing digitized censuses?

Message-ID: <CAEs5skJG_q6r8SfZZdGhTjrTs=SEecTtQTprygJhLx1_ZpNmhA@mail.gmail.com>

Not sure if this is a/my mistake, but yesterday I found several communities missing from the digitized 1870 federal censuses at both Ancestry and FamilySearch.

Here's what happened:

I'd found a Thomas Martin in a book index for the 1870 census whom I hadn't found while searching for him in Ancestry and FamilySearch: Thomas Martin (b. abt 1840 in VA), mulatto, living in the 6th ward of Petersburg, Dinwiddie county, VA.

I browsed Dinwiddie county in Ancestry.com and saw it just listed 3 townships and a "District 2" in its collection. No Petersburg, nor Districts 1 and anything after 2 (if they exist). Petersburg is unusual in that it doesn't have a county--it's an independent city--so I thought maybe that was the problem. But searching 1870 anywhere in Virginia with "Petersb?rg" as a keyword didn't yield the correct Petersburg.

So, I checked our microfilm set and, sure enough, there are at least 6 wards of Petersburg, VA showing up in it. I double checked Ancestry and FamilySearch, searching for other names found in our microfilm set for these wards, and nothing came up.

I was very surprised because I'd assumed Ancestry and FamilySearch had digitized their collections from the same set of microfilm my library has: "Population schedules of the ninth census of the United States, 1870" published by NARA in 1965. 1,748 35mm microfilm reels. So why would some reels be missing from their online censuses?

Is this a known issue? Anyone out there reading this from Ancestry or FamilySearch? Anyone out there who wants to try finding people from Wards 1-6 of Petersburg, VA in the digitized collections? (maybe I'm not searching in the right direction...) Prove me wrong!

Thank you!

Subject: [Genealib] missing digitized censuses?

Not sure if this is a/my mistake, but yesterday I found several communities missing from the digitized 1870 federal censuses at both Ancestry and FamilySearch.

Here's what happened:

I'd found a Thomas Martin in a book index for the 1870 census whom I hadn't found while searching for him in Ancestry and FamilySearch: Thomas Martin (b. abt 1840 in VA), mulatto, living in the 6th ward of Petersburg, Dinwiddie county, VA.

I browsed Dinwiddie county in Ancestry.com and saw it just listed 3 townships and a "District 2" in its collection. No Petersburg, nor Districts 1 and anything after 2 (if they exist). Petersburg is unusual in that it doesn't have a county--it's an independent city--so I thought maybe that was the problem. But searching 1870 anywhere in Virginia with "Petersb?rg" as a keyword didn't yield the correct Petersburg.

So, I checked our microfilm set and, sure enough, there are at least 6 wards of Petersburg, VA showing up in it. I double checked Ancestry and FamilySearch, searching for other names found in our microfilm set for these wards, and nothing came up.

I was very surprised because I'd assumed Ancestry and FamilySearch had digitized their collections from the same set of microfilm my library has: "Population schedules of the ninth census of the United States, 1870" published by NARA in 1965. 1,748 35mm microfilm reels. So why would some reels be missing from their online censuses?

Is this a known issue? Anyone out there reading this from Ancestry or FamilySearch? Anyone out there who wants to try finding people from Wards 1-6 of Petersburg, VA in the digitized collections? (maybe I'm not searching in the right direction...) Prove me wrong!

Thank you!

I searched on FamilySearch for Thomas Martin with residence in Petersburg, Virginia in 1870 and the image of the census page came up for me.

Since Petersburg is an independent city, it would not be listed under Dinwiddie County.

I should add that the image is also on Ancestry, but is much harder to find. You have to search with Petersburg, Virginia in the location field, but choose the record at the county level.

That's absolutely it, Drew and Lori!

I was looking at the microfilm for Dinwiddie county, and (believe I) saw many that said "x ward" of Petersburg, rather than looking at the microfilm reel for Petersburg. I still have something nagging at the back of my mind about this, but have to wait a month before I'm back at our library to check it out.

I knew I'd get an answer from the great minds on this listserv!! Thanks so much!

This doesn't sound like the known indexing flaw that is seen in the 1870 census ? in those cases you can pull up the digitized images but the people on them are not indexed (so can't be found in a name search). Were these missing locations on a different microfilm roll from the digitized-and-visible locations in the county?
Did you look at FamilySearch.org to see if they have the digitized pages?

Not sure if this is a/my mistake, but yesterday I found several communities missing from the digitized 1870 federal censuses at both Ancestry and FamilySearch.

Here's what happened:

I'd found a Thomas Martin in a book index for the 1870 census whom I hadn't found while searching for him in Ancestry and FamilySearch: Thomas Martin (b. abt 1840 in VA), mulatto, living in the 6th ward of Petersburg, Dinwiddie county, VA.

I browsed Dinwiddie county in Ancestry.com and saw it just listed 3 townships and a "District 2" in its collection. No Petersburg, nor Districts 1 and anything after 2 (if they exist). Petersburg is unusual in that it doesn't have a county--it's an independent city--so I thought maybe that was the problem. But searching 1870 anywhere in Virginia with "Petersb?rg" as a keyword didn't yield the correct Petersburg.

So, I checked our microfilm set and, sure enough, there are at least 6 wards of Petersburg, VA showing up in it. I double checked Ancestry and FamilySearch, searching for other names found in our microfilm set for these wards, and nothing came up.

I was very surprised because I'd assumed Ancestry and FamilySearch had digitized their collections from the same set of microfilm my library has: "Population schedules of the ninth census of the United States, 1870" published by NARA in 1965. 1,748 35mm microfilm reels. So why would some reels be missing from their online censuses?

Is this a known issue? Anyone out there reading this from Ancestry or FamilySearch? Anyone out there who wants to try finding people from Wards 1-6 of Petersburg, VA in the digitized collections? (maybe I'm not searching in the right direction...) Prove me wrong!

Thank you!

The 1870 census, Petersburg, 6th ward is digitized on FamilySearch

<https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/3:1:S3HT-6L92-LD>

It's also searchable here:

<https://www.familysearch.org/search/record/results?q.filmNumber=4268496>

Or you can find Thomas Martin via a general search of the 1870 census with an exact search for name, residence: Virginia (or residence: Petersburg, Virginia), and birth year.

The Ancestry search does seem quirky as far as location goes. If you choose either Dinwiddie or Petersburg as the residence location, no results for Thomas Martin. However, if you enter Petersburg in the keyword field it works. You can also browse to the record.

Petersburg as an independent city is not unusual in Virginia. Cities here are all independent from surrounding or adjacent counties. This has been the case for many years! So, one always has to look for them as separate

Do any libraries on the list own this particular edition of Burke's? I'm seeking copies from volume 3 page 4169 (and others if the family [Wigram] runs more than one page) for a patron whose name apparently appears in this edition.

[Using the website thepeerage.com, the family also seems to appear in volume 1 page 1216.]

He wants the documentation for his family tree research. Any help appreciated!

Dear Librarians

I hope you have weathered the Coronavirus storm without casualties, and that your Library is resuming service to its readership.

We have just published a new volume:
THE ROYAL HOUSES OF EUROPE
GREAT BRITAIN Volume 2
The Families of the British Consorts.

This volume records the family trees of the consorts of the British Sovereigns of the twentieth century and their heirs, Middleton, Spencer, Greece, Bowes-Lyon, Teck and Denmark, all being common ancestors of the eventual heir to the throne, Prince William, Duke of Cambridge. A further section covers the family of the new consort, Camilla, Duchess of Cornwall. The book traces a wide range of European Royal, and British noble and commoner families, and includes the Duke and Duchess of Sussex (Meghan Markle). 239 pages. 5th edit
2020 ISBN 978-1-9163481-1-0

Our collection of genealogy books remains available:
THE ROYAL HOUSES OF EUROPE series

For many years we have been supplying our Royal Genealogy books to libraries all over the U.S. At the moment, with the U.S. Dollar riding high, and the British Pound low due to the European Brexit negotiations, this is a good time to top up your collection, or indeed to start one.
To remind you about the series:

THE ROYAL HOUSES OF EUROPE

This series of 45 volumes covers all the European Royal Dynasties and their descendants. They provide a full royal genealogy laid out in inter-connecting royal family trees of the Royal Houses of Europe. The books cover the reigning monarchies of Europe, the great Imperial Dynasties and the former monarchies of Europe. They include the British Royal House, now the House of Windsor, descended from Queen Victoria, and the British dynasties of Stuart, Hanover and Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. It now includes a series on the descendants of the mistresses of King Charles II, many of whom live in the U.S. The dynasties of Hohenzollern, Romanov, Habsburg, Bonaparte and Bourbon have separate books on each, together with the Monarchies of Scandinavia, the Benelux, Liechtenstein, Iberia, Monaco, Italy and the Balkans, and the former German Kingdoms, and Grand Duchies. In all cases the full descent is shown, extending to related noble and commoner families, in Britain, across Europe, and in the U.S.A, Canada, Australia and Latin America. They are an essential source of information for genealogists providing details right down to the present day. All books have ISBN numbers.

In particular, they are a source of detailed information on German Royal and Noble dynasties.

The relevant 10 German/Austrian volumes are:
The HOHENZOLLERN Dynasty of PRUSSIA - 2 volumes
The HABSBURG Dynasty of AUSTRIA-HUNGARY
The BALKAN and ITALIAN MONARCHIES: In respect of the Habsburg Dynasty in Tuscany and Modena.

The Sovereign Principalities of LIECHTENSTEIN and MONACO
The German Kingdoms of BAVARIA and SAXONY
The German Kingdoms of Württemberg and HANOVER
The German Dynasty of HESSE: Darmstadt Cassel Homburg Philippsthal Battenberg /
Mountbatten
The German Grand Duchies of OLDENBURG and MECKLENBURG: Schwerin and Strelitz.
The German Grand Duchies of BADEN and SAXE-WEIMAR-EISENACH

Good afternoon,

The Virtual Genealogy and Local History Fair, hosted by the Indiana State Library, will take place on Saturday, October 24th, 10:00 am to 3:30 pm. Our theme is "The Women in Your Family Tree," examining techniques for researching women as well as looking at women's suffrage and other social movements. Highly acclaimed speakers Gena Philibert-Ortega and Katherine Willson will present the following:

Gena Philibert-Ortega will speak on "25 Tips for Researching Your Female Ancestors," providing information to help identify, trace, and discover more about your female ancestors. Gena will also present "Fabric, Cigars, and Murder," presenting her research on a community of Hoosier women who worked on a 1930s-era quilt top she discovered in California.

Katherine Willson will present "Social Reform Movements of the 19th Century," examining the beginnings of the women's suffrage movement and other social reforms such as free public education, prison reform, and temperance. She will discuss where records pertaining to these movements can be found. Katherine will also hold a Question and Answer session to answer questions provided by Fair attendees.

Registration is free and required. This event will be held via Zoom.

To learn more or to register, please visit
<https://calendar.in.gov/site/isl/event/genealogy-and-local-history-fair-1/>.

Please share this with anyone who may be interested.
