Health Center in financial bind

By WARREN EPSTEIN
Oracle Staff Writer

The USF Health Center may be heading toward a financial crisis, if immediate steps are not taken, said Dan Walbolt, vice president for Student Affairs Friday in an emergency meeting of the University Health Committee.

The problem, Walbolt said, is that at the present rate of spending, which is projected at $890,897 for this academic year, the Health Center will have a deficit of $121,897 by the end of next year. That figure does not include inflation, or the 8.5 percent employee raises planned for next year, he said. Activities and Service Fees are not expected to increase, regardless of the center's large deficit, said Dr. Larry E. Stevens, the director of the Health Center.

According to Stevens, most state university health centers have also reached a similar point, and have been forced to cut back in hours, services, or both.

Walbolt said students might be severely hampered if hit with too drastic a cut in the Health Center's hours or services.

"If we must make changes, we should do so in the smallest increments possible," Walbolt said.

The changes proposed by Stevens and Walbolt include:

- Closing the Health Center from 11 p.m. Friday to 9 a.m.

Saturday, and 7 p.m. Saturday to 12:30 p.m. Sunday. That would mean a layoff of six to eight employees, said Stevens.

- Begin plans for a student pharmacy, at a cost of $45,000. Stevens predicts the pharmacy will make back the $45,000 and show an additional profit of $22,700 after the first year of operation.

- Lift the cap on the health fee. The Council of Presidents of the State University System prohibits universities from charging more than $12 for the health fee. Since the students are already paying the highest fee allowed, the administration will try to persuade the council to raise that limit, Walbolt said.

- If other measures do not cover the deficit, the hours would be further cut to match those of the Florida State University's health center, Walbolt said. They are 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

A cut in services was not mentioned at the meeting.

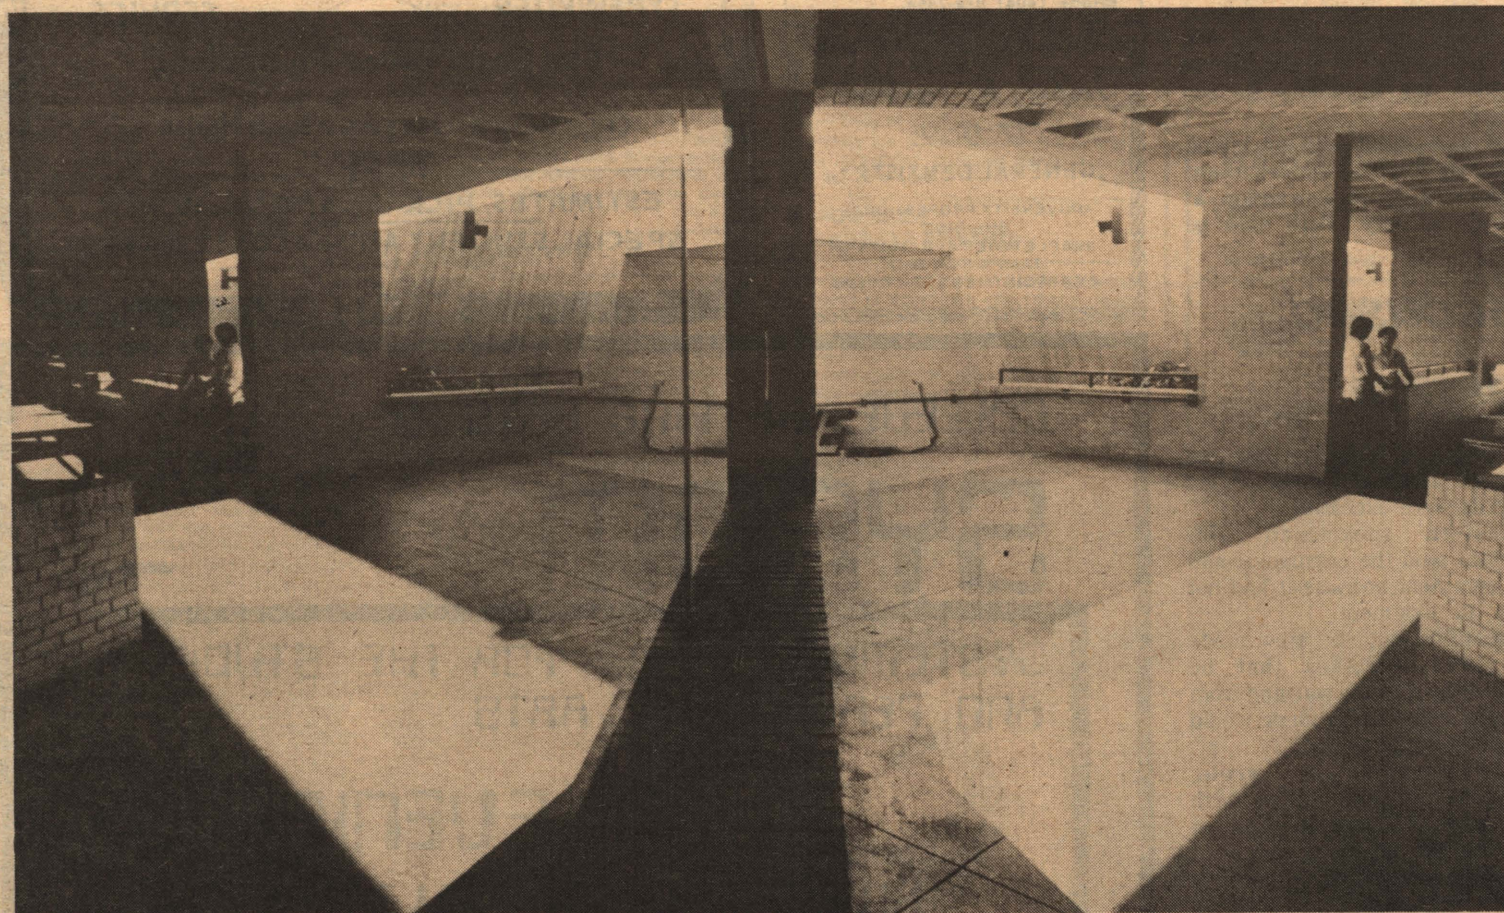

Student Government President-elect Shaune Einbinder agreed with the proposed cut in hours, but said she is against an increase in the health fee.

"It would be ridiculous to raise the health fee before cutting the night hours. You would be charging students for a service that most of them don't use," Einbinder said.

USF considers inter-campus mass transit

By JAY MEISEL
Oracle Staff Writer

USF may have a mass transit system for branch campus faculty next September, according to James Heck, dean of Regional Campus Affairs.

In order to reduce traveling problems for faculty who must travel from Tampa to the branch campuses in St. Petersburg, Sarasota and Fort Myers, Heck said he has proposed forming a mass-transit plan.

"People who travel should be assisted (by us) as best we can," Heck said.

The transit plan would include chartering a limosine from Tampa to St. Petersburg and Sarasota, and chartering an airplane from Tampa airport to Fort Myers, he said.

Heck said the air service to Fort Myers would reduce the traveling time from Tampa from around three and one half hours to 40 minutes.

"It will permit faculty members to leave that afternoon and return that night by a reasonable time (usually before 11 p.m.)," Heck said.

He said he also believes that a charter air service is just as safe as a regular air service. "It is safer to travel by air than to drive yourself," Heck added.

Heck said another benefit from the proposed plan would be that it would save both the faculty and the University money on traveling expenses. The savings for the University would enable it to "use more funds for instruction," he added.

Right now, he said, there is a need to expand the programs at the branch campuses, if the funds were available.

"We are doing everything we can for the students with the money we have available," Heck said.

He said the plan will also save faculty money because the 17 cents a mile they receive from the state does not cover the cost of gasoline. In addition, faculty would not have to worry about driving — they could relax, talk with other faculty members or prepare their lessons, he said.

Currently, there are plans to construct a new Fort Myers campus near Edison Community College. Last year, Gov. Bob Graham vetoed funds for construction of the campus.

But this year, Heck said he is confident the funds will be appropriated for the project, since it now has the support of the governor and the leaders of the Legislature.

Once the campus is constructed, there will be more resident faculty at the Fort Myers campus, he said.

Asked about whether a transit plan could be developed for students from the branch campuses, Heck replied it would be difficult to do so since students come to the branch campuses from many different areas.

Reagan: Anderson should leave GOP

CHICAGO — With Gerald R. Ford out of the picture, Ronald Reagan and George Bush intensified their efforts Sunday to blunt John B. Anderson's popularity in advance of the pivotal Illinois primary this week.

Bolstered by fresh triumphs in Democratic caucuses in South Carolina, Mississippi and Wyoming, President Carter was headed for his crucial test in Illinois on Tuesday as an easy favorite over Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

The early turnout Sunday in Puerto Rico's presidential primary, pitting Carter and Kennedy, was described as heavy. At stake are 41 delegates to the Democratic National Convention in August. Bush won Puerto Rico's winner-take-all GOP primary last month.

Reagan, locked in a tight race with Anderson in Illinois with its 102 GOP National Convention delegates, suggested Sunday that Anderson might consider leaving the Republican Party.

Reagan referred to the Illinois congressman's "inability to support Republican candidates, his inability to go along with the philosophy" of the GOP. The former California governor, however, said he wasn't proposing that Anderson be thrown out of the party.

Bush meanwhile scheduled a hectic day of election-eve campaigning Monday in down-state Illinois. The former U.N. ambassador and Texas congressman was running a distant third in the polls behind Reagan and Anderson.

With two days remaining before the year's first primary in a large industrial state, Reagan demonstrated that Anderson's sudden surge in popularity has him worried.

Reagan, interviewed on television and questioned at a news conference, said that if Anderson believes what he has said about social issues, he should "ask himself if he is in the right place" as a GOP presidential candidate.

Reagan was clearly rankled by Anderson's indication that he could not support Reagan as the GOP presidential nominee. And Reagan was obviously pleased with Ford's announcement Saturday that he would not enter the Republican race.

Ford, who has said he thought Reagan was too conservative to win the general election in November, stayed out of the race when he became convinced it was too late to make a serious challenge against Reagan — and that he had generated insufficient support for becoming a candidate.

Reagan said he did not intend to seek Ford's endorsement before the GOP convention at Detroit in July. Ford said he would support the party's nominee "with all the energy I have."

In other evidence that Anderson has become the big target among GOP candidates, Reagan reminded Illinois voters that he, too, is a native son. He campaigned in Dixon, where he once ran a radio station.

Anderson's state campaign director, Curt Walder, said the congressman's campaign has attracted $2 million in the past few weeks.

Regardless of the outcome Tuesday, Walder said, it will benefit Anderson's candidacy. In a telephone interview, Walder declined to predict an Anderson victory Tuesday but said, "it's very close."

Statewide interest in the primary was intense, and a high voter turnout is expected, especially among Republicans.

Democratic and independent voters are permitted to cross over and vote Republican. A significant number of those who might otherwise support Carter or Kennedy are expected to vote for Anderson.

In the Democratic race, Kennedy remained significantly behind Carter in all pre-election polls. Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne, who staunchly supports Kennedy, has put her own reputation as party boss on the line and pledges to get out enough votes for the Massachusetts Democrat to carry Chicago.

Kennedy had been scheduled to march in the city's traditional St. Patrick's Day parade Monday, but he seemed likely to cancel the appearance because of a memorial service in New York for family friend Allard Lowenstein, a liberal former congressman who died of gunshot wounds Friday.

Campaigning Sunday in New York and Connecticut, Kennedy won the endorsement of the 550,000-member American Federation of Teachers.

Eastern pilots accused of 'gross negligence'

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — The two men flying an Eastern Airlines jet when it crashed short of a runway in 1974 were "grossly negligent," a federal judge said in his final judgement on a multi-million case against the airline.

The crash of the Eastern DC9 jet short of a runway at Charlotte's airport killed 72 persons and injured 10. Two survivors and the estate of a dead passenger were awarded about $5 million last November by a federal jury that heard the case against the airline. The plane was en route from Charleston, S.C., to Charlotte when it crashed.

U.S. District Judge James McMillan, in a judgement filed Friday, concluded, "the negligence of Eastern was the sole proximate cause of the crash... the pilots were not simply inadvertent but rather were grossly negligent."

McMillan's judgement clears the way for Eastern to appeal the awards. The airlines claims the awards were excessive.

Eastern spokesman Jim Ashlock said the company could not comment because it had not seen the judgment.

McMillan said the crew made so many mistakes that he doubted an altitude warning from the air-traffic controllers would have done any good.

The crew, he wrote, "distracted themselves with extraneous matters; they did not look out the window to see what numerous others saw — that they were dangerously low... they also ignored a shrill whistle and red lights which called their low altitude emphatically to their attention."

One pilot was killed in the crash. The other, James M. Daniels Jr., survived and was last known to be living in Marietta, Ga.

Williamson granted tenure decision delay

By KATHY SUBKO
Oracle Staff Writer

The decision whether to grant tenure to USF biology Assistant Professor Bruce Williamson is being deferred, at Williamson's request, until next year.

Williamson has been a controversial figure recently because of his political involvement with the Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade.

He said he requested "some time ago" that the procedures for evaluating whether to give him tenure be postponed. Williamson said he requested the extra year to get research published, so as to keep with USF President John Lott Brown's attempts at tightening standards for promotion and tenure.

"I have done a bunch of research, and I want to wait until the papers are published before the decision comes up," Williamson said.

The procedures for promotion and tenure differ in each college.

In the College of Natural Sciences, where Williamson teaches and his work will be evaluated, first reviews are done within the individual departments.

In Williamson's case, biology department recommendations will be forwarded to promotion and tenure committees on the college level.

Later, a committee composed of a representative from each department reviews departmental recommendations and the final college decision is made by the dean of the college.

Dean James Ray of the College of Natural Sciences said any person in his fifth year of employment has a right to request not to be considered for tenure that year.

Ray said he readily approved Williamson's request for a delayed tenure decision.

A dean's recommendation goes to the vice president for Academic Affairs and the president of the University.

Brown said he received at least one letter from a USF faculty member opposed to granting Williamson tenure. But Brown denied he has received many letters urging him to deny tenure to Williamson.

Brown said faculty peers should play a major role in evaluating a professor's teaching ability and in analyzing his or her ability as a researcher and scholar.

Ray would not talk about whether he has received any letters from faculty in the College of Natural Sciences about granting Williamson tenure.

Williamson said faculty opinion can make a difference, but it is up to individual people how they feel.

He said he is uncertain whether his political views will affect his chances for tenure next year.

'Being an American is getting tougher'

Dear Editor:

Being an American is getting tougher and tougher these days. You see, on my left are some black-bereted chaps handing out leaflets telling Sam (our uncle) to eat dung. On my right are flag-waving yahoos who think our blind course toward war is patriotic.

Aside from Mr. Epstein's sickening article on the women at USF who are enrolled in ROTC, I have patiently read this tabloid as well as others and I am tired of the rampant ignorance I see printed from day to day.

Fools wear shirts that say "Nuke the Ayatollah," but in this half-assed comment, do they consider where the fallout will go? Over their cozy family dwellings I hope. "Arise ye patriots," say the politicians. "It is time we got elected or re-elected, thus it is time to instill a phony fear in the bosom of youth," who they would see march to their deaths like lemmings smashing into the rocky surf from the high cliffs above.

Have any of you flag wavers killed a man? Nay, not even one-tenth of one percent of you. Have ye patriots lost any legs or eyes or pieces of your brains fighting for a hyped-up cause? Again, I say nay! You know not of what you talk about. Death in war is glorious to those who don't see it. Gore and blood is pleasant only to those who would just as soon see more.

So think ye mice afore ye leap into the jaws of the cat. It is easy to yell, "Yea, USA" in a land that hasn't seen war since the last of the native Americans were robbed and murdered off this beautiful land by the same government you patriots would throw your lives away for.

And what of the 500,000 who died in that great waste of government-funded history books called the "Civil War," which in reality was a war between the rich of the North and the South.

Let us consider World War I, shall we? What did we learn here after 10 million died in Europe? We learned how to retreat into American individualism while Europe, especially Germany, soured again until an even more unbelievable war erupted and 100 million more were killed or maimed. Again I say, what did we learn?

We learned to turn our aggression on yellow people whose ways were so different from ours that it bothered only the most sensitive warmonger, for their skin is not lily white like Uncle Sam's, which made the murder more digestible. I was but a boy during the Vietnam rout when four presidential administrators catering to the whims of the war investors caused the deaths and the butchering of 350,000 American numbers, er, ah, I mean people.

I am tired of you out there who say I must kill Europeans and Asians or any other people so American rich folk who care not a damn about me and mine, can keep their posh status. I say "damn you" who would try to coerce me from living my life, be you a flag exploiter or a communist idealist, for you are all the same. People telling other people what to do, or else, is not what I would call freedom and justice for all.

When foes come to this land to kill me, then shall I fight, for it is my land and I know where I'm going and how to conduct myself. I'll not take orders from some fool who knows nothing of the land on which he walks. I shall not fight to save Exxon or Standard or Jim Crow, er Carter, for I care not for any of these institutions. Do they care for me?

I shall fight here for it is the land of my birth and this only will I fight for. The shah is a thief, like his friend Dick Nixon. Remember what we wanted to do to old Dick not long ago?

When or if our government and the Soviet government stop telling their respective masses that each is out for the other's throat, then will you see how self-destructive we are. People are people, with similar emotions; the more we differ the more we are alike. We should not be expected to kill our brothers and sisters just because politicians prosper or corporations grow to even more gangrenous extremes.

Sometimes I would like to lay down and die rather than go another day thinking I'll have to be killed for no real reason, like a chalk figure on a blackboard under a felt eraser.

You who would die for lies will probably do so anyway, and I pity you. But please, if you must, do so without dragging any more poor souls with you, for they are better off living.

Intramural game not controversial

Editor:

In regard to the article written by Keith Kohn that appeared in Friday's Oracle, I would like to clear the air about the events that took place during Thursday night's intramural championship basketball game.

1. The officials that worked the championship are student employees that work for recreational sports here at USF. In reviewing their work, players, coaches and fans should remember that, and judge them as student employees who do their job as best as they can.

2. At the start of every season each team captain and every official is handed a copy of the intramural basketball rules. Others that wanted a copy of these rules could have picked them up in the intramurals office. In the rules that the intramural program goes by, a section is set up to govern all appeals situations. It states that a team is allowed to call for an appeal question of a playing rule. The M. Divers did just that when the teams went to the line for the "controversial" one-and-one call. When it was determined that Sig Ep was not in the bonus, the rules state that the points are taken off the team's total and the ball is awarded out of bounds to the team that didn't commit the foul. In regard to the one foul being intentional, that is a judgement call by the floor officials and according to the rules cannot be appealed. The time placed on the clock was added because, according to the rules sheet, "time lost during an appeal will be made up at the end of the half during which it occurred."

3. Andy Honker is not the "intramural basketball commissioner." He is a member of the faculty here at South Florida and our supervisor. It's a shame that game ended the way it did. It was a fine effort by both teams. However, it was not a controversial championship.

David Shervington

Book Center should serve students

Dear Editor:

As a student at the University of South Florida for two-some-odd years, I have been under the impression that the Textbook Center is operated as a service to the students of USF. The Textbook Center is operated under the authority of the office of Student Affairs and, as such, it is logical to assume that it has the student's best interests at heart. This is clearly giving the Textbook Center the benefit of the doubt.

In order for an ongoing business to be successful it is necessary to maintain a favorable rapport with the community in which it does business. The business must provide its market with a demanded commodity at an acceptable price. In addition, ancillary services germane to its principle function (i.e. book buy-backs and adjustments of defective products) must be satisfactorily rendered.

In our capitalist system, when a business does not perform as it should, the market being "served" by such a business will seek a substitute. Fortunately, in this instance, one is available.

Humor may be in his mirror

Editor:

Re: the letter published in the March 12 issue concerning Robert W. Bivins' criticism of "Scratch."

Mr. Bivins, you seemed very upset about the apparent lack of humor in the strip. It's evident you've been reading "Blondie" far too long. You probably wouldn't know satire if it slapped you in the face. No doubt you laugh at the obviously funny material presented on "Saturday Night Live," but wallow helplessly in the murk of the more subtle, yet devastating sketches. In short, if you want to see something obviously funny, carry along a pocket mirror. Know what I mean?

Yours truly,

Our nation has lost it's perspective.

Editor:

I believe that the student body at USF and, for that matter, most of the nation has lost its perspective when it comes to the draft. In fact, the draft is not the issue at all! The issue is registration. In case of a national emergency, registration would let the government know where the youth of this country is. In so doing, it would allow the military to gather them together in order to defend our nation. Without it, we are all like sheep waiting for the slaughter.

I for one am not anxious to fight and die on foreign soil, but the leaders of this nation would not enter a war lightly. However, in order to defend our allies, ourselves or vital lifelines of trade I would be willing to fight.

I believe Americans are becoming soft and spineless. People clamor about cost of living, oil prices and much more. But ask them to make a sacrifice and you have said a dirty word. If every nation on Earth was as selfish and wasteful as we are, there would be nothing left to be selfish and wasteful about! There is no free ride and you can blame big business all you want. But when it comes right down to it, WE are to blame for our troubles.

If people want to protest against a draft which isn't even the real issue, fine. But let them tell the truth. Don't hide behind self-righteous slogans and pretty utopian dreams. Tell the truth. Say you're scared! Say you are afraid of dying! I think even the staunchest hawk in the world will understand that!

Survey: Students ready to support football

By KEVIN DRADDY
Oracle Sports Correspondent

If present indications prove to be on target, there will be a Brahman football team by next season.

In a recent random-sample survey by the University, over 90 percent of USF students said they favor the idea of a football team.

A fund-raising drive started by the Brahman Football Organization has resulted in approximately one-tenth of the $100,000 goal being raised.

Local and area businessmen have expressed their interests in helping to support a football team. Some have already pledged support to the program.

Here at USF, the program has been talked about through a series of rallies and meetings in an effort to help gain student and faculty support.

"I feel having a football team is part of college," said senior Bob Brackett. "Students can be brought closer together."

Last year, the University of Central Florida in Orlando had an organized student movement behind their football hopes. This paid off, as the university and the Orlando community supported the concept of a team.

"Tampa is big on football and the team will give the school more spirit," said senior John Sharpe.

If spirit can be generated to provide support for the team, a possible unity might arise out of the football idea, a member of the BFO said.

"Having a football team would help remove the apathy and create more school spirit and meet the school's needs," said Bill Calvert.

While most students favor the football team, others say the present athletic program should be supported before a new team is introduced to the campus.

Steve Houle, student, said he likes the idea of football at the campus, but added that more support to the basketball team is needed. Houle said he believes the campus should support what it already has first.

"It will be progressive for future students and will improve athletics," said senior Pam Roselli.

Perhaps some type of tradition will come about from the football idea. Perhaps the campus can be more unified than it is now. Perhaps the football concept at USF can bring about many changes.

An unidentified USF student was hospitalized last week after apparently suffering a severe reaction to a drug he purchased at the University Center, University Police reported.

Although the UP had no details on the incident, the student apparently bought the drug, crystal meth, at the UC and later required treatment at a local hospital.

The UP is currently investigating the alleged sale and has issued a warning that the drug could create a potential health hazard to anyone using it.
