City to rescind 150-acre offer

BY STEVE SPINA
Oracle Staff Writer

Pinellas County Commission Chairman Patrick Iley said yesterday he expects Clearwater to withdraw its offer of 150 acres for USF expansion.

Iley said the action will probably take place during March when newly elected city and county officials take office.

Tuesday, Clearwater voters recommended the city not donate the land to the Board of Regents by a 4,205 to 2,990 straw ballot.

THE RESULTS of the vote will end plans for a two-campus site in Pinellas, Iley said.

Although the referendum was not binding, Iley said he expects the city to abide by it.

State University System (SUS) Chancellor Robert Mautz said yesterday, "We'll do what we intended to do—go ahead with the St. Petersburg site."

"IF WE can't expand in Clearwater, we can't," Mautz said.

Iley said it is possible that the county will now offer land to the regents.

"If the regents are interested in a second site, we'd like to hear from them," he said.

Mautz said the regents would consider any offer. Expanding a university through branch campuses is an attempt to keep main campuses from becoming too large and to provide more education centers for the people.

"WE'RE IN the business of moving education to where the people are. We thought — and still do — the North Pinellas site was a logical one," Mautz said.

Iley said he would take formal action on a county site for the SUS if it is interested. He also said the mid-county Wallingham site would be one the regents could consider.

"If we can't...we can't."

—Robert Mautz

Last year the county offered three sites to the regents: One in Clearwater, St. Petersburg and a mid-county site.

Balloon takes students aloft for free rides

BY ELLIE SOMMER
Entertainment Editor

Peeping through the trees on Fletcher Avenue just west of 30th Street is a red, white and blue balloon.

It's not the kind you would buy at a fair.

This balloon is an 80-foot "hot-air vehicle" licensed by the Federal Aviation Authority (FAA). Balloon owner Tom McFadden is offering free rides to USF students this week and next, weather permitting.

The free ride — a promotional stunt for Mike's Big Bite — is more an up-and-down trip than an actual journey because the Raven S50A is tethered by a 40-foot line.

THERE ARE at least two balloon enthusiasts at USF. Pres. Cecil Mackey and the assistant dean of the College of Business, Maryanne Biggs, both have commercial hot-air balloon pilot's licenses.

Biggs, the first woman in Florida to hold such a license, will be on hand most days at 4:30 to help McFadden with the balloon.

"I've been chasing balloons for two years," Biggs said. She

USF's Amateur Radio Club sends messages of love around the world for free

BY STEVE SPINA
Oracle Staff Writer

About 150 Valentine messages were delivered to far-away friends, relatives and lovers of USF students yesterday when the Amateur Radio Club transmitted free greetings across the globe.

"This is the first time we've tried this. We've had a really good response so far," Joe Motta, Club treasurer, said. Between 30 and 35 messages were sent each hour he said.

A two-meter VHF-FM transceiver with AM frequency was set up in the UC lobby. Messages were sent from there to the club's main station in the Social Science Building.

Once at the main station, messages of 25 words or less — usually "I love you" or "I miss you" — were sent through the national or international traffic system.

Radio operators at the destination point then forwarded the messages by phone.

Club President Lowell Herr-Neckar said the message-relaying service was set up as a public service. Messages could be sent anywhere in the U.S., most of South America, Israel and Jordan.

Club members will send messages for anyone who calls the Club at 974-2177.

Senate group rejects oil tax

WASHINGTON — A House-passed bill to rescind President Ford's oil import fee won Senate committee approval yesterday with a Republican opponent predicting it would become law over a veto.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., said he was told by the White House that Ford had only 28 or 29 sure Senate votes against overriding the President's expected veto of the bill—too few to block it from becoming law.

Meantime, sources said, a special committee of Senate Democrats seeking to draft an alternative energy program reached tentative agreements on a number of measures. These will be recommended to the Senate Democratic Policy Committee at a luncheon Tuesday.

The Democrats agreed on a down-the-line fight against all of Ford's proposals designed to drive up the price of petroleum and other fuels, Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., reported. These include the import fees, decontrol of domestic crude oil prices and deregulation of natural gas.

Hollings said the committee agreed that seeking to curtail imports by 1 million barrels a day this year would only intensify inflation and retard recovery from the recession. "I don't know a single businessman who's for an excise tax on petroleum," Hollings said.

Disclosure of impounded funds ordered

WASHINGTON — A federal judge yesterday ordered the Administration to report how much impounded highway money is available for release to the states in addition to the $2 billion President Ford has announced he will spend from the trust fund to create more jobs.

The amount of impounded money in the Highway Trust Fund is estimated at about $11.1 billion, but it is not known how much would be immediately available for disbursement as the federal share of highway construction costs.

Ford Motors plans cash giveaway

DETROIT — General Motors Corp. Chairman Thomas A. Murphy predicted yesterday that auto plant shutdowns could end by late March. The Ford Motor Co. hoped to further revive auto sales with a "better idea" — a mammoth cash giveaway.

Ford said it was mailing 2.3 million "value checks" to selected owners of used cars to lure them into showrooms on the chance of winning up to $3,000 just for having their cars appraised. A holder of one of the lucky "checks" can receive up to $3,000, with no obligation.

Ford's gimmick, in line with the company's advertising slogan "Ford has a better idea," was the industry's first response to a question that has been asked repeatedly since rebates began in mid-January: "What happens when they end on Feb. 28?"

Mystery woman responds to offer

NEW YORK — A mystery woman who claims she has the bones of the prehistoric Peking Man has again made contact with a businessman offering $500,000 reward for the priceless fossils, it was learned yesterday.

Christopher Janus, of Chicago, said the woman contacted him four weeks ago through a man identifying himself as her attorney and demanding a letter from China guaranteeing there would be no legal claim against her.

A prominent anthropologist said a photograph supplied by the mystery woman shows a skull that strongly resembles the Peking Man.

The Peking Man fossils disappeared in 1941 as Japanese troops moved into China and their whereabouts have become an international issue involving the United States, China, Japan and Taiwan.

The fossils, believed to be those of a human-like creature that lived more than half a million years ago, were unearthed in a limestone quarry near Peking in the late 1930s. Parts of 40 skeletons were recovered.

The Chinese have charged that the United States spirited the fossils out of the country.

"Penguns" to be classified as firearms

WASHINGTON — The government announced yesterday it will classify as firearms the pocket-sized tear gas cartridges carried by many women for personal protection.

Director Rex D. Davis of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms said the reclassification was the result of increasing criminal use of the protective devices, called "penguns."

Tucker seeks files to aid House probe

TALLAHASSEE — House Speaker Don Tucker has formally requested the files of a secret investigation of alleged improper dealings between Supreme Court Justice David McCain and attorneys who have won favorable decisions from McCain.

Using for the first time powers given the Speaker to look at the secret files of the Judicial Qualifications Commission, Tucker said when they fall into his possession, the seal of confidentiality is removed.

This will give legislators and newsmen a chance to see reports which have been rumored for nearly two years and confirmed on a confidential basis in some respects in recent weeks.

Tucker is asking for the files for use by a select committee he has appointed to determine whether conduct of McCain and Justices Hal Dekle and Joseph Boyd warrants their impeachment by the House.

McClain urges return of surplus funds

TALLAHASSEE — State officials will have to return their unspent campaign contributions if a bill filed yesterday by Sen. David McClain, R-Tampa, becomes law.

McClain said his aim is to prevent politicians from building up "war chests" for future elections, sometimes for an office different than that for which the money was collected.

Candidates now can keep the surplus funds, although Gov. Reubin Askew voluntarily gave his to the state Democratic party and Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin is returning his to those who want it on a pro rata basis.

Children of jobless may qualify for aid

TALLAHASSEE — Children of parents who have been laid off from work due to the recession may be eligible for free or cut-rate prices on school lunches,

wire news

From United Press International

Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington said yesterday.

But to be eligible, he said, the total family income cannot exceed limits set by the federal government.

Economist declares recession contrived

GAINESVILLE — Nobel Prize winning economist Paul Samuelson told Florida business leaders yesterday the current economic slump was contrived in Washington and it got out of hand.

"If you turn the present recession upside down and read on the bottom, it will say 'made in Washington,'" the M.I.T. professor and former adviser to President John F. Kennedy told the 4th annual Florida Economic Seminar at the University of Florida.

Rights for retarded backed by legislators

TALLAHASSEE — A "bill of rights" guaranteeing the mentally retarded wards of the state the best education, training and medical treatment won the 6-1 backing of a house subcommittee yesterday, despite a price tag that could run up to $50 million a year when fully implemented.

Cheaper texts eyed; SG studies co-op bookstore

BY NICK FRAY
Oracle Staff Writer

SG officials are negotiating with two local bookstores to set up a co-op bookstore that would offer textbooks at cheaper prices than those at USF's Textbook Center.

Doug Pettit, SG vice president-elect, said, "The purpose of the co-op is to have a place where USF students and staff can buy books cheaper than what they pay at the USF Textbook Center."

He said talks are under way between SG and Spartan-Alumni Enterprises at the University of Tampa and Cross-Lode Bookshop, 1520 E. Fletcher Ave.

PETTIT SAID SG is not certain which store, "can help us the most. We may go with both," he said.

Pettit said the campus text center has a monopoly on selling and ordering books, "so they don't have to provide the lowest possible rate," he said.

But Jack Burns, text center manager, said, "That's just not true. We don't set the prices, the publisher does. The best we can do is offer a 21 per cent discount established between the state and the publisher."

Burns said he "wouldn't mind a bit" if another bookstore is located in the USF vicinity because "if we don't have a certain book, they might."

Pettit said he could not cite specific examples of the Textbook Center inflating prices.

State money would be used to pay employees, Pettit said, "and if we don't get on campus, we might have to pay taxes to use space in their store."

Assistant Vice President for Student Affairs Dan Walbolt said, "accountable University personnel to oversee the co-op" will be needed since state money would be used.

Regardless of SG's legal problems, Spartan-Alumni owner Gary Shapiro said he will open a bookstore in the USF area, "hopefully at La Place," on Fletcher and 15th Street.

"I was approached by many USF faculty who weren't pleased with the Textbook Center," he said. "The instructors know I'll give them lower prices."

Policy banning dogs to be strengthened

Enforcement of the USF policy prohibiting all dogs except seeing-eye dogs from being on campus will be strengthened immediately, Safety Officer Bill Mills said yesterday.

Last year a policy was adopted prohibiting all dogs except seeing-eye dogs for the blind on campus, Mills said. But during the last few months, building supervisors have been lax about enforcing it, he said.

"We have continued to have an increasing problem with dogs. There have been several bad incidents in the last few weeks," he said.

"Last week there was an incident where a seeing-eye dog was attacked by another dog," he said. "I think it's mainly new students on campus who do not know of the policy against dogs."

Mills said building supervisors are being requested to enforce the policy. If the owner of a dog can be identified, the person will be asked to remove his dog.

If the owner cannot be found, then the Hillsborough control unit will be asked to pick up the dog, he said.

Cuts, higher standards needed

There are always several possible solutions to a problem. However, they all have differing consequences.

This is true in the case of the budget crunch facing the State University System (SUS).

SEVERAL POSSIBLE ways of reducing the problem have been suggested. SUS Chancellor Robert Mautz has offered two alternatives, one with which we strongly agree and one that we feel should be ruled out.

The Oracle feels Mautz' suggestion that some administrators be fired is certainly reasonable. A quick survey of the SUS will show it a good deal more than adequately staffed in administrative departments despite some critical faculty shortages.

In our opinion, this is an unjustifiable inequity. Because cutbacks must be made to cope with funding shortage facing the state, now is a good time to reconsider the proliferation of administrators.

We suggest USF make the first step. The Oracle urges USF Pres. Cecil Mackey to ask each of the University's four vice presidents to immediately begin a study of possible cutbacks in his area.

And we don't mean cutbacks in services offered. We mean cutbacks in the administrative bureaucracy.

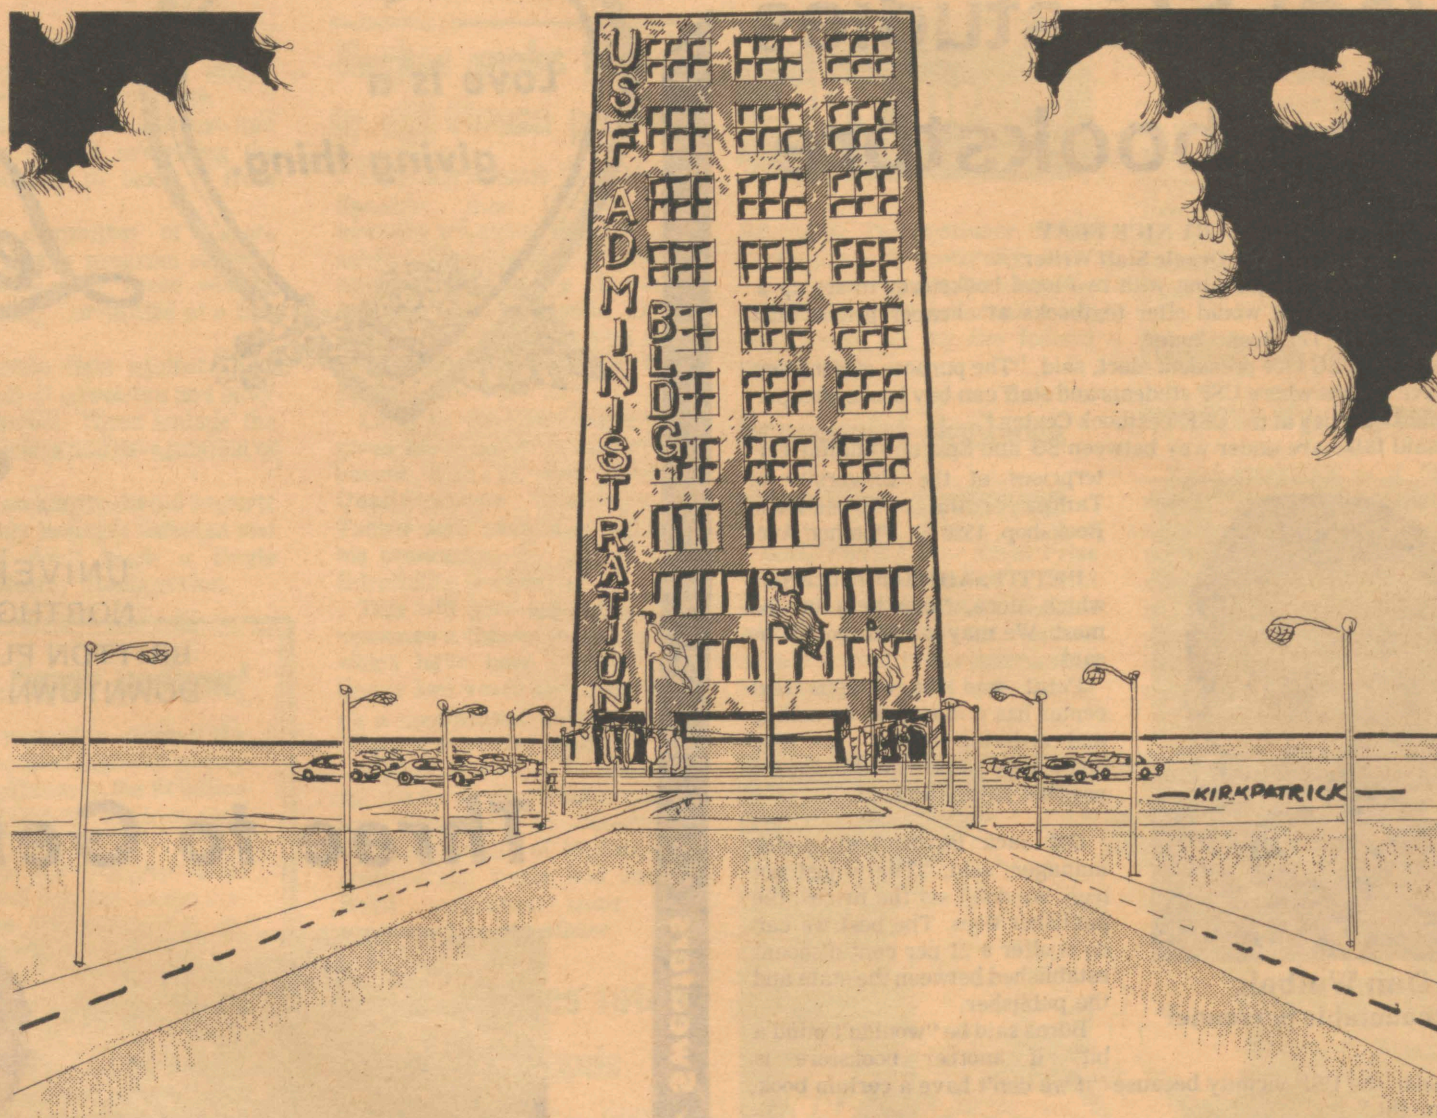

THIS, WE feel, is far preferable to Mautz' other cost-saving suggestion, which calls for an increase in tuition.

Students who choose to further their education in Florida's SUS are already footing enough of the bill. Raising the cost of education is not the answer.

However, Education faculty member Coleen Story (who is also a Faculty Senate leader) has a good idea. She has suggested that admission standards be raised, thus cutting the number of entering students.

The Oracle would support this idea even if the SUS found itself with an excess rather than a deficit of funds.

The academic standards throughout the system have been on the down slide, pushed along by such innovations as the College Level Examination Program

"LUCKILY WE DIDN'T LOSE ANYTHING OF IMPORTANCE IN THE BUDGET CUT!"

(CLEP tests). Raising standards will increase the value of a degree as well as enhance the quality of the education students receive.

DOING THIS should be high on the SUS priority list in times of plenty as well as periods when money is tight.

And one step toward this goal could come in a review of the CLEP exams now being conducted under the direction of SUS Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs Alan Tucker.

Tucker, who has a strong background in academics and a proven concern for the quality of education offered in the system, is a good person to lead this national study. He is also the best person to recommend possible changes in the way the SUS makes use of CLEP.

Cutting back on the use of such devices to lure students (who perhaps are not academically suited to a university) into the SUS seems a good first step in both upgrading the system and budget-tightening.

ROTC spelled out

Editor:

In reference to the SG review of the proposal to put a ROTC cross enrollment program on the USF campuses, I as a concerned student feel that the Oracle has misled the students of USF by interrupting (sic) the proposal unjustly.

The proposals for the cross enrollment of ROTC between the University of Tampa and USF, which have caused concern, are as follows:

a) The University of Tampa agrees to provide senior division academic instruction of Army ROTC on the USF campuses in Tampa and St. Petersburg. This instruction will be available to all students.

b) To establish and maintain senior division leadership laboratory training instruction on the University of Tampa campus. This is to say that there will be no drill or marching on the USF campuses. The laboratory is to be registered for separately at the UT campus.

c) The University of Tampa will ask USF to make available necessary classrooms, administrative offices and office classroom equipment as may be required for the number of students desiring to enroll in ROTC courses of instruction.

Weapons will not be stored or secured on USF campuses.

d) To grant academic credit applicable toward graduation for successful completion of courses offered by the Military Science Dept.

Authorization to conduct this instruction will in no way result in the establishment of a de facto senior ROTC unit at USF.

I believe that in the future student government and the Oracle should make certain that all of the materials printed are correct in all aspects and thus will not be misleading, especially in such critical matters.

Women's Center supports Hamm

Editor:

We, the women of the Women's Center, vehemently oppose the firing of Phyllis Hamm from the position of Equal Opportunity Specialist and demand her immediate reinstatement, and we will do whatever we can to urge others to join our protest.

We find it ludicrous that the administration is charging that she isn't qualified for her job, but this is a familiar argument to women and Third World people. In fact, she is more than qualified, if her outstanding performance while in her position is any indication of her qualification. She was found to be qualified for the position when hired. The position requires four years of college or equivalent work experience. Hamm has had fifteen years of personnel experience, two year of college and is currently attending classes at USF. We suggest that she is at least as well qualified as any number of our vice presidents.

At the very least, one is prompted to ask "why?" Why does a woman who is recognized and respected both within and outside of the University community for her efforts in implementing USF's affirmative action plan suddenly "transferred" to another position? Also, what is the English translation of the bureaucratese phrase, "upgrading her position?" Perhaps the answer to the first question is simply that instead of not doing the job she was hired to do, she did her job too well in a patriarchal institution that only pays lip service to ideas about "equal opportunity." She has devoted her time and energy to the thankless job of attempting to make affirmative action more than "affirmative rhetoric." It is obvious that the University did not really expect her to do so. In response to the second question, we can only ask another question. Does "upgrading" the position mean that we can expect her to be replaced by a white, "university wise" male, who will receive a higher salary, to support the administration's sexist and racist policies?

The treatment of Phyllis Hamm is an affront to all women and Third World people on this campus.

The metamorphosis of Ybor City

BY ELLIE SOMMER
Entertainment Editor

Nostalgia seems to be the fad of the '70s, and Tampa is jumping on the band wagon. Promoters and developers, land owners and historians are waking up to the cultural possibilities long neglected in such places as Hyde Park and Ybor City.

Ybor City, said Cesar Gonzmart, owner of the Columbia Restaurant, is the area between 13th and 22nd streets. Gonzmart has restored his own property in the area, including a 1905 apartment house, as have other businessmen in Ybor City.

EACH LANDOWNER seems to be restoring on an individual basis, although cooperation is the keynote of the movement, and a central agency does exist, Gonzmart said.

The Barrio Latino Commission, approved by the legislature, oversees restoration and building in the area — even the painting of buildings — Gonzmart said.

The city has been designated a National Historical Area by the federal government. Fringe benefits of such a title include matching funds for construction.

Harris Mullen, of Trend House Publications, also has taken up the Ybor restoration project. In May he plans to move Trend Publications to the third floor of the V.M. Ybor Factory, currently the site of the weekend Nostalgia Market.

MULLEN BEGAN the Nostalgia Market this summer after purchasing the two-acre site in 1972. By opening the market, complete with entertainment and refreshments, Mullen has created a surge of interest in the area.

Many Tampa merchants have moved their businesses into the stemmery of the factory, a rather crude shopping mall filled with images of the past and much in keeping with the nostalgia theme.

In part a sophisticated flea market, Mullen's venture offers craftsmen and artists a chance to display and sell their wares in a unique historical setting. Booths may be purchased on a weekly basis, or an entire section may be leased and caged off into a boutique. A 10-year-old Tampa antique store, The Red Horse, has moved its entire business to the market.

The whole factory, including the patio area, will be converted into a mall with shops, restaurants, space for transient craftsmen. The main office of Trend also will be there.

THE MARKET offers a full day of leisurely shopping and various forms of entertainment, including Spanish dancing and music by such groups as the Florida Mountain Boys.

Surprisingly enough, antiques, art items and crafts are modestly priced — a cheery note students who have been hit hard by inflation. Expensive items also abound, but at least there is a choice.

Shop owners and craftsmen at the market agreed about the success of the enterprise. They expressed satisfaction and enthusiasm for the upcoming phases of renovation.

Merchants from as far away as Pennsylvania have set up at the market. Marilyn and Lance Arbor, who have settled in Tampa for the winter, learned of the market from their friend Larry Whidden, a Tampa-based metal sculptor who is displaying his wares there.

ARTISTS ARE finding Ybor City a creative haven, Gary Rexroad, manager of the Library & Loft, said. More and more merchants are realizing the historical and cultural significance of the city.

Rexroad is pleased with the influx of organizations and artists such as Commedia, a theatre group; Upstairs South, an art gallery and The New Place, a cultural center.

"I like Ybor City, I've met more interesting people here than anywhere else," he said, adding that he has traveled extensively both in and out of the United States.

As to the safety of Ybor, he said the area has extensive police protection, and is extremely well-lighted.

Gonzmart also attested to the safety of Ybor City, noting the increasing number of students willing to attend Hillsborough Community College and the growing number of apartment dwellers.

Ybor City was originally conceived by Spanish engineer Gavino Gutierrez, but it bears the name of its first entrepreneur, Vincente Martinez Ybor, a tobacco tycoon of the late 19th century. It is Ybor's factory which houses the Nostalgia Market.

Litho show explores techniques

A two-woman lithography show is currently on exhibit in the UC Gallery through tomorrow. Artists Wendy Moore and Elizabeth Kay are exhibitors in the 1975 Undergraduate Graphics show.

Moore's work deals with a variety of topics created by various lithographic techniques. Her subject matter is people and each rendering involves drawing, but the finished product has a definite print quality.

Unlikely but not impossible situations are the themes of Kay's lithographs. Her subject matter ranges from rock formations, lampposts and people in disquieting but humorous situations.

What Are You Doing Qtr. III?

If you're graduating at the end of Qtr. II, or looking for a possible co-op program, or just thinking about taking a quarter off, you might be able to spend the quarter in Tallahassee, doing things like:

★ ★ Lobbying against tuition increases

★ ★ *Lobbying for stricter guidelines for spending of tax dollars by the B.O.R.
and university administrators*

★ ★ Lobbying for equitable funding for all universities

There's a lot to be done, and the Florida Student Lobby will be working full time to do it. Paid staff positions are available. Deadline to apply is Feb. 21.

To apply contact Richard Merrick in UC 156, or phone 974-2401.

Dancers stress precision

Alexix Hoff
...in concert

The First Chamber Dance Company will present a free dance demonstration tonight at 8:30 in the Theatre.

The nine-member Seattle-based troupe has been in residency at USF since Monday. Two public concerts are scheduled for Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30. Reservations may be made through the theatre box office. Free to USF students, tickets are $4 for general admission and $2 for all other students.

The company's repertoire contains 25 works choreographed by founder-artistic director Charles Bennett, plus works by many well-known choreographers.

"Albinoni Adagio," a Bennett piece that won an award for choreography at the 1974 International Ballet Competition at Varna, Bulgaria, will be performed Friday night.

The company has drawn inspiration from ballet, modern and Spanish dance, jazz and mime. They prefer an intimate "chamber" style aimed at bringing together performers and audience and stressing precision choreography.

Winners drink beer

The Empty Keg was packed as 12 contestants vied for first place in the UC-sponsored beer drinking contest yesterday. Winner of the competition is John Egberts, who survived six large glasses of beer throughout the elimination process.

Of the twelve original contestants, Ralph Harper took second place and Doug Pettit took third.

"One guy got sick, Casey Prout," said program coordinator Laurie Grammatico. Prout was in the lead when he was forced to drop out of the contest, Grammatico said.

Learn how to beat the system

If you want to learn how to cut corners to save dollars instead of being ripped off, come to UC 252 today at 2 p.m.

Tiny Geiger, a USF graduate who has been working for the City of Tampa in community relations, would like to show students how to beat the system. Geiger will speak about the Federal Trade Commission and the Landlord Tenant Act in addition to explaining how semi-subliminal advertising affects buying habits.

Geiger graduated from USF in 1970 with management, psychology and political science degrees.

Man arrested, charged with indecent exposure

A 38-year-old Plant City man was arrested Monday by University Police (UP) and was charged with indecent exposure.

Hiram J. Smith turned himself in after a UP officer talked with him at his home Monday, UP Public Education and Information officer Max Bromley said.

Bromley said a female student gave a detailed description of Smith and his license tag number. UP drew a composite of him that was later used in identifying him.

Smith was taken to the Hillsborough County jail and bond was set at $500.

UP reports show that two grand larcenies were committed this month. A bicycle worth $103 and a calculator valued at $400 were reported stolen.

Three hit-and-run accidents were reported to the UP, totaling $665 in damages. No injuries were reported. Two two-car accidents were reported on campus totaling over $2,000 in damages, also with no injuries. One three-car accident was reported with damages exceeding $2,000.

An investigation is pending on a report of an assault on a faculty member here, the reports show.

Thirteen petty larcenies were reported, totaling a loss of more than $270, reports show.

Balloon

obtained her license last year after 35 hours of training, including aeronautical chart reading, FAA regulation instruction, dual instruction and solo flying.

"AS A commercial pilot I'm qualified to fly passengers for hire, promotional activities and for instruction. I'm even allowed to carry freight," she said.

Biggs, whose enthusiasm showed when she talked about free flying, said, "It's the neatest thing I've ever done. Once you have that first ride you're hooked."

Unlike driving or flying in a plane, your destination is controlled by the wind.

"After receiving wind conditions one morning," Biggs recalled, "I took off from Carrollwood for a day of flying, and had to put down on a driveway in Ybor City."

THE QUIET of free flying is interrupted by the thunderous sound of the burners, which heat the air inside the balloon for ascension. To descend, the burners are turned off to let the air cool, Biggs said.

He helps you develop ESP—the sixth sense

BY ILENE JACOBS
AND ELLIE SOMMER
Oracle Staff Writers

Four years ago Bob Masters was 19, living in Palm Springs, and in his words a "frustrated, unhappy" man who knew he was psychic.

After high school and six months of "fooling around," he became involved in the Inner Peace Movement, an international psychic organization aimed at drawing out people's sixth sense.

NOW HE is traveling around the country seeking those who wish to develop their extrasensory perception, which he said will relax them and "recharge their batteries."

"Everyone has ESP and almost everyone has had some psychic experience," Masters said. "Some people are more open to it because they are relaxed and happier inside — more receptive to vibrations."

He listed dreams that come true, hunches that turn out to be correct, deja vu — the feeling that something has been experienced before — and even "mother's intuition" as average psychic experiences.

The 10-year-old nonprofit organization claims to be neither religious nor dogmatic, but Masters said participants study Eastern philosophy.

"IT'S A soul-searching, spiritual experience," he said.

The four psychic gifts the Movement strives to develop are prophecy — when a person knows things but does not know how or why; clairvoyance — when a person thinks in pictures, has a photographic mind and dreams in technicolor; clairaudience — when a person hears an inner voice, and healing — when a person receives vibrations from an object through touch.

One gift is predominant in every person, Masters said, but all four can be developed "up to 100 per cent."

MASTERS declined to say how these gifts are measured, but he said persons could learn this by taking the course.

Masters will conduct a seminar on the Movement Thursday and Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Rodeway Inn, 2520 N. 50th St. Student admission is 75 cents for Thursday and $1.50 for Friday's three-hour session.

At the seminars, he will discuss the formation of weekly study groups for the eight-week course.

Summer quarter to last 8 weeks

USF's summer quarter will be two weeks shorter this year, Dr. Carl Riggs, vice president for Academic Affairs, said yesterday.

Riggs said courses normally taught in 10 weeks will be taught in the eight weeks. The amount of credit will not vary.

The program will also include four two-week sessions and one four-week session, University Registrar Doug MacCullough said.

The proposal was submitted to the Council of Deans last month by Business Dean Howard Dye. Dye said the eight-week session would better suit students who wish to attend summer classes but have an extended break or work parttime.

Riggs said an eight-week session would also enable teachers to come back to school and still have time for a vacation. In the past, some public school teachers had to return to their teaching jobs before USF's summer session was up.

Most universities in the country use eight-week summer sessions, Riggs said.

Riggs said the college deans favor the change. The colleges are, however, still in the process of planning implementation, MacCullough said.

Tampa U. eyes football cutback

TAMPA (UPI) — The University of Tampa, faced with continued financial losses at the gate and a head-on confrontation with professional football in 1976, is considering dropping collegiate football after the 1975 season, it was revealed yesterday.

The Finance Committee of the Board of Trustees unanimously recommended to the Executive Committee that a budget deficit of $220,000 be approved for the 1975-76 academic year with the proviso that the 1975 football season be the last season for intercollegiate football at the University of Tampa.

University officials said the trustees had approved a maximum subsidy of $125,000 for the football program last year but had to come up with an additional $45,000 because of what they called "cost overruns and income and football gift short-falls."

The Executive Committee will review the Finance Committee recommendation at its meeting next Thursday and will make a recommendation to the Board of Trustees for final action Feb. 27.

Disciplined Rattler offensive unit to battle Brahman cagers tonight

BY JEFF WHITTLE
Oracle Sports Writer

Bill Gibson and his men's basketball team will be hoping to end a three-game losing streak when they take on Florida A & M University (FAMU) tonight at 7:30 at Gaither Gym in Tallahassee.

"We anticipate a very physical game," Gibson said. "The board play and the shooting percentages will play a big role."

"THEY'RE AN awesome rebounding team," agreed assistant coach Chip Conner, "and we have to go in there and give our best effort on the boards or else we'll get embarrassed."

Leading those rebounders is 6-foot-9 freshman Clemon Johnson, who throws his 242 pounds around to get almost 13 rebounds a game. Wayne Barber and Cleveland Spencer, both 6-foot-9 forwards, also average more than 10 rebounds a contest for the Rattlers. Barber weighs in at 218 pounds, Spencer at 217.

"They're all built like Otis (Dunn of USF)," Conner said. "You take those three and stick them with the Miami Dolphins in shorts, and nobody would be able to tell they don't belong there."

The other FAMU starters will be 6-foot Rufus Conyers, the team's playmaker, and 6-foot-4 Terry Neal.

ONE THING different about this year's Rattler squad is the slower offense that coach Ajac Triplett has installed.

"I won't classify them as just a pattern-oriented club," said assistant coach Phil Collins, "but what Triplett has done is to bring more discipline to the team."

"They still run a lot, but it's just not as wild as it used to be," he added.

Even with the more deliberate offense, the Rattlers have shown they can put points on the board.

"THEY'RE SCORING around 90 points a game, and what are we averaging, 75?" Gibson asked. "This is a tough basketball team."

USF has kept up a 75.6 average despite losing to the University of South Alabama, the University of North Carolina and the University of Cincinnati in its last three outings.

"Those three losses of ours are nothing to be ashamed of, and we could have won two of them,"

Gibson said.

"But we can't be satisfied with just playing good ball," he added. "That doesn't sit right with me."

Swimmers seek funds

Having qualified in 10 events for the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women National Swimming and Diving Championships, USF's women's swimming team will be trying to raise enough money to make the trip to the meet, scheduled March 13 through 15 in Tempe, Ariz.

"I'm trying now to set out how much it will cost," coach Katy Hammer said. "I'll try to figure the minimum we can get by on."

HAMMER ESTIMATED it would cost about $4,000.

If the Brahms are to make the trip, the money will have to come from outside the Athletic Department, JoAnne Young, coordinator of women's intercollegiate athletics, said.

"There is no spare money in our budget," Young said. "Our budget is in no condition to send any team to nationals — not even one player."

USF qualified in seven events last Saturday while losing 87-43 to the University of Miami.

BRIDGETTE VACHE swam a 28.2-second 50-yard butterfly and a 1:02.7 10-yard butterfly, Leslie Benz had a 26.0 50-yard freestyle and Judy Milewski swam a 33.7 50-yard breaststroke, all good enough to enter nationals. The 200- and 400-yard freestyle relay teams and the 400-yard medley relay team also made the cut.

Diver Sue Skinner and the 200-yard medley relay team qualified earlier in the season.

Netters blast FTU 9-0

USF's women's tennis team broke into the win column with a 9-0 thrashing of Florida Technological University (FTU) here yesterday.

The Brahms, who lost their first three contests of the season with 8-1, 9-0 and 9-0 scores, swept all nine matches in straight sets against FTU.

"THEY STOKED a lot better, though it was difficult to assess all the things about their game because the wind was such a factor," coach JoAnne Young said. "In the wind you have to play so cautiously."

Anne Davis defeated Laura Pooser 6-1, 6-3, and Kathy Morrison blanked Holly Lutz 6-0, 6-0 in the top two singles matches. Cindy Strandburg downed Tracy Stapp 6-4, 6-3; Mary Sinclair beat Kathy Schell 6-2, 6-1; Robin Edenbaum defeated Kim Drury 6-3, 6-0 and Terry Sherlock topped Terri Hinton 6-0, 6-1 to round out the singles.

In the doubles, Davis and Sherlock beat Pooser and Stapp 6-2, 6-0; Edenbaum and Morrison downed Lutz and Schell 6-3, 6-0 and Candy Fishel and Sinclair whipped Drury and Hinton 6-1, 6-1.

"They're a young team and they've got a long way to go," Young said of the FTU squad, which is now 1-2 on the season.

TODAY THE Brahms will be holding challenge matches in singles, and tomorrow they will work on their doubles combinations, Young said.

Saturday, USF visits Florida Southern College for a 10 a.m. match. The Brahms trounced the Mocs 8-1 in both of their meetings last season.

Golfers win first match

Despite some bad weather, USF's men's golf team shot a 285 to take first place in a four-team match at the Babe Zaharias Golf Course yesterday.

"It was rough out there," Brahman coach Bob Shiver said after his team's season opener. "The wind kicked up strong and it was drizzling a little at the end. The scores were good considering the weather conditions," he said.

USF's Ian Davidson was the low scorer for the day with a 67. Alan Fadel shot a 71, Doug LaCrosse carded a 73 and Glenn Salwak had a 74 to give the Brahms their 285 total.

Hillsborough Community College was second, with a 292, St. Leo College had a 295 and the University of Tampa shot a 299.

The Brahms travel to Winter Park Monday for a four-way match against St. Leo, Rollins College and Florida Southern College.
