More correspondence from faithful readers: In the last column I reported a Yellow-rumped Warbler that exceeded the published longevity record (NABB 20:176). Peter Homan wrote me to point out that this bird was the same age (8 years, 9 months) as one of his recaptures reported in this column in NABB 17:30. Thus, the latest bird should have been reported as tying, not breaking the longevity record for this species. My apologies to Peter for missing his report.

The following records are presented to highlight interesting recoveries and recaptures that have resulted from banding projects. Many of the following records were reported by WBBA members in their 1994 banding summary reports. We hope the reports show how different banders are using the data generated from their work. Some of the records here, such as longevities, may be significant advances in our knowledge. For a listing of longevity records verified by the Bird Banding Laboratory, see the papers cited in Klimkiewicz and Fitcher (1989) J. Field Ornithol. 60:469-494.

Short-tailed Albatross 558-30754 Banded as HY-U on Torishima Island, Japan, on 10 Mar 1964. Caught and released by Eugene Kridler on Midway Atoll, Hawaiian Islands, on 19 Nov 1973, about 3825 km ESE of banding site. [Still largely in immature plumage 9+ years after banding.]
