Blackout

Power failure cancels classes, causes inconveniences

By MARTY CLEAR
Oracle Staff Writer

A cancelled class is certainly one event most students wouldn't complain about. But when the electricity went off Tuesday, for some people it happened at an inopportune time.

There was no electricity for almost 90 minutes Tuesday in 12 buildings on campus. The director of the USF Physical Plant speculated that the blackout was caused by an overload in a feeder line.

Inconvenience to students and campus personnel was relatively small, because of the short duration of the blackout. Classes were cancelled, the University Center Bookstore and snack bar were closed, and programs on WUSF-TV had to be rescheduled.

The electricity went off at 2:08 p.m. in the Engineering, Physics, Life Science, Chemistry, Student Services, and Administration buildings, the Science Center, the UC, and Alpha, Beta and Gamma Halls. Electricity was restored at 3:30.

Charles Butler, director of the Physical Plant, said Tuesday's blackout was caused by an undetermined problem with a feeder line, and that it was not related to the blackout earlier this quarter.

"For some reason it happens — probably an overload," Butler said.

"We stepped up the relays," Butler said. "Prior to doing that we checked every manhole, and physically there was nothing wrong."

Butler explained that when the power stopped, his crews checked the wiring along the feeder line. Failing to find anything wrong, Butler said they increased the capacity of the relays and switched the power back on.

William Brady, of WUSF-TV, said two Your Open University classes were blacked out because of the power failure, but one class had already been scheduled to be repeated Tuesday night.

Butler said the only reserve emergency electrical supplies at USF are in the Student Services and Arts and Letters buildings. The Computer Center in the Student Services building has enough power to be shut down without a memory loss, and Arts and Letters has enough power for lights only, he said.

Brown to seek better academic quality

By TERRY LYNAM
Oracle Staff Writer

USF President John Lott Brown vowed Tuesday to make a direct, forthright and aggressive attempt to enhance the quality of academic programs at USF.

Speaking to members of the Hillsborough County Legislative Delegation, Brown related information Tuesday pertaining to his 1979-81 legislative budget priorities for USF and the State University System.

USF administrators were also present at the meeting in the University Center where Brown

'USF is underfunded with respect to other state universities. We are simply not getting our percentage of money'
—Brown

announced his request for budget priorities.

Brown said he was hopeful certain areas of study at USF will be elevated to national prominence and recognition.

"USF is under-funded with respect to other state universities. We are simply not getting our percentage of money," he said.

Brown said the Full-Time Equivalency (FTE) driven budget has artificially restricted the growth of USF.

USF's 1979-80 Educational and General Legislative Request Budget is 16.4 percent of the State University System E and G Budget.

Brown compared these figures to the fact that 25 to 26 percent of the population of Florida resides in the 15-county area which USF serves. "This represents the largest population density in the state," he said.

Brown expressed strong interest in the construction of the proposed $38 million Cancer Research Center at USF.

"The project makes a lot of sense," Brown said. There is a higher incidence of cancer in Florida than in any other state in the nation, he said.

Brown said the reason for this is because of Florida's high population of older people. "Tampa would be an optimum location for a cancer center," he said. There are only 18 cancer treatment centers in the United States, he said.

The main thrust of the State University System budget is to enhance the quality of academic programs in Florida in order to develop national distinction, the Commission on the Future of Florida's Public Universities said.

Representatives of USF also met Tuesday with members of the Pinellas County Legislative Delegation in St. Petersburg and will meet with Manatee and Sarasota County Legislative Delegates Feb. 23 at 3 p.m. in the Gwynne Institute.

Diplomas for all H.S. graduates?

TALLAHASSEE — A Cabinet-appointed task force recommended Tuesday that all seniors graduating from public high schools this spring be awarded diplomas — even if they failed the student assessment test.

"We do not believe that it would be fair to withhold diplomas from members of the graduating class of 1979 on the basis of scores on state tests," concluded a report by the Task Force on Educational Assessment Programs.

The task force was appointed last year to determine if Florida's testing program is racially or culturally biased.

"At the eleventh hour and with virtually no warning, these students were told that the requirements for graduation had been changed," it said.

The task force said it supported the concept of testing Florida high school students to determine if they had mastered mathematics and communications skills. But it said withholding diplomas from this year's seniors who failed the test was unfair because those students had inadequate time to prepare for the testing program.

Lawmakers passed the Educational Accountability Act in 1976, mandating that the new graduation standards take effect in 1979. Under the rules, students unable to pass the examination by the end of their senior year would be awarded a certificate of completion instead of a diploma.

The Cabinet will be asked next Tuesday to adopt the panel's report, putting off the effective date of the controversial student assessment test for one more year.

Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington opposed any postponement.

"I remain firm in my conviction that there must be no delay in the application of the law," Turlington said in a release.

"A delay would seriously damage our credibility, both with students and with the public, and would be a serious mistake."

Presidential contender Crane slams Carter

TAMPA — U.S. Rep. Philip Crane, the first to make a formal bid for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination, attacked President Carter Tuesday for what he said was reneging on campaign promises.

"Candidate Carter has, as president, failed his own test," said to the Illinois congressman.

He said Carter promised a balanced budget, a cut in the size of government and deregulation of gas and oil. But, the budget isn't balanced, government is getting bigger and gas and oil regulation is greater than ever, Crane added.

Carter's "performance doesn't match up with his rhetoric," Crane said.

He was in Tampa to speak at a Hillsborough County Republican Lincoln Day Dinner.

Tough government rules hindering CETA jobs

WASHINGTON — The Labor Department, which has money to create more than a quarter of a million public service jobs for the long-term unemployed this year, says 150,000 slots are going unfilled because of problems in meeting tougher government rules.

The number of people holding jobs under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act plummeted by more than 200,000 last summer amid threatened program cutbacks by Congress. Now that Congress has extended the program for another four years, the Labor Department says it is encountering problems building the program up again.

The department is casting blame for the problems on Congress, citing delays in approval of new financing for the $10-billion CETA programs and tighter eligibility requirements ordered by Congress in an attempt to reduce fraud and other abuses that have plagued them.

"Congress has made the program somewhat tougher than we wanted," Assistant Labor Secretary Arnold Packer said Monday.

Congress appropriated enough money for state and local CETA programs to create an average of 675,000 jobs — including 267,000 for the poor, chronically unemployed — for the year that ends Sept. 30.

Iran still not stable; Bakhtiar a 'prisoner of government'

TEHRAN, Iran — Iran's revolutionary leaders turned to liberal, Western-oriented politicians Tuesday to bring order to their country and pave the way for Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's Islamic republic. But lynchings were reported in the provinces and mysterious gunmen fired on the Tehran offices of the new prime minister.

The newspaper Ettelaat reported six people had been hanged in the northwest city of Tabriz on the orders of religious leaders. The newspaper also said insurgents ripped the emblem off the U.S. Consulate in Tabriz.

The reports could not be confirmed here but, if true, may signal that the new government still lacks total control. It has repeatedly called on jubilant Iranians not to resort to "cruelty" in the wake of victory.

There were no new reports of violence or arrests involving Americans in Iran. A contingent of 69 U.S. Marines was reported standing by in the Azore Islands in the Atlantic in case Marines guarding the U.S. Embassy needed reinforcement. Six helicopters that could be used to evacuate threatened Americans were standing by in Italy.

Khomeini made his first nationwide television address Tuesday evening and repeated appeals for the return of weapons stolen from military bases during the weekend street violence that marked the collapse of the shah-appointed government of Shahpour Bakhtiar on Sunday.

Bakhtiar was arrested Tuesday by armed guerrillas. He was taken blindfolded to Khomeini's headquarters and was reported to have been under protection of Khomeini's prime minister, Mehdi Bazargan, after raiders ransacked his home on the outskirts of Tehran.

Khomeini aides said they did not know what charges Bakhtiar would face. "He is a prisoner of the government," one said. "I assume he will be tried to find out whether or not he is guilty."

In his nationwide address Tuesday, Khomeini said: "I congratulate the nation on the success of the revolution. We will all have to work together under the banner of Islam to build the country."

He forbade attacks on military or police installations and promised that all religious minorities will be able to "live in peace and prosperity in the new era in Iran."

Reliable sources reported that unknown assailants opened fire on Bazargan's offices early Tuesday.

At the time Bazargan was meeting in the offices with Karim Sanjaby, his newly appointed foreign minister. The sources said no one was injured and the two men were rushed back to Khomeini headquarters.

Sanjaby, 74, served as the leader of the National Front, a coalition of several liberal parties that opposed the rule of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and supported the man who ousted the shah for a time in the early 1950s, Mohammed Mossadegh.

The National Front's official spokesman, Dariush Forouhar, was selected as labor minister.

Student says court violated statute in ruling

By JAY MEISEL
Oracle Staff Writer

A USF student submitted a petition Tuesday to the Student Court of Review charging that the court violated a Student Government statute when it ruled Monday to invalidate the SG Senate election.

Because only two of the five justices voted to invalidate the election, Cliff Paxon said, the court was in violation of an SG statute which requires it to follow Florida State Supreme Court Rules of Procedure.

Florida State Supreme Court Rules of Procedure require that a majority of justices vote in favor of the decision. In Monday's court decision, Associate Justices Bob Drayton and Tom Ankerson voted to invalidate the election.

Associate Justice Jeff Muir dissented from the majority, while both Chief Justice Mark Hildebrandt and Associate Justice Bob Schofield abstained from voting.

The court has not yet set a hearing date to decide whether it will review Paxon's petition.

The court invalidated the Student Senate election Monday because the Election Rules Committee violated an SG statute when it did not provide pollworkers a means by which to determine whether students voted in the colleges where they were enrolled.

In making its ruling to invalidate the senate election, the court said, "It is the majority opinion of the court, that since student senators represent students from a specific college ... and since the ERC did not provide means by which to determine whether or not students voted within their respective colleges, then that constitutes an improper election."

The court made the ruling after hearing a petition request by Ronald Howse that the SG senate elections be invalidated. The court nullified all Student Senate election results and ordered "new elections to take place concurrently with the presidential runoff election."

In contesting the senate election, Howse said computer printout sheets listing students' names and their majors were not available for primary election pollworkers to verify that students were voting in the colleges in which they were enrolled.

On Feb. 7 the court invalidated the SG runoff election because several SG statutes were violated during the election process. The court ruled that a new election must take place within 21 days of that court ruling.

Golden Key regional director denies 'mail-order' accusation

By GARY GERARD
Oracle Staff Writer

The regional director of the Golden Key National Honor Society vigorously denied Tuesday recent accusations that the organization was a mail-order operation and "nothing more than a student recognition society."

Steve Pracht, representing the Atlanta-based honor society established on the Georgia State University campus in the spring of 1977, directed his criticism at Harvey Moore, who is expected to resign as the society's USF adviser Feb. 20.

"Golden Key is only as good as the leadership on the campus," Pracht said. "If the chapter wants to be strictly a student recognition society -- and this is what Dr. Moore seems to think -- then that's what it will be. If they want to do more, we will help them as best as we can."

On Feb. 1, Moore sent his letter of resignation to the society's national president, James Lewis. In the letter, he noted several problems that had arisen since the USF chapter of the society was established in June 1978.

"First, your letter to prospective members, no date, addressed 'Dear Student', comes under a letterhead entitled Golden Key National Honor Society, University of South Florida," Moore said in the letter. "Your signature and title as national president on that stationery gives the misleading impression that you are located at the University of South Florida."

Pracht said the "university stamp" was used with all of the organization's 11 chapters. "The purpose here is to give a local flavor to the society."

Moore's second argument focused on the misuse of USF Human Resources Institute stationery by the society's local president, who is resigning.

Again, Pracht said use of the stationery "gives students a little bit more of a local flavor," admitting, however, that "we could be at fault by having used the letterhead." He added that Lewis received a copy of the letterhead from Moore, and implied that this was not an unusual procedure at other chapters.

"Third," Moore said in his letter, "we have received complaints from students who have received their Golden Key pin and were dismayed to learn that their $12.50 resulted in receipt of a plastic device," Moore said in his letter.

Pracht denied this claim. He said the pin was a copper-gold alloy manufactured by the Jostens Corp.

He also said that Moore was responsible for the society's "mail-order" campaign because the adviser had done little to contact students himself.

"Dr. Moore asked us if he could contact students locally in the fall," Pracht said. "When the end of fall came around, he had done nothing to contact students."

"The local officers of the society asked us to contact the students ourselves," Pracht said. "As a result, we were working outside of our normal procedures."

At the end of the last fiscal year, the society had collected $42,660 in membership dues, according to its balance sheet.

Here's how some of the money was spent:

- $6,151.79 was used to pay the salaries of the national president and Operations Manager Rhonda Lee, according to Pracht.
- $2,925.92 was the total cost of printing membership certificates for the society's more than 1,100 members. Pracht said this was because the seal on the certificate was gold-leaf.
- $2,437.33 was spent on travel by society representatives as part of its national development objectives, Pracht said.
- $2,250 was disbursed in scholarships.

Valentine wishes

It's St. Valentine's Day.

And in honor of the occasion, the Oracle has purchased one 10-oz. package of "conversation hearts," designed to give advice to the lovelorn, cure broken dispositions and set USF faculty, students and administrators on the straight and narrow path to fame and fortune.

The first person we're sending down that path is College of Medicine Dean Hollis Boren. Boren, you see, is faced with the awesome possibility of having a cancer research hospital in his own backyard. The dean, who would likely gain national recognition if such a hospital is built, gets a light green conversation heart that says, "I'm in the mood."

Chancellor E.T. York and state Sen. Jack Gordon, who haven't been on the best of terms lately, get a yellow heart that says "Be mine," and a white one that says, "I'm yours," respectively.

And for the expected reaction to the two aforementioned messages, the gentlemen (?) get individually wrapped hearts that say, "No Way."

Black Student Union officials get a variety of hearts, including a pink "Easy come, easy go" as a result of their latest financial crisis (pink was the closest we could get to red), as well as "Don't tell" and "Too quiet" for their repeated "no comments."

We were going to give "Have a heart" to WUSF general manager William Mitchell, but decided to award him with a yellow "Super man" for being able to avoid student programming for so long.

Student Government Presidential candidate John Goldsmith gets the following: Six

"Sweet guy" hearts, three green and three pink; 17 "Cute Guy" hearts, all orange; and one "Honey bun," signed "G.G."

Dean Robert Cox, of the College of Business (who is still waiting for his new building to be completed) and Richard Taylor (longtime advocate of faculty representation to the Board of Regents) each receive "I'll wait" hearts, the color of their choice.

Mass communications associate professor David Horsman, who is used to getting turned down, at long last gets a "Yes," but it's not tenured.

Err—sorry folks, but as far as collecting on those hearts goes—well, even reporters and editors get hungry.

Invalidations, invalidations, and more invalidations

Jack Klein

"Aw, do that again!" "Bow bow bow..." No, friends, it really isn't the nonsensical rambling of Elwood Blues' rendition of "Rubber Biscuit," although it may well be material from "Saturday Night live."

In the latest in a series of inept bunglings by the people responsible for running the Student Government elections, it appears that someone is seriously suggesting that the recent invalidation of the election is itself invalid.

Things should start to get very interesting around here, and I imagine it would be worthwhile for students who usually don't follow the intricacies of this University's legislative process to keep watch. Well, it may not be worthwhile, but it should be very entertaining.

Just imagine for a moment what comes next. First, the movement to invalidate the invalidation of the election is upheld. Then someone will move to invalidate the movement that upheld the invalidation of the invalidation of the election.

That invalidation will be made invalid. At least until someone moves to invalidate the invalidation that invalidated the invalidation of the election.

Of course, this invalidation may just pass, but there's no doubt that the person who moved to invalidate the invalidation of the invalidation of the election will also move to invalidate the invalidation that made their original motion to validate the invalid invalidation invalid.

Someone stands up. "No!" He cries. "I move we invalidate that invalidation of the invalid..."

See what I mean? Bow bow bow.

So, what happens next is that finally an agreement is reached, and the whole process is reversed. The invalidations are cut back down the line, until the original invalidation, the invalidation of the election is upheld. Then, if we can remember who is running for president, and if that person, or those people who are running haven't graduated, we have another election.

Since we will probably end up having another election sooner or later, it might be good to look at why this election was invalidated in the first place.

The main reason, it seems, for the invalidation was because there were cases of unmanned polls or polls which were watched by only one person. Another reason was the fact that there were no computer printouts of student names.

One of the reasons for the unmanned polls was that it was "Greek Week" and the Greeks who were supposed to be manning the polls were off drinking beer out of baby bottles or something. They were being paid to watch the polls, by the way. The people in charge of the election called this "forces beyond our control."

To compensate for the lack of computer printouts, holes were punched in student ID cards to identify people who had voted. This goofed up the computer in the Library, which uses holes in the student IDs for needed information.

This constant ineptness on the part of the people involved in SG elections does have its bright points however. The next time someone wonders why there is such a low voter turnout, we will have the answers.

Bow bow bow.

When elephants fight, the grass suffers

For some time now there have been growing indications that the State University System, and more specifically Chancellor E.T. York, may face a difficult time in the months ahead.

One of the first indications of impending difficulty was the Cabinet debate over the budget request submitted by York. York's chief opponent in that debate was Commissioner of Education Ralph Turlington, who stated that York's request was excessive and recommended more modest increases in funding for the State University System. Although the Cabinet's ultimate recommendation was higher than Turlington's original proposal, it was more than $100 million lower than the chancellor's request. Most observers believe that the chancellor lost the debate.

A second indication was the rejection of several proposed Board of Regents rules changes by the Cabinet on a motion by Attorney General Jim Smith, a former BOR member. At a subsequent meeting between students, Cabinet aides, and SUS and DOE staff members, the message seemed clear (at least to me): the Cabinet will no longer "rubber-stamp" proposed BOR rules; all rules will be scrutinized carefully.

In addition to these and other more tangible indications, there have been a number of statements by key officials which have suggested that there may be some changes made in the governance structure of the State University System. Among officials who have expressed a concern or interest in this area are Governor Robert Graham, House Governmental Operations Committee Chairman Joseph Gersten (D-Miami), and, of course, state Senator Jack Gordon of Miami, the chancellor's most consistent critic.

In that regard, the most startling of these indications came last week, when Gordon announced that he would seek the dismissal of York, whom he referred to as being "on a perennial power trip." This touched off a series of press conferences in Tallahassee which did little to calm an already volatile situation. It remains to be seen what the ultimate effect of those public exchanges will be—some observers felt that Gordon has finally been put in his place, while others expressed concern that the chancellor may have severely damaged his own political effectiveness.

From where I sit, I'm not so much concerned with the political battle between Gordon and York, or York's ability to survive that battle, as I am with the potential victims of that battle. There is an old African proverb that says, "When two elephants fight, it's the grass that suffers."

In this case, the "grass" is the students, faculty, and staff of the university system in general, and Dr. Joseph Olander in particular. There is absolutely no doubt in my mind that Olander should be named president of Florida International University; in fact, he should have been named some time ago. During the public exchange several BOR officials stated publicly that the exchange would not harm or help Olander's chances; that remains to be seen.

At this point, I can only hope that something positive comes of all this. I have no particular objections to reviewing or modifying the structure of the State University System or the chancellor's role (and scope?) in it, but I do not want Olander or the rest of the students, staff, and faculty of the SUS to suffer because of the political battles between the SUS central office and other governmental officials.

We have a hard enough time as it is.

'Wise decision'

Editor:

Thursday's Oracle had the best headline of the year. It read: "Election Invalid." As a former justice, I would like to commend the Student Court of Review for making the wise decision to invalidate the run-off election results; as a former candidate for the vice-presidency, I would like to express my delight as seeing the system work to correct the violations of this year's election; and finally, as a concerned student, I would like to urge all my friends and fellow students to vote for the right pair this time. Please vote for Tracy Cooley and Coleen Mikesch. They are the choice of the serious-minded students.

Dodd upset him

Editor:

I was upset at the lack of common sense and historical background which was displayed in the letter of Olen Dodd (a political scientist!) which appeared in the Oracle of February 2.

I ask Mr. Dodd that if "the reputation of the U.S. has been damaged for decades by clinging to the absurd notion that the government of Taiwan was the government of the Chinese people" then why did it take so long (30 years) for this to be turned about? Could it be that now the economics of the U.S. technocratic society is a philosophy which is replacing that of respecting a friend and discarding honesty and civil rights.

Do you remember that the United Nations rebuked mainland China as a murderer during the Korean War?

It is too bad that you concluded that Mr. Fung should go back to his island. This is childish and not the sign of an individual well versed in the tenets of political science.

It seems that further study in domestic and foreign history and social & behavior sciences and the economics of the U.S. today would be in order for Olen Dodd.

Sontag unifies characters with rebellious natures

By SAMIR HACHEM
Entertainment Editor

The characters in most of the short stories in Susan Sontag's "I, etcetera" are fascinated by the idea of being different. Though their social classes and intellectual backgrounds differ quite sharply, their dissatisfaction with the present, rebellion and longing for another existence are their uniting elements.

In "Baby," we learn that the troubled, but prodigious child has always longed to be different—to have been born a Jew, left handed, homosexual, a nun or a monk.

Miss Flatface in "American Spirits" leaves her happy home and children to become a prostitute; Dr. Jekyll dreams of attaining the passion, vulgarity and violence of Mr. Hyde, and the man in "The Dummy" is so dissatisfied with his life that he creates a replica model of himself to replace him in his daily activities.

In fact, like Miss Flatface, the protagonist in "The Dummy" realizes that not only does he not want to be the person he was, but also that he doesn't want to be a person period.

"I, etcetera" is witty, imaginative and written in a variety of untraditional ways. But the variant styles are employed to express one unique consciousness, with respect to human dignity and a re-examination of its values and desires.

Sontag assembles a brilliantly vivid collection of real and surreal creatures who not only breathe but also have a strong odor of life.

The author discusses such things as "the American dilemma," the seduction of the past and mediocrity of the present's pleasures, and the TV age. Her stories involve partings, wanderings, goodbyes and rebirths.

In "Old Complaints, Revisited" (the only tedious and excessively esoteric essay) Sontag writes, "My skull is crammed with quotations, information I don't need." The child in "Baby" is also described as "a regular garbage can of useless information."

Sontag, the intellectual, attacks pseudointellectualism and turns in one of her most joyous works in some time. (Books courtesy of B. Dalton's Bookseller.)

Wind Ensemble I, II present enjoyable performance

By CATHERINE HAUGH
Entertainment Writer

Monday night's concert by Wind Ensembles I and II at the University Theater was a most pleasant experience. Both Ensembles gave good performances, punctuated from time to time with some surprisingly imaginative pieces.

Wind Ensemble II, conducted by Don Kneeburg, started slowly but picked up energy and spirit after the first piece.

During "Royal Fireworks," music by G.F. Handel, H. Harty and W.J. Duthoit, images of rolling hills and green countryside came to mind.

"Symphony in Bb" by Paul Fauchet was played with lively shifts and variety. The ensemble gave a smooth, concentrated performance.

Ensemble I, conducted by James Croft, opened with the first performance of Anthony Cooke's "Overture to Herclaneum." Cooke is a USF music instructor and a cellist. It was an interesting, almost exotic composition which built to beautiful crescendos. The piece was well received by the audience.

Mary Oderick, featured in the "Songs of Abelard," a 12th-century work, gave a fine performance. Her strong, clear, mezzo-soprano voice was well suited to the ballad nature of the music.

Bonnie Griffiths, the oboe soloist in Rimsky-Korsakov's "Variations on a Theme by Glinka" was excellent. This work, a lovely, lilting piece, sounded like fairies, dew drops and morning rainshowers.

The most imaginative and interesting composition was Toshio Mayuzumi's "Concerto for Percussion and Wind Orchestra." This featured full use of percussion and horns sprinkled with bright sounds from the xylophone.

The audience was delighted with the unexpected comic twist that occurred when the drummer's stick flew through the air after the last note.

Although the performance was certainly not perfect—it was perfectly enjoyable.

Two Tickets to paradise

Brooklyn rocker Eddie Money, who has had hit singles with "Baby Hold On" and "Two Tickets to Paradise," is currently riding high on the charts with his new album, "Life For the Taking."

Money will open for Santana Friday night at Curtis Hixon Hall at 8 p.m. Tickets are $8 and are available at Sun Bums, Asylum, Chapter 3, and the Curtis Hixon box office.

Annie Hall's weird brother hunts a dear acting award

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD—At age 35, Christopher Walken is making it as a film actor. Evidence: New York critics award as best supporting actor of 1978, almost certain nomination for an Oscar.

Does he wish such recognition had come sooner? "No, I wanted to happen what's happening now," replies the handsome New Yorker. "I've done a lot of theater in the past five years, appearing from the Walken's film career has been building slowly: "The Anderson Tapes," "Next Stop, Greenwich Village," "The Sentinel," "Annie Hall" as Diane Keaton's brother. He has taken a quantum leap with "The Deer Hunter," in which he plays a mill town youth who disappears into the dope world of Vietnam.

Since star Robert DeNiro is a recluse, the chore for publicizing the "Deer Hunter," not an easy film to sell, Universal has discovered, has fallen to Walken. On his first luxury trip to Hollywood, he is delighted.

No wonder. During most of his career, Walken has been flying in coach and stopping in motels, first as a dancer he toured in "West Side Story" then as a dramatic actor. "I've played Hamlet, Macbeth, Romeo," he said. "Once I played Macbeth 80 times in a row for Joe Papp in New York."

Even without the hotel suites and complimentary champagne, he would feel a duty to help "The Deer Hunter."

"I have been lucky with 'The Deer Hunter,' lucky that they gave me the part. They could have chosen from any number of famous actors, yet they gave me the part. That takes nerve, and I am grateful to them, Michael Cimino and three other producers.

"It is a bold and uncompromising picture, and I am proud to be associated with it."

Globe Theater in San Diego to the Shakespeare Festival in Statford, Ontario. From a practical standpoint, that has been important to my well-being.

"I can make a living no matter what happens to my movie career. I have established places where I can work; they know me in the various cities, and I can return to them from time to time.

"If I had hit it earlier in films, I wouldn't have had that security. You can fall down very easily in films. And when you fall, it can be disastrous. It is dangerous to fail in films."

'Girlfriends' defies labels

By MS. JOAN LIVITSKI
The Tartan
Carnegie-Mellon University

Students comprise one of the largest moviegoing groups in America. It is time for them to express their views of current American cinema. This year FOCUS, sponsored by Nissan Motor Corporation, is creating "The Student's Choice Awards". A national poll is being conducted of student's choices in the categories of Best Motion Picture, Best Performance by an Actor and by an Actress, and Best Director.

At sometime or other, everyone finds themselves grown up and on their own. Well, that's basically what the movie "Girl Friends" is all about. Susan Weinblatt, portrayed by Melanie Mayron, is a photographer trying to make a living photographing weddings and bar mitzvahs. Her struggle isn't just to get recognition for her work, but also to come to terms with living alone after her roommate, Anne Monroe (played by Anita Skinner), gets married and moves out.

In talking with co-producer Jan Saunders, I discovered that the film went through many changes in its three years in production. The main reason for the extended filming time was due to lack of funds.

It started as a $10,000 short film that would have had the format of three interrelated films covering 1) The relationship between two girlfriends, 2) the marriage of one roommate and her husband's subsequent affair with another woman and 3) a more in-depth look at the girl involved in the affair. But once the project was started, the collaborators (Claudia Weill, producer-director and co-writer; Jan Saunders, co-producer; and Vicki Polon, writer) found a great deal more interest in what would become of Susan once Anne moved out.

This was the start of their "personal statement film." But as Saunders retrospectively reflects, "Our personal statement isn't as personal as we thought."

Saunders accounts for its breaking box-office records by citing its subject matter of women and their relationships as "a subject people cared about."

Along with being tagged a "woman's film," "Girl Friends" must also overcome other stigmas. "Art film" has been another label slapped on it, which doesn't seem to set too well with Saunders who feels, "They'll call it an art film if it doesn't do well," which isn't the case with "Girl Friends." The title also wasn't the filmmakers' idea of the best choice. They just "couldn't think of anything better." "Girl Friends" has a way of being suggestive of a triple-X, girly show at an adult cinema.

Though there is some nudity and a near-lesbian scene, nothing is offensive or irrelevant. The sexual advances, made to Susan by a female hitchhiker she picks up and houses for a time, are in the film "because it happens."

As Jan Saunders explains, they were "not interested in making a film to show only the pretty side of our character." When people are upset they do things they would not normally do. "Girl Friends" wanted to show the many different kinds of relationships that people have.

Part of the captivation of the film must surely rest with the makers. If the others involved have the candidness and naturalness of Saunders, filming must have been a joy. Undaunted by any questions, whether about the film or personal, Jan Saunders comes across as a woman of conviction.

After stipulating that her "major goal in life is to make movies I like," Saunders confessed that she can see the benefits in "making a movie that is a delight, but not bull---." She has great respect for comedies, but draws the line with "I wouldn't have wanted to make 'Animal House'...I'm sorry anyone else did."

Her advice to would-be filmmakers is to stick to what you know for your first project. The people who made "Girl Friends" did just that; proving it to be excellent advice.

Please fill out and mail in the form below, by February 15, 1979. Winners chosen by student vote will be invited to attend the FOCUS Premiere and Award Ceremony in Hollywood on March 22nd, at which time official presentation of the "Student's Choice Awards" will be made. INTERCOM is the official publication of the University of South Florida for use to inform the University community of announcements and other matters of general interest. It is published weekly and paid for by the USF Office of Information Services, ADM 264 (974-2181). Deadline for copy is Thursday, 5 p.m.

Steinbrenner Is Banquet Speaker

World champion New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner will speak at the Homecoming Banquet Saturday at 6 p.m. at the Riverside Hilton Hotel.

Steinbrenner's continued support of both cultural and athletic activities at USF prompted the Alumni Association to make him an Honorary Alumnus in 1976. A gift from Steinbrenner made the USF Music Scholarship Festival possible on an annual basis. He also made night baseball games possible by providing the lights at the main baseball field.

Steinbrenner is chairman of the board of the American Ship Building Co. and a member of the USF Foundation Board, the Greater Tampa Chamber of Commerce Board of Governors and the Florida Council of 100.

Anna Marie Terry will be installed as the president of the Alumni Association at the banquet. Terry headed the USF cheerleading team and has served on several alumni committees including Senior Award, Distinguished Alumni Award, Alumni Career Council and Scholar Awards.

Banquet tickets are available from the Alumni Association and are $10 for the public and $5 for students. There will be an alumni social hour prior to the banquet.

Acting VP Of University Relations Named

Dr. Joseph F. Busta, Jr., was named Acting Vice President for University Relations, President John Lott Brown announced last week.

Dr. Busta, 32, has served as Acting Director of University Relations since August 1977. His main areas of responsibility will continue to be the offices of Development, Alumni Services, Information Services, Publications, Governmental Relations and Community Relations.

"Dr. Busta is an extremely capable and effective administrator. He fulfills a very important role for us, and it is appropriate for his title to match the level of responsibility he has undertaken," said Dr. Brown. "He will hold this appointment while a search for a permanent vice president continues."

Dr. Busta, a native of Cleveland, Ohio, joined USF in September 1971, as assistant director of student organizations. In 1973, he was named assistant to the president, a position he held for over four years.

He received his Ph.D. degree in higher education in 1978 from the University of Florida. His master's degree is from the University of Tennessee at Knoxville and his bachelor's from Auburn University.

He and his wife, Loretta, have two children.

What are these mountains of sand anyhow?

Mystery Sand Mounds Explained

What causes those unsightly sand mounds which dot the University's south landscape? Are they ant hills, wasps nests, mole hills, homes of Florida gophers (a tortoise), or the winter homes of a rare South American beetle?

No, they are made by a small anti-social rodent, the pocket gopher, according to Larry Brown, associate professor of biology.

The gophers weigh about one-fourth to one-half pound—the size of a small rat. And like rats, they have bare tails and cheek pouches.

But unlike rats, the gophers spend most of their lives underground. The mounds are formed by the gophers kicking up excess dirt as they tunnel under the campus foraging for roots.

Joggers need not fear the rodents attacking or pulling them into some subterranean Willard-like horror show, Brown said. The gophers emerge only at night and for very short periods.

They are solitary creatures, and a series of mounds 50-100 feet long can be made by one gopher.

They are so anti-social, Brown said, "if two are placed in a tank, they will fight until one is dead."

If they are so anti-social, where do little pocket gophers come from? They manage to put their differences aside long enough to have two litters per year, Brown said. An average litter produces two baby gophers.

Their anti-social behavior effectively limits their population, Brown said.

Dick Gregory, Author George Plimpton To Speak At USF

Human rights activist Dick Gregory will speak in the Gymnasium on Feb. 19 at 8 p.m.

Gregory, who first gained national recognition as one of the country's leading black comics, has walked, run, fasted and demonstrated to bring attention to human rights causes.

In 1970 Gregory fasted for 71 days to dramatize the drug problem in America. The fast was his way of protesting the practice of arresting drug users rather than drug providers.

In 1974 he ran from Chicago to Washington, D.C., to call attention to the problem of world hunger.

Gregory has written nine books including his autobiography, "Nigger." Others are: "No More Lies: The Myth and the Reality of American History," "Dick Gregory's Bible Tales With Commentary" and "Up From Nigger."

His lecture, entitled "Social Problems—Social or Anti-Social," is free and open to the public.

Author George Plimpton, best known for chronicling his attempts to do what other people do better, will speak tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Medical Center Auditorium.

Plimpton's lecture, "An Amateur Among the Pros," is part of USF's 1979 Homecoming activities and is sponsored by the University Lecture Series.

His best known book, "Paper Lion," is a humorous account of his experience as a rookie on the Detroit Lions football team.

Dick Gregory

Plimpton's sports activities have not been limited to football. He has also tried baseball, tennis, race car driving and was knocked out by boxing champion Archie Moore. He also did acrobatics with the famed Flying Wallendas.

However, his career as a professional amateur has not been limited to sports. He has also tried acting (the part of a cowboy in a John Wayne movie), humor (a stand-up comic at Caesar's Palace), and music (a percussionist with the New York Philharmonic).

The lecture is free and open to the public.

Rubin Receives Fulbright-Hays Award

Steven J. Rubin, associate professor of English, has received a Fulbright-Hays Award under the Mutual Educational and Cultural Exchange Program as announced by the Board of Foreign Scholarships and the U.S. International Communication Agency. He will lecture on contemporary American popular culture at the Institut d'Anglais Charles V, University of Paris, France, during Quarter III, 1979.

Dr. Rubin received his bachelor's degree from the University of Rhode Island and his master's and doctoral degrees from the University of Michigan. He was a visiting professor at the Institute for American Universities, Université de Provence, Aix-en-Provence, France, in 1973.

"Fporulation of Bacillus mecerans" will be the topic of a biology seminar on Friday at 2 p.m. in Room 105 of the Chemistry Building. Dr. Harold Reed will be the featured speaker. Coffee will be served before the seminar at 1:30 p.m. in Room 125 of the Life Science Annex.

Prof. Katsuhiko Minemura of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton will be the guest speaker at a mathematics colloquium on Friday at 2 p.m. in Room 130 of the Physics Building. He will speak on "Partial Differential Equations in Groups."

"Nuclear Magnetic Resonance of Quadrupolar Nuclei" will be the topic of a physics seminar to be held on Friday at 2 p.m. in Room 141 of the Physics Building. Roger Creel of the University of Akron will be the guest speaker.

The Department of Psychology has announced a limited number of openings for persons interested in individual, marital or group therapy. Advanced doctoral students in the clinical psychology program will conduct the therapy and will be supervised by the faculty of the Clinical-Community Psychology Doctoral Program.

Faculty, staff and members of the community may use these services, but students are excluded, since they have their own counseling center. For more information, call the Psychological Services Center at ext. 2496 weekdays between 9 a.m.-5 p.m. or Tues. and Thurs. between 5-8 p.m.

The Common Learning Network will hold a general membership meeting today at 2 p.m. in CTR 110. Selection of a coordinator will be made. For more information, contact Susann Martin at ext. 2408.

The USF Women's Club will present a card benefit on Friday, Feb. 23, at 7:45 p.m. in the University Center. Proceeds will go to the group's Book Scholarship Fund.

Participants will play bridge, canasta or other card games and are asked to bring their own cards. Refreshments and fun prizes will be provided.

Tickets must be purchased in advance—individual ticket, $2.50; table, $10. They are available from Creola Ragen, ADM 151. Reservations can be made by calling Mrs. Ragen at ext. 2151 or Dot Nelson at 988-9204.

"Geology of Coastal Change and Archaeological Settings: Southern Greece and Aegean Sea," will be the topic of a seminar sponsored by the department of geology and the USF chapter of The Society of Sigma Xi. The seminar will be held Feb. 19 at 4 p.m. in the Engineering Auditorium (ENA). Dr. John C. Kraff, professor of geology at the University of Delaware, will be the featured speaker.

Arts & Letters Colloquia Planned

A wide range of interests from the American novel in World War II to Pre-Columbian architecture and unusual drama themes will be the subjects of talks before the new Arts and Letters Colloquia.

Put together by representatives from each department of the College of Arts and Letters (LET) and featuring its faculty members, the colloquia will meet on varying Wednesdays at 2 p.m. in LET 115. Dr. Hans Juergensen will act as moderator for the sessions, designed to provide for interaction within the college, the University and the community.

Dr. Thomas Sanders opened the series Jan. 15 with a talk on "The American Indian Woman—Liberated Until the White Man Came."

The schedule for the rest of Quarter II and through the spring quarter will include:

Feb. 14—Charles Conway, American Studies, "The American Novel and World War II."

March 7—Dr. David Schenck, Foreign Languages, "Oral Composition and the Artistic Process."

April 4—Dr. Amy Sparks, Humanities, "Pre-Columbian Architecture of Spanish America."

May 2—Dr. Carol Cargill-Power, Linguistics, "Cultural Bias in Language Testing."

May 30—Bernard Downs, Communication, "Incest in Drama from the Greeks to the Twentieth Century."

The lectures are free and open to the public, as well as to the University community.

Students Tie At Top In Met State Finals

Two USF students who shared top honors at the recent state finals of the Metropolitan Opera auditions in Sarasota will travel to Atlanta shortly for the next stage of the competition.

Sopranos Pam Mellish and Kim Steiner tied for first place in the state finals. Mellish was winner of last year's state contest as well.

On March 17, the two women will be among some 10 singers participating in the regional finals in Atlanta. The winner (or winners) of that contest will go on to the nationals, to be held later in spring. A $3,000 scholarship for further study will be awarded the national winner.

Mellish, a junior, studies voice under Everett Anderson; Steiner, a senior, is instructed in voice by Annetta Monroe.

Special Olympics looking for volunteers

By DAYNA DUPLER
Oracle Sports Writer

As the tow-headed, frail-legged little girl with the braces throws herself over the finish line into the waiting arms of someone who loves her, she gives the crowd a big smile. She has been rewarded for participating in the Hillsborough County Special Olympics.

USF trainer Tony Jonaitis started the Special Olympics program in the county 10 years ago for children with disabilities. This year's meet will take place on the USF soccer field at 9 a.m. on March 3.

About 550 young children who are physically handicapped,

New graduate program being offered Qtr. 3

The USF College of Education will offer a new graduate program next quarter called Educational Administration-Supervision which will lead to an Educational Specialist degree.

"This type of program is appealing to school administrators... and those teachers aspiring to become administrators," Dr. Donovan Peterson, USF program director, said.

The prerequisites to the program include a master's degree in education from an accredited institution and certification in administrative supervision.

Applicants will be screened according to their grade-point average in their undergraduate studies, the GPA of their master's program, their Graduate Record Exam score, the number of years of education experience, their current position in education and an interview before a review board.

Applications for full-time day and part-time night students are now being accepted. Applications and additional information may be obtained from the Department of Educational Leadership in room 247 of the Faculty Office Building or by calling Dr. Peterson at 974-2100, ext. 225.

mentally handicapped, or have learning disabilities will compete.

Over 100 volunteers are needed to be timers, clerks, greeters, lovers (they will hug the kids as they cross the finish line) and judges, Jonaitis said.

Over the past 10 years, USF students have been the key to the success of the Olympics, Jonaitis said. Fraternities, sororities, clubs, special-interest groups and others have all donated their time.

Track events include running, the broad jump, softball throw, tug-of-war and high jump. Swimming events will be held in the USF Natatorium, and bowling will be held at a local bowling alley.

The participants will range in age from 5 to 35. The average age of the special olympians is from 10 to 12 years, Jonaitis said.

After the county meet, winners will travel to the district competition in Winter Haven. From there they will go to the state contest which will be at USF for the second consecutive year.

Jonaitis called the Olympics a "very humanistic" endeavor for those who would like to contribute their time. Anyone interested may call the physical education department at 974-2125 or contact Jonaitis in person.

USF is conducting cancer study

A study designed to identify persons who show greater potential for developing cancer, especially lung cancer, is being conducted by USF's College of Medicine, the Veterans Administration Medical Centers in Tampa, and Bay Pines.

The study, entitled "Smoking and Lung Cancer: Diagnostic Test to Identify Persons at High Risk," is being sponsored through a grant from the Council for Tobacco Research-USA, Inc. The amount of the grant for the first year is $55,854.

The study involves taking a sample of skin, culturing the cells in the laboratory, exposing the cultured cells to certain viruses that cause cancer in mice and then monitoring the cell cultures for changes the virus might produce.

"It has been shown in persons with family histories of cancer that virus activities in such cell cultures occur more rapidly and to a greater extent than in cells from those who do not have such family histories," said Dr. Jack Frankel, USF associate professor in medical microbiology.

Frankel said scientists generally believe that 10 percent of cancer may be due strictly to genetic constitution and the other 90 percent results from environmental factors such as air pollution, smoking, alcohol and other causes such as asbestos.

The skin culture test will be performed on nonsmokers and smokers without cancer to determine whether those participants with high virus cell activities usually develop lung cancer.

"This information will be of obvious value to the physicians in counseling patients. It will provide the smoker with one more piece of scientific rationale to quit smoking," Frankel said.

SG postpones decision on

BSU, Downing

A Student Government Budget Committee hearing to determine whether charges should be brought against Black Student Union President Curtis Downing was postponed Tuesday.

Charges against Downing might be brought for neglect of duty or wrong doing, because his organization allegedly overspent its budget. The hearing was postponed Tuesday because SG Comptroller Silvia Fernandez did not show up for the meeting.

Budget committee members did, however, briefly discuss the expenses listed which were charged to the BSU's account. Committee Chairman Frank Almeida said he would have to discuss some of the figures on the computer printout sheet listing the BSU's expense account with Fernandez.

The BSU's phone toll charges for January will overdraw the organization's account by about $100, Fernandez said Monday.

In addition to the phone toll charges, the BSU must pay its secretary for the first two weeks of this quarter, she said.

The Budget Committee voted last Thursday to recommend to the SG Senate that it "interim fund" the organization $1,104.98, Senate President Kathy Edwards said. The money would enable the BSU to pay three unpaid bills from last year.

The hearing had not been rescheduled Tuesday.

muffins and mousse prepared with a food processor will be held as part of a one-hour workshop today at noon in room 251 of the University Center.

All dishes prepared at the workshop may be sampled by those attending. The workshop is free and open to the public.

Seminar on food stamps scheduled

The USF Lecture Series and Student Government will co-sponsor a seminar on the new food stamp regulations today.

The discussion, presented by Alice Nelson, staff attorney for Bay Area Legal Services, will focus on information on how students can qualify for food stamps under the new regulations.

The program will be held at 2 p.m. in room 252 of the University Center, and is free and open to the public.

Valentine's Party

The Young Adult League will be holding a Valentine's Day party tonight at 8 in room 202 of the University Center.

The organization represents all Greek, Russian, Syrian, Lebanese, Armenian and other orthodox nationalities.

Alcohol Center to hold workshop

The new Campus Alcohol Prevention Information Center will be holding a goal setting workshop to develop alcohol abuse prevention projects Friday at Chinsegut Hill.

The workshop will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and a car pool from the Tampa campus is being formed.

Persons interested in participating in the workshop should contact Steve Walfish or Doug Wentz at 974-2151.

Rehab. Club to hold workshop

The USF Rehabilitation Counseling Club will hold a workshop Saturday designed to teach students methods by which they can achieve balance of mind, body and emotions, the club's Vice President Stephen Vosburgh said.

Vosburgh, a graduate of New York's Arica Institute, will conduct the workshop entitled "Introduction to Arica" between 1 and 5 p.m. in room 258 of the University Center.

A $5 membership fee entitles anybody to attend all the club's workshops. Non-members may sign up at Saturday's presentation.

Plimpton
to talk
Thursday

The USF Lecture Series and Homecoming Committee will be sponsoring a lecture by George Plimpton on "An Amateur Among the Pros" Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Medical School Auditorium.

Plimpton's first best-seller,

"Paper Lion," was an account of his true experiences as a rookie on the Detroit Lions professional football team. One reviewer called it "possibly the most arresting and delightful narrative in all sports literature ... in which he captures the sights and sounds of pro football with uncommon fidelity."

In his next best-seller, "Out of My League," Plimpton recounted his exhausting experience pitching before a postseason exhibition game at Yankee Stadium between American and National League stars.

From there Plimpton went on to tennis where he was whipped off the courts by Pancho Gonzalez. In pro golf, he was out-bogeyed with a handicap of 18. He has also been royally knocked out by light heavyweight champ Archie Moore and out-trumped at bridge by Oswald Jacoby.

He nearly killed himself driving a sports car in a race down the Baja Peninsula and returned to hook up with the Flying Wallendas in a truly death-defying high wire act.

With the same curiosity and respect for accomplishment that he felt in the world of sports, Plimpton moved into the arts by signing on as a percussionist with the New York Philharmonic.

A native of New York City, Plimpton graduated Harvard University and King's College, Cambridge University. He has taught at Barnard, been an associate editor of Horizon Magazine, a special contributor to Sports Illustrated and an associate editor of Harper's Magazine.

Flagler hands netters first defeat

By MIKE GOTTSCHAMER
Oracle Sports Editor

The Flagler College men's tennis team shocked the USF men's team Tuesday, defeating the Bulls 6-3 at Flagler. Earlier this month, USF had defeated Flagler 7-2 at USF.

The loss was the first of the year for USF, and it dropped the Bulls' record to 3-1 for the year. Flaglers' record was raised to 4-1.

USF Coach Dell Sylvia said he warned his team about Flagler, but the warning fell on deaf ears.

"Don't take these boys (Flagler) lightly," Sylvia said he told his team beforehand. "You got to play mentally tough."

But the Bulls lost four of the six singles matches, and two of the three doubles matches in falling to Flagler.

"They (USF) didn't (play tough) and they got beat," Sylvia said afterwards.

Flagler's Mike Puc, playing No. 1 singles, dropped the first set of his match to USF's Sid Praderas, but rebounded to defeat Praderas 6-3, 6-1 in the final two sets to win the match.

David Kraus of Flagler defeated Mike Minot of USF 7-6, 5-7, 6-4 in No. 2 singles; USF's Jeff Davis defeated Kevin Manning 6-4, 7-5 at No. 3; Rick Bechtel outlasted Scott McFarland 6-2, 5-7, 7-5 at No. 5 singles to post USF's only other singles victory and Rupert Green of Flagler swept USF's Robert Cramers 6-4, 6-2.

In the doubles, the story was much the same as Minot and Cramers teamed to post USF's only victory, 6-1, 6-3 over Flagler's Buck Arnold and Green.

Puc and Kraus teamed to down USF's Davis and Block 6-7, 7-5, 6-3 in No. 1 doubles, and Turnbull and Brian Curley defeated USF's Richard Barrett and Chuck Hyder 6-4, 7-6 in No. 3 doubles.

Bulls battle New Orleans

By MIKE GOTTSCHAMER
Oracle Sports Editor

As the Sun Belt Conference season heads closer to the conference tournament in Charlotte, N.C., the USF basketball team and Head Coach Chip Conner find themselves in an unenviable position.

The Bulls have a 3-4 conference record and are fourth in the Sun Belt behind the University of South Alabama, the University of North Carolina at Charlotte and Jacksonville University.

South Alabama, who defeated the Bulls 73-61 Monday night in Lakeland, have clinched the Sun Belt regular season title and a first round bye at the tournament

USF hosting Tampa's first sanctioned raquetball tourney

By LEE MYERS
Oracle Sports Correspondent

USF's eight raquetball courts will be in full use this weekend as USF hosts Tampa's first sanctioned raquetball tournament.

Circle K of USF is sponsoring the doubles and mixed-doubles tournament, and all profits are going to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

"We're really excited about this coming weekend," said tournament chairman Dennis Castenir.

"The community has been a big help. We got all of the balls (72 cans) and quite a few T-shirts donated," Castenir said.

Anyone is eligible to enter any two of the various categories. There will be a men's open doubles, men's A, B and C division doubles, women's A, B and C division doubles and a mixed-doubles division.

The entry fee is $7 per person for the first event and $4 per person for the second event.

Play commences Friday, Feb. 16 at 6 p.m. until 11 p.m., continuing Saturday, Feb. 17 from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. and Sunday, Feb. 18 from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Castenir explained that individual trophies will be awarded to the first-, second- and third-place winners in each division.

USF golf team seeks national recognition at Gator Tournament

By TOM O'NEILL
Oracle Sports Correspondent

This weekend may determine if the USF men's golf team has any hopes of gaining national recognition.

Friday they will be playing in the Gator Invitational golf tournament along with 22 major college teams at the University of Florida. The tournament is one of five nationally designated tourneys that has a strong basis for determining who will play in the National Collegiate Athletics Association nationals later in the year.

The field is mainly from the Southeast, but also includes four Atlantic Coast Conference teams and big-ten power house Ohio State.

Along with USF and the hosting Gators, other Florida schools participating will be Florida State, Miami and Jacksonville. The University of Georgia and the homestanding Gators remain the early favorites.

USF Coach Bob Shiver said he feels he is taking an excellent group of players with him. Along with his top juniors Joe Hodge and Tom Cleaver, he is bringing senior Dennis Saad, junior Bruce Habjan and promising freshman Jim Roy out of Syracuse N.Y.

The 54-hole tournament begins Friday and continues through Sunday. Each round is played on a no-cut basis, and the best four scores of each day will determine placement.

Shiver is looking forward to the tournament and said he

Intramural basketball poll

Team	Conf. Record	Pts.
1. Kappa Alpha Psi	4-0	39
2. Heineken	3-0	37
3. Pacers	3-0	31
4. Bottoms	2-2	29
5. Foggy Mountain Boys	2-1	23
6. Deadly Messiah	2-2	20
7. Islanders	2-2	17
8. M. Divers	4-0	12
9. Omega Psi Phi	3-1	6
10. Alpha Phi Alpha	4-0	4

believes that having played the golf course before may have a positive effect on his players. He also said that a strong finish in this type of tournament could put his team on the map.

"Since this is a designated tournament, it has a strong bearing on a bid for the national tournament," Shiver said. He also said that a finish in the top five in a few of these tournaments may insure his team a bid to the nationals.

The strong field may be a problem for many of the inexperienced golfers. If USF has any hopes of placing high in this tournament, it will have to get strong individual play out of Hodge and Cleaver and steady, consistent playing from Saad, Habjan and Roy.

The Gator Invitational brings a strong team tournament to the Florida area. The drive to Gainesville could well be worth the effort for USF if they can defeat the best collegiate golfers in the country in a head-to-head tournament.

with a 9-0 conference record. The Jaguars have a 18-4 overall record. The second first round bye is still up for grabs.

To have even a slim chance at the second bye, USF must win all three of its remaining games, starting tonight against the University of New Orleans. The game is at the Lakeland Civic Center and tip off is at 7:35.

UNO, who have a 3-6 Sun Belt record and a 11-14 overall record, defeated USF 75-73 in four overtimes last week. But in their most recent outing, the Privateers were sunk by North Carolina-Charlotte 76-66.

In spite of the loss to the 49ers, New Orleans has won five of their last seven games, and UNO center Lloyd Terry was named the Sun Belt player of the week Monday.

Kroen, Pacers race by Deadly Messiah, 68-49

By JOHN TURCHIN
Oracle Sports Writer

Paced by Randy Kroen's 21-point performance, the third-ranked Pacers downed seventh-ranked Deadly Messiah 68-49 Tuesday in intramural basketball action.

Kroen and teammate Rob Wilkens teamed up to score the first six points of the game. Wilkens passed off to Kroen for two baskets and Kroen to Wilkens for the other basket. The pace continued throughout the opening half as the Pacers ran up a 28-15 lead at halftime.

"We came out with the intention to run the ball, and beat them driving inside to the basket," said Pacer captain Gregg Gruhl.

In the second half, both teams were able to put together big scoring spurts. The Pacers pulled out to a 45-29 advantage midway through the half, before Deadly Messiah called a time-out. Deadly Messiah cut the Pacer lead to eight with 6:10 remaining in the game, as they outscored the pacers 14-6, trailing 51-43. At this point, the Pacers called a timeout to regroup. And regroup they did, running off a 17-6 spurt to cap the scoring.

The win upped the Pacers league leading record to 4-0, while Deadly Messiah dropped to 2-3 for the season.

"It was a very physical game underneath the backboards," said Gruhl. "We knew they were tough on the boards, so we had to keep the ball inside and hit the boards with authority to control the game."

Rebounding played a large part in the game for both teams, as was evident in the 70 total rebounds. Deadly Messiah out-rebounded the Pacers 38-32. Forwards

Scott Bronson and Jock Ebner accounted for 26 of the Deadly Messiah rebounds, grabbing 16 and 10 respectively. The Pacers' rebounding was more balanced as Gruhl led with seven and Dave Mills, Kroen and Wilkens added six apiece. Mills had five blocked shots.

Following Kroen in scoring for the Pacers was Rex Meyer with 12, Wilkens with 10, Gruhl with 9, and Horne with 8. Wilkens also had nine assists, while Kroen had six. Bronson led his team with 16 points, 12 in the second half, while teammate Tony Grogan had 14.

Shaw new women's golf coach

By TOM O'NEILL
Oracle Sports Correspondent

The USF women's golf team has a new coach, Dr. Connie Wamboldt, USF assistant athletic director, announced Tuesday.

Hal Shaw, a former teaching professional at the Palma Ceia Golf and Country Club in Tampa, has replaced six-year coach Rick Christie as the women's coach.

Christie left under good terms as his team had recently placed first in the Peggy Kirk-Bell Invitational hosted by Rollins College. The former coach plans to improve his golf game and may be playing in some local tournaments with the possibility of getting on the pro tour.

Shaw, who may be familiar to local golfers as the owner of the Gator Golf shop in Temple Terrace, taught at Palma Ceia for two-and-a-half years.

The new coach emphasizes attracting good golfers to the USF team. He is not new at teaching women golfers. The Tampa native said, "Eighty percent of my students are women here in Tampa."

Next year's team could be a rebuilding one as he faces the decision of finding replacements for his team.

"We will have a number of scholarships available next fall with the graduation of Sara Jacobson, Joanne Johnson and with the departure of Barbara Riedl who is recovering from shoulder surgery," Shaw said.

Shaw and Christie are now in the process of scheduling an invitational which might be held at the USF course in March.
