Updates to Four-letter and Six-letter Alpha Codes based on Revisions by the American Ornithologists' Union in 2007-2008

Pyle and DeSante (2003) derived alpha codes based on the English and scientific names of 2,030 species recorded in the American Ornithologists' Union's (AOU) 1998 check-list and supplements through 2002. They also derived codes for 91 non-species taxa including subspecies, unidentified taxa, intergrades, morphs, and hybrids. Four-letter codes, based on the English names, largely coincided with those utilized by the Bird Banding Laboratory for use on banding schedules. Six-letter codes, based on scientific names, are favored by ornithologists in Latin America. These lists can be downloaded from the Institute for Bird Population's web site at:

<http://www.birdpop.org/AlphaCodes.htm>

Pyle and DeSante (2005, 2006) updated their lists according to taxonomic and other changes made by the AOU in supplements to their check-list published in 2003-2006, and made other corrections and additions resulting in 2041 species and 97 non-species taxa. Here we list all changes to our alpha-code lists (to English name, four-letter code, scientific name, and six-letter code) based on additional supplements by the AOU (Banks et al. 2007, 2008), and we add one non-species taxon (see Appendix 1). These changes bring the totals in the list to 2048 species and 98 non-species taxa. We publish this list of updates for those who have already incorporated the old list into their databases and would find it easier to incorporate these updates than to download the revised list. Note, however, that updates not resulting in changes to either four-letter or six-letter alpha codes (including changes in taxonomic order) are not included in Appendix 1; please refer to the revised lists to access these changes. The revised list (through 2008), incorporating updates itemized in Appendix 1, other changes that did not affect alpha codes (e.g., to the gender of scientific names), and the revised taxonomic order recommended by the AOU, is now available at the above web site.

We thank Bob Wilkerson for assistance in maintaining the lists on the web site. This is contribution #372 of The Institute for Bird Populations.
