Candidate Learning Outcomes for College of Education Programs (will need to include leadership program LO's as well)

1. Candidates will demonstrate and implement current knowledge of subject matter, theories of learning, and human development.
2. Candidates will create an environment that fosters student success through positive interaction inquiry, critical thinking, effective communication skills and appropriate technology.
3. Candidates will value and respect all children and their families, and will value the knowledge and skills necessary to support each student's success.
4. Candidates will be able to engage in the teaching cycle—developing, implementing, assessing, and remediating developmentally and linguistically appropriate instruction based on individual student needs, thus fostering the highest possible achievement for all students.
5. Candidates will be able to work collaboratively with colleagues, families, and the broader community to advocate for social justice in our diverse society and to meet the various instructional needs of all learners.
6. Candidates will engage in reflective practices regarding their own pedagogy, knowledge, values, and role as an educational leader; this practice will enable them to plan appropriately for their own continuous professional development.
7. Candidates will be able to critically analyze specific situations using an ethical framework and professional code of conduct, for individual students, colleagues, and institutional rules and policies, and advocate for just and appropriate resolutions.
8. Candidates will be able to make decisions based on a rich array of data in a fair, ethical and responsible manner to improve the learning of all students.
